The president, Mrs. Harold Howson, received the guests at the entrance to the grounds, with Mrs. Roy Greer and Mrs. Reg. Armstrong escorting the ladies to their tables where the Institute colors of blue and yellow were in evidence at each table and little bud vases filled with blue cornflower and yellow kingscup making a very attractive setting.

The president opened the program welcoming the guests, followed by a duet by the Misses Millar of Detroit. Mrs. Howson introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. (Dr.) Grecio, public health nurse, home on furlough from Syria. Her pleasing manner won rapt attention in an address of inspiration and courage. In caring for the Arab people she described the difficulties in securing the necessary equipment to successfully carry on her work among the sick, even the buying of cows and getting the natives to attend them, thus securing milk for the underfed children. She also told of making a vehicle to offset the gasoline rationing. Her daily rounds among her patients took faith and courage, and she left a lasting impression on her hearers as to the beneficial lives these wonderful women are living.

After being asked to leave the country before it was bombed, they took refuge for a time at Palestine, later going back to Syria to care for the sick and wounded. While there a ship-load of Czechoslovakians landed. Most of them were professionals, doctors and nurses, who were in need of help after being on the sea for weeks unable to land, until Syria gave them permission to land. Mrs. Grecio is at present with her mother, Mrs. Cardwell, at Wallace Point, but expects soon to join her husband in New York to finish her professional studies.

A vote of appreciation was tendered the speaker by Mrs. O. Williamson.

Afternoon tea was served at small tables on the lovely shaded lawn. Table hostesses were Mesdames Greer, Eagleson, Dawson, Johnston, Dawson Fisher. A talent table, in charge of Mrs. Fletcher, sold all contributions. Miss Bayne gave generously of her time and talent as a palm reader.

The National Anthem closed a very pleasant afternoon, proceeds amounting to $42.

DOROTHY DIX

Young Mothers Would Have an Easier Time If Husbands Would Remember to be Fathers.

IT IS undoubtedly true that in many homes a baby in the house is a wellspring of joy, but it is equally true that in many other homes a baby is the first aid to divorce, and responsible for more alienation of the affections between husbands and wives than any other cause. For it appears that babies cannot only be bundles from Heaven, but little cans of TNT that can blow a marriage to Kingdom Come if their parents do not know how to handle them.

The average marriage is a long drawnout honeymoon until the first baby arrives. Everything is pie. The husband and wife play around together and she dolls herself up to look good to him. She tries to be entertaining and amusing and she shows him that in every way he is the cock of the walk.

Then Junior appears upon the scene and everything is changed. With one wave of his pink fist he has knocked Papa off of his throne. He is the new head-of-the-house in whose presence everyone must walk softly and speak in whispers. The wife has no time for her husband now. Her entire attention is concentated on the baby. It is the baby she flatters and cajoles. It is the baby to whom she gives all of her caresses and petting.

The husband's nose has been put out of joint by a toothless infant that looks like a cross between a cream cheese and a lobster, and when he perceives that he is of no interest whatever to his wife except as a purveyor to the baby; that she would rather stay at home and watch it breathe than to go out with him to any place of amusement; and that she is more entertained by the baby's google-degoo than by his intelligent explanation about how the war can be won, it makes him plenty sore, and jealous, and bored.

And, unless he is of the strongly paternal type, he goes grouchy and settles down into one of the men who pass into the silence in their own homes, or else he hunts up some other woman to hold his hand while his wife is holding the baby's.

Now whether this metamorphosis of a woman from being all wife into being all mother can be avoided is difficult to say. A correspondent to this column says it can't be done unless there is money enough to hire a competent entourage to care for his majesty, the baby. She writes:

"Between feeding, bathing, dressing and undressing a baby—not to mention doing her regular work — a woman has precious little time for pampering her husband, or for curling her hair, or keeping up with current events. There is something to be done for a baby every minute, and if Mother sits down for a second's rest she can always get right up and change him. She keeps on the go from dawn till dark, and at night with the baby's crib beside her she practically never gets a good night's rest. No wonder she is tired and cross most of the time. The marvel is that when Friend Husband starts knocking her looks and disposition she doesn't throw the baby's nursery chair at his head."

Men Should Be Patient

All of which is gospel truth, and it does suggest that men should be more patient and forbearing with their wives when they are going through the baby-wrestling ordeal, and that they should not expect the woman who has been up half the night with a fretful infant to appear at breakfast gay and fresh and smiling and glamorous. Well they know that taking care of Junior for half a day reduces them to a frazzle, and they should pin a hero's medal on the breast of the Little Woman who stands it, day after day.

But the trouble is that while the wife is devoting herself to her babies and neglecting her husband, he is so apt to get lost, strayed or stolen, and how she is to prevent that under the circumstances, goodness only knows.

Perhaps it would help if men would remember that a father is just as much a father as a mother is a mother, and would do their share of perambulator pushing and walking the colic at night. Or perhaps there is no solution of the problem. It is just one of those things that make being a woman a tragic and pathetic thing.

War Workers Plan Christmas Cake

WARSAW, July 18 — (ENS). — An all-day meeting of the War Workers was held in the Institute Rooms on Thursday with fourteen women present. Mrs. T. Cooper presided for business session when arrangements were made to make a large Christmas cake which will be packed in the boxes with many other good things to be sent to the local boys in the armed forces. The cake is to be made by Mrs. W. Darling and Mrs. Roland Payne.

It was decided to buy more wool and have more dresses knit as was done by Mrs. Snelgrove and the pupils of the Warsaw School. The used garments left from the rummage sale will be made into quilts. The treasurer reported total receipts as $314.07, with an expense of $171.41. Letters of appreciation for boxes sent were read from Pte. W. O. Hopkins and Pte. Stanley Payne, both overseas.

Articles reported ready for bale included 8 sweaters, 36 pairs socks, 10 wool knit dresses, 8 print dresses, 11 slips, 11 pairs bloomers, 7 pairs pyjamas, 13 quilts, 1 complete layette, donated by St. Mark's Guild.

Several articles of clothing were cut and taken oct to be inished, and three quilts were quilted in the day.

A pot-luck dinner was served at noon and the committee are grateful to the many women who have given their time so freely to help this needy cause.

Your oldest sister province warmly welcomes you to a "good neighbour" holiday in old Québec—it's economical, too, because just next door! Though our people and factories, like the rest of Canada, are toiling night and day producing vast streams of war weapons for our common Victory, Québec is still your ideal vacation land. Her old-time charm and scenic beauty remain unchanged, her hospitality as cordial as ever; overseas and in Canada, her sailors, soldiers and airmen gallantly share in Canada's battle.

Enjoy a complete change of scene this summer or fall, with every sport (sea-bathing) and relaxation; old-time customs, famous cuisine in Canada's finest hotels, inns, "pensions", camps.

You can easily reach almost every part of Québec by rail, steamer, plane, bus and by good roads. No tolls on provincial bridges, no individual liquor permits required.

30 Lady Bowlers Games Rained Out

CAMPBELLFORD, July 18 (ENS)—Lady bowlers had their first event of the season washed out by the rain that began early Friday afternoon and gladdened the hearts of farmers of the district who have been looking for rain all week. For the ladies, who included representatives from Peterborough, Belleville and Stirling, it was a different story. Some thirty were on the list for the opening trebles tourney and when the rain came only one game had been finished. Result was the local club returned entry fees and since the minimum of two games was not played they awarded no prizes.

Second Satterlee

SEATTLE, July 18—(AP).—The destroyer U.S.S. Satterlee slid down the ways of the Seattle-Tacoma Shipbuilding Corporation last night under the christening hand of [illegible] Rebacca Satterlee who cracked a bottle against an earlier Saaterlee in 1918. Miss Satterlee, a teacher in the Norwich Amademy in Connecticut, was only six years old when she chistened the first Satterlee, named after her uncle, a coast guard officer who went down with a torpedoed destroyer a few months previously.

This Week In Radio

Did you hear Star Spangled Vaudeville last Sunday? The greatest acts of American vaudeville, with top-notch players of all time, are now being rendered and brought to you in the comfort of your own living-room. Listen in—I think you will enjoy it. WEAF at 8.00 Sundays.

Swing fans generally and Tommy Dorsey fans in particular will be pleased to find that CBL is broadcasting a half-hour of Sunday evening at Tommy Dorsey's at 7.00 p.m.

From now on more and more emphasis will be placed on curtailing consumption. As this is one of the most vital aids to victory, CBL will present Ethel Chapman on Monday night at 8.30 in a talk on food nutrition and conservation. Also Wednesday afternoon at 4.30, there will be another helpful talk. WEAF runs a consumers' time program every Saturday at 12.15 that is well worth listening to.

A full hour variety show from Camp Borden, Canada's largest military camp, will be heard on Tuesday evening. All the talent for this broadcast has been selected from soldiers of the armored units in training at the camp. "Cheers From the Camps" will be broadcast over CHEX at 9.30 p.m.

"Commandos," one of the first documented adventure series to come out of this war is being broadcast Wednesday at 8.30, WABC, and makes very thrilling listening.

Senorita Guerrero, daughter of Alberto Guerrero, Toronto pianist, adds a piquant and vivacious note to the CBL presentation "Serenata" (a program of Latin-American music heard Mondays at 9.00 p.m.)

"Suspicion," by Dorothy Sayers, is the thriller scheduled for dramatization on WABC. "Suspense" series Wednesday at 9.30. CFRB has a rebroadcast Thursday at 9.00 p.m.

Listen to the "March of Time" broadcast if you think you are doing all you should for the war effort. NBC brought through a broadcast from Ankara, Turkey, Thursday night that ought to show this nation the kind of war we are engaged in. This is the kind of program that should shock the most of us out of our smug complacency, Thursdays, WEAF, at 10.30 p.m.

The week of July 20 will be Five-Star News Week, when five famed radio news analysists broadcasting from New York, Washington, Hollywood and San Francisco pinch hit for H. V. Kaltenborn during his vacation. On Monday, Upton Close; Tuesday, Linton Wells; Wednesday, Morgan Beatty; Thursday, John Gunther; Friday, Frazer Hunt. 7.45 each evening over WEAF.

Touch Typing Aid in Business Life

Simple Exercises Give Start

Typing by "hunt and peck" methods is a handicap in business. To type fast and accurately you need to learn the touch system.

You can start learning at home! A chart shows you where to put your fingers; exercises get you used to the keyboard.

In your first exercise you strike each "home key" sharply but lightly with the finger assigned "jjjjffff"; and so on, as shown in our sketch. Without shifting your fingers out of place, you can type simple sentences like "all lads add."

Now each finger learns to reach for another key, as in our second exercise line. The "j" finger, for instance, types "juj" (the "u" key is just above the "j" key) returning always to its "home key."

Our 32-page booklet, with keyboard chart, explains how to operate the typewriter, has exercises to teach keyboard, speed, English typewriting usage. Shows correct forms for social, official and business letters; statistics. Can be useful as a foundation for a business college course.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service for your copy of "Teach Yourself Touch Typewriting." Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

A TIME TO SHOUT

JUST AS there are times when you should keep your mouth shut, so there are also times to shout. One of these arrives after you have passed on your first chance to bid, with a hand right on the borderline, and your partner then makes an opening bid of a suit with which you have a good fit. It is up to you to tell him so, with some kind of a jump, on your very next turn, if you feel that there is surely a game in the hand. Otherwise, he may pass the hand out at less than a game contract.

North: ♠ K 8 6 4 ♥ K 10 6 ♦ K Q ♣ 9 8 4 2

West: ♠ Q 3 ♥ 3 ♦ A J 9 5 4 ♣ K J 7 6 3

East: ♠ A 9 5 ♥ Q 9 8 4 2 ♦ 10 6 3 2 ♣ A

South: ♠ J 10 7 2 ♥ A J 7 5 ♦ 8 7 ♣ Q 10 5

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

	North	East	South	West
1.	Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♦
	Pass	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣
	Pass	3 ♦
2.	Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♦
	Pass	2 ♥	Pass	3 ♣
	Pass	5 ♦

In a rubber game, the bidding was exactly as shown in Table 1 above. Table 2 shows how it should have been. With that kind of action by East, after hearing his partner's opener, there is no chance of the hand being dropped below game. In addition, it makes certain that East gets an opportunity to show his major suit of hearts is at least five cards in length, so that if West has three the hand can be played in that suit.

When East bid only 1-Heart as first response to the opener, and later jumped from West's 2-Clubs to 3-Diamonds, West reckoned that East would have forced on the first round if his strength had been in primary honors, and that therefore he probably held something like five diamonds, about five hearts to the K-Q, perhaps a couple of indifferent spades and maybe the club Q plus another. If so, game was not in the deal.

As it turned out, the declarer made 5-Diamonds, losing only one trick in each red suit.

Your Week-End Lesson

What is the most important reason a declarer can have for not taking out the opponents' trumps at once, aside from that of desiring to use the trumps of his own hand or dummy for early ruffing? Can you give an example illustrating the principle involved?

Chinese Kidnapped

TORONTO, July 18. — (CP). — James Wong of this city, was kidnapped in his own truck by two gunmen early to-day, forced to drive into a lane and robbel of $400.

Two workmen, David Dolson and Gordon Overland, chased the gunman through rear lanes and over back fences for more than a mile.

The young Chinese merchant told police that two armed men jumped on the running board of his truck and stuck two guns in his ribs.

Dolson and Overland gave chase when they sighted two armed men running away from a truck. Both gunmen are reported about 25 years of age.

Natural Causes Jury Finding In Miller Death

Medical testimony given at an inquest on Friday night in the death of Burton Miller of this city indicated definitely that the final fatal illness was not directly due to any injury received in an accident on September 28 last, when his car was involved in a collision on Highway 2 with a car driven by Chief Constable D. C. Draper of Toronto.

The inquest was ordered by Attorney-General Gordon Conant, following the death of Mr. Miller on July 13 after a three-week-long illness which started with paralysis of the right side and unconsciousness. Dr. E. P. Snider, coroner, presided, and Crown Attorny V. J. McElderry, K.C., conducted the examination of the witnesses.

Out 20 Minutes.

The jury consisting of five well-known Peterborough business men, Denis Fitzgerald, Vernon Sedkirk, Coleman E. Blewett, Ronald Knox, and William Moorehouse, deliberated for about twenty minutes, and their verdict was as follows:

"We cannot find on the evidence submitted that the death of Burton Miller who died on July 13, was caused by other than a natural deterioration of the general system. Cause of death being a sub-dural hemorrhage of the brain."

A sub-dural hemorrhage is bleeding under the dural covering of the brain, and such a condition is often spontaneous according to the evidence given by the doctors.

Dr. A. Moir, the Miller family physician, testified he could not say just what conection if any there could be between the fatal illness and the accident. The other three doctors, who had opportunities of making a more complete examination and diagnosis stated definitely that in their opinion, there was no connection between the hemorrhage and the injuries received at the time of the accident.

B. O'Brien, of the law firm of Phelan, Richardson O'Brien, and Phelan, of Toronto, kept a watching brief in the interests of Chief Draper. Mr. Phelan of this some firm defended Chie Draper when he was charged with reckless driving and convicted, the charge arising out of this same accident. Chief Draper paid a fine of $300.

Attended Wedding.

Norman Miller of Toronto, a brother of the late Burton Miller, gave evidence of identification. He was in his usual splendid health at the time he left my home in Toronto on the Sunday, September 28 the day after my son's wedding," Mr. Miller said in answer to a question regardhis brothers health prior to the accident.

When asked to describe the condition of the car which his brother was driving, he said in part that the steering gear was bent downward and the spoke pointing to where his brother was seated was fractured. The left door was crushed in and the front seat was torn away from its fastenings.

Hurt in Accident.

Provincial Constable W. F. Thompson of Bowmanville, who investigated the car accident, described the impact as "severe." "The vehicles were extensively damaged. The front of the Miller car was wrecked, and the front seat was torn from its steel mounting."

"What was Mr. Miller's physical condition when you saw him?"

He was in a highly nervous condition and complained of a pain in the chest and injured knees. He appeared to get worse and I urged him to go on to Peterborough and see a doctor."

J. K. Hughes, Peterborough auto dealer, told the jury he was following the Miller car on Highway 2, driving to Peterborough from Toronto. "I followed the car for about a mile at about 25 miles an hour." He said he did not see the actual collision and did not examine the werck, because he was busy getting the three Miller sisters into his car so they could be taken to Peterborough.

Always Healthy.

Dr. A. Moir, Peterborough physician, family doctor, said he had never been called in 20 years to treat Burton Miller, although he treated the rest of the family.

"After the accident he complained of severe pain in the centre and left chest. He had a pain over the left kidney probably from striking the door handle. He had no broken bones, but had numerous bruises. I treated him for six weeks."

"What sort of recovery did he make?"

He never seemed to get well. His face was quite flushed and he was nervous.

"You were later called to attend him?"

Yes, about three weeks ago when he had a serious illness. He was totally unconscious. His right arm and right leg were completely paralyzed. He was quite seriously ill. That night he showed a marked improvement and could talk. I figured he had either a blood clot or a hemorrhage. I saw him about 10 times during his illness. He was pretty well when I went on my holidays.

"Would the conditions he had be consistent with a sub-dural injury?"

Yes it would.

"Dr. Neal took over the case when I went on holidays."

"You heard the details of the accident. Do you think the injuries received at the accident had anything to do with his death?"

"The most one could say was that since the acident he has not been well, but just what connection there could be between the accident and the final illness I could not say."

Dr. F. C. Neal, another Peterborough physician, said: "I saw Burton Miller first on July 2. He complained of pain in the head, in the temple area, and had rapid pulse, high blood pressure and a temperature."

Specialist Called

"His stupor increased and I suggested they bring in another doctor. They agreed and had Dr. Cooper Cole, of Toronto, come in. We discused the case, and Dr. Cole told the family his finding and returned to Toronto. The illness progressed and he died on July 13."

"You heard about this accident. Could you tell the jury if in your opinion there was any connection between the accident and his death?"

"I don't think it could be caused after so long a time, but it would have a bearing on his general health."

Dr. Cooper Cole, Toronto, said he was general medical consultant at Christie Street Hospital.

"What was your diagnosis of Mr. Miller's condition?"

"I felt that the diagnosis was a matter of probability. I believe he had a vascular lesion of brain which caused a hemorrhage. I felt that he had a slight leak in one of vessels at base of brain, but this had not progressed immediately, then it recurred because pressure increased. He was just rousable, had difficulty with speech, and his respiration was stiff. I found no chest condition to warrant the brain condition. He had a slight temperature due to the brain hemorrhage. I felt it was a thrombosis, that is a blood clot, and that further hemorrhage developed."

"You heard the evidence on the accident, would you tell jury if you could attribute this condition to any injury received at the time of the accident?"

"Considerable stress has been laid on health impairment, but there was no evidence to show he had a head injury. Therefore I should not consider that this condition was related to the accident.

"If he had had a head injury to bring about this lesion you would have had a different convalescent history."

Held Post Mortem

Dr. C. B. Waite, pathologist, who performed the post mortem, said one kidney was diseased but otherwise all organs were healthy, except the brain. There was a sub-dural hemorrhage. There was no fracture of skull, no laceration of the brain. There were a few clots in the brain, but not sufficient to cause death. "I could not determine the origin of the bleeding, but death was due to this hemorrhage."

"Could you tell the jury if this hemorrhage was due to an injury or to deterioration?"

"I think in this case it was due to deterioration. These hemorrhages are often spontaneous."

"Was this hemorrhage connected with accident?"

"I found very definite evidence that this hemorrhage was not more than three weeks old."

Coroner: "In your examination did you find any old injury to the brain?"

"No. Any damage I found was young," Dr. Waite said.

Axis Pay Dear

have suffered heavy losses in two unsuccessful counter-attacks in the last 36 hours on the Central and South Central sections of the desert front 75 miles west of Alexandria. New Zealand tank and infantry troops holding the Ruweisat Ridge blunted the first Axis blow.

Axis Attacks Prove Costly

Rommel then sent his infantry against a ridge south of the Central battleground, but the attack was beaten off by Indian troops clinging firmly to newly-won ground. Fighting was heavy and bitter on the Central sector, while the tough Australians anchored the northern terminus of the line on the lower ridge of the Hill of Jesus, 10 miles west of El Alamein.

(In London, Reuters quoted the Italian news and propaganda agency, Stefani, as saying British troops had "succeeded in penerating a vast space," separating the Axis defences and "spreading out in the rear.")

Heavy and medium Allied bombers continued to blast the Axis communications lines and a new raid on Tobruk harbor and its shipping was announced. Reinforcements and supplied for Rommels' forces have been arriving at Tobruk. Others are being flown in from Crete.

The Ruweisat Ridge where Rommel is concentrating his main force lies some 10 miles south of the coast which it parallels for about seven miles. Rommel was reported holding the western end of the ridge and seeking to push British forces from the eastern end, which they took in a seven-mile advance Wednesday.

Although Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's troops were reported yesterday to have gained some ground on the extreme southern end of the line near the Qattara Depression, the main striking forces of the two armies faced each other in the centre, and it is here the decision is expected.

The dominating situation of Ruweisat Ridge gives its possessor a strong advantage in the desert struggle.

The British Army have thrown a new offensive weapon into the battle—a number of improved 28-ton General Lee tanks carrying 75-mm. guns in revolving turrets. The General Lees, streamlined to deflect Axis shells, wear fresh battle paint applied in United States factories.

MORE ABOUT—

appeared to be unusually moderate for this time of year, now seems to be reaching its normal summer intensity and must be trying Rommel's troops even more than the Empire forces, who have greater facilities for relief. This probably led Rommel to decide on another major push toward Alexandria, his other alternative being to withdraw his main forces to a position nearer Mersa Matruh, which, since it is advance base, he must cover at all costs.

To maintain his main forces in the position he had taken during a period of stalemate would impose a strain on his supply services, especially while the R.A.F. retains its present superiority.

Rusia's Peril

The Russian situation becomes increasingly grave and dangerous, threatened in two main directions. The first is in the northern sector of Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock's great offensive where Voronezh is considered by both sides as the key to the situation, even though the interruption of the Moscow-Rostov railway elsewhere has eliminated one reason for its importance.

Still Marshal Semeon Timoshenko continues to fight with the greatest tenacity for his hold on the city and the Germans are using troops on an extravagant scale to complete its capture.

The immediate reason for the intensity of the struggle there apparently is that it is the only place at which the Germans have obtained a foothold across the Don River to which there are good railway communications. Should they obtain complete possession of Voronezh they would then be able to use it as a base for a drive eastward and northward toward the railways which connect the Volga river ports with the Moscow region, especially the line from Stalingrad to Elets.

Secondly, they would be enabled to extend eastward the defensive front they have established from Orel to the Don near Voronezh as a protection against Russian counter-attacks from the north.

Thirdly, they would be able to co-operate with attempts to cross the Don further south.

Von Bock's Thrust

The second great danger to Russia is in the great thrust Von Bock has made from the Kharkov front and where, under very fluid conditions, he is making rapid progress southward in the great stretch of open country between the Donets and the Don.

This is a drive which threatens the retreat of Marshal Timoshenko's armies about Rostov and in the Donets basin, which at the same time are being attacked from the north, although no heavy attack has yet developed against them from the west.

Back Behind the Don.

It seems probable in the face of these threats that the whole of Marshal Timoshenko's southern armies will be compelled to fall back behind the line of the Don. There are indications that Marshal Timoshenko already has adopted that course for although the German advances have been rapid, none of the usual extravagant claims to the capture of immense number of prisoners has been made lately.

The lower Don is a great natural obstacle to the German advance toward the Vilga, not only because of its width but because there is an absence of bridges which implies an equal absence of roads and rail ways. It would appear that the primary object of Von Bock's southern drive was not, in the first instance, to affect a crossing of the Don, but to encircle and destroy the southern wing of Marshal Timoshenkos army in the Donets Basin.

If Timoshenko can extricate his forces there, although he will have made greater sacrifices of valuable territory, he will have defeated the main German object. The Germans have exploited to the full the inherent advantages that offensive action possesses—concentrated effort and consequently economy of force.

The dry season, giving opportunities for employing to the maximum extent the mobility of mechanized armies, enabled the Germans to maintain the momentum of their advances even when they passed out of the region of good railway communications and roads designed for heavy traffic. But the Russian resistance has exacted a heavy price and may have a greater effect on German staying power than is yet discerned.

So long as Timoshenko can hold the line of the lower Don and thereby protect the great Volga waterway and the approaches to the Caucasian oilfields, the situation, although very serious, will not be desperate.

The German attacks in the Rzhev section appear to be increasing in weight, but still are not on a scale to indicate a threat to Moscow. For the present at any rate they appear to be in the nature of holding attacks to prevent the withdrawal of Russian reserves. They also may have the further object of obtaining a favorable starting line for greater operations later.

Far East.

In the Far East, there have been no major developments, although it would appear that the Japanese have obtained possession of the Chekiang airfields, thus achieving their objective so far as was delensive in character.

Glancing Back 25 Years.

Dr. Theobald Friedrich von Bethman-Hollweg, Chancellor of Germany for three years of the First Great War, vanished from the stage of international politics on July 14, 1917. It was Bethmann-Hollweg who referred to Britain's guarantee of Belgium's neutrality as "a scrap of paper."

He finally was forced out of office on the eighth anniversary of his appointment to the chancellorship.

tacked again. The Moscow radio said bombers had sunk three Axis gunboats, an armed transport and a patrol ship and damaged 16 other vessels in three days.

Dispatches from the southern front indicated that the Germans, in their hurry to sweep to their objectives before the Red Army can make an efefctive stand, sometimes overreach themselvs.

Without identifying the sector, a news report told of a Soviet ambush upon a Nazi flank which turned the invaders back after serious losses of men.

Artillery and anti-tank men making a stand south of Millerovo were declared to have set fire to and disabled 17 Nazi tanks.

'Soviet infantrymen are smashing up enemy equipment," the Information Bureau reported. "Men of one tank detachment blew up with grenades or set on fire with incendiary bottles five tanks and two armored cars.

Rusian cavalrymen were reported to have dispersed a German column in a bold raid in the Nazi rear and set fire to 15 trucks bearing fuel, ammunition and provisions.

It was obvious the Red Army was falling back in that area to positions more easily defended than the spacious Don Steppes with waist-high wheat but little else in the way of fighting obstacles.

The stand may be made on the Don's eastern or southern bank, although rivers are not the military hazards they once were.

Soviet mortarmen were reported to have destroyed two opposing mortar batteries and two field guns and wiped out about 250 Germans on the Kalinin Front north-west of Moscow.

(Reuter's News Agency quoted the Moscow radio as saying Soviet Red Army troops had captured an important height on the Bryansk sector, south-east of Moscow and north-west of Voronezh.)

WITH THE WEST COAST PATROL AT SEA, July 18.—(CP).—The Royal Canadian Navy is fully alive to the possibility of a hit and run attack on Canadas west coast.

Naval oficers say any such attack would be a Japanese 'face-saving' move, or one for propaganda purposes, and they believe they have the answer in the fishermen's reserve branch of the navy.

Former fisherman who know the hundreds of bays and inlets along British Columbias 500-mile coast line like a book, are now engaged in a 24-hour patrol in former fishing vessels big and small and specially fitted out for the purpose.

Not a bay nor an inlet tha could provide a haven for a marauding enemy submarine is overlooked. Information is gathered on every vital spot along the coast where the enemy might strike a hit and run blow.

Typical of this intelligence work was a recent patrol made by the 'O6,' a former fishing industry vessel, now painted destroyer grey, flying the white ensign, and doing her war duty with scores of others like he up and don the Pacific coast.

She investigated the possibilities of an enemy landing on a certain west coast beach from where after a short overland trip a vital spot could be reached. The skipper's report to his base tells of these possibilities and what in his opinion would be the best method of meeting an enemy action here in co-operation with local authorities.

The fishermen's navy was first formed in 1939 when fishermen were given special training by the navy and then returned to the fishing grounds to act as lookouts while engaged in fising. Gradually the organization grew and boats were taken over by the navy for full-time patrol Since Pearl Harbor last December the organization has more than doubled and now scores of former fishing craft are engaged in the coastal patrols.

Trade Minister MacKinnon tabled copies of the international wheat agreement signed at Washington recently by representatives of Canada, the United Kingdom, the United States, Australia and the Argentine, and gave a brief outline of its provisions.

During debate on the budget resolutions, Mr Ilsley termed scandalous' the practice of some Royal Canadian Air Force administrative officers who use aircraft freely in their duties to qualify for exemption from income tax because they fly more than 100 hours a year.

"We do not ordinarily associate that kind of activity with our fliers and they certainly should not be able to qualify (for exemptions) in that way," said Mr. Ilsley.

There would have to be an administrative change to avoid such abuse.

The In-law Exemptions

The Minister was opposed to changes in the income tax law to permit married men to claim exemptions for the "in-laws" supported in their homes. Neither did he favor fasterchildren being counted as dependents for income tax purposes.

He would not say merchant seamen should be exempt from income tax, and contended women entering the services were in a better position than Grade 1 stenographers in the Civil Service who were expected to contribute to war savings and pay tax.

The committed approved the normal and graduated income tax scales, which will mean Canadians pushing deeper into their pockets to fin dthe money the Government needs to carry on the war.

Mr. Ilsley agreed the tax requirements were "uncomfortable" but said the times were uncomfortable also.

Ross Macdonald (Lib., Brantford City) one of several members who urged tax concessions for commissioned officers serving in Canada, said they should receive exemptions equal to the pay received by a warrant officer who is not liable to taxation.

If officers were required to pay income tax to the extent of only 50 per cent of the bill of a civilian earning a similar amount, the Dominion's coffers would be depleted by only $7,500,000 yearly.

Answering Howard Green(Con., Vancouver South) and Gordon Graydon (Con., Peel), Mr. Ilsley said that if he agreed to tax exemptions for merchant seamen "he would be entering on the road the end of which we never reach." He recognized the risks and the service they gave, but could not admit that as a reason for exemption.

Reviewing increases in taxation under the proposed new levies, Mr. Ilsley say in the case of the single taxpayer with an income of $1,250 the tax would be increased $5. The married man without children would pay $25 less than last year and the married man with two children would pay $6 more. In a general way the tax had been increased more on the single man than the married man.

G. R. Boucher (Con. Carleton) said new mortgages as well as those now registered should be counted for exemptions in the tax payments. Such mortgages were required by young people seeking to set up a home.

B.C. Fliers Awarded D.F.C.

Flight-Lieutenant A. J. Bradley, LEFT, and Squadron Leader Homer Cochrane, both of Vernon, B.C., have been awarded the D.F.C. for daring exploits in air action. Both fliers paid their own way to England shortly before the outbreak of war to join the R.A.F.

James Bryans Passes 83 Mark

He was born near Port Hope of Irish parents and attended public school at Bethany. In 1881 he was married to Elizabeth Jackson, who passed away in 1941. As a young man, he was a farmer, later moving to Norwood, where he was employed as a carpenter. A building boom in Havelock when the C.P.R. located their terminal here induced him to move to the village in 1888. He assisted in the building of the big ice house for Swift and Co., meat packers of Chicago, and he was appointed their local icing agent until 1906. At this period he had the misfortune to loose his right leg, which was severed when he slipped under a moving train. However he entered the grocery business then, which he successfully conducted until he retired in 1925.

At the first election after Havelock was incorporated as a village, Mr. Bryans was appointed its first clerk and treasurer, a position which he held for 15 years. He was also reeve for three years, and served on the school board for four terms. One of the original members of St. John's Anglican Church, he served for many years as warden, and has been a member of the Masonic Order for over 43 years.

Celebrating with him are his three daughters, Mrs. H. W. Roche, Mrs. T. W. Quinn, Havelock. Mrs. R. F. Covert, Leeside and one son William J. Bryans, Toronto, also 10 grandchildren. Many friends and neighbors called and offered their congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Frewen and baby of Hamilton, Bermuda are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Ingster.

Mrs. Gerald Whitney and family Schumaker are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bannon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Clarke and family, Detroit, Mich., are holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. James Longmuir.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Woolsley, Kingston are visiting the latter's mother, Mrs. E. Scott.

Mr. Lorne Scriver left Thursday for two weeks' vacation at Orillia, Washaga and Lindsay.

100 Million Tieup

PITTSBURG, July 18. — (AP). — A walkout of members of American Federation of Labor Building Trades Union threatened today to halt construction of more that $100,000,000 worth of war construction jobs in this steel and industrial centre.

Business Agent W. D. Cashdollar of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners said the walkout began yesterday, the workers protesting that the War Production Board refused to authorize a 25-cents-an-hour pay increase.

He said the walkout was unauthorized and spread so rapidly that all work on the vital projects in this area may be halted.

Pembroke Case Being Pondered

PEMBROKE, Ont., July 18.—(CP).—The Pembroke police commission began to-day study of evidence presented during an inquiry into the conduct of Constable J. A. Breen in arresting Pte. R. J. Bradley of Petawawa military camp here July 1.

The inquiry ended yesterday after sitting three nights and most of a day with the announcement by Judge J. T. Mulcahy that the findings of the commission would be announced in 'due course.'

The last witness heard was Constable Breen himself who told of receiving a call from the vicinity of a brewers' warehouse near the poice station the evening of July 1.

When he arrived on the spot, there was no sign of disturbance bue he found an unopened case of beer in a lane. Breen said he was taking the beer to a provost truck when Bradley and another soldier, Pte. Keith Elliot, came from across the street and said the beer belonged to them.

Breen said an argument over ownership of the beer ensued and Bradley became abusive and lashed out at him with both feet, striking him in the stomach and the leg. Elliot, he added, kicked him several times while he grappled with Bradley.

Breen denied having kicked Bradley and said he did not recall striking him with his fist, although he slapped him several times with his open hand.

REDS TOSS EVERYTHING IN BATTLE FOR ROSTOV

British Capture 4000 Axis Troops In Week

By EDWARD KENNEDY Associated Press Staff Writer

CAIRO, Egypt, July 20 (AP)—Bombers and fighters of the R.A.F., big four-motored bombers of the United States Army Air Force and warships of the Royal Navy struck advanced Axis airfields and bases in a series of devastating raids and bombardments over the week-end. Firmly holding their positions in a week of dusty fighting on the ground in the battle for Egypt, British forces captured 4,000 prisoners in the seven days of give-and-take west of El Alamein.

The attack of the heavy United States bombers, now commanded by Maj.-Gen. Lewis Brereton, recently transferred from India, was delivered in daylight against the stronghold of Tobruk on Sunday.

British air sources, reporting the action, said three fires were started in the dock area and that this blow followed a blasting attack by the R.A.F.'s medium bombers Saturday night, when other fires were started and a ship set burning.

While the United States heavyweights were mauling Tobruk, the fighters and fighter-bombers of the R.A.F. were carrying out one of the heaviest attacks ever delivered against an Axis airfield in the desert. This was near Al Daba, close behind the front lines.

The Admiralty in London told of the Royal Navy's sallies against the Axis, and said two consecutive bombardments from the sea were carried out Friday and Saturday nights against Matruh, Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's most advanced sea base.

No details of damage were given, but the Admiralty said its light warships encountered inconsequential replies from the Axis shore batteries and easily beat off a motor torpedo boat which tried to attack.

At least six tanks were knocked out of action by British fighter-bombers on the southern sector of the 40-mile front and many enemy aircraft were smashed by a heavy bombing attack on a German airdrome west of the battle area, a communique said.

Five enemy aircraft, attempting to land during the raid, were reported shot down by fighters escorting a strong force of light bombers which carried out the assault.

Heavy bombers of the Allied air force made a simultaneous daylight attack on the Axis supply port of Tobruk. Only one British plane was reported lost in these operations.

Dust storms which hampered operations in the air also apparently kept land activity to a minimum, for headquarters made no mention of fighting on the ground front yesterday.

There were indications that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, unsuccessful in all attempts to regain lost ground, was regrouping his forces for a large-scale resumption of the desert battle.

Nazi Efforts To Win Over Dutch Failed

Boycott All Theatres Which Show Work Of Nazi Playwrights

LONDON, July 20 — (CP). — Public admissions of Dutch Nazi leaders, the increasing severity of repressive measures and the continuance of anti-Nazi resistance and sabotage show, Aneta News Agency said to-day, that the efforts of the Nazis to win over the people of the occupied Netherlands to the Nazi "new order" has failed.

Attempts of the Nazis, the Netherlands agency added, to induct the Netherlands artists, writers and actors to join the various guilds instituted by the Nazi-controlled "Netherlands Chamber of Culture" have been almost completely unsuccessful despite social and economic inducements which, in the case of members of the theatrical profession, are exceptionally strong.

Must Split Nazis To Retain Peace

SEAFORTH, Ont., July 20—(CP)—The Bible foretells Germany's recurrent cycle of aggression and defeat and fulfilment of this prophesy, which occurred three times in the last 70 years, will continue to embroil the world in war as long as Germany is allowed to remain a united, powerful nation, Premier Aberhart of Alberta told the congregation of First Presbyterian Church here last night.

Mr. Aberhart visited his home town briefly to see his aged mother, who is ill in hospital here.

Taking his text from the first chapter of the Book of Hosea, Mr. Aberhart said that in scriptural significance Gomer, the wife of Hosea, was the original name of the German people and the three children she bore represented the nation's characteristics.

"The name of the first child, Jezreel, when translate, means 'I will avenge, conquer, take by force'," he said. "The next name, that of the girl Lo-Ruhamah, signifies self-pity—'will no one pity me?' The third is Lo-ami, which means I have lost my nationality, my great dream."

Mr. Aberhart said three times—in 1870, in 1914 and again now, Germany had gone through the three phases.

"When the war is over, either by Germany becoming ready to sue for peace, or simply by stopping fighting, I believe we should insist that she break up into her various units and never again be a great nation," he said.

"The only course open to us to assist Germany to recover herself is to keep her from being tempted along the lines of conquest."

Waiting On Rostov?

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—The New York Times said yesterday in a dispatch from Washington that reports received in the capital from "usually reliable private sources in the Orient" indicate that Japan is moving more seasoned troops to the frontier of Manchukuo and Siberia.

These reports, the Times said, coincide with a belief held in Washington that there is an understanding between Japan and Germany that Japan will attack Russia if Germany captures some specific Russian objectives, possibly Rostov and Stalingrad.

Plan Campaign For Temperance In Armed Forces

OTTAWA, July 20 (CP)—Introduction of a temperance campaign in all branches of the armed forces was proposed by a House of Commons war expenditures sub-committee which today reported to the House.

The report, tabled by Alphonse Fournier (Lib. Hull), said intemperance in the forces was confined to a few and that in general the men's conduct was a credit to Canada.

The committee expressed approval of the adoption of a new standard ration for the army and of an increase in cooking schools and the promotion of properly trained cooks to commissioned ranks.

Dealing with canteens, it was recommended that purchases should be made by a district or central organization, "thus eliminating the intrusion into the camp of salesmen and other individuals with commercial interests."

The committee reported it inquired into the consumption of alcoholic beverages by members of the armed forces both from a dietary point of view and because of public interest. The report condemned "exaggerated, unjustified and unfair statements made by some in regard to this matter."

Conduct Credit To Canada

"It (the committee) is definitely of the opinion that any intemperance is confined to a very few and that on the whole the conduct of our military forces in this regard as in others, is a credit to Canada," the report said.

"The committee is of the opinion that the prohibition of alcoholic beverages to the men of our armed services is impractical and inadvisable.

"The committee is further of the opinion that the key-note to a proper solution of any problem in this connection is to be found in the words 'temperance' and 'education.'"

The committee recommended institution of "a well-considered and sustained educational program" in each branch of the armed services.

Self Discipline.

The campaign should be handled by persons carefully chosen so they

Canucks 'Capture' General—Get 2 Days Off; On Job When Gneisenau Invasion Scare On

TORONTO, July 20—(CP).—Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian army overseas, was so pleased with the feat of a Canadian unit in capturing a British Major-General during a commando exercise that he gave the men "a couple of days off," a soldier just returned from Britain related today.

"It was the first time anything like that had been accomplished by the commandos," grinned Sigmn. H. T. Smith of Toronto as he told of the capture of the Major-General and his staff. "We just crept up on them and caught them flat-footed. In fact, Gen. McNaughton was so pleased he gave us all a couple of days off."

Smith, one of a group invalided home, said that when the German warships, Gneisenau and Scharnhorst slipped from Brest in February and sailed through the Straits of Dover word was flashed "that the invasion of England was on and right on the front line along the coast were the Canadians to beat them off."

Japs Stubbornly File Onto Kiska As Catalinas Make It a Graveyard

By KEITH WHEELER
(Copyright, 1942, Chicago Times, Inc.)

AT SEA WITH THE PACIFIC FLEET (Delayed).—Kiska harbor may earn a place in history as the dreariest tomb ever to receive the corpse of an invader's hope to conquer the world.

It may be that Honshu's hopeful little men have chosen the foggy bay under the black peaks of Kiska's hills to launch their last serious attempt to invade and conquer the United States.

It now seems more likely they have chosen a place to die.

Midway was their first choice and they failed there. Now despite repetitious punishment by bombers they are doggedly assembling in Kiska.

Flying boats first located the Japanese in Kiska harbor June 10.

The battle began June 11 when the first flights of navy Catalinas and Army Fortress and B-24 Liberators began freighting bombs to Kiska.

Singly and in flights of two or three, the Workhorse Catalinas slid across the mile high peak of Kiska volcano and down on the ships in the harbor. That day one heavy cruiser, two light cruisers, a single destroyer and half a dozen transports lay anchored there.

Up To Artillery Says Moscow

MOSCOW, July 20—(AP).—German tanks have played an impressive role in the southern German drive, and the desperate nature of the struggle was tacitly indicated by a self-searching article in Pravda, the Communist party organ which told Red artillerymen that the issue is up to them.

Recalling that Joseph Stalin had declared "artillery is the god of war," Pravda said sometimes Red army guns had been so scattered that the Germans had been able to concentrate tanks between them and then rush through.

While the Germans pushed south and the Russians grew stronger around Voronezh there still was no word of the Nazi eastward drives from Boguchar and Millerovo to-

Ask Shipyards Make Air Freighters

Shipbuilding Genius Has Plan For 9 Plants Claims Can Beat Subs

PORTLAND, Ore., July 20.—(AP)—Henry J. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilding genius, proposed to-day that nine United States shipyards be turned over to production of giant aerial freighters.

In fleets of such flying ferries, Kaiser declared in a speech at the launching of the Liberty ship, 'Harvey W. Scott,' lies the answer to the growing submarine menace.

The speech followed a warning by Rear Admiral Howard L. Vickery, vice-chairman of the Maritime Commission, that the United Nations are losing ships faster than they can build them.

Vickery, who also attended the launching, said in an interview, that material available would supply only existing yards and that was the reason the commission Saturday cancelled a contract with a New Orleans ship for 200 ships.

Vickery did not comment on Kaiser's proposal.

Kaiser said that although Kaiser engineers have on their boards plans for air boats "beyond anything Jules Verne ever could have imagined,' having 200 and 500 ton capacity capable of carrying up to 1,000 troops, the urgency of the moment demands that the submarine problem be solved at once.

"There is already a flying ship which is very large compared with anything known to be in mass production," he continued. "I refer to the Elgin L. Martin ship known as the 'Mars'—a flying boat of 70 tons capable of carrying a pay load of 14 tons. That ship would carry 100 men fully equipped. Five thousand of them could land 500,000 equipped men in England in a single day. And the next day they could fly over again with 70,000 tons of fresh milk, beefsteak sugar and bombs. No submarine could shoot them down.

His proposal was directed specifically "to the Maritime Commission to President Roosevelt, and to the armed services."

90 PC Excess Profits Tax

WASHINGTON, July 20—(AP).—A $6,143,900,000 wartime revenue bill was passed by the United States House of Representatives and sent to the Senate today after a last-minute floor fight which resulted in levying a 90 per cent. excess profits tax and a combined normal and surtax of 45 per cent. on corporations.

LONDON, July 20—(CP).—Three Canadian airmen who crashed on Netherlands soil during a raid were buried with military honors in the new cemetery at Koudum, in the province of Friesland, July 4, Aneta, the Netherlands news agency, reported today. Names of the airmen and details of their death are not available.

Brig. H. Ganong Commanding 8th Division

OTTAWA, July 20.—(CP)—Brig. Hardy Nelson Ganong of St. Stephen, N.B., has been appointed commander of Canada's new 8th Division, it was announced today by Defence Minister Ralston.

With his appointment, each of the divisions now established or being established by National Defence headquarters has been assigned a general officer commanding.

The 8th division, it was announced some time ago by the defence minister, is intended to be a home defence division. Like the 7th division it will be primarily a force for coastal protection. The majority of its men will be men called up under the National Resources Mobilization Act for compulsory military service.

With his new appointment, Brig. Ganong, formerly commander of a Canadian infantry brigade, becomes a major-general. He is 52 years old.

Toronto Flier Lost Off Alaska

OTTAWA, July 20. — (CP).—Sqdn. Ldr. John W. Kerwin of Toronto, reported missing in air operations over the Aleutian Islands, apparently is the first known casualty among Royal Canadian Air Forcemen sent to that war theatre.

Announcement that Canadian airmen had been sent to the Aleutians zone was made some weeks ago by Air Minister Power and Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, Chief of General Staff who is at present acting as temporary commander in chief on the Pacific.

There has been no indication up to now that the Canadians actually have been in action against the Japanese.

While Sqdn. Ldr. Kerwin might be missing as a result of such action, the phrase "missing after air operations" would cover his failure to return from any operational flight, no matter what the cause might be, including engine trouble.

Smash Nazis Claw At Voronezh

Timoshenko Retreats Mauling Hun Each Step South

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, July 20 — (AP). — The Red Army fell back toward Rostov in the gigantic, wasting battle on the Don Steppes to-day as the Germans rushed up superior numbers of men, tanks and other weapons in an impressive bid for that key to the Caucasus.

Marshal Semeon Timoshenko was assembling all his available forces in an orderly retreat for a stand somewhere along a 40-mile stretch from abandoned Voroshilovgrad to the battleground south of Millerovo.

While the stage thus was being set for a momentous new struggle the Russians reported significant new successes around their anchor bastion of Voronezh to the north which now resembled a doubled fist in the German flank.

In hand-to-hand fighting the Russians took one main German bridgehead pointed across the Don at Voronezh after a heavy defeat of the invaders' 75th Division.

Other counter-attacking defenders at the city have grappled with the Germans south and west of Voronezh on the banks of the Don.

(This appeared to mean that the Germans had been driven back from the city's environs on all sides. Previous dispatches have indicated the Germans had been routed to the north of the city and held at bay to the south, but had held on to the western outskirts. Voronezh is about 10 miles east of the Don.)

Near Rail Junction

The Germans, whose possession of Voroshilovgrad, 100 miles north of Rostov was announced yesterday, were pounding the Russian defences south of Millerovo on the railway and apparently were approaching the junction of the railway and the Donets River at Kamensk, about 85 miles north of Rostov.

The Red army above Rostov, while yielding ground slowly, refused to let its lines be broken despite the fury of German armored attacks, dive bombers and parachutist landings in its rear, said Russian dispatches from the front. These asserted that the forces which retreated from Voroshilovgrad were being absorbed in an orderly manner into the main forces.

Meanwhile it was reported that the Russians had had time to bring up help from the strong armies garrisoning northern Caucasus to bolster Timoshenko's fighters, who have been retreating for 10 days in the area between the Donets and the Don.

Russian reports made no attempt to minimize the territorial losses suffered in the Donets and Don valleys. The Germans now are in the midst of 9,600 square miles of bituminous and anthracite coal mines, containing cities with important foundries and metal working plants.

It was acknowledged in to-day's mid-day communique that the Germans were continuing their advance south of Millerovo and the Russians

SMASH NAZIS

Voronezh Stand Menaces German Line

Successful Counter Attack There Could Upset Von Bock's Caucasus Push

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The Hitlerites have continued their slow but inevitable advance on the southern Russian front during the week-end and their occupation of the hotly contested railway junction of Voroshilovgrad has greatly increased the threat to Rostov, western gatepost of the Caucasus, some hundred miles to the south.

The saving grace from the Allied standpoint rests in the fact that the withdrawal of the Russians is orderly and their fierce resistance is draining the life-blood of the enemy. The gods of war still gamble the Soviet's vast spaces against Hitlers short and fleeing time.

Can the Bolshevists hold the German invasion until the winter, or some fortuitous military development, makes it too late for the Nazis to break into the Caucasus this year. The Red position is exceedingly grave, but the Allies have a right to hope that Hitler can be held.

The Russian rear-guard is putting up a heroic fight in order to give the main body of troops a chance to pull back without disorder and make a stand in the best positions. The rearguard is dying grandly, but it also is exacting a terrible toll from the Germans.

While the spectacular Nazi advance is being made chiefly in the great Eastward bend of the Don river, I call your attention to the position at the city of Voronezh, a strategical railway junction on the Don river to the north of the main advance. There has been protracted and fierce fighting there, and the reason is this:—

It is apparent that Hitler's strategy for his great drive against the Caucasus provided that he hold his line against the Russians on the north while he smashed at the southern extremity with his great army of 1,000,000 fresh and newly equipped troops. Now Voronezh is the anchor to which Marshal Von Bock badly wants to attach his left wing, because there is danger that the Russians may launch a counter offensive from this point, thereby endangering Von Bock's left flank and consequently his entire battle line. Indeed, the Nazis themselves report heavy Red concentrations near Voronezh indicating the possibilities of such an offensive.

Because of this situation we may expect the bloody conflict to continue for possession of Voronezh and if the Reds are able to maintain their position we may see a Soviet counter-blow launched right through there in due course. The time for such an attack would not seem to be ripe yet. That will come, if at all, when the Germans have penetrated deeper, thereby increasing their heavy losses in men and material and lengthening their lines of communication.

3 Shorter Routes To Russia

Jap Aleutian Threat Makes New Move Imperative

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — The foreign policy association said today that Japanese occupation of Western Aleutian Islands and threats to existing communication lines between the United States and Russia made imperative quick development of other supply lines.

The Association, a private research organization, said there are three potential routes, "shorter and less vulnerable to Axis attacks than the present routes to North Russia and through the Persian Gulf." It said the three were:

"A warplane ferry service from the west coast of the United States, via Alaska, to Russia, and thence to China.

"The Northern Sea route, opened by the Soviet Union in 1932, and linked with the three principal Siberian waterways—the Ob, the Lena and the Yenisei—each several thousand miles in length.

220 Bombs, Torpedoes Miss

Red Warships Battle 3 Days, Nights, Save Convoy

MOSCOW, July 20—(AP) — A Tass correspondent "with the Northern Fleet" described today a battle lasting three days and nights between German planes and Soviet warships escorting a British and American convoy which reached a Russian port without damage to any of its transports. During the "sleepless nights spent in the light of an unsetting sun and practically ceaseless fire," the Germans dropped 220 bombs and shot 14 torpedoes at the convoy, the correspondent reported.

Soviet planes also participated in driving off and shooting down many of the attacking Germans. The dispatch said at times the warships stood by, with all their guns manned, while the sounds of battle roared in the clouds and mists above. In one attack by five torpedo planes the warships under the command of Capt. Kolchin opened up a great barrage from anti-aircraft artillery, machine guns and automatic rifles.

The first plane was forced to veer off and drop its missiles haphazardly. The second attacked from the rear with two torpedoes which missed the ship caravan, and the third dived at a destroyer but a well-aimed shot brought it down. The fourth was driven off without shooting its torpedoes, smoke trailing from under its wings as fighter planes pursued, and the fifth was shot down in the barrage.

Waters Claim 13 of 18 Weekend Toll

4 Pedestrians Die Traffic Victims, Bull Gores Farmer

By The Canadian Press

Drownings claimed the greatest number of lives in Eastern Canada during the week-end when 13 of 18 persons who met violent deaths died in the water. Four pedestrians died of traffic injuries and an eldery man was gored to death by a bull.

The heaviest drowning toll was reported in the Ottawa district where five and possibly six lives were lost. Police were dragging the Rideau Canal for the body of a six-year-old child believed drowned.

Those who drowned in the Ottawa district were: Cpl. Lorne Ferguson, 26, of Sarnia, Ont.; Yvon Carr, 15, of Hull; Sgt. James Sorley, 34, of Toronto, attached to the R.C.A.F. station at Rockcliffe; Melvin Seabrooke, 40-year-old Richmond, Ont., farmer; a boy named Lalonde, 15, of Wrightville, Que.

A professional diver and police continued their search of a deep pond in Puslinch quarry near Hamilton, Ont. for the body of 17-year-old Joe Rosart of Hamilton, believed drowned Saturday.

Eric Haldenby, 14, of Toronto, was drowned Saturday while swimming at Kincardine, Ont., and another Toronto boy, 14-year-old Gerald Davis Wright was drowned at Windermere, Ont., when he fell off a raft into the Deebank River.

Find Soldier in Harbor.

The body of a soldier, believed to be Fred Demers of Chatham, Ont., attached to the Royal Ordnance Corps, was found Saturday floating in an upright position in a slip at the harbor in Kingston, Ont.

Other drownings: At Montreal, 64 year old Albert Gouin collapsed in three feet of water apparently from a heart attack; Andre Bergeron, 16, while swimming in the Back river near Montreal; Edouard Simoneau, 13, the son of a dredge captain, while swimming in the St. Lawrence river near Sorel, Que.

Two Toronto pedestrians suffered fatal injuries Saturday. Henry G. Eggett, 78, was struck by a radial car at Hogg's Hollow and Mrs. Claire Renshaw, 62, died of injuries suffered when she collided with a car while crossing a street.

Sixty-one-year old John Jessop of Sandwich South Township, died Sunday of injuries suffered Saturday night when struck by a car. David Henry Mallory, 55, was killed in Gananoque, Ont., Saturday night when he stepped in front of an automobile.

ward Stalingrad on the Volga bend. Apparently the German drives in that direction were stalled.

In the Voronezh sector, the Red army held its recaptured positions on the west bank of the Don after a recrossing of that stream where it fought heavy forces, including the 6th and 7th Hungarian Brigades supported by 70 tanks. The Hitler forces tried to encircle the Russian bridgehead, but were reported beaten off, with a Hungarian Brigade put to flight and 14 tanks destroyed.

The Russian recapture of the Germans' bridgehead on the east bank cut their shortest route to bring up reinforcements to hold remaining positions.

The Red air force was a scourge to the Germans in the Voronezh and lower Don sectors.

One Russian dispatch said a Soviet air unit shot down 33 Nazi planes in repulsing attacks on Veronezh, while another unit went through a hurricane of anti-aircratf fire and fighting opposition, destroyed a pontoon bridge and blasted a tank and truck convoy which was crossing it.

De Laval Picnic Held To Cobourg

The annual picnic of the employees of the De Laval Company and their families at Cobourg Saturday afforded them an enjoyable escape from one of the hottest days of the summer in the cool breezes from Lake Ontario. They left by C.N.R. train at 8.30 a.m., and set out on their return at 6.30 p.m. The program for the afternoon included an interesting slate of races, bathing and dancing in the park's pavilion.

George A. Macdonald, plant superintendent, presented the prizes at the close of the afternoon. Members of the picnic committee were: Misses Isabel Conroy, Helen Grant and Mary Walker and D. Galbraith, E. Simmons and F. Griffin. A special prize of five dollars for the largest family present was won by Mr. and Mrs. Girard and Mr. and Mrs. Caravaggio.

The results of the races were:

Girls, 5 years and under, 25 yards—1 Patt Caccavella; 2 Patsy Weston.

Boys, 5 years and under, 25 yards—1 Paul Girard; 2 Paul Jones.

Girls, 6 and 7, 25 yards—1 Marg. Dobson; 2 Phyllis Luffman.

British Capture

Reports from the front said the Germans had withdrawn at various place. to straighten lines dented by British advances—most pronounced along the coast and in the central sector.

The British 8th Army took advantage of the situation to consolidate its own positions and fill gaps in units engaged in the recent hard fighting.

A British communique yesterday reported that Indian troops had advanced slightly along El Ruweisat ridge in the central sector and held their gains against a counter-attack by enemy tanks and infantry.

On the southern end of the front, just above the salt marshes of the Quattara depression, British forces also made some progress following up an Axis withdrawal, the communiquesaid.

Little activity was reported, however, along the coast, where hard-bitten Australian troops maintained their positions at Tel el Eisa—the "Hill of Jesus."

Lull Over Front

An ominous lull was said to have descended yesterday morning over most of the front, where for days there has been a constant din of shellfire, bursting bombs and chattering machineguns. In one 10-mile sector not a single shell fell throughout the forenoon.

Air activity was reduced over the week-end by severe dust storms, but British fighter-bombers made two attacks on widely-dispersed enemy vehicles and executed a night raid on Tobruk.

That Libyan city, now a vital Axis supply port, has been renamed "Rommel" by the Germans in honor of the Nazi field marshal, British headquarters learned from a captured Nazi staff officer! The change was said to have been ordered by Goering.

British troops knocked out a considerable number of German tanks during the past few days and the communique reported the desert was littered with hulks of the armored monsters.

British engineers, setting out at dawn to blow up some of these derelicts, discovered just in time that the Germans had planted seven good tanks among the hulks in an attempted ambush. Anti-tank batteries opened up and smashed several of the "sleepers" and the others scuttled away.

(Tass, the Soviet News Agency, said in a dispatch from Geneva, Switzerland, that neutral observers had verified reports that French merchant ships were taking reinforcements and supplies to Rommel's armies in North Africa. More than 40 French ships were engaged in this service in May and June, Tass declared, Similar reports in the past have been denied by the Vichy Government.)

other did the same with a light cruiser.

Ships Begin To Leave.

The Japs showed signs of discouragement and their ships began to get under way. A Catalina delivered its load on the moving ships and flew on out to Attu, the last island of the intercontinental stepping stones.

Attu, formerly inhabited by one Aleut Indian fox farmer, had suddenly become populous. Many landing boats were drawn up on the beach and tents were pitched on the Tundra shore.

The bombers noted evidence the Japs planned a permanent occupation. Attu showed signs of construction work and shore-based Nakajima 97 fighters rose from Kirka to meet the American craft. The harbor was empty of ships that night, but next day they came back, appearing in increasing numbers throughout the daylight hours.

By night Kiska harbor held five heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, 10 destroyers, two submarines, nine cargo and transport vessels, and a dozen Kawanishi flying boats, seaplane and land-based observation and fighter aircraft haunted the murky sky. Other ships were sighted arriving from the south.

The fog closed in tight and stayed most of the day and bombers had to drop their loads through mist. When the mist rolled back two Catalinas dropped down to 1,000 feet and dumped a pair of heavy bombs each on a destroyer and light cruiser. All were punishing near misses.

The fortress bombers, working over the harbor, discovered still more evidence of a permanent establishment when ack ack fire from the ships got support from gun emplacements on the hills

At Attu the Catalinas chased a Jap landing party through the brush, bombing their encampment and machine-gunning personnel. At Kiska they blew up the radio station already erected on the beach.

Now and then a 500-pounder dropped on Kiska would connect with a ship despite the most miserable bombing conditions in the history of military aviation.

Chinese Retake Two Ports 15 Mi. of Railway

CHUNGKING, July 20 —(AP)— Chinese forces, inflicting major setbacks to the Japanese drive aimed at the heart of China from the southeast, have recaptured the seaports of Wenchow and Juian in Chekiang Province and broken the invaders' hold on a 15-mile strip of the Chekiang-Kiangsi Railway by seizing Iyang and Hengfeng, the Chinese high command announced yesterday.

The announcement said the enemy lost heavily in casualties and that large stores of booty fell into Chinese hands.

That 2nd Front Constant Soviet Question

By EDDIE GILMORE

MOSCOW, July 20—(AP).—The Briton or American visiting Russia today quickly learns the meaning of the terse Russian question: "Kogda zhe budet vtoroy?"

In English, it means: "When will there be a second front?"

You can't escape it. You hear it everywhere from waiters, people on the subways, elevator operators, Red Army men and in the homes of friends.

The Russians definitely accepted the idea that there will be a second land front in Europe soon. With the Don Steppes and the Donbas Basin ablaze, the vitally important Caucasus and Stalingrad and Rostov threatened, the question is asked constantly with emphasis on the question mark.

You answer that you don't know and that you're just a newspaperman and not a militarist. So far as you know, no one in your country has set a date for opening a second front.

The Russians shake their heads.

Soldiers, sailors and fliers all have been told to except a second front by Britain and the United States and they frankly expect it day by day. Whenever the daily newspapers fail to report a second front, they ask you again:

"Kogda zhe budet vtoroy?"

I was aboard a Volga steamship when the United States-Russian agreement was reached in Washington. The boat was full of wounded troops and soldiers moving to various positions. Political commissars also were aboard.

The commissars lost no time in shaking your hand and congratulating you on that second front to come, and then informing the soldiers.

A lot of Russians are going to be very disappointed if there isn't an answer soon to:

"Kogda zhe budet vtoroy?"

Overseas Last War.

Member of a well-known industrial family in St. Stephen, Gen. Ganong was born in that border town. He joined the Canadian Expeditionary force in 1915 and he served overseas with the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles, recruited largely in the Eastern Townships of Quebec.

After the Armistice he joined the York Regiment of the Non-Permanent Active Militia—now the Reserve Army—as a captain and served continuously until the outbreak of the present war.

By then he was the commanding officer of the Carleton and York Regiment with the rank of Lieut.-Colonel and he took the unit overseas with the First Canadian Contingent.

It was the first unit from Canada to land in Britain in this war.

Later he was appointed to command of an infantry brigade with the rank of brigadier.

In civilian life the production manager of a large candy factory, Gen. Ganong is married and the father of three children.

Soldier Is Injured Hunting Groundhogs

Pte. Wilbert Morris a Bancroft soldier stationed at Brockville, is in St. Joseph's Hospital suffering from a bullet wound in his foot, suffered through the accidental discharge of a .22 calibre rifle while hunting groundhogs.

H. C Manley, R.R. 8, Peterborough, who brought the injured man into hospital, told Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure that Morris had come to his place this morning and borrowed the rifle for the purpose of having a few shots at ground hogs. A little later Manley heard a call for help and Morris came hobbling toward where he was working. The soldier said that he had been getting over a bench and the trigger of the rifle had caught in some bushes, discharging the weapon and the bullet had gone through his foot.

The committee recommended the exercise of care in selecting men to have charge of wet canteens and was pleased to find that in some camps the consumption of milk exceeds that of alcoholic beverages.

Among the suggestions received by the committee which were passed on for further consideration and possible action, were: Control of the consumption of beer and soft drinks immediately prior to meals, closing of all wet canteens until 6 p.m daily, and application of hours applying to wet canteens for the men to canteens for commissioned and non-commissioned officers.

RAF Raiders Raid New U-Boat Yard

Ship Attackers Meet New Type Anti-Aircraft Fire

LONDON, July 20.—(CP)—Four-engine bombers of the Royal Air Force raided northwest Germany last night, including submarine buildings yards at Vegesack, the Air Ministry anonunced today.

Vesegack is 10 miles northwest of Bremen.

"Three of our bombers are missing from these operations," the Air Ministry said.

The blow against northwest Germany was the fourth in as many days, having been preceded by three daylight smashes against the Ruhr and submarine construction centres at Luebeck and Flensburg.

Yesterday by daylight R.A.F. fliers in Boston Bombers attacked targets in the German-occupied Lille and Bethune areas, including power stations at Chocques and Mazinggarbe. Hurricane bombers and Spitfires attacked two enemy ships, an armed freighter and a minesweeper. The Air Ministry said both ships were hit.

Two bombers and a fighter were reported missing from the day operations, making a total of six for the day and night.

The Air Ministry said the planes which attacked the freighter and minesweeper met a new type of fierce, light anti-aircraft fire.

"This came up vertically," a returning pilot said. "It was white and looked like rockets." No other details were given.

Thermometer Struck 90 Degree Mark

Excessive heat Saturday sent the mercury in A. O. Phillip's thermometer to the 90-degree mark and bounced it up to the same level Sunday.

Three days' rain registered 1.59 inches, Mr. Phillips reported today. Discomfort of humidity and a blazing sun settled upon the community Saturday morning until an electric storm at midnight brought relief. Lightning played about for an hour above the western horizon before the rain clouds arrived. Sunday was cast in the same mould, and the evening rain cleared the air of the enervating heat.

The precipitation of an inch and a half will restore pasturage in the country and give the root crops a new lease of expanding life.

the work of German playwrights and crowding theatres where Netherlands plays are shown.

Shut Down Theatres.

The reply of the German occupation authorities has been to shut down theatres which fail to have performances of German dramas. According to recent reports, this occurred frequently.

Newsreel appearances of Anton Mussert, Netherlands Nazi leader, who asperes to be the "Quisling" of the Netherlands, are the occasion of mocking comment from the audience.

After one derisive remark was made it was reported, a Netherlands Nazi storm trooper jumped on to the stage and shouted:

"If the man who made the remark considers himself a hero, let him come up here."

The reply, from the depth of the audience, was; "I thought all heroes were on the Eastern Front"—a reference to the Netherlands Nazi volunteers serving with the Germans in Russia.

This and similar incidents in Netherlands motion picture theatres have caused Max Blokzijl, Netherlands Nazi radio commentator, to indulge in bitter tirades over the German controlled Netherlands radio.

Recruiting Failed

Recently the German-controlled Netherlands Press has been filled with admissions by Netherlands Nazi leaders of the failure of their recruiting efforts.

The propaganda tour recently undertaken by Mussert throughout the country is admitted by Nazi Commissar Backer of North Holland to have met with no success.

Netherlands Nazi Propaganda Chief Voorhoeve, speaking at Utrecht June 25, confessed that efforts to recruit volunteers for service with the German armies in Russia had been "practically a dismal failure."

In the eastern part of the Netherlands, where before the German invasion the Netherlands Nazis had considerable strength, "not a vestige of pro-German feeling is left," an industrialist who recently escaped from Holland to Britain said.

He revealed that employers in that region were keeping on workers at the greatest financial loss to themselves to prevent these workers being sent to Germany to work for the German industrial war machine.

Workers who had gone to the Ruhr and Rhineland to work in German factories, he added, almost invariably refused to return to Germany after coming home on leave. Many of these workers, he said, had told him:

"We would rather starve in Holland than be killed by the bombs of our on friends in the R.A.F."

Serbs on Danube Threaten Nazi Oil Line

LONDON, July 20.—(P).—Yugoslav informants said yesterday that Serb patriots under General Draja Mikhailovitch are operating along the Danube, presenting a menace to Hitler's river-borne oil from Rumania.

By a daring raid upon the Iron aGte nnarrow Danube passage through which barges must pass, these quarters said, Mikhailovitch's men could stroke a severe blow to the oil-propelled Nazi war machine.

German flotillas had been sent down the Danube "to suppress rebel activities,' according to a recent announcement by the German news agency, D.N.B. and this was taken here as partilal confirmation of the report that guerrillas are active along the river.

Underground reports from the Continent told meanwhile of new Nazi repression in conquered lands from Norway to the Balkans.

Poles said that in their homeland the Nazi had carried out a fifty-for-one reprisal, executing ninety-six men and four women hostages in the Polish Town of Zgierz for the killing of two Gestapo agents.

Although the state of siege imposed in Czecho-Slovakia following the assassination of Gestapo Hangman Reinhard Heydrich has been lifted, accounts from that dismembered republic say many arrests and executions are continuing. Eighteen Czehs were reported hanged in ten days.

In Norway fish is now being rationed and the food situation was reported growing progressively acute. One Norwegian source said acute. One Norwegian source said virtually all the hospitals had been commandeered by the Germans and were rapidly filling up with thousands of wounded from the Russian front.

Beaten To Death

LOWELL, Mass., July 20 (AP) — Mrs. Gladys E. Kelleher, 38, died at St. John's hospital today of injuries police said she received at the hands of her husband, Walter, and he was booked on a charge of assault with intent to murder. Police said that the woman was given a terrific beating with a heavy club in their home yesterday.

First-Class Service

PHILADELPHIA, July 20 (AP)—Two men held up Leroy Shields, garage attendant, took $11.60 from his cash register and picked out a new automobile. "We'll take that too," Shields was told—"after you replace those two worn tires on the front." Shields replaced them, and the bandits drove away.

Horses Dislike Cars

PINTADA, N.M., July 20 (AP) — The wartime curtailment of car travel is having repercussions in this little central New Mexico community. Nero Romero, 65, was thrown from a water wagon yesterday when his team shied away from a car. It was the third accident within two weeks involving frightened horses.

Large Motorboat Is Swept Over Hastings Dam

HASTINGS, July 20.—(ENS). — High winds and unfirm anchorage combined to free a large motorboat and float it into the seething waters of the Trent River here shortly after midnight Saturday.

The strong current swirled the boat over the dam, and it was recovered near the shore by Chief Constable William Wellman and Robert Stuart, local garageman.

Labor Complaint

Because 75 per cent. of the heaviest hay crop in years is cut, dried and in the barns, Hastings farmers are rejoicing over the "million dollar rain" which greeted the district over the week-end.

Nevertheless many of the farmers are bitterly complaining of the acute labor shortage. As one Asphodel Township man told The Examiner, "It gets pretty discouraging when one's wife has to work in the hot fields all day and try to cook besides." He intimated that much of his hay would be wasted if he couldn't get help.

The fact that many potential part-time farm "commandos" are away at training camp with the reserve forces certainly won't ease the situation any, was the comment of several disgruntled agriculturists.

Yesterday's rain will also prove a benefit to root crops and vegetables which have been at a standstill for days. During the storm, very mild in nature, there were no major disruptions in the local power facilities.

Doom Strangler As Werewolf In 3 Murders

MELBOURNE, July 20—A weird tale of murder in the blackout was unfolded here Friday before a United States Military Court which convicted Private Edward J. Leonski, former New York City grocery clerk, of the slaying of three Melbourne women. He was condemned to death by hanging.

The ten-member tribunal debated barely fifty minutes before announcing its verdict, which is subject to review by the commanding general of the United States armed forces in Australia.

He had been under arrest since mid-May, a few days after the body of Miss Gladys Hosking, 40, a university chemistry school secretary, was found near an army camp. The other victims were Mrs. Ivy Violet McLeod, 40, killed May 3, and Mrs. Pauline Thompson, 31, killed May 9. All three had been strangled.

Leonski's alleged confessions to the throttling of the three Melbourne women were introduced over the objections of the defense. Witnesses had described him as a "psychopathic personality" who sometimes drank a mixture of beer, ketchup, ice cream and pepper.

Two of the victims had voices which so fascinated Leonski that he wanted to "keep" the voices; the third, a soft handbag which affected him likewise, and so he killed them—thus the testimony ran.

Two American physicians and an Australian alienist said Leonski was sane, never had been otherwise.

Like a Werewolf

An American private who claimed to be the muscular defendant's confidant during the two-week period covered by the crimes testified "He said to me, 'Did you ever hear of a werewolf? Did you ever hear of Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde? I'm like him—two personalities.'"

Detective F. J. Adam told the court that Leonski related to him that last May 18, the night Miss Hosking was slain, he met a girl carrying an umbrella.

"It was raining, and he asked if he could go home with her," Adam testified. "She walked with him to a very dark part of Latehouse street. He said she turned to leave, but he didn't want her to go so he grabbed her. She had a fascinating, lovely voice. He wanted her voice, so he grabbed her by the throat. She was very soft and didn't make a sound."

A second lieutenant of the United States Army testified that he interviewed Leonski about the Thompson murder, and quoted him:

"I remember a woman singing in my ear. She was looking into my eyes, and she seemed to be singing just for me alone. She had a nice voice. We came to a long flight of stone steps, and I grabbed her by the throat. I wanted her to keep on singing. I choked her. How could she keep on singing when I choked her?"

The same witness related that when he questioned Leonski about the killing of Mrs. McLeod, he was told:

"I started to walk up the street and saw a girl in a doorway. She had a bag. She said something and smiled, and I said something about the bag. I walked over and felt of it. It was very soft. She stepped back in the doorway. I followed her, and grabbed her by the neck. I changed the position of my hands so that my thumbs were at her throat, and I choked her."

The Medical Board's report described Leonski as an active, energetic youth interested in weight-lifting, who used to display his strength in the New York grocery store by lifting 100-pound bags of sugar above his head with one hand.

Cobourg Man Wins $50 Bond At Draw

COBOURG July 20.— (ENS). — Good attendance featured the close of the Cobourg Kinsmen Club carnival on Saturday night. Rain had forced the postponement of the carnival's final night from Friday to Saturday. The weather was warm and the crowd lingered until almost midnight Some of the workers were required in the stores in which they were employed, due to the carnival being postponed until Saturday night, but others took their places, the ladies' bingo booth being staffed with nurses from the Ontario hospital.

The winner of the $50 bond in the big draw, was James Shaw of Cobourg; Mrs. F. Harrott of Grafton won the $25 war saving certificate and Miss Violet Patch of 141 Monarch Road, Toronto, won the $10 war savings certificate.

Five dollar certificates were won by Morris Daniel of Cobourg; Alex Henderson Cobourg, and Mrs. V. I. Groux of Cobourg. Dr. Bill Brett officiated at the microphone during the draw; Joe Patterson, past president of the Cobourg Rotary Club, made the draw. Lloyd Dickhout did the churn work at the handle of the rotating barrel which held 1,500 ticket stubs.

A goodly sum was realized from the donkey rides for the children. The donkey was donated for the carnival by Jimmie McIntosh and the entire proceeds went into the carnival treasury. The carnival receipts will be turned over to the Kinsmen Club Milk For Britain Fund.

Watch And Ring To Gunner L. Anderson

CAMPBELLFORD, July 20 (ENS). —Seymour East residents joined in paying tribute to another of their number on Active Service and now home on his last leave Friday evening. The affair took place at the home of Mrs. Lillian Anderson, where nearly one hundred gathered to honor her son, Gnr. Lorne Anderson, who already has two brothers in service overseas. Clarence Anderson has been in the R.C.A.F. for nearly two years, and another brother, Raymond, in the R.C.C.S. for an equal time. Rev. J. E. Holden of Springbrook was chairman of the evening main feature of which was the presentation of a wrist watch and onyx signet ring.

Miss Vera Stewart read the address which accompanied the presentation of the watch made on behalf of his friends in Selmour East, while Miss Winnie Spencer of Campbellford read the second address relevant to the ring given to Gnr. Anderson as a tribute from his friends and fellow-workers in Campbellford. Following an appropriate response from the guest of honor refreshments were served.

Hunt Tweed Lad For Hitting Girl

TWEED, July 20.—(ENS).— After being given the consideration of county police court on Friday and placed on probation after being convicted of theft, 16 year old George Barry of Tweed, is alleged to have struck a ten year old girl in the face, causing her mouth to bleed, late Friday night.

The victim was 10 year old Beryl Hill, 337½ Front street, Belleville, who had entered a hallway leading to her home, when she was allegedly attacked by a youth, who answered the description of Barry.

On Friday night, police court officials took compassion on the youth, after he had pleaded guilty to stealing a bicycle, suit of clothes and other wearing apparel. He was released on probation after promising the court he would mend his way, make restitution and procure employment. P. C. Thompson investigated the alleged assault and reported the description of the little girl's assailant appeared identical with that of Barry, who is being sought by authorities to-day.

Never too much Life Insurance

Years ago we said—and advertised—that when we examined the assets of estates that came to us for administration we never found too much life insurance.

Now the Dominion Government has imposed an additional and heavy succession duty on estates and what might have been sufficient life insurance in the past will not be nearly enough in the future.

See your life insurance underwriter now about more insurance and, if you want facts and figures about its necessity and how the terms of your Will may be affected by succession duties, see one of our estates officers. He will be glad to assist you without charge or obligation.

U.S. Bombers In Aleutians Sink Transport

By KEITH WHEELER

Copyright 1942, Chicago Times, Inc.

AT SEA WITH THE U.S. PACIFIC FLEET, June 18 (Delayed). —The Japs are dying in Kiska harbor today as the war of Aleutian mists begins again after three days of storms and glue-thick fogs.

It was the first contact since June 14 when the fog broke long enough of eight of this command's Catalina flying boats to drop through the clouds over Kiska and dump six tons of dynamite on the Jap ships lying there.

One 500-pound crump fell square on a light cruiser and started a gaudy fire. Another dropped alongside a transport close enough, the bombardied felt, to make serious underwater damage a certainty.

As usual, the Japs had their guns trained on the cloud breaks and five Catalinas came away full of holes. One collided with a three-inch anti-aircraft projectile in flight. It is unorthodox enough for a plane to be hit squarely by ack-ack. But the Catalina concerned violated all etiquette of such encounters by getting away with it. The projectile tore a neat hole through the hull, but failed to explode.

According to my information, the day's endeavors brought the box score in this odd 15-day-old campaign to this:

Two Jap submarines and one transport certainly destroyed; one heavy cruiser torpedoed and probably sunk; three cruisers set afire of six hit by bombs; one destroyer set afire; two transports hit; several four-engine patrol seaplanes destroyed; one cruiser plane, one Mitsubishi bomber and several Zero fighters shot down.

And so this strange war proceeds on its eerie course in the latitudes of the midnight sun.

The contest has developed into as grim a game of blind-man's buff as was ever contrived by man for the destruction of his fellows. Through the unending fogs it ranges up and down the bleak Aleutian rocks, from Dutch Harbor 800 miles past Kiska and Attu, where the Japs are getting set for what may become a major push against North America.

Back home, where the radios nightly boil down this war and explain it to us, they appear to feel this is a remote business, of little moment either to us or to the Japs. Unfortunately that is not wholly true.

The Japs are moving into these waters with as heavy a concentration of combat ships, transports and aircraft as they've assembled anywhere but Midway. Their cruisers and destroyers and two or more aircraft carriers provided for this show grope about in the eternal fogs waiting for the time to shoot the works.

Through the same waters, but as shut off as though we occupied another ocean, the ship one which I am an observer proceeds about its mysterious affairs, to the further consternation of his bedevilled majesty, Hirohito.

It is a slow and painful business, for though daylight runs twenty hours a day and the nights are never really dark, the fog is always here. It lies like a tattered blanket over sea and land everywhere north of 45 degrees.

There has been no contcat between surface ships since June 1, when at sunset this ship raised the elusive sticks of three military masts against the last westerning light. We lost them in the dark.

Misnamed Cape Cheerful

The battle is not over. This is no final summary. The battle began June 3, when honorable enemy sent fifteen fighters and thirteen Mitsubishi bombers across misnamed Cape Cheerful to bomb Dutch Harbor in two waves several hours apart. Before the day was out, navy Catalinas located an enemy carrier and its attendant ships off the south coast of Unalaska. They put a shadow on the invader and in the next 48 hours established a record of endurance and courage unlikely to be equalled in this war.

On the second day the Catalinas led army bombers through the fog to two carriers hanging out 250 miles south of Umnak Island.

That day a torpedo-carrying B-26 bomber established contact long enough to attack. He bored in at the carrier's looming hulk, one of Japan's largest, and cut loose his tin fish. Instead of going into the water, the torpedo dropped on the carrier's flight deck and worked as much destruction as a 2,000-pound weight can work anywhere it happens to fall. It did not explode.

Meanwhile Jap ships, submarines and airplanes popped up with bewildering frequency all along the chain as far eastward as Unimak Pass and the Shumagin Islands. The Shumagins lie under the Alaskan Peninsula, 20 miles toward the mainland from the tip.

Several Dogfights

Numerous one-sided dog-fights developed between the lumbering Catalinas and the nimble Zero fighters off the carriers. One Catalina wass hot down in flames, and many suffered damage. They accounted for at least one attacking Zero.

The Japs attacked Dutch Harbor again, inflicting some damage and a few casualties, but making no real progress toward blasting that base.

The weather was too bad for a full-scale attack and those bombers that came found their job increasingly difficult.

Our first sizable lick at the enemy was the accomplishment of two B26 bombers that suddenly found themselves out of the mist and sitting over a 10-gun heavy cruiser, one of Japan's best. They attacked and hit her bow and stern with two torpedoes. It appeared, they reported, as though "destruction seemed certain."

All that day the weather was bad, and, in the aerographer's words, "getting progressively worse."

Weather that is bad and progressively worse in this latitude is something you wouldn't believe in any other. The weather's always bad. Snow and rain complicate the unrelenting fogs, and most times you can't see from the break of the foremast to the bow.

If a quick cleanup of the invading force had been planned by us, that first day was enough to establish the error of our plan.

Some bomber flights were never able to get off, others hunted for hours through mists, probably passing within splitting distance of the Jap ships without seeing them.

Cancel Contract To Builder Of Liberty Ships

NEW ORLEANS, July 20.—(AP). —Abandonment of the vast Michaud shipbuilding program of the Higgins Corporation here Saturday by the United States Martime Commission was blamed by Andrew J. Higgins, president of the company, on 'dollar-a-day men' in Washington.

The commission announced cancellation of the Higgins contract to build 200 Liberty ships in furtherance of a curtailment program to divert all available steel to shipbuilding in existing facilities.

Higgins said the Maritime Commission contract was with the Higgins Corporation and that the commission stands to lose about $10,000,000 on work already done. He explained that Higgins Industries, Inc. a separate company which he heads, builds smaller vessels without Government financing or subsidy.

"They said it was a shortage of steel; that was their pretext," said Higgins. "There way be more behind it than their bare announcement It's by personal opinion that the decision in Washington was arrived at and enforced by dollar-a-year men.

"Maybe we were going to build ships to ofast, maybe we were going to build too many ships and too cheaply."

The sudden close-down order halted activity at the 1,200-acre Michaud plant east of the city where construction started last March after award of the commission's biggest merchant ships contract. The cancellation left the tract a maze of deserted streets, piling and cleared woods and marsh.

Explaining that the War Production Board had concurred in the decision and directed curtailment in the use of steel, a statement by the Wartime Commission in Washington commended Higgins' new assembly line methods in speeding production. He said however that the project 'represents' the highest cost per ship to be constructed under any of the Martime Commission contracts."

The Maritime Commission added: "Higgins original estimated for facilities was approximately $29,000,000, which later was revised upward to a total of $59 000,000 not including costs for power requirements of some $6,000,000, or a total for facilities which would have been borne by the Maritime Commission, of $65,000 . . . Inasmuch as it would be 1943 before the Higgins Yards could be in full-scale production, and because the Higgins program necessitated the creation of vast new facilities such as shipway, shops, machine tools, railroads and transportation and housing for workers, the amount of steel required would best be diverted into existing construction."

Military Camp Depletes Tannery Staff

They entrained with other youths from Norwood and Warkworth as part of B Company, 2nd Midland Regt. (RF.), under the command of Major Johnston of Peterborough.

Ten of the men were employees of the local branch of the Breithaupt Feather Co., and according to Frank Daly, plant manager, their absence will be sorely felt. Numbered among the remainder is a florist, a car salesman, and a garage man—a miniature cross section of the camp's composition.

Liquor Raid

Shorty after 11 o'clock Saturday night provincial police officers raided a Hastings residence and seized a small quantity of liquor. It is also understood that four or five "visitors" were in the house at the time of the raid.

Provincial Constable Don Carruthers of Campbellford did not specify what charges, if any, would be laid as a result of the affair.

Two Cars Wrecked

"Good salvage" was the way Chief Constable William Wellman described two 1928 model autos which crashed on the Peterborough road one mile west of Hastings Saturday night.

Drivers of the cars were Clint McComb of Campbellford and George Seymour of Asphodel township. Neither driver was injured

2 Women Hurt Driver Escapes

COBOURG, July 20. — (ENS). — Third automobile accident in this district within three days, a car driven by Donald F. Bruce of 215 Selina street, Oshawa, went out of control when a radius rod dropped loose. The accident occurred one mile east of Colborne on Saturday. The car veered sharply to the left and struck the north side of a ditch and then jumped over a culvert and landed some 25 feet away on its side. The driver escaped with a few bruises. Mrs. Bruce was knocked unconscious by the impact, and also received cuts on her face. Eleven-year-old Lois Wilson, of 75 Elgin avenue, Oshawa, had cuts on her back and shoulders. They were taken to Belleville Hospital for treatment.

Two cars collided north of here on Sunday morning early with little damage done. A car driven by Alfred Finney, of Harwood, was going north when it met in collision with one going south which was driven by William Bright, of Castleton. Albert Thorold, of Harwood, was in the first car and Hayden Giddings, of Toronto, was in the second car. Nobody was hurt.

Both accidents were investigated by Provincial Constable G. Broughton, of Port Hope.

Spanish Gliders

MADRID, July 20 (AP)—A group of Spanish glider enthusiasts supported by the Air Ministry is developing a school for gliders which the newspaper Arriba said today may soon be the largest in Spain. The chief of the German glider organization recently visited Spain and helped choose the field for the school.

Avoiding The Abyss

By slow but sure means the Honorable James Lorimer Ilsley is impressing himself upon the people of this Dominion as a statesman of unusual insight, conviction and probity. He knows what he thinks and nothing will deflect him from his stated conviction; fortunately, his convictions appear to be thoroughly sound. He has brought down the stiffest Budget in the history of our country, and in the discussion of that Budget he has shown a readiness to admit mistakes and an unwillingness to comply with trifling requests which reveal resolution and fairness in equal measure.

* * *

Perhaps the most striking instance of Mr. Ilsley's soundness in financial matters was in his reply to Mr. Arthur Slaght, an eminent lawyer who nevertheless suggested that Canada should solve some of her financial difficulties by the simple expedient of printing a thousand million dollars' worth of new banknotes. Anybody who reads the papers knows that this sort of financing leads to ruin, and no man could rise to the position of Finance Minister in a Canadian Government who would entertain such a proposal. No one was surprised that Mr. Ilsley turned down such a proposition flatly, but many Canadians will take comfort in the words which he used in doing so. He said: "Rather than do what my honorable friend suggests I would walk out in a minute. I would not make any attempt to run the finances of this country by running away from the hard way which is the only way. The easy way leads to the abyss." Mr. Slaght's proposal, of course, could only lead to inflation, depreciation of our currency, domestic misery and international disgrace.

* * *

Everyone whose income and financial interests come in for attention in the recent Budget (and that means almost every adult in this country) knows what Mr. Ilsley means by "the hard way." And they will agree with him that it is the only way, also. There is no magical formula for creating money where none existed before, and there is no system of financial juggling which can make existing money work twice over. This war is costing us vast sums daily, and the only source from which the needful funds can come is from the pockets of the people. Of course this makes for minor hardships and creates a certain amount of discontent. But these are mere flea-bites in comparison with the humiliation and grinding poverty which inflation would bring. The present heavy taxes leave us enough to scrape by on, even though we are pinched on the luxuries which we have come to regard as necessities. Inflation would leave us nothing but sacks of currency which, despite its fancy printing, would be worth little or nothing.

* * *

Commendable also was Mr. Ilsley's firm stand against the penny candy agitation which, if it had succeeded, would have cost this country $500,000 for a sentimental gesture. And his stand against the proposed amendment of income tax for men in the armed forces is grounded in sense also. Income tax used to be regarded as a punishment imposed upon the rich for their riches; it is so no longer. It is a way of getting money from anyone who has money, regardless of what he does; we need money desperately and we must look for it where it exists. Certainly Mr. Ilsley's way is the hard way, but if it keeps us from the abyss we may be well satisfied.

Death Of Finucane

Everywhere among the United Nations regret will be felt at the death through enemy action of Wing Commander Brendan Finucane, better known as Paddy Finucane. He was one of the heroes of this war, the youngest officer of his rank in the R.A.F., and he brought down 33 German planes during his life; he had the Distinguished Service Order and the Distinguished Flying Cross, the latter with double bar. He was one of Britain's idols, but his modesty and good sense kept him from attaching too much importance to his popularity with the public; a finer tribute, and one which he valued more, was the admiration of the men who worked with him.

Finucane's career as a flyer was a remarkable one, and productive of some reflections upon the nature of an airman's work in this war. He alone of the men in the fighting forces has the opportunity for single combat. When once he is in the air the fighter pilot is on his own. His task is to seek out the enemy and destroy him, and his fate lies in his own hands. His ingenuity and his skill are taxed to the utmost, and always in his work there is an element of chance and danger.

Is it any wonder then that the air force attracts so many of young men of the finest fighting type? In the days when men regarded war as a pleasure individual knights sought out their opponents on the field and engaged them in single combat. So it is with the fighter pilot; he is perhaps the only man in modern warfare to enjoy the experience of fighting on his own.

Remembering The Army

Not long ago we celebrated Army Week, during which we were asked to remember the Army and do all we could to honor it. In company with our colleagues all over the country we urged this message upon the public, and we are quite prepared to go on honoring the Army as long as the war lasts. But we cannot make bricks without straw, and we cannot say anything about the Army if the Army never gives us any information.

Surely something is happening in this district, M.D. 3, which would be of interest to the public? We should be very happy to hear of it. Certainly there have been promotions in M.D. 2, for we see notices of them in the newspapers which serve that area. But since Army Week we who live in M.D. 3 have not heard a word about the doings of the Army, and we can hardly be expected to invent news. Has M.D. 3 formed a distaste for publicity or is it merely that someone is neglecting his job?

If Army Week is not to be regarded as a waste of time and effort, we must be given the means to keep its spirit alive. We are anxious to do our part, but we cannot work without information.

Great Canadian Woman

The franchise for the women of Quebec was won to a very great extent through the efforts of Mrs. Isabella MacMaster Scott, who died last week at the age of 87 at her home in Montreal. During her long life Mrs. Scott took a keen interest in all women's affairs; she was herself educated at Anderson University in Glasgow and she appreciated the importance of higher learning and political freedom for women as aids to progress.

During the first Great War Mrs. Scott was active in the campaign for Union Government and toured the country lecturing in behalf of Sir Robert Borden's plan. In 1917 she organized the first Women's Political Society at Lachute, and in 1918 she attended the Women's War Council at Ottawa. She was active in Conservative political circles from that time until her increasing age made it necessary for her to retire from arduous work.

Mrs. Scott was also active in the Women's Christian Temperance Union and did much to further the cause of total abstinence in this country. She was never out of office in the Quebec Provincial W.C.T.U. from the time of its organization in 1883. As an advocate of women's suffrage she attended conferences in Baltimore in 1922 and in Rome in 1923. In her special sphere she made Canadian history and served her country well in the light of her strong convictions. By her determined struggle to obtain the vote for women she made a permanent contribution to our democratic way of life.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Were the opponents of the tax on penny candies in Parliament urged to speak by a couple of liquorice Whips?

So far in this war we have heard little about the dum-dum, the bullet which was hollow and flattened out — rather like a Rome radio account of a victory.

In Britain now people are asked not to take baths unless they are really dirty, in order to conserve the fuel used in pumping water. What is going to happen to all those people who cannot admit, even to themselves, that they are really dirty?

A popular song of the moment, we learn, is called Ooch Ooch A Goon Attahc, which is Chattanooga Choo Choo spelled backwards. The words are those of Rose O'Day sung in reverse. The Vancouver Province foresees that if they play this on the ekuj we'll all og stun.

Ottawa Muddles Manpower

(By GRANT DEXTER in the WINNIPEG FREE PRESS)

OTTAWA: The conscription debate opened on June 10, and for a week the question of extending compulsion to overseas service held the field. Then, on June 16, Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, raised the manpower issue. Thereafter, as the record shows, the debate has been double-barrelled; two controversies have been underway.

Conscription is in every sense a national issue. Most members have had views to express and the debate has been more general than average. But members of Parliament, in the nature of things, know next to nothing about manpower, and here the dispute has been between members of the Government.

It is easy in terms of black and white to state the manpower question. A nation's manpower is limited. In our case, nobody seems to know what the limit is. To wage war efficiently it is necessary to put manpower into the armed services, war industry, agriculture, raw material production and essential services. There is no dispute here. But, as between the five, what should the balance be? How many men can we have in the armed services without crippling war industry, or raw material output, or agriculture, or essential services like railways? The balance is the crucial point, and it is right here that the members of the cabinet disagree.

Equally important and perhaps arising out of this disagreement, the debate has revealed a lack of co-ordination and a degree of downright confusion in policy.

TO begin with, after 34 months of war, it is surprising to discover that the Government has no basic manpower figures to work on. The national registration of 1940 appears not to have been used except to call men for military training. In dealing with manpower, therefore, the ministers are working in the dark.

Some of the ministers place reliance upon statistical calculations of manpower. The tendency, plainly, is for different departments to create statistical divisions. Each department equips itself with manpower experts upon whose advice the ministers base their opinions. Mr. Howe, for example, frankly stated that his manpower figures were prepared by the research men in his department. The National Defence department is known to have a group of manpower experts. The Bureau of Statistics has always covered employment and population, and some of the ministers rely upon these reports. The research division of the Bank of Canada has been active in the manpower discussions. The Labor department, one way or another, is calculating manpower. The National War Services works on the 1940 registration. Other departments, such as Mines and Resources, are closely in touch with industry and have a good idea of the labor situation. The Department of Agriculture, naturally, covers the agricultural field and several of the provincial governments have made or are making labor surveys.

It is only of secondary importance, perhaps, that there is much confusion and overlapping in all this. The important point is that the experts do not agree and the ministers who rely upon the experts are equally at cross purposes. And apart altogether from those who base their views upon figures, there are ministers who place no reliance whatever on the statistical approach; who remember the gross miscalculations made by the statisticians in 1917.

IT is highly probable, although the speeches in the debate do not reveal it, that there is overlapping and disagreement as between ministers on the administrative side of the war effort. It would be miraculous if it were not so. For example, there are two sets of boards, operating under different ministers, dealing with men. The Labor department through the employment agencies and national selective service officers, decides where a man should work as between various industries. But the Labor department has no power to compel.

The National War Services department also has boards throughout the country which decide whether a man shall be in industry or the armed services. These boards possess all the available powers of compulsion, and if the Labor department desires to compel a man to do something, the case must be referred to National War Services.

This is the background to the differences of opinion as between cabinet ministers which have become apparent in the second week of the conscription debate. Definitely there is no difference on the broad ground of war policy. All the cabinet are for total war. They disagree, however, as to how Canada can achieve it and their disagreements, as has been indicated, run like fissures right through the structure of government—from the ministerial level right down to officialdom.

Unconsidered Trifles

A customer drew the proprietor's attention to the spelling.

"Hasn't any one told you of it before?" he asked.

"Hundreds," replied the dealer, "but whenever they drop in to tell me they always spend something."

A chap in the local was talking about two blokes he knew at school.

"One was a clever chap," he said, "but he was lazy and never did any real work. He just drifted through life, and when he grew up he never made any money."

I said, "I suppose you're going to tell me the other bloke was steady and hardworking—and he made a fortune."

"That's right. He died last year at the age of 40 and left his wife £60,000."

"It just shows that it pays to work," I said.

"Oh, I don't know, I heard yesterday that the clever chap is going to marry the widow."

Roland brought his young sister Mary to tea on Sunday.

I said to Mary: "What would you do if I gave you sixpence"

"I'd buy some toffee," she told me.

Then I said to Roland, "What would you do if I gave you six-pence?"

"Put it in my money-box," he said, "and get Mary to give me half her toffee."

War Maps Don't Tell Story

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

THE first month of the critical war summer of 1942 closes with Hitler's master offensive ominously close to vital Allied resources and communication lines in Russia and Egypt, and still no sign that an Anglo-American front offensive is close at hand.

Comparison of the battle maps as they stood in Russia and Egypt at the summer solstice, June 21-22, and as they are now, a short month later, would be gloomy if it told all the story. It does not.

They do not even reflect all the unhappy events of those weeks. They do not record, either, any of the factors that tend to brighten the war prospect for the anti-Axis league despite the grave and growing perils in Russia and the Axis dagger-thrust in Egypt still dangerously close to Alexandria, heart of British power in the Middle East.

The war maps plot the defeat of the British 8th Army in Libya. They define a vast new German-occupied area in Southwestern Russia.

DON'T SHOW BLOOD COST

But they do not show the blood cost to Germany and her satellite allies of these still inconclusive victories. They do not show the terrible toll of United Nations' shipping taken by Axis submarines in Western Hemisphere waters; but neither do they show the tremendous and continuous flow of American fighting forces and the war machines to the British Isles or the swelling tide of Anglo-American material which has won through to Russia.

The cumulative effect of British and American bombing of Nazi industrial targets and German-held continental ports and war centres cannot be mapped. Its ultimate influence, either on the Nazi campaign in Russia or on the sea-attrition battle Hitler is waging in the Atlantic, can only be conjectured.

That air second front has not reached its peak. Nothing approaching the thousand-planes-a-night scale of sustained bombing has been attained. Just why is not revealed. London offers bad flying weather as an explanation of long lapses between mass bombing raids over Germany. The promised American Air Force participation is yet to develop in more than token fashion. Only the Allied High Command knows what problems of strategy, tactics or loss replacements and supply are still to be solved before the full weight of ever-increasing Anglo-American air power makes itself felt.

NEED VAST AIR FORCES

And it may be that it is the solution of those problems that bars the way to immediate second-front operations in the west to relieve pressure on Russia. A counter-invasion of the continent to catch Hitler between two fires seems possible only when there is available a vast and unmatchable Anglo-American air umbrella to cover it and to blast a way for it.

That does not necessarily forbid early Commando raid operations on a far greater scale than have been attempted. It would not seem to prevent, for instance, efforts to obtain air and submarine bases somewhere on the far northern coast of Norway as a further protection for the Atlantic-Arctic supply route to Russia.

And with Nazi forces on or close to the Don River from the Voronezh anchor of the Russians south of Moscow to Migulinsk, far southeast of Boguchar and stabbing toward Rostov at the Caucasus approach, there seems urgent need for quick action in the west by air and otherwise to help avert a Russina disaster. The vital importance of the Arctic supply route to Russia is increasing as rapidly as is the peril to her armies in the south. Ways and means of obtaining that route, as well as of distracting German attention from the east must be foremost in Allied war councils in London and Washington at this grave moment in the war.

In sharp contrast to the dark war scene across the Atlantic and beyond the Mediterranean, the Pacific front offers much cheer to Allied eyes. The now-disclosed victory fruits of the Coral Sea and Midway battles are great. The Nipponese march southward or eastward, if not westward in China, appears checked. The diversion of American sea power could go far to prevent Japan's breaking her truce with Russia to aid Hitler.

A Leader Of The Free

TO Roberto Ortiz, President of Argentina, in his last years Fortune showed cruel malice. Attacked by a fatal malady, he lingered in the shadow of total blindness. Moral suffering was added to the physical. After his withdrawal from the duties of his office and after his resignation he had to see his rooted, passionate beliefs and most cherished public policies impaired or reversed by his substitute and successor.

He came into power to restore democracy. He was not a great landowner, an aristocrat or a military chief. He worked his way up, a lawyer, man of business, able administrator, especially fitted to be Minister of Public Works and of Finance. He was not an orator or rhetorician, but his attractive traits made him friends. He was a man of the library and the club, not of the platform. Student of sober sciences, of political economy and finance, he was also an enthusiast for ideas, a lover of liberty and of orderly constitutional government and the common man. To the Nazis, their efforts to poison opinion in his republic and their whole theory and practice he was steadily opposed.

Only the other day Mr. Roosevelt was honoring "the spirit of resistance to aggression and devotion to democracy so nobly personified in your utterances." By Mr. Hull and Mr. Roosevelt his death will be felt as a personal loss. Not always, let us hope not for long, will "the state of siege" and the choking of free expression of opinion prevail in Argentina. The Argentines will be able to do justice to the President whom Mr. Hull has called "a great leader of the free." When the cause of the United Nations triumphs may the zeal of Roberto Ortiz for good feeling and co-operation among democratic nations be realized in the international order.

End of an Era

"THE DEBUTANTE," says ex-debutante Lucy Aldrich, daughter of banker Winthrop Aldrich, "just isn't any more."

It seems that the girls who used to have fantastic coming-out parties and then settle down to the even more fantastic routine of staying up all night, sleeping until 5 p.m. and then staying up all the next night are now doing war work.

"We know perfectly well that the world is shaking," says Miss Aldrich, who is learning typing and shorthand. "Give us time and we'll prepare ourselves to do our part."

Here, we submit, is one of the most heartening by-products of the war. We had lived too well—some of us. We had learned to worship false gods and emphasize false values. Some of the young things who were born with silver spoons in their mouths have discovered that fact. Perhaps some of their elders will discover it in time, too.—Chicago Sun.

Chocolate Bar in Peril

NOT every person is aware that behind the choclate bar, a familiar sight in Americans' mouths, is a huge cocoa bean importing industry, now seriously affected by the shipping shortage. About 900,000,000 bags of beans or about 1,000,000,000 pounds of cocoa are required annually in this country for the making of candy bars and similar products.

Confectionery manufacturing officials and W.P.B. moguls appear to be convinced that while there will be plenty of chocolate bars available this year, production of them by next Easter may be virtually halted unless imports of cocoa or cocoa beans are increased.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

A Bible Message For Today

(From The Authorized Version)

THAT which was from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon, and our hands have handled, of the Word of life; (for the life was manifested, and we have seen it, and bear witness, and shew unto you that eternal life, which was with the Father, and was manifested unto us;) that which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us: and truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ. And these things write we unto you, that your joy may be full.

This then is the message which we have heard of him, and declare unto you, that God is light, and in him is no darkness at all.—I John i, 1-5.

* * *

How excellent is thy loving-kindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures. For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light shall we see light. —Ps. xxxvi, 7-9.

How To Stay Awake

As the speaker starts you begin listening for a word which begins with the letter "a". As soon as you have it, you listen for "b" and so on through the alphabet. You must take each letter of the alphabet in its proper order, and a "q" that comes at the wrong place simply doesn't count. Dean Hawkes says the "x" is almost impossible and that a player who gets that letter is a rare person. On the other hand, "z" and "j" are reported to be easier than you would think.

If you do not get through the alphabet before the speaker finishes, you lose, and the tension as time runs short will, without any possibility of failure, keep the player on the edge of his seat, which is gratifying even to the most blase lecturer.

Nor are the effects of the Hawkes System a matter of speculation. The Dean is a practical man and a mathematician; he explained the game to his own students, solely in the interest of science. He reports, after close observation, a decided improvement in the appearance of his classroom.—Columbia University Press.

Stepping Over the Line

A PRESS notice regarding an author and professor says "his children have been educated on both sides of the line."

It is obvious that parents have to draw the line somewhere, but this is the first sign we have seen where children were educated on both sides of the line.

We bet they look forward to the day when they are invited to step over the line to get their education on the other side.—Thomas Richard Henry, in the Toronto Telegram.

To Prevent War

TO prevent war, it has been suggested that human nature will have to be changed, but so long as human beings decline to change there will always have to be ample police authority to compel them to be good. The theory can only be effective so long as the big policeman has a club ready to enforce his rules and regulations. —Guelph Mercury.

Rose—McKeown

CAMPBELLFORD, July 20. — (ENS).—Bonarlaw Church of England was the setting for a pretty but quiet wedding on Saturday afternoon at three o'clock when Marjorie Emma McKeown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. McKeown, was united in marriage to Lac. Russell D. Rowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rowe, Healey Falls. The wedding ceremony was performed by Cannon Swayne of Bonarlaw. The bride wore a flowered blue crepe street-length dress with matching jacket and white accessories with corsage of rosebuds and corn flowers. She was attended by Miss Gwendolyn Lydford, of Port Arthur, who chose beige crepe with hat of matching shade and navy accessories. Her corsage was of yellow rosebuds and corn flowers. The groom was assisted by his brother, Howard Rowe. Following the ceremony a wedding luncheon and reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, and latter Mr. and Mrs. Rowe left on a wedding trip to Hamilton. For travelling the bride donned a navy blue and white flowered crepe dress with red flannel jacket and white accessories.

Mary M. Cumming Is Bride Of Cpl. Daniel Carr

In the Salvation Army Temple, decorated with ferns, palms and lilies, Adjutant Norman Buckley performed the marriage ceremony of Mary Melles Cumming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cumming, 287 Bethune street, to Cpl. Daniel Norman Carr, second youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Carr, Musclow, Ontario. Mrs. Gerald Routly played the wedding music and Bandmaster Gerald Routly sang "Oh Promise Me."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore her Salvation Army uniform of navy silk with a white satin sash and carried a bouquet of roses, mixed flowers and baby's breath. Miss Lillian Mills, who attended the bride, also wore a Salvation Army uniform. Little Ruth Buckley, as flower girl, wore a white frock with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers. Pte. Alex. Cumming, brother of the bride, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Bill Scott and Mr. Arthur Shadgett.

After the ceremony a reception was held at Hoopers' Palm Room, where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of blue silk with a white straw hat trimmed with navy, and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother, who also received, wore a gown of rust silk with a hat of rust straw and a corsage of red roses.

Kingston Church Is Scene Of Lovely Double Wedding

TWEED, Ont., July 20.—(ENS. — An unusually lovely double wedding ceremony was performed in St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock when Rev. James P. Sullivan united in marriage Helen Roberta Crotty, R.N., of McAdam, N.B., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard Crotty to Bernard J. Hunt of Tweed, son of Mr. J. Hunt and the late Mrs. Hunt, Newburg, and Miss Mary Irene Hunt, daughter of J. Hunt and the late Mrs. Hunt, of Newburg, to Mr. Charles Cassidy, Tweed, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cassidy, Tweed.

Both brides were dressed alike, and looked lovely in their wedding gowns of dawn white silk crepe, floor length, made on Princess lines, trimmed with flutings of the same material. They wore full length veils of white net which were caught in place with coronets of pearls and orange blossoms. They carried shower bouquets of red roses, lily-of-the-valley and baby's breath. The fathers of the brides gave them in marriage. Each couple acted as bridal attendants for the other.

Following the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served on the spacious lawns at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kettle and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Norris. The table was most attractive and was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with summer flowers, on a lace cloth. The guests numbered about eighty.

Assisting the bridal party in the reception were Mrs. B. Crotty, who wore a redingote ensemble in mauve tones with black accessories and a corsage bouquet of pink sweet peas. Mrs Cassidy chose black and white figured chiffon with black accessories and a corsage of sweet peas. Mrs. J. J. Kettle wore a smar frock of white crepe with touches of red and white accessories and Mrs. J. J. Norris wore a smart green redingote ensemble with dusky rose accessories. Later the bridal party of four left for Toronto and Niagara Falls. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Hunt and Mr. and Mrs. Cassidy will reside in Tweed.

PERSONALITY NOT BEAUTY WINS A GIRL HER MAN

A famous psychologist says that the thing that men fall in love with women for is their looks. If this is true, the men must have a very queer taste in feminine pulchritude. for even the most casual glance among the married women of our acquaintance will show scarcely a one who would have taken a blue ribbon in a bathing beauty contest.

Instead of having Grecian profiles and violet eyes and rosebud mouths, most of them have features that Nature seems to have scrambled together in a careless moment. Instead of lissom forms they have figures that are lumpy in the wrong places. Even in her teens, not one of them could have said with the maiden of the song, "My face is my popularly supposed to be. fortune, sir," yet each of them was loved, sought after and married by some man, which seems to prove that beauty isn't such a potent charm in husband-getting as it is

Man Considers Himself Beauty Worshipper

As a matter of fact, while every man considers himself a beauty worshipper, and the first question he ever asks about any woman is whether she is a good-looker or not, in reality he cares very little for it. The prettiest girls are not the most popular, nor do they have the most dates, nor do they make the best marriages. A man may like to be seen out with a Helen of Troy whose face would launch a thousand ships, but when he chooses a wife he generally picks out Sallie whose plain pan would not rate even a canoe.

This phenomenon may be explained in two ways. One is by the old axiom that beauty is in the eye of the beholder and that every woman is as good looking as she looks to some man. In the eyes that seem pale and colorless and unattractive to others, he sees tenderness and intelligence that make them more beautiful to him than any starry orbs with nothing of brains or sweetness behind them. In the too-big mouth he may perceive sweetness and humor that makes it far more kissable than the cold, sculptured lips of a living picture. So when we say that we don't know what a man saw in a homely woman to make him marry her, we are speaking the literal truth. We don't know because we don't see her with his eyes.

What Constitutes Beauty

Then, there's no disputing about tastes, as the old proverb says. Especially in women. Some like 'em tall. Some like 'em short. Some worship goddesses and some adore pocket Venuses. Some men fall for red hair, and others for platinum blonde. Some like chubby girls who are a nice good armful, while others prefer living skeletons. And so it goes, with hardly two men agreeing on what really constitutes beauty in a woman.

Which is lucky for us, as otherwise most of us would be old maids. Understand, I am not undervaluing beauty. It's a swell asset as a come-on, but a girl needn't be Miss America in order to have men flock around her as bees around a honey pot in order to make a good marriage.

Of course, no one can positively say what makes a man fall in love with a woman. Men don't even know themselves, but judging from the kind of women men marry, I would say that a woman's most potent attraction is not her looks but her personality. It is not her peaches and cream complexion nor her willowy figure, but her charm. It is her having a way with her. It is her having the come-hither look in her eyes. It is her having that intangible, undefinable something that draws men to her.

Perhaps she is intelligent and is a fascinating companion. Perhaps she is gay and vivacious and is the life of the party. Maybe she is a good sport and playing games with her is fun. Maybe she is a marvelous dancer. Maybe she is tactful and makes a man not only feel at ease with her, but draws him out so that he shines in company. Maybe she is sympathetic and understanding and he feels that he can go to her with all his joys and troubles, and that she will rejoice with him in his triumphs and that he can weep out his disappointments on her shoulder.

But, whatever she is, she is what some man wants and needs and desires to possess. He isn't thinking of the beauty of her face. He is thinking of what a good chum she will make.

Hence I think that the psychology is wrong in saying that men fall in love with women because of their looks. I have seen too many cold, selfish, dumb beauties left on the old maid shelf, while sweet, gracious, homely girls carried off the catch of the season to believe that a woman's greatest attraction for man is her pretty face.

Theoretically a man may worship the beauty, but he generally lets some other man marry her.

Local Cricketers Honor R. N. Stuart

After the match on Saturday, the local cricketers entertained the visiting Royal Air Force team at the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Gordon Monkman presided over a company of 30, supported by P.O.'s Leithwaite, Ruth and Pollock, and by Mr. C. V. Elliott and Mr. R. N. Stuart.

In welcoming the visitors, the chairman expressed regret at the absence of Group Captain Cox, D.F.C., who at the past moment was prevented from coming, and welcomed the newcomers, P.O. Leithwaite and P.O. Pollock. The former officers responded, speaking of the splendid hospitality the Picton men had always received in Peterborough.

Later the chairman called upon Mr. R. N. Stuart to accept a small token of esteem from local cricketers, in honor of his 80th birthday, which was Saturday, June 11. The recipient expressed his sincere thanks. During the evening Mr. Monkman also referred to the exhibition 'Soccer' match which it is hoped to stage here in the fall for the benefit of local War Victims' Fund. It is hoped that it will be possible to arrange a match between the Picton R.A.F. and another strong R.A.F. team from Kingston or Hamilton.

A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by everyone. The Picton team has been here so often they are beginning to consider it a home from home.

Florence Sullivan Is Bride In Toronto Ceremony

St. Basil's Church, Toronto, decorated with white gladioli, was the scene Tuesday, July 14, of the wedding of Florence M. Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Denis Sullivan of 540 Downie Street, to Norman F. Healey, son of Mrs. Healy of Toronto and the late Arthur Healey. Rev. Father Walsh performed the ceremony, and Mrs. P Dee, mother of the best man, was soloist

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white sheer with a full skirt gathered at the waist to a fitted bodice with sweetheart neckline and long full sleeves. Her floor-length veil of white net was caught to her head with a coronet of lace and she carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli and pink roses.

Miss Loretta Sullivan attended her sister, wearing a similar frock of pink embossed organza, with short sleeves. She wore a halo of pink roses from which hung a shoulder length veil and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and cornflowers. Mr. Jack Dee was best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Embassy Hotel, where 35 guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore a gown of rose sheer with contrasting hat and a corsage of roses. The groom's mother, who also received, wore a blue ensemble and corsage of roses.

Later the bride and groom left on a trip to Muskoka. The bride travelled in a white dress and hat with navy trim. On their return they will live in Toronto.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

For Tuesday, July 21

THE ACCENT ON the affairs of this day may be in connection with domestic, social, cultural and love afafirs, with things moving at high tempo and with much pleasure and satisfaction. This should be a most auspicious period for making plans and contacts for fulfillment of social ambitions. However, it might be well to treat those in high stations with affability and finesse, as they are not disposed to be over friendly.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of unusual domestic, social and emotional activity and enjoyment, with more workaday activities relegated to the background. Push for social position and popularity, but use discretion with those in important positions. Deal with tact and diplomacy with these and with group, fraternal or the public, these being being rather unfriendly.

A child born on this day should be devoted to the happiness and aspirations of the home, in its domestic, social, cultural and affectional integrity.

HOT WEATHER ON WEEK-END CRAMPS STYLE OF GOLF ENTHUSIASTS

Terrific Heat Puts Golfers Off Their Game

The golfers at Kawartha Golf and Country Club went one down to old man weather this past Sunday. Big things were planned but with terrific heat in the morning and rain just as the starting gun should have started things rolling, the committee postponed activities until next Sunday. Who said "it never rains on a golf course."

In the Saturday afternoon sweeps Norman Finnie came through to lead the ball winners with a net 35½. In second place we have three members tied with nets of 36½. Bob Hay, Lionel Browne and Ken Smylie. Charlie Low won low gross with 39.

The results for Saturay:

	Gross	Hand	Net
Bob Hay	40	3½	36½
Charlie Low	39	3½	35½
N. Finnie	40	4½	35½
Lionel Browne	46	9½	36½
Ken Smylie	46	9½	36½
Jack Remington	49	10	39
Al. Heckman	45	7	38
Frazer Dunfield	41	2	39
Earl Asker			No score
Hap Wilgar			No score
W. Gibbons			No score

There's a rumor around Kawar- that had Hap Wilgar and Earl Asker didn't turn in their card because they were afraid of a handicap cut. Any truth in that Hap?

The Sunday morning sweepstakes were led by Tom McArthur with a hard to beat two under par 33. Tom was once heard saying "Golf was a tough game because you couldn't blame the other fellow for your mistakes." Now he makes the game look easy. Ken Smylie and Al Heckman were tied for second place with nets of 34. Frazer Dunfield and Charlie Low were tied with a grossof 38 to win balls.

The results for Sunday:

	Gross	Hand	Net
Ken. Currie	49	1	37
Al Heckman	43	9	34
Charlie Low	38	3½	34½
Frazer Dunfold	38	2	36
Stan. Whiddon	39	3	36
Bob Hay	40	3½	36½
Tom McArthur	43	8	35
Rod. Jones	45	8	37
Ken Smylie	41	7	34
Ed. Riley	45	9½	35½

Senator Abbe Sets New Mark

NEW YORK, July 20—(AP). — Senator Abbe, four-year-old gelding owned and driven by Otis Lowen of Wilmington, O., established a track record Saturday by pacing a mile and a sixteenth in 2.13½ while winning the Montauk purse at the Grand Circuit program on Long Island.

In the record run, Senator Abbe was forced all the way by the Abbot, owned by Sullivan and Mawhinney of Machias, Me., with the camera needed to determine the winner. Senator Abbe also won the first heat, going the mile in 2:06.

The Abbott, former trotter converted to a pacer two years ago, was the favorite. It was his second defeat in two season.

Joe Gives Horse The Brush-Off

Occupation Wins Rich Futurity

CHICAGO, July 20.—(AP).—Occupation, a fast-breaking, strong-finishing colt owned by Jack Marsch, Chicago contractor, won the $62,900 Arlington Futurity Saturday in the fastest time this stake has ever been run—1:10 2-5.

Occupation, breaking from the extreme outside post position in a field of fourteen, quickly took command and won by five lengths. The winner was ridden by Leslie Balaski. Picket, entry of John Hay Whitney of New York, was second, four lengths ahead of Joseph F Widener's Glance About. Warren Wright's Careless was fourth.

The triumphant Occupation, scoring his fourth victory in six starts, all in Chicago, blasted the former six-furlong record for the event of 1:11 1-5. Three horses—Ladysman, Far Star and Case Ace—had shared the old mark.

A sweltering crowd of 30,000 installed Occupation as a 2 to 1 choice, and he returned $6, $3.80 and $3. The place price on Picket was $5 and $4.20, while Glance About, closing at 45 to 1, returned $13.80 to show.

The 2 year old son of Bulldog-Miss Bunting picked up $51,500.

Corona Corona, one of the two entered by W. E. Boeing, Seattle, Wash., airplane builder, finished fifth; Amber Lights sixth, and Slide Rule, another Boeing racer, seventh. The others—Alquest, eighth; Quillon ninth; Hoosier, tenth; Big Me, eleventh; Ringmenow, twelfth; Adulator, thirteenth, and Valdina Sol, last.

Occupation didn't get to the races until last May 23 at Lincoln Fields. His mother, Miss Bunting, foaled the colt at Thomas Carr Piatt's Crestwood Farm, near Lexington, Ky., and because Miss Bunting is the joint property of Marsch and Piatt, the cold belonged to both of them. Marsch, however, bought Piatt's share.

Occupation prospered in the rolling bluegrass country and was handed over to Burley Parke, a once top-notch jockey, for development. The colt after coming to Arlington Park, was given a new rider in Balaski, fitted with blinkers and began to sizzle.

Boysy Takes Camden Opener

CAMDEN, N.J., July 20 (AP) — Garden State Park, the spacious racing plant that grew up "the hard way" at the edge of the South Jersey farm lands, opened its doors Saturday to New Jersey's first horse racing in fifty years, and of all the 31,682 fans in the place no one enjoyed it more than young Tom Heard, the cattleman from Refugio, Texas.

Young Tom's bargain-basement horse, the 6-year-old Boysy he picked up for $100 two years ago, won the opening day feature, the six-furlong Camden Handicap, to add $4,810 to his earnings, which now amount to more than $30,000, and paid $23.30 for each $2 bet.

Favorite Second

He came from behind at the head of the stretch and stood off the long closing drive of the favored Pine Tree Farm's Valdina Alpha to hit the wire a length in front, topping off an opening-day card that for weeks was uncertain, at best, as troubles piled up for the promoters who conceived the layout last November, two years after New Jersey legalized the sport.

And in the fact that 31,682 contributors arrived on the scene in spite of transportation facilities that were practically invisible, and tossed $569,341 into the mutuels, made the debut all the more impressive.

For since Eugene Mori, the automobile salesman from near-by Vineland, and his associates started to put this brick and wood plant together, they've tangled with such things as priorities on materials that forced them to substitute wood beams for steel; local opposition, which reached the point where the courts were asked to issue injunctions against the racing; lack of trains, busses and taxicabs to bring the fans out, particularly from Philadelphia, seven miles away, and no wire facilities to send news copy from the track.

Highway Jammed

The highway was choked with traffic for two miles up to the gates of the plant as the crowd flocked out, doubling up in automobiles, coming by motorcycle and even bicycle.

Getting their introduction to racing in their own back yard, the local punters found it tough deciding on form. As a result, only one favorite established by the cash contributors came home in front. One of the longest shots was Boysy, who was ridden by Darrell Clingman and was clocked in 1.18 1-5 over a heavy track.

Rev. Carl McIntire, pastor of the Bible Presbyterian Church of nearby Collingswood, leader of the opposition to the track, issued a statement declaring the "track is a shameful answer to Pearl Harbor . . . Those who sit in the stands must remember that materials used here would have built hundreds of tanks, planes, ships, guns and ammunition."

30-Pound Muskie Trophy of Trent

HASTINGS, July 20.— (ENS).— After a 15 minute battle in which she 'nearly lost an arm,' Mrs. Henry E. Bierwirth of Canton, Ohio, landed a 30 poung 'lunge in the Trent, a mile south of Hastings Saturday at noon.

"My wife did all the work," explained Mr. Bierwirth as he told an Examiner reported how he had to club the fish, still very much alive even after being landed in the boat.

The muskie, largest of its species recorded here in several seasons, was caught on a baby-jointed red and white pikie minnow.

Mr. and Mrs. Bierwirth are staying at 'Idyl Wylde,, operated by Arthur Fletcher of Hastings, and both hope to better their catch before they return to the States.

Into The Wheat

GALT, Ont, July 20 — (CP). — Small lakes along the Galt-Paris highway have for years been havens for mild ducks and geese, but farmers report the sanctuaries have returned evil for good. They say hundreds of wild birds are now storming wheat fields for food.

MUTUAL EXCHANGE

In 1939, 75 per cent of Cuba's exports went to the United States and 73 per cent of imports were received from that country.

8,000 Want Break

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 20 (AP)— Approximately 8,000 persons attended a mass meeting Sunday to demonstrate their wish to have Chile break relations with the Axis. Marcial Mora, former chairman of the Radical party, presided.

SPORTS - DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

With holidays just a matter of history, this column reluctantly returns to duty. In the first place, to head off a lot of useless questions, we hasten to affirm that we didn't try to catch any fish. We didn't catch any fish and we didn't lose any fish. No runs, no hits, no errors. After all, the bass and the lunge never did anything to us, so why should we devote a holiday to feuding with the finny tribe. And that being settled, now for a glance at the sporting developments of the past two weeks. Apparently the race in the big leagues and also in the local softball loops has been consistent. The Yanks are still in front in the American loop and have built up their lead into a substantial margin. The Dodgers have been breezing along at the top of the National loop and look plenty good to stay there. Here at home the Plazas are still out in the wan in the City League, the Generals have top shelf in the Girls' loop all to themselves, although somehow or other they managed to lose a game while I was away and St. Peter's continue to dominate the Catholic League.

* * * * * *

With second place at stake tonight's battle in the City League series at Riverside Park between Soldiers and Royals should be one of the best tussles in recent weeks. At present the club from the Military raining Centre holds the second spot and a win over Royals tonight would leave the Soldiers only half a game behind the leading Plazas. On the other hand the Royals can climb up on even terms with the Soldiers with a victory in tonight's argument. Either Fraser or Akers will get the call for the Royals while it is expected that Kilfoyle may toss them in for the Military Training outfit. The second-placers have dug up a star first-sacker in Thompson who is a powerhouse up there at the plate while defensively he is one of the classiest fielding first basemen to perform in the local loop. Fans will be watching his work in tonight's battle with a lot of interest in view of the boosts he has been given since his debut with the Soldiers. The game is billed to get under way sharp at 7 o'clock and should be a hummer.

* * * * * *

Military calls are likely to play an important role in the City Softball League from now on. No club is sure of its lineup and that is why it is difficult to make predictions. The league-leading Plazas for example are losing the services of peppery Don Crowe, their second baseman who has enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force and will report in a short time to begin training as a pilot. Incidentally Crowe is the second member of last winter's championship hockey squad to enlist for active service. Les Burton, another member of the rearguard is on the Pacific Coast with the Rangers. Crowe is not likely to be the last player the Plazas will lose before the schedule is completed and other clubs, except the Juveniles, are in the same boat. Soldiers for example are being hard hit by the fact that Pitcher Ken Fleming, the Peterborough boy who has been the mainstay of their heaving staff all season has been appointed to a new military job that will take him out of town and that will leave the pitching burden for the Camp club up to Irish Kilfoyle unless the Soldiers are lucky enough to catch a new pitcher from the quotas periodically reaching the camp.

Took All Fight Out

Apparently when the New York Yanks, their lead in the American League cut to three games, tackled the Boston Red Sox in a series that might have seen the Croninites tied for the top and walloped the Sox two games out of three they apparently knocked all the fight out of Boston. Ever since the Yanks have been steadily increasing their lead while the Red Hose have been skidding badly. Yesterday the Yanks grabbed off a double-header at the expense of Chicago White Sox while Cleveland grabbed both ends of a twin bill from Boston and as a result the Tribe are now only a game out of second place while the New Yorkers are sailing along in great style. In their crushing defeat of Chicago yesterday the Yanks uncorked all their old time power, defeating the Pale Hose 9 to 2 and 12 to 0. It was the ninth straight win for New York. Boston were beaten 10 to 7 in 12 innings and in the second game were shut out 4 to 0 when they could only collect three hits off the curve-ball pitching of the veteran Mel Harder.

* * * * * *

Phil Marchildon grabbed off his eleventh win of the season yesterday when the Penetang boy got credit for a victory over Detroit in the second game of a double-header with Detroit. Winning 11 games at this stage of the campaign, with a club as lowly-placed as the Athletics is quite an achievement and the Ontario-born right-hander deserves a lot of credit. He is undoubtedly one of the finest pitchers Canada has been able to contribute to the American national game. St. Louis Browns, sharing with the Yanks the honor of being the hottest teams in baseball grabbed off two games of a double-header from the Washington Senators. The club from the Capitol had won five games in a row but their winning streak was stopped with a jolt yesterday when the Brownies took both ends of the bill by 5 to 3 and 6 to 3.

* * * * * *

In the National League, the St. Louis Cards, making a valiant effort to cut down the Brooklyn Dodgers to their own size, made an excellent 8 to 5 in regulation time and taking the second 7 to 6 in eleven innings. chore of a double-header with the Bums yesterday winning the first game The double win cut the Dodgers' lead to six games. In addition to losing two ball games Brooklyn also lost the services of their star outfielder Pete Reiser who was injured when he crashed into the right-centre field wall in trying to make a catch. Lon Warneke is not having much luck back with his old club, the Cubs. Yesterday the Phillies shelled him off the mound and went on to win 8 to 5 but the Cubs rallied to take the second game. New York Giants and the Cincinnati Reds also split a double-bill. Bucky Walters picked off his 12th win of the season in the first game which the Reds took 6 to 3 but the Giants came back to take the second off Johnny VanderMeer 4 to 3.

Congratulations

Congratulations are in order to Al Marshall upon his feat at Ste. Adele, Quebec, in recapturing the Dominion 200-yard breast stroke championship in a thrilling race in which the Peterborough swimmer just managed to nose out the titleholder. Marshall, pupil of Gord Minty has done a lot to put Peterborough on the swimming map. He has twice held the Dominion breast stroke title, holds the Canadian record for the distance and is undoubtedly the country's best breast stroke swimmer. His recapture of the Canadian title is doubly gratifying as last week's races will probably be the last in which Al will compete for some time. The young Peterborough swimmer expects to begin training in the Royal Canadian Air Force in the near future. Several other members of the Y Swim Club including Len Smith are also enlisting and Instructor Gord Minty who has made a great contribution to the development of swimming here will have to start from scratch in building up a new racing squad among younger swimmers.

* * * * * *

Peterborough cricketers have taken the occasional bad beating but rarely have they been so badly beaten as on Saturday when the Royal Air Force eleven from Picton dismissed the entire Peterborough side for 14 runs and then went on to score 124 for the loss of 7 wickets. Only ten overs were required to dispose of the Peterborough-Whitaker batters and the score must be something of a record low here. A pleasing post-game event was a presentation to the veteran R. N. Stuart by members of the local club in recognition of his 80th birthady. Mr. Stuart has been associated with cricket here for many years and is a real enthusiast.

* * * * * *

Sporting Chili Con Carne: The hot weather played havoc with Peterborough golfers over the week-end. Only the 33rd degree players braved the heat.... Rollie Hemsley, just released from Cincinnati Reds finds himself with the New York Yanks....That is one of those odd breaks that ball players get once in a while....Buddy Rosar's desertion of baseball to take a police job opened the way for the veteran Helmsley to get a berth with the Yanks....Thompson Products of St. Catharines, who are leading the senior loop in that city carried entirely too much power for the Geneloo Club which met them Saturday afternoon in a game in behalf of the British War Victims' Fund. When the haze of battle had cleared away my scouts report that the St. Kitts' outfit had won to the tune of something like 26 to 1 which gives a rough picture of the proceedings. The visitors played smart ball and showed strength in every department.

The Airmen from Picton paid their second visit here on Saturday to play the third match of the season against the locals and showing better form in all points of the game gave the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club a terrible beating —the final score being P.-W. 14, R.A..F 124 for 7.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

We seem to be at a loss today for lawn bowling news, maybe the heat has got us down; anyway we have to write something so we thought we would turn back the pages of a few years and feature some of the high lights—

Do you know—

That on Wednesday, June 8, 1938, we had 48 pairs in our open doubles tournament.

That on Friday, July 8th, 1938, our ladies entered 13 rinks in the Cobourg ladies' open tournament.

That on Monday, August 1st, same year, we had our first Coronation Tournament and the party broke up at 4.30 a.m.

That on Wednesday, August 17th, the Lindsay club transferred their open doubles tournament to the Peterborough greens.

That our ladies made up fifty per cent of the entry at Warkworth ladies' tournament.

That our ladies section held an open tournament on Thursday, September 5th, with 14 Peterborough 1 Hastings.

That in 1939 the president and vice-president competition ended in a deadlock—255 each.

That nine ladies' rinks, on Friday, July 7th, played at Cobourg. It was exactly 94 degrees in the shade. What's that crack about playing in the heat?

That on Friday, July 28th, 1939, Miss L. Allan played a schedule game against Mrs. R. Hendry. She was 8 down coming home, and not only did Miss Allan's rink get the eight-end, but won the game in the extra end.

And then again this same Miss Allan a few days later established an all time high score by defeating Mrs. Abert Bottum of Bobcaygeon 50-1.

That on Friday, Sept. 15, seven ladies' rinks motored to Cobourg to play in a tournament. It was 99 degrees in the shade.

That "Yours Truly's" wife has lost seventeen out of the last eighteen games played. If any one has a better record than that, please stand up.

That its about time we jumped off the fence.

The entries in the weekly sweepstakes held at the Peterborough Golf Club Saturday afternoon wilted with the heat as only 19 braved the 90-degree temperature in the shade.

One entrant only was able to beat old man par and the heat, namely, Jack Jobe, hard hitting local lockmaker, who turned in a card with a net 68.

In second position were two of the younger players, Jack Hardill and Frank Smoke, each turning in a net 69 to tie for second low net.

2nd low net—Jack Hardill, 89-20—69.
Low gross—O. De Graw, 80.
Blind score—O. Steer 89 (winning toss)

Seven Records Established By Swimmers

STE. ADELE, Que., July 20—(CP) —Seven new Canadian records were ready to be inscribed to-day in the annals of the Dominion swimming and diving championships as Canadian and United States competitors reached home with trophies won in the two-day meet at the Ste. Adele Lodge and Country Club in this Laurentian Mountain resort.

Heading the list of record breakers were Gloria Callen, Marilyn Sahner and Lorraine Fischer, from the New York Women's Swimming Association.

Miss Callen, holder of 34 backstroke records, clipped almost two seconds off the Canadian record for the senior women's 100 yards back stroke event, and Miss Sahner knocked more than a second off the existing mark for the senior women's 200 yards free style race.

Together, the trio knocked five seconds off the record for the women's 150 yards medley relay. The record far that event also was broken by Hamilton's Margie Thompson, Irene Barr and Betty Patterson, who finished behind the Americans.

The record for the senior men's 300 yards medley relay was shattered by a Montreal team made up of Jean Marc Demers, Sgt. Aurel Thomas and Gordie Castell, They nipped more than a second off the record.

Four-fifths of a second were clipped off the mark for the senior women's 200 yards free style relay by Winnipeg's team—Kay Gordon, Grace Dick, Ethel Bieber, and Margaret Taggart.

A Canadian mark was set for the junior women's 150 yards medley swim by Margie Thompson of Hamilton, who set a time of 2:08.6. There had been no previous records of time for the race.

LEAGUE LEADERS FIND IT TOUGH GOING ON THE MAJOR CIRCUITS

Dodgers Drop 3 Out of 4 To Cardinals

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR.
Associated Press Sport Writer

It may be only a ball yard, but there's no place like home, especially to New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers, who are finding the path toward major league pennants rockiest in foreign climes.

That double triumph left the American League leaders with a winning streak of nine straight games and a record of 11 decisions in 13 starts against the invaders from the west, the same teams which took nine out of 16 games from the Yanks in their last turn on the road.

Tomorrow they open another swing through the dangerous western sector, armed with a 10-game lead which Cleveland Indians helped them compile by kicking off the second-place Boston Red Sox twice.

Cards Take Three

The Dodgers were more than holding their own on this trip until they visited St. Louis, where the Cards grabbed three games out of four, sending them on their way after yesterday's double defeat which reduced the margin between the two to half-a-dozen games.

The Yankees produced the surprise of the season when they suddenly lost one cog of their machine, picked up another, and rambled merrily on.

Catcher Buddy Rosar, elevated to a regular starting post because of Bill Dickey's shoulder injury, jumped the club and went home to Buffalo to try for a policeman's job, leaving the Yanks with only one able-bodied backstop, Rookie Ed Kearse.

But the Yanks promptly signed Rollie Hemsley, who was cup loose by Cincinnati Reds only two days before. Hemsley caught both games as the Yankees swamped the White Sox, 9 to 2, and 12 to 0, and banged five hits in eight trips to the plate.

Red Ruffing blanked the White Sox on four hits in the second game and clubbed a home run and two singles, driving in four runs.

Cards Beat Wyatt 8-5

At St. Louis, the Cardinals beat Whitlow Wyatt and the Dodgers 8-5 in the opener but it took an 11th-inning homer by Enos Slaughter to decide the nightcap, 7-6, and each team lost a valuable hand.

Pete Reiser, Dodger centre fielder and current major leaguer batting leader, crashed into the wall attempting to field Slaughter's smash inside the park. He was taken to hospital where physicians said he would be kept several days for treatment of a moderate concussion.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburg moved into fifth place ahead of Chicago Cubs by beating Boston Braves 8-7 and 9-0.

Bucky Walters pitched Cincinnati Reds to a 6-3 triumph over New York Giants in one game, but the Giants tripped the Reds and Johnny Vander Meer, 4-3, in the other.

Chicago and Philadelphia divided their doubledheader, the Phils winning the first game 8-5 and the Cubs the second 8-4.

At Boston, Cleveland Indians caught the Red Sox with two of their stars, Ted Williams and Bobby Doerr on the sidelines and won the first game 10-7 with a three run rally in the 12th inning and the second 4-0 on the three-hit pitching of Mel Harder. That enabled the Tribe to climb within one game of second place in the American League.

Browns Wins Two

St. Louis Browns snapped a five-game winning streak for Washington Senators, taking a double bill 5-3 and 6-3.

Detroit Tigers halted their six-game losing streak by downing Philadelphia Athletics 2-1 but the A's bounced back to take the nightcap 4-3.

In Saturday's National League games, Larry French's 10-game winning streak ended as the Dodgers split with the Cards who won the first 7-4; Brooklyn salvaged the nightcap 4-3. New York beat the Reds 3-1, Pittsburg shut out Boston 3-0, and Chicago nosed out the Phils 2-1.

In the American League, the Senators shut out the Browns 3-0 and the Yankees went 10 innings to defeat the White Sox 7-6. Cleveland at Boston and Detroit at Philadelphia were postponed.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Saff Writer

TORONTO, July 20 (CP) — By now, almost everyone in Canadian sport knows that something is cooking in hockey. There are three or four hockey men who could tell all. They won't, but they can't expect anyone to believe that all they have up their sleeves is an assortment of arms.

A couple of days ago Neil and Mac Colville said they would enlist with the R.C.O.C. in September. They said Alex Shibicky, their linemate with New York Rangers, would do likewise. It would take the rest of the afternoon to list all the hockey players who have enlisted in units stationed in the Ottawa district. Nobody has all afternoon to spare, so we'll consider them listed.

You don't have to wear a hunting hat and smoke a calabash pipe to know that something's going on. The list of alternatives is short. We'll skip lightly over this first possibility: that it could be a coincidence. So were a lot of Mr. Grimm's fairy tales.

Possibility No. 2: That one or more National Hockey League clubs will take their franchises to Ottawa next Winter with the league operating on a reduced schedule to allow soldier-players to get enough time off from training to take part.

Possibility No. 3: A terrifically strong Active Service League in the Ottawa district. Cornwall could be included in this possibility, and perhaps Kingston. If this happens, it doesn't matter much what happens to the National League. It will become a minor league in prestige at least, even if it operates.

No matter what the motive behind making Ottawa a hockey mecca, it probably will work for the betterment of sport. It is quite likely that army authorities know now what the setup will be. It seems almost impossible that they wouldn't investigate the strange circumstance that prompts these four professional hockey players resident in Edmonton—Neil and Mac Colville, Jack McGill, Ken Reardon—to travel more than halfway across the continent to enlist. There obviously is more to a move like that than has been announced. To maintain the high moral standard of service sport, the army would have to investigate.

Since we have assumed this hockey migration has been approved by military authorities, then we must believe it is strictly on the up and up. And if it is that way, we must wonder why the public hasn't been let in on the plans. It would take the fine edge off something that that otherwise may cause considerable gossip if someone would step up and explain all.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press.

'Dazzy' Vance, Brooklyn speed ball ace, established a 20th century major league strikeout record by fanning 17 St. Louis Cardinal players in a 10 inning game, 17 years ago to-day The pervious mark of 16 strikeouts in one game was held jointly by Jim Galde of St. Louis Browns (1904) and Rube Waddell (1908) Dizzy Dean, pitching for St. Louis Cards, equalled the 17 strikeout mark in 1933 and young Bob Feller of Cleveland Indians, also equalled it in 1936.

Newark Takes Two Games

By The Associated Press.

Newark's Bears are the living proof that you can't keep a good team down.

Once again they are leading the International League and this time by the impressive margin of six games after a mid-season slump that for a day saw them in second place.

The club swept yesterday's twin bill from Montreal to compile a record of eight triumphs in its last 10 games.

A triple play and some good relief pitching by Al Gerheasuer brought the Bears a 6-2 triumph in the openr. Tommy Byrne started for Newark and received credit for his 12th triumph although he lasted only six innings.

Newarks two plages, Joe and Phil, combined to blank the Royals in the second game, 4-0. Joe started and gave up only two hits in six frames but walked seven and Phil rushed to his rescue in the final inning.

Toronto climbed over the sliding Royals into third place by splitting a bargain attraction with Jersey City Giants, losing the opener 7-2, and winning the nightcap 4-1.

Rochester's Red Wings, lusty cellar occupants, measured Syracuse Chiefs twice, 13-2 and 3-2, with Ira Hutchinson registering his ninth victory over the year in the opener.

Buffalo also won a pair, dropping Baltimore 9-8 and 4-2. Home runs by Mike Rocco and Ed Kobesky in the ninth frame of the opener provided the Bisons with that victory.

Toronto paved the way for Sunday's advance by sweeping a double-header from the Royals Saturday, 7-4 and 2-0. Baltimore defeated Jersey City 4-2, Rochester turned back Buffalo 8-2 and in a night game Newark won 11-6 over Syracuse.

JERSEY CITY, N., July 20—Emmett O'Neill, recently acquired by the Maple Leafs on option from Louisville of the American Association, pitched brilliantly in his debut with Toronto at Roosevelt Stadium here yesterday to give the club an even split in its twin-bill with Jersey City.

O'Neill, despite sweltering weather, restricted the Little Giants to six widely scattered hits and signalized his formal bow in the International League with a 4 to 1 victory over the Shaughnessy circuit's runners-up.

The newcomer's showing saved the Leafs from a tumble, for in the first game Nick Strincevich, Paul Mulach and Harry Shuman were reached for twelve assorted safeties as the Jerseys rolled up a 7 to 3 win.

While in Toronto on Saturday three mighty midgets made life pretty miserable for Clyde Sukeforth and his Montreal Royals, as they paced Toronto Maple Leafs to a double victor over the Quebec entry for a clean-sweep of a three-game series. Leafs won the first game, 7-4, took the seven-inning nightcap 2-0.

Lyn Myers, Lee Handley and Bill Brandt, who lack nothing but stature, were the big guys for Burleigh. Myers hammered out three straight hits in the first game to drive in three runs; Handley's single with the bases loaded and two out in the sixth inning of the second game, drove in the only runs of the contest. Brandt held the Montrealers to four scattered hits for his thirteenth triumph and second shut-out of the season.

A crowd of 7,200 (5,798 league paid) watched Toronto play errorless ball throughout the sixteen innings of action. Harry Shuman, who started the opener, departed under pressure in the fifth, after hitting a wild streak. Joe Sullivan came to the rescue, earned his fifth victory, but needed a neat relief job from Bob Bowman to protect his win.

Ripple Comes Through.

The Leafs did all their scoring in the nightcap at the expense of Rube Fischer, who started after two were out. Both Leip and Whitehead had gone out in the first inning when Wryostek walked Colman singled, Russell doubled home one run, and Ripple singled home a pair.

The other Maple Leaf marker, unearned, came in the fourth, again with two out. After Ripple had gone out, Myers was safe on Westfall's error, Feiderman walked and, after O'Neill fanned, Leip singled over second.

The Leafs collected only four hits off Fischer and Sal Maglie, who hurled the last two innings, but they combined them judiciously with passes and misplays to gain their split for the day's toil.

Strincevinch and Mulach bore the brunt of the Jersey's attack in the day's first game. Nick lasted only until the third inning, by which time the Jerseys had built up a four-run advantage. Mulach was reached for the other runs in the fifth. Harry Shuman, who mopped up, was unscored upon.

Nick Pounded Hard.

Strincevich was reached for a tainted run in the first inning but the three which crossed the plate in the third were the result of four resounding drives which sent Nick to the showers.

That Strincevich was in for rough going was evident in the opening inning when Rucker doubled and Orengo singled. But Nick might have escaped without a score but for a misplay later in the inning. After Reyes had fouled out Leip made a spectacular catch of Gordon's liner, but his throw to first in an attempt to double up Orengo was wide of its mark, and Rucker scored.

Held For Murder

This 15-year-old child bride, Mrs. Lily Parsons, shown here with her husband, Walter, also 15 years old, as she waited for a preliminary hearing for the murder of Sollas Redmond, 26, whom it is alleged she killed during a moonshining feud in the hills of Jasper, Tenn. While waiting in her cell for the trial she had to promise she'd wear shoes when she appeared in front of the officials who will preside at the trial. Held with her were her husband and her mother in-law

Havelock Students Pass In First Aid

HAVELOCK, July 20 (ENS)—The high school principal, R. W. Goheen has received the certificates of the successful candidates in the First Aid examinations held in May. The course was sponsored by St. John's Ambulance Association and Dr. A. S. Thompson conducted the examinations.

Only three students who wrote the examinations failed to obtain standing. Six others of the class were unable to try the exams, as they went out on farm service, before the services of an examining physician could be obtained.

Voucher Certificate — For those who previously passed the Senior First Aid examinations: Pass mark 78: Verna Buchanan, D. C. Drinkwalter and R. W. Goheen.

Probe Ottawa Area

OTTAWA, July 20 — (CP). — Royal Canadian Mounted Police said today they had invetigated a number of reports that Johannes Bodenstein, escaped civilian internee, had been seen in Ottawa district but were unable to confirm whether they were correct.

"We have been checking such reports from between Ottawa and Pembroke," said a spokesman, "but we don't know whether actually it was Bodenstein who was seen." He expressed belief that in most instances it was a case of mistaken 'dentity.

New Vichy Deal

TOKYO (from Japanese broadcasts, July 20—(AP).—Japan and French Indo-China signed a new economic agreement today at Saigon covering the exchange of goods between the two countries, the Board of Information announced.

Negotiations for the treaty have been under way since the start of the year between the Japanese Ambassador to Indio-China, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, and Admiral Jean Decoux, Governor General of Indo-China. The Board of Information described the agreement as a "contribution toward the establishment of a sphere of greater East-Asian co-prosperity."

HONOR MALTA'S HEROES

LONDON—(CP).—Gen. Viscount Gort, new Governor and Commander-in-Chief of Malta ,and Lt.-Gen. Sir William Dobbie, his predecessor ,have been made Knights of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, for centuries linked with Malta.

Jap Ship Claims

Tokyo, (from Japanese broadcasts), July 20—(AP)

IMPERIAL headquarters asserted today that Japanese submarines operating in the West Indian Ocean and South African waters had sunk 25 enemy vessels totalling 200,000 tons between the latter part of May and the early part of July.

At the same time, it was claimed that the Japanese Navy had sunk or damaged 366 enemy vessels, totalling 1,935,000 tons, from December 7 to July 10.

Of this number, headquarters reported, 194 ships were sunk or damaged by Japanese planes, 99 by submarines and 73 by warships.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

BELLEVILLE PRICES

Red raspberries sold at 30 cents a quart on the Belleville market Saturday. New potatoes sold at 60 cents a peck. Butter was 40 cents.

LOSS BY LIGHNING

Damage by lightning in the weekend storms included a calf killed on George Whitfield's farm. A silo on Harry Young's farm in the same area was also damaged.

AIRMEN GRADUATE

V. T. Perdue of Peterborough and C. L. Maunder of Lindsay were amongst the airmen from Canada and Great Britain who graduated on Saturday from No. 6 Royal Canadian Air Force Bombing and Gunnery School at Mountain View.

RECEIVES HIS BADGE

RUNS INTO AUTOMOBILE

Kenneth Thompson, Hunter St., escaped without much injury when he ran into the rear of a passing automobile driving by William Withers, Downer's Corners. The boy was knocked down but not badly hurt.

WILL BE EXAMINED

A North Monaghan resident faced two charges in police court this morning, one of beating his wife and the other of being mentally ill. At the suggestion of the crown the cases were adjourned for a week. In the meantime the accused will be examined by two doctors.

AIR OBSERVER

Gordon Harle, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Harle, 336 Rubidge street, graduated as an Air Observer, Saturday, at Rivers, Man., when he was among the group receiving the the first award of air observer badges from Capt. A. Lewis, O.C. of the school. He received his training at Belleville, Dafoe, Prince Albert, Sask., and Rivers, Manitoba.

CHILD KNOCKED DOWN

Three-year-old Wayne Crowe, 406½ Sheridan street, received a cut on his ear and a bruise on his elbow when he ran out into Hunter street just as W. J. Armstrong, 483 Donegal street, was driving his automobile east and was knocked down. The youngster was not seriously hurt.

STARLINGS MISSING

Starlings have been absent from the accustomed city habitat in recent weeks apparently congregating in flock for their usual midsummer flights to country feeding grounds. These birds and their equally commonplace fellows, the sparrows, are steadily increasing in numbers, especially in the urban scene, and may be the cause of the disappearance of other birds that would be more welcome.

TWO INJURED IN FALLS.

Two local residents, Edward Heffernan, 266 Simcoe street, and Miss May Irwin, 403 London street, were injured Saturday in falls on the street. Heffernan sustained a fractured leg and Miss Irwin suffered a fracture of her hip.

NEW JOB.

Lieut. Don Weese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryden Weese, 560 Harvey Street, and formerly a member of the Examiner advertising staff, has been sent from Prince George to Terrace, B.C. to take a signal course and will be attached to the Prince of Wales Rangers as signal officer.

YOUNGSTERS ARE CHARGED.

Two fourteen year old boys were charged before Magistrate E. A. Gee in juvenile court this morning with the theft of a motor boat belonging to C. M. Rishor. The charges were the aftermath of an episode in which Rishor's boat was taken on a joy ride down the Otonabee as far as Birdsall's One of the youngsters pleaded guilty and was given a year's suspended sentence. The other entered a plea of not guilty and the case was adjourned until Saturday.

NICE CATCH

Douglas Massey of Orillia, who is holidaying at Rice Lake, had one of the biggest thrills of his life, Sunday, when he caught himself a nice 10-pound muskie. Douglas is only about sixteen years old and he succeeded in landing his fish without any help from Mr. and Mrs. K. Lowther who were in the boat with him. Early today, the fish was packed and shipped home for his admiring family to enjoy. The young fisherman was using a Spooks plug and the fish took a real good hold of the bait and was properly hooked.

Bowmanville Man Instantly Killed

KENDAL, Ont., July 20.—(CP).—Laurence Jacobs, 13, of Bowmanville, was killed instantly near this Durham county village Sunday when a car driven by Howard Hillman, also of Bowmanville, overturned in a deep gully. Jacobs was riding on the running board. Hallman is held on a charge of drunk driving.

Poles Celebrate

WINNIPEG, July 20 — (CP). — Poles, Czechs, Lithuanians and Ruthenians held a ceremony at the Cenotaph on Memorial Boulevard yesterday to commemorate the 532nd anniversary of the battle of Grunwald in which the German Knights of the Cross were defeated. More than 200 representatives of the Slavonic races in Winnipeg attended the ceremony.

"NOW IS THE TIME TO

PAY OFF YOUR DEBTS

Here's how Household can help you clean up your old bills on a monthly payment plan

DO YOU NEED some extra cash? Would you like to pay off old bills as part of your wartime financial program? This advertisement tells about a simple plan which is helping many men and women with their present-day money problems.

Repay out of income

Suppose you need $100 for an emergency or to pay off debts. You get the money in a quick, simple transaction. Then you may repay on a regular monthly payment plan. At the end of a definite time, you are entirely in the clear. The payment plan thus becomes a personal debt-paying program.

The cost of this service is reasonable. Suppose you borrow $100 and repay in six monthly instalments of $17.85 each, a total of $107.10. The cost of your loan is just $7.10. A $50 loan, repaid in six monthly instalments of $8.93 each, a total of $53.58, costs only $3.58.

You need no endorsers or guarantors to borrow at Household. And at no time do we question friends or relatives about your credit. The principal requirement for getting a loan is a steady position or other source of income. We consider character and regular income far more important than the value of your security. You can get your loan quickly—usually in twenty-four hours or even sooner.

Loans for many purposes

People borrow at Household to pay a doctor or dentist bill, general expenses, insurance, mortgage payments, down payments on homes, old store bills, car repairs, a training course, tools, moving expenses, coal for winter—and for expenses of many other kinds.

You may repay your loan on almost any plan you wish. The table shows how loans may be repaid in 2 to 15 payments. The sooner you repay, the less your loan costs. Look in the table now for the loan you need. See how you may repay out of income.

If you can make good use of a loan, see us at once. Or just phone and tell us how much you need.

Rangers Leave For Camp With Battery

The heavy thud of marching feet rang out with the Regimental March Past as about four hundred men of the 4th Field Battery and the Prince of Wales Rangers, 2nd Battalion, marched down George street from the Armouries to the C.P.R. station early Sunday morning for their yearly 15 days at camp at the Connaught Ranges, twenty-one miles from Ottawa.

The men were under the command of Lt.-Col. M. H. Park and they swung smartly down the street in spite of being dressed in their heavy winter uniforms and carrying their full kit, in the blistering heat. The Prince of Wales Rangers Bugle Band under the direction of Sgt. Harold Barton, accompanied the boys to camp.

This is part of the regular training that every reserve unit undergoes. Besides the fifteen full days at camp, they must put in ten weekends at a camp, and train two nights a week. While at the Connaught Ranges, the men will receive particular training in range practice, along with the regular rifle and foot drill and for the few interested, there will be some signal training.

Not all of those who went will be staying the full two weeks as they cannot be spared from their work for that length of time. Some of those who went down Sunday will be returning in a week, and others will not be going until next Sunday for their week.

Peterboro Boys Graduate As Air Gunners

Three Peterborough boys graduated as air gunners from Poulson, Manitoba, last week, after being in the Air Force for nearly a year. They are P.O. Fred Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Watson, 299 Lake street, P.O. Earl Moorhead, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Moorhead, 621 George street, and the third member of the trio is Sgt. Keith Wood, of 368 Water street.

After a six-months course at the air school in Guelph, the boys graduated in June as wireless operators, which P.O. Fred Watson described as their main business. Then then proceeded to Poulson Airport, which is about ten miles from Daulphin, Man., for their gunning and bombing training The course at Guelph lasted 24 weeks and that at Poulson, 4 weeks. As soon as their leave is up the three boys have been posted to Nova Scotia for operational training, where they expect to be stationed for some weeks.

All three are graduates of the Peterborough Collegiate and are well known figures to the young people around town. Before enlisting they were very much interested in the sport activities of the community.

Call Sent Out For 2,500 Men

"We are going to need all the men we can get in the next two weeks, for the force must have 2,500 men more, and we'll take them, young or old, and will be particularly glad of any veterans that we can get hold of," Lt. G. P. Brook, Area Recruiting Officer, A.S.F., Ottawa, replacing Major V. Eastwood, at camp, told the Examiner this morning.

Because of a large number who have just gone overseas, the reserve forces have been badly depleted and they want as many recruits as they can get and as soon as they can get them. Lt. Brook said that men for any branch of the service would be welcome. This is a fine opportunity for those who are unable to go overseas to contribute something to a vitally important cause and with only two weeks to go to meet this allocation there is no time to be wasted.

The Recruiting Office at the Armouries will be open from 9 to 12 in the morning from 2 to 5 in the afternoon and from 8 to 11 in the evening. The Recruiting Office telephone number is 9831, and Lt. Brook will be glad to answer any queries regarding enlistment.

Obituary

ERNEST VICTOR WARD

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Ward, he was born in Peterborough and had lived here all his life, and was a member of Knox United church.

Surviving him are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elden Ward, a sister Helen of Peterborough, and a brother, Walter, of the R.C.N.V.R.

The funeral will take place Tuesday at 2.30 p.m. from the Nesbitt Funeral Home 347 Charlotte street, with the Rev. F. W. Craiak and the Rev. Wm MacDonald officiating at the service. Interment will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Former Merchant Dies

Harry James Boyle, a well-known Peterborough grocer, died suddenly Sunday, after a fishing trip with his friend, James W. Conway. He was an active member of the Kiwanis Club for a number of years and had worked in various capacities on several newspapers. He was a veteran of the last war. He saw service in Belgium and France until he was wounded in 1917 at the Somme.

Former Grocer H. J. Boyle Dies Suddenly

The very sudden death Sunday of Harry James Boyle, 572 Charlotte street, after a day outdoors, was a great shock to his many friends in this district. Although born in Almonte, he had lived in Peterborough since 1918.

The late Mr. Boyle had been out fishing with his friend, James W. Conway, 60 Hunter street E., and had exposed himself to the sun a good deal. When they returned to Conway's home between four and five o'clock, Boyle was taken ill, with sudden attacks of Nausea. After a time he appeared to recover and the Conway's left him alone for a short time and when they returned at 6.30 they found him dead in the bathroom.

An active member of the newspaper world for quite a while, Harry Boyle was an operator on the Almonte Gazette, and then foreman of the Gazette Office. He was advertising solicitor for the Galt Reporter from 1911 to 1913, and in 1919 after his return from overseas he was a linotype operator on the Peterborough Examiner for a short time and then in the same year he started up his own grocery store. The Haboco chain of stores grew out of his first store.

He was an active member of the Kiwanis Club for many years and was elected president in 1932, and served on the executive in 1927 and was treasurer in 1928. He became a director in 1933, and at all times was a very faithful and interested worker.

The late Mr. Boyle was a member of the 73rd Canadian Black Watch and also of the Canadian Legion. During the last war he served in Belgium and France and was wounded November 1, 1916, on the Somme. He was discharged in 1917.

Left to mourn his loss are his wife, the former Dorothy Mather, four daughters, Dorothy, Marjorie, Betty and Ann, his mother Mrs. William Boyle, and also two sisters, Mrs. McNabb of Arizona, Mrs. H. T. Parker of Toronto, and two brothers, H. J. Boyle of Toronto and C. A. Boyle of Lindsay.

He operated a grocery business for a number of years and recently had been travelling for Elliott's Stationery Company. The late Mr. Boyle was a member of George Street United church and at one time served as secretary and treasurer of the Men's organization.

The funeral will be held from the Comstock Funeral home with the Rev. J. H Sutcliffe officiating. Interment will be made in Little Lake cemetery. Detailed announcements of the funeral will be given later.

2 Die At Bomb School

MOSSBANK, Sask., July 20—(CP)—Two Royal Canadian Air Force men were killed Sunday when their plane crashed during a training flight at the bombing and gunnery school here. The fliers' names were withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

A DRINK PLEASE

There are some things that a fellow just can't do in hot weather, and this seemed to be the opinion of a big St. Bernard dog that came along Stewart street, between Hunter and Simcoe, Sunday. Two men were walking along with the dog and each had hold of a rope from his collar. About half way down the block the dog wilted beneath the heat and lay down in a very stubborn attitude on the sidewalk. Failing to budge him, the two men finally sat down on the curb along side of him, and waited. After a short time some of the neighbors took pity on the trio and brought out a tin of water. The animal took a nice long drink and slowly arose and the three proceeded along their way majestically.—J.S.

Schoolmate of the late Sir Joseph Flavelle in the sixties preceding Confederation, Alexander Locke of Highgate in Kent county recalled memories of the Peterborough of his boyhood in conversation with the Examiner this morning.

"As boys we called him Curly Joe because his hair was in golden ringlets down to his shoulder. His mother was the teacher of our class for a time at the old school on Murray street opposite Victoria Park. And his sister, Peggy, helped in the teaching. He was just one of our group of boys, nothing about him that would suggest in the least that some day he would be knighted."

84 Years Old

Mr. Locke is now eighty-four years old, in good health, bright and alert and interested in the general affairs of the day. With the exception of one brief occasion of passing through Peterborough, this has been his first visit in more than seventy years. He was born in Cavan township and came with his parents "as a baby in arms" into the town.

While he was still a school boy his father died in a smallpox epidemic and was buried in Little Lake Cemetery. His mother then carried on a millinery business on the west side of George street on the site of Bethany Tabernacle. Contracting cancer in a minor accident at the old pump behind the millinery shop, the mother decided to return to Cavanville for the benefit of the care of a doctor whom she had known in that village.

"I knew it was in 1867 that mother decided to leave Peterborough, because I clearly remember that it was in 1866 that R. D. Rogers, a miller in Ashburnham, led his local troops away to Queenstown Heights to take part in preventing the Fenian Raids. His mill on the east bank of the river has disappeared."

"The goodness of God" was Mr. Locke's grateful acknowledgment of the good health of his old age and the acuteness of his faculties. For thirty years he carried on missionary work at Port Said, at the eastern end of the Suez Canal, and has been retired for the last twenty-five years.

"I began that work in 1887 and returned in 1917. I had gone out to India with the first Salvation Army contingent, and then I parted company from the Army, and with their blessing. At Port Said, my wife, whom I had married in England, and I decided to undertake religious work in Port Said without any support from any society. Our faith was rewarded by the fact that when we were finished and going away from there we left a mission property worth $28,000."

Played In Cedar Swamp

Mr. Locke considers himself one of the few remaining boys of Peterborough who played in the cedar swamp on the south side of Charlotte street and along Helm's Creek.

I feel certain there was no King street at that time. At any rate I have no recollection of it. And we used to stand on the Dickson dam, at the foot of London street, and watch the big booms of square timber going down the slide, and the lumber men at work.

William Arnott was the first chief constable. He was the only policeman, and was not even given a uniform. He was succeeded by a tailor named Johnston, the first policeman in Peterborough to wear brass buttons. He had a tailor shop somewhere up on Water street.

The Caisse House, on the west side of George street, about where the Bank of Nova Scotia stands, was the main hotel in those days. I well remember that they had a parrot, and when the bus was arriving or leaving from the station, the parrot would call out—"All aboard." I wonder how many of the people living here today can recall that little detail of George street in the sixties? The Hamilton House was where the Bank of Commerce is situated, and the Croft House was at the opposite corner, where the Crown building is located. The Huffman House was at the southeast corner of Brock and George streets, and on the west side of George street, south of Brock was the Louie McGregor tavern with its second floor balcony built on wooden pillars rising up from the sidewalk.

The post office was down Water street about where Mr. Strickland's law office is now. Yelland's carriage shop was opposite my mother's place, on the east side of George, and around the corner on Brock street was the Tobias Fitzgerald carriage shop. Minister Beck was the rector of St. John's Church where I went to Sunday School. Bob White drove the Caisse House bus to and from the station; Bruce Ferguson was the first conductor of the train to Millbrook; and Joe Buller was the first stationmaster and freight man at the G.T.R.

Starting to Build Canoes

The English boys were just getting started with their canoe and woodworking factory on Charlotte street. I recall another figure from those days, Betsy Giles, a gardener, who sat as a queen among her vegetables on the market square. The old market building and its belfry faced on Water street, and men who sold meat there were Winch, Webber and Howden. There were others I can't remember.

Here are some more names: James Best was a druggist; James Stevenson a hardware man; Tom Lannin also hardware and tinware; Fred Lemay confectionery; Thomas Menzies books and stationery; Kemp and Coulter, druggists.

William Croft's hotel was at first down Hunter street, near the river, and on the east side, the Ashburnham side, was Ben Reynolds' whiskey bar.

Mr. Locke said that the home of his parents was on the north side of Hunter street, next to the St. John Church property, and west of Sheridan street. The old building vanished long ago.

"Peterborough was a 'wet town' in those days, and it is probably no news that Charlotte street had such a reputation that it was called 'hell street'. Another recollection—a circus came to Petebrorough one time, and there was an old bridge over the river at Hunter street that wasn't considered any too safe. Well, I saw the elephants, as every small boy through all the ages has seen in his own way, when they got to the bridge they wouldn't cross it, and had to be led down to the water and they waded and swam across. Instinct may have been warning them not to take a chance on the bridge.

Old Names Recalled

Some other names from that time: Bob Hamilton, son of Peter Hamilton who kept a foundry on the east side of George street where the Hood and Cummings garage is now; he was one of the boys in my class at school; Fred Palmer another, the May boys and John and George Jay.

There wasn't much of Peterborough south of Charlotte street, and I recall that McDonnel street was just coming into use back in those sixties."

Mr. Locke is leaving Peterborough this evening, and will spend several days with two sons in Oshawa and Toronto, before returning to his home.

42 Years In Korea Is Proud Record Of Father Of Peterborough's MOH

After 42½ years of hard work in the Orient, 82-year-old Dr. O. R. Avison, M.D., L.LD., founder of modern medicine in Korea, still chuckles over some of his hair-raising adventures that sound like something from Grimm's Fairy Tales. One in particular that he remembers well is the night in 1895, while he was acting as court physician to King Yi, he held the sleeping monarch in his arms while angry supporters of the Queen attacked the walled palace in an effort to avenge her death.

Not only has Dr. Avison been honored by Korea, but he is the only man to be awarded 2 honorary degrees by the University of Toronto, those of M.D. and L.LD. He has also received an L.LD. degree from the College of Wooster, Ohio. Through whatever country he passes he runs across old pupils and fellow workers.

Going to Korea as the medical missionary representing the American Presbyterian Church, Dr. Avison's vision and determination enabled him to found and build up modern medicine in Korea. He and Mrs. Avison went to Korea in 1893, and when he saw the conditions prevailing in that country, where the population of 12,000,000 was rapidly being killed off because of contagious diseases, and where the death rate of children was 40 to 50 per cent., he decided to do something about it.

At the best of times there were very few foreign doctors, and in 1893 no Koreans. His idea was to train Koreans to spread the medical gospel and out of this has grown the magnificent Severance Union Medical College in Seoul, the capital city, with its modern 200-bed hospital and training school for nurses, and hundreds of graduate medical workers.

The difficulties facing Dr. Avison and his associates were almost insurmountable, and when asked how he was able to keep going in the face of such tremendous odds, the doctor chuckled and said that only because he was a fool, he had shut his eyes to the difficulties and kept thinking of the goal he hoped to reach, otherwise he said he would have packed his suitcase and returned to America in a hurry.

Korean Vocabulary Needed

Before he could begin to teach medicine it was necessary to have medical works in the Korean language, and Dr. Avison knew not a word. This meant not only learning the Korean language, but necessitated creating a Korean medical vocabulary. Working with his associates, Dr. H. G. Underwood and his wife and Dr. Homer B. Hulbert, to whom he owes so much, Dr. Avison found a young student in a mission school who could speak English and Korean and who could do the Chinese written characters of the Korean language.

Starting out with Gray's Anatomy and using the same system with other medical books, they formulat-

Douro Lineman Killed By Electric Shock

John Henry Leahy, well known resident of Douro Township was electrocuted on Saturday afternoon while engaged in stringing a rural telephone line near Coboconk when the wire he was handling came into contact with a power line. Two other men, one of them Bert Leahy, a brother of the dead man, had their hands badly burned in the accident.

The men were employed by Bruce Parker of Peterborough in the construction of a telephone line. The three were pulling at a coil of wire when suddenly one end flew up into the air and fell across a power line. John Leahy was in front of the other two and took the full force of the shock, receiving fatal injuries. The others escaped with burns on their hands.

The late John Leahy was born in Douro Township at the Five Corners, and had lived all his life there. One brother Frank Leahy is a former Reeve of the township.

Thieves Loot Tobacco Shop

Gaining entrance by forcing a rear door, burglars ransacked the tobacconist store of V. W. Fisk, early on Sunday morning, and got away with a large amount of merchandise and $14.25 in cash.

Among the goods stolen were a number of cartons of cigarettes, a quantity of tobacco, a number of leather wallets, and other articles.

Judgment Reserved,

A plea by W. J. Arthur Fair, defence cocnsel, that the Crown had failed to produce definite evidence that the accused had been driving a car at the time of the accident, served to cause Magistrate E. A. Gee to reserve judgment in a charge of drunken driving against Edgar Young 18, of Young's Point. The charge followed a recent accident in which two parked cars were damaged when a third automobile smashed into them.

Mr. Fair argued that the only evidence that Young had been driving this machine at the time of the accident was an admission alleged to have been made by him to the police afterward. Mr. Fair contended that this admission could not be accepted because the officers who investigated the accident had sworn that the accused was very drunk, and therefore he maintained his statement should not be given any weight.

Constables John Moyes and John Morrow, who had been called to the scene of the crash, said that Young was not there when they arrived, but returned shortly afterward. They said that the accused was very drunk. He was taken to the office of Dr. O'Brien far treatment and admitted to them that he had been driving the car at the time of the accident.

Mr. Fair did not call any defence but argued that the case should be dismissed because the Crown, he said, had failed to show beyond a doubt that Young had been driving.

Magistrate E. A. Gee announced that he would have the evidence transcribed and would reserve pudgment until August 5.

War 25 Years Ago

(By The Canadian Press)

JULY 20, 1917.—Russians retreated before sharp German counter-attacks in Galicia. War Minister A. F. Kerensky took on duties of Russian Premier as new disorders broke out among troops. Germans were repulsed at Craonne on Western Front.

Hit-Run Driver Leaves Damage Trail

Police were today looking for the driver of a hit-and-run car which Sunday smashed into two parked cars near Hunter and Elm streets.

The machine, driving north on Park street, crashed into the rear of an automobile owned by Elgin R. Hubble, 462 Park street, parked on the east side of Park street. Hubble's car was pushed forward and collided with another parked automobile, owned by Herbert N. Colmer, 464 Park street.

All three cars were damaged in the accident. According to eye-witnesses the driver of the north bound car did not remain at the scene and up to noon today he had not reported to the police department.

C.G.E. Group Gives Aid To War Victims

It is always a cheering call when the secretary of the Peterborough and District War Victim's Fund receives a message to g oto the Canadian General Electric Co., Ltd.

On Saturday morning on answering such a call, it was to find that the Refrigerator-Cabinet Department of which C. G. Gertley is foreman had gathered together another donation for the fund, which represents a straight cash donation by passing a box around on Saturday mornings, this marking their sixth contribution. The amount of $7.83 was handed over by John Adams, an employee of that department. Their holding fast to the ideal of helping and continuing to help in the hour of need for the victims of air raids over Britain is very much appreciated.

This donation placed the fund on the last $100.00 needed to reach the next thousand dollar mark.

A second donation from employees in another department of this same plant came in the afternoon, when the 10th donation of $5.00 was handed in by Miss A. McCracken which has always appeared under the name of "Odd Nickels from Induction Motor Test, C.G.E. Miss McCracken is very much the spark plug behind the effort put forth for this fund from this group which, by the way, is perhaps the smallest of its kind in number of employees, making their $50.00 to date a very creditable showing indeed.

The radio appeal by Ernest Nickel, concert whistler, last Wednesday night continues to be of help to the fund, when a $10 donation was given by L.E.H., who expressly stated it was to be credited to that. The special appeal made to the school children of the district through a letter to their teachers prior to the school closing for the summer recess has again borne fruit, with a donation of $3.30 from the pupil of S.S. No. 11 Emily. Miss Alfreda Mulligan of R.R. No. 4, Peterborough is the teacher to whom credit goes for inspiring leadership to the children in this particular, and they too must have some satisfaction that some of their holiday time has been placed to good use in helping others. One nice personal donation of $5.00 was handed in by G. A. Renwick of Westwood, whose action shows a practical kindly interest also in the welfare of those who have suffered through enemy action over Britain.

BELLEVILLE PRICES

Red raspberries sold at 30 cents a quart on the Belleville market Saturday. New potatoes sold at 60 cents a peck. Butter was 40 cents.

LOSS BY LIGHNING

Damage by lightning in the weekend storms included a calf killed on George Whitfield's farm. A silo on Harry Young's farm in the same area was also damaged.

AIRMEN GRADUATE

V. T. Perdue of Peterborough and C. L. Maunder of Lindsay were amongst the airmen from Canada and Great Britain who graduated on Saturday from No. 6 Royal Canadian Air Force Bombing and Gunnery School at Mountain View.

RECEIVES HIS BADGE

RUNS INTO AUTOMOBILE

Kenneth Thompson, Hunter St., escaped without much injury when he ran into the rear of a passing automobile driving by William Withers, Downer's Corners. The boy was knocked down but not badly hurt.

WILL BE EXAMINED

A North Monaghan resident faced two charges in police court this morning, one of beating his wife and the other of being mentally ill. At the suggestion of the crown the cases were adjourned for a week. In the meantime the accused will be examined by two doctors.

AIR OBSERVER

Gordon Harle, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Harle, 336 Rubidge street, graduated as an Air Observer, Saturday, at Rivers, Man., when he was among the group receiving the the first award of air observer badges from Capt. A. Lewis, O.C. of the school. He received his training at Belleville, Dafoe, Prince Albert, Sask., and Rivers, Manitoba.

CHILD KNOCKED DOWN

Three-year-old Wayne Crowe, 406½ Sheridan street, received a cut on his ear and a bruise on his elbow when he ran out into Hunter street just as W. J. Armstrong, 463 Donegal street, was driving his automobile east and was knocked down. The youngster was not seriously hurt.

STARLINGS MISSING

Starlings have been absent from the accustomed city habitat in recent weeks apparently congregating in flock for their usual midsummer flights to country feeding grounds. These birds and their equally commonplace fellows, the sparrows, are steadily increasing in numbers, especially in the urban scene, and may be the cause of the disappearance of other birds that would be more welcome.

TWO INJURED IN FALLS.

Two local residents, Edward Heffernan, 266 Simcoe street, and Miss May Irwin, 403 London street, were injured Saturday in falls on the street. Heffernan sustained a fractured leg and Miss Irwin suffered a fracture of her hip.

NEW JOB.

Lieut. Don Weese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryden Weese, 560 Harvey Street, and formerly a member of the Examiner advertising staff, has been sent from Prince George to Terrace, B.C. to take a signal course and will be attached to the Prince of Wales Rangers as signal officer.

YOUNGSTERS ARE CHARGED.

Two fourteen year old boys were charged before Magistrate E. A. Gee in juvenile court this morning with the theft of a motor boat belonging to C. M. Rishor. The charges were the aftermath of an episode in which Rishor's boat was taken on a joy ride down the Otonabee as far as Birdsall's One of the youngsters pleaded guilty and was given a year's suspended sentence. The other entered a plea of not guilty and the case was adjourned until Saturday.

NICE CATCH

Douglas Massey of Orillia, who is holidaying at Rice Lake, had one of the biggest thrills of his life, Sunday, when he caught himself a nice 10-pound muskie. Douglas is only about sixteen years old and he succeeded in landing his fish without any help from Mr. and Mrs. K. Lowther who were in the boat with him. Early today, the fish was packed and shipped home for his admiring family to enjoy. The young fisherman was using a Spooks plug and the fish took a real good hold of the bait and was properly hooked.

Bowmanville Man Instantly Killed

KENDAL, Ont., July 20.—(CP).—Laurence Jacobs, 13, of Bowmanville, was killed instantly near this Durham county village Sunday when a car driven by Howard Hillman, also of Bowmanville, overturned in a deep gully. Jacobs was riding on the running board. Hallman is held on a charge of drunk driving.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAY OFF YOUR DEBTS

Do YOU NEED some extra cash? Would you like to pay off old bills as part of your wartime financial program? This advertisement tells about a simple plan which is helping many men and women with their present-day money problems.

Repay out of income

Suppose you need $100 for an emergency or to pay off debts. You get the money in a quick, simple transaction. Then you may repay on a regular monthly payment plan. At the end of a definite time, you are entirely in the clear. The payment plan thus becomes a personal debt-paying program.

The cost of this service is reasonable. Suppose you borrow $100 and repay in six monthly instalments of $17.85 each, a total of $107.10. The cost of your loan is just $7.10. A $50 loan, repaid in six monthly instalments of $8.93 each, a total of $53.58, costs only $3.58.

You need no endorsers or guarantors to borrow at Household. And at no time do we question friends or relatives about your credit. The principal requirement for getting a loan is a steady position or other source of income. We consider character and regular income far more important than the value of your security. You can get your loan quickly—usually in twenty-four hours or even sooner.

Loans for many purposes

People borrow at Household to pay a doctor or dentist bill, general expenses, insurance, mortgage payments, down payments on homes, old store bills, car repairs, a training course, tools, moving expenses, coal for winter—and for expenses of many other kinds.

You may repay your loan on almost any plan you wish. The table shows how loans may be repaid in 2 to 15 payments. The sooner you repay, the less your loan costs. Look in the table now for the loan you need. See how you may repay out of income.

If you can make good use of a loan, see us at once. Or just phone and tell us how much you need.

Rangers Leave For Camp With Battery

The heavy thud of marching feet rang out with the Regimental March Past as about four hundred men of the 4th Field Battery and the Prince of Wales Rangers, 2nd Battalion, marched down George street from the Armouries to the C.P.R. station early Sunday morning for their yearly 15 days at camp at the Connaught Ranges, twenty-one miles from Ottawa.

The men were under the command of Lt.-Col. M. H. Park and they swung smartly down the street in spite of being dressed in their heavy winter uniforms and carrying their full kit, in the blistering heat. The Prince of Wales Rangers Bugle Band under the direction of Sgt. Harold Barton, accompanied the boys to camp.

This is part of the regular training that every reserve unit undergoes. Besides the fifteen full days at camp, they must put in ten weekends at a camp, and train two nights a week. While at the Connaught Ranges, the men will receive particular training in range practice, along with the regular rifle and foot drill and for the few interested, there will be some signal training.

Not all of those who went will be staying the full two weeks as they cannot be spared from their work for that length of time. Some of those who went down Sunday will be returning in a week, and others will not be going until next Sunday for their week.

Peterboro Boys Graduate As Air Gunners

Three Peterborough boys graduated as air gunners from Poulson, Manitoba, last week, after being in the Air Force for nearly a year. They are P.O. Fred Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Watson, 299 Lake street, P.O. Earl Moorhead, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Moorhead, 621 George street, and the third member of the trio is Sgt. Keith Wood, of 368 Water street.

After a six-months course at the air school in Guelph, the boys graduated in June as wireless operators, which P.O. Fred Watson described as their main business. Then then proceeded to Poulson Airport, which is about ten miles from Daulphin, Man., for their gunning and bombing training The course at Guelph lasted 24 weeks and that at Poulson, 4 weeks. As soon as their leave is up the three boys have been posted to Nova Scotia for operational training, where they expect to be stationed for some weeks.

All three are graduates of the Peterborough Collegiate and are well known figures to the young people around town. Before enlisting they were very much interested in the sport activities of the community.

Call Sent Out For 2,500 Men

"We are going to need all the men we can get in the next two weeks, for the force must have 2,500 men more, and we'll take them, young or old, and will be particularly glad of any veterans that we can get hold of," Lt. G. P. Brook, Area Recruiting Oficer, A.S.F., Ottawa, replacing Major V. Eastwood, at camp, told the Examiner this morning.

Because of a large number who have just gone overseas, the reserve forces have been badly depleted and they want as many recruits as they can get and as soon as they can get them. Lt. Brook said that men for any branch of the service would be welcome. This is a fine opportunity for those who are unable to go overseas to contribute something to a vitally important cause and with only two weeks to go to meet this allocation there is no time to be wasted.

The Recruiting Office at the Armouries will be open from 9 to 12 in the morning from 2 to 5 in the afternoon and from 8 to 11 in the evening. The Recruiting Office telephone number is 9831, and Lt. Brook will be glad to answer any queries regarding enlistment.

Obituary

ERNEST VICTOR WARD

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Ward, he was born in Peterborough and had lived here all his life, and was a member of Knox United church.

Surviving him are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elden Ward, a sister Helen of Peterborough, and a brother, Walter, of the R.C.N.V.R.

The funeral will take place Tuesday at 2.30 p.m. from the Nesbitt Funeral Home 347 Charlotte street, with the Rev. F. W. Craisk and the Rev. Wm MacDonald officiating at the service. Interment will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Former Merchant Dies

Harry James Boyle, a well-known Peterborough grocer, died suddenly Sunday, after a fishing trip with his friend, James W. Conway. He was an active member of the Kiwanis Club for a number of years and had worked in various capacities on several newspapers. He was a veteran of the last war. He saw service in Belgium and France until he was wounded in 1917 at the Somme.

Former Grocer H. J. Boyle Dies Suddenly

The very sudden death Sunday of Harry James Boyle, 572 Charlotte street, after a day outdoors, was a great shock to his many friends in this district. Although born in Almonte, he had lived in Peterborough since 1918.

The late Mr. Boyle had been out fishing with his friend, James W. Conway, 60 Hunter street E., and had exposed himself to the sun a good deal. When they returned to Conway's home between four and five o'clock, Boyle was taken ill, with sudden attacks of Nausea. After a time he appeared to recover and the Conway's left him alone for a short time and when they returned at 6.30 they found him dead in the bathroom.

An active member of the newspaper world for quite a while, Harry Boyle was an operator on the Almonte Gazette, and then foreman of the Gazette Office. He was advertising solicitor for the Galt Reporter from 1911 to 1913, and in 1919 after his return from overseas he was a linotype operator on the Peterborough Examiner for a short time and then in the same year he started up his own grocery store. The Haboco chain of stores grew out of his first store.

He was an active member of the Kiwanis Club for many years and was elected president in 1932, and served on the executive in 1927 and was treasurer in 1928. He became a director in 1933, and at all times was a very faithful and interested worker.

The late Mr. Boyle was a member of the 73rd Canadian Black Watch and also of the Canadian Legion. During the last war he served in Belgium and France and was wounded November 1, 1916, on the Somme. He was discharged in 1917.

Left to mourn his loss are his wife, the former Dorothy Mather, four daughters, Dorothy, Marjorie, Betty and Ann, his mother Mrs. William Boyle, and also two sisters, Mrs. McNabb of Arizona, Mrs. H. T. Parker of Toronto, and two brothers, H. J. Boyle of Toronto and C. A. Boyle of Lindsay.

He operated a grocery business for a number of years and recently had been travelling for Elliott's Stationery Company. The late Mr. Boyle was a member of George Street United church and at one time served as secretary and treasurer of the Men's organization.

The funeral will be held from the Comstock Funeral home with the Rev. J. H Sutcliffe officiating. Interment will be made in Little Lake cemetery. Detailed announcements of the funeral will be given later.

2 Die At Bomb School

MOSSBANK, Sask., July 20—(CP)—Two Royal Canadian Air Force men were killed Sunday when their plane crashed during a training flight at the bombing and gunnery school here. The fliers' names were withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

WAY BELOW NORMAL

Norway's 1941 hay crop was only 70 per cent of normal.

A DRINK PLEASE

There are some things that a fellow just can't do in hot weather, and this seemed to be the opinion of a big St. Bernard dog that came along Stewart street, between Hunter and Simcoe, Sunday. Two men were walking along with the dog and each had hold of a rope from his collar. About half way down the block the dog wilted beneath the heat and lay down in a very stubborn attitude on the sidewalk. Failing to budge him, the two men finally sat down on the curb along side of him, and waited. After a short time some of the neighbors took pity on the trio and brought out a tin of water. The animal took a nice long drink and slowly arose and the three proceeded along their way majestically.—J.S.

Schoolmate of the late Sir Joseph Flavelle in the sixties preceding Confederation, Alexander Locke of Highgate in Kent county recalled memories of the Peterborough of his boyhood in conversation with the Examiner this morning.

"As boys we called him Curly Joe because his hair was in golden ringlets down to his shoulder. His mother was the teacher of our class for a time at the old school on Murray street opposite Victoria Park. And his sister, Peggy, helped in the teaching. He was just one of our group of boys, nothing about him that would suggest in the least that some day he would be knighted."

84 Years Old

Mr. Locke is now eighty-four years old, in good health, bright and alert and interested in the general affairs of the day. With the exception of one brief occasion of passing through Peterborough, this has been his first visit in more than seventy years. He was born in Cavan township and came with his parents "as a baby in arms" into the town.

While he was still a school boy his father died in a smallpox epidemic and was buried in Little Lake Cemetery. His mother then carried on a millinery business on the west side of George street on the site of Bethany Tabernacle. Contracting cancer in a minor accident at the old pump behind the millinery shop, the mother decided to return to Cavanville for the benefit of the care of a doctor whom she had known in that village.

"I knew it was in 1867 that mother decided to leave Peterborough, because I clearly remember that it was in 1866 that R. D. Rogers, a miller in Ashburnham, led his local troops away to Queenstown Heights to take part in preventing the Fenian Raids. His mill on the east bank of the river has disappeared."

"The goodness of God" was Mr. Locke's grateful acknowledgment of the good health of his old age and the acuteness of his faculties. For thirty years he carried on missionary work at Port Said, at the eastern end of the Suez Canal, and has been retired for the last twenty-five years.

"I began that work in 1887 and returned in 1917. I had gone out to India with the first Salvation Army contingent, and then I parted company from the Army, and with their blessing. At Port Said, my wife, whom I had married in England, and I decided to undertake religious work in Port Said without any support from any society. Our faith was rewarded by the fact that when we were finished and going away from there we left a mission property worth $26,000."

Played In Cedar Swamp

Mr. Locke considers himself one of the few remaining boys of Peterborough who played in the cedar swamp on the south side of Charlotte street and along Helm's Creek.

I feel certain there was no King street at that time. At any rate I have no recollection of it. And we used to stand on the Dickson dam, at the foot of London street, and watch the big booms of square timber going down the slide, and the lumber men at work.

William Arnott was the first chief constable. He was the only policeman, and was not even given a uniform. He was succeeded by a tailor named Johnston, the first policeman in Peterborough to wear brass buttons. He had a tailor shop somewhere up on Water street.

The Caisse House, on the west side of George street, about where the Bank of Nova Scotia stands, was the main hotel in those days. I well remember that they had a parrot, and when the bus was arriving or leaving from the station, the parrot would call out—"All aboard." I wonder how many of the people living here today can recall that little detail of George street in the sixties? The Hamilton House was where the Bank of Commerce is situated, and the Croft House was at the opposite corner, where the Crown building is located. The Huffman House was at the southeast corner of Brock and George streets, and on the west side of George street, south of Brock was the Louie McGregor tavern with its second floor balcony built on wooden pillars rising up from the sidewalk.

The post office was down Water street about where Mr. Strickland's law office is now. Yelland's carriage shop was opposite my mother's place, on the east side of George, and around the corner on Brock street was the Tobias Fitzgerald carriage shop. Minister Beck was the rector of St. John's Church where I went to Sunday School. Bob White drove the Caisse House bus to and from the station; Bruce Ferguson was the first conductor of the train to Millbrook; and Joe Buller was the first stationmaster and freight man at the G.T.R.

The English boys were just getting started with their canoe and woodworking factory on Charlotte street. I recall another figure from those days, Betsy Giles, a gardener, who sat as a queen among her vegetables on the market square. The old market building and its belfry faced on Water street, and men who sold meat there were Winch, Webber and Howden. There were others I can't remember.

Here are some more names: James Best was a druggist; James Stevenson a hardware man; Tom Lannin also hardware and tinware; Fred Lemay confectionery; Thomas Menzies books and stationery; Kemp and Coulter, druggists.

William Croft's hotel was at first down Hunter street, near the river, and on the east side, the Ashburnham side, was Ben Reynolds' whiskey bar.

Mr. Locke said that the home of his parents was on the north side of Hunter street, next to the St. John Church property, and west of Sheridan street. The old building vanished long ago.

"Peterborough was a 'wet town' in those days, and it is probably no news that Charlotte street had such a reputation that it was called 'hell street'. Another recollection—a circus came to Petebrorough one time, and there was an old bridge over the river at Hunter street that wasn't considered any too safe. Well, I saw the elephants, as every small boy through all the ages has seen in his own way, when they got to the bridge they wouldn't cross it, and had to be led down to the water and they waded and swam across. Instinct may have been warning them not to take a chance on the bridge.

Old Names Recalled

Some other names from that time: Bob Hamilton, son of Peter Hamilton who kept a foundry on the east side of George street where the Hood and Cummings garage is now; he was one of the boys in my class at school; Fred Palmer another, the May boys and John and George Jay.

There wasn't much of Peterborough south of Charlotte street, and I recall that McDonnel street was just coming into use back in those sixties."

Mr. Locke is leaving Peterborough this evening, and will spend several days with two sons in Oshawa and Toronto, before returning to his home.

42 Years In Korea Is Proud Record Of Father Of Peterborough's MOH

After 42½ years of hard work in the Orient, 82-year-old Dr. O. R. Avison, M.D., L.LD., founder of modern medicine in Korea, still chuckles over some of his hair-raising adventures that sound like something from Grimm's Fairy Tales. One in particular that he remembers well is the night in 1895, while he was acting as court physician to King Yi, he held the sleeping monarch in his arms while angry supporters of the Queen attacked the walled palace in an effort to avenge her death.

Not only has Dr. Avison been honored by Korea, but he is the only man to be awarded 2 honorary degrees by the University of Toronto, those of M.D. and L.LD. He has also received an L.LD. degree from the College of Wooster, Ohio. Through whatever country he passes he runs across old pupils and fellow workers.

Going to Korea as the medical missionary representing the American Presbyterian Church, Dr. Avison's vision and determination enabled him to found and build up modern medicine in Korea. He and Mrs. Avison went to Korea in 1893, and when he saw the conditions prevailing in that country, where the population of 12,000,000 was rapidly being killed off because of contagious diseases, and where the death rate of children was 40 to 50 per cent., he decided to do something about it.

At the best of times there were very few foreign doctors, and in 1893 no Koreans. His idea was to train Koreans to spread the medical gospel and out of this has grown the magnificent Severance Union Medical College in Seoul, the capital city, with its modern 200-bed hospital and training school for nurses, and hundreds of graduate medical workers.

The difficulties facing Dr. Avison and his associates were almost insurmountable, and when asked how he was able to keep going in the face of such tremendous odds, the doctor chuckled and said that only because he was a fool, he had shut his eyes to the difficulties and kept thinking of the goal he hoped to reach, otherwise he said he would have packed his suitcase and returned to America in a hurry.

Korean Vocabulary Needed

Before he could begin to teach medicine it was necessary to have medical works in the Korean language, and Dr. Avison knew not a word. This meant not only learning the Korean language, but necessitated creating a Korean medical vocabulary. Working with his associates, Dr. H. G. Underwood and his wife and Dr. Homer B. Hulbert, to whom he owes so much, Dr. Avison found a young student in a mission school who could speak English and Korean and who could do the Chinese written characters of the Korean language.

Starting out with Gray's Anatomy and using the same system with other medical books, they formulat-

Douro Lineman Killed By Electric Shock

John Henry Leahy, well known resident of Douro Township was electrocuted on Saturday afternoon while engaged in stringing a rural telephone line near Coboconk when the wire he was handling came into contact with a power line. Two other men, one of them Bert Leahy, a brother of the dead man, had their hands badly burned in the accident.

The men were employed by Bruce Parker of Peterborough in the construction of a telephone line. The three were pulling at a coil of wire when suddenly one end flew up into the air and fell across a power line. John Leahy was in front of the other two and took the full force of the shock, receiving fatal injuries. The others escaped with burns on their hands.

The late John Leahy was born in Douro Township at the Five Corners, and had lived all his life there. One brother Frank Leahy is a former Reeve of the township.

Thieves Loot Tobacco Shop

Gaining entrance by forcing a rear door, burglars ransacked the tobacconist store of V. W. Fisk, early on Sunday morning, and got away with a large amount of merchandise and $14.25 in cash.

Among the goods stolen were a number of cartons of cigarettes, a quantity of tobacco, a number of leather wallets, and other articles.

Judgment Reserved.

A plea by W. J. Arthur Fair, defence cocnsel, that the Crown had failed to produce definite evidence that the accused had been driving a car at the time of the accident, served to cause Magistrate E. A. Gee to reserve judgment in a charge of drunken driving against Edgar Young 18, of Young's Point. The charge followed a recent accident in which two parked cars were damaged when a third automobile smashed into them.

Mr. Fair argued that the only evidence that Young had been driving this machine at the time of the accident was an admission alleged to have been made by him to the police afterward. Mr. Fair contended that this admission could not be accepted because the officers who investigated the accident had sworn that the accused was very drunk, and therefore he maintained his statement should not be given any weight.

Constables John Moyes and John Morrow, who had been called to the scene of the crash, said that Young was not there when they arrived, but returned shortly afterward. They said that the accused was very drunk. He was taken to the office of Dr. O'Brien far treatment and admitted to them that he had been driving the car at the time of the accident.

Mr. Fair did not call any defence but argued that the case should be dismissed because the Crown, he said, had failed to show beyond a doubt that Young had been driving.

Magistrate E. A. Gee announced that he would have the evidence transcribed and would reserve pudgment until August 5.

War 25 Years Ago

(By The Canadian Press)

JULY 20, 1917.—Russians retreated before sharp German counter-attacks in Galicia. War Minister A. F. Kerensky took on duties of Russian Premier as new disorders broke out among troops. Germans were repulsed at Craonne on Western Front.

Hit-Run Driver Leaves Damage Trail

Police were today looking for the driver of a hit-and-run car which Sunday smashed into two parked cars near Hunter and Elm streets.

The machine, driving north on Park street, crashed into the rear of an automobile owned by Elgin R. Hubble, 462 Park street, parked on the east side of Park street. Hubble's car was pushed forward and collided with another parked automobile, owned by Herbert N. Colmer, 464 Park street.

All three cars were damaged in the accident. According to eye-witnesses the driver of the north bound car did not remain at the scene and up to noon today he had not reported to the police department.

C.G.E. Group Gives Aid To War Victims

It is always a cheering call when the secretary of the Peterborough and District War Victim's Fund receives a message to g oto the Canadian General Electric Co., Ltd.

On Saturday morning on answering such a call, it was to find that the Refrigerator-Cabinet Department of which C. G. Gertley is foreman had gathered together another donation for the fund, which represents a straight cash donation by passing a box around on Saturday mornings, this marking their sixth contribution. The amount of $7.83 was handed over by John Adams, an employee of that department. Their holding fast to the ideal of helping and continuing to help in the hour of need for the victims of air raids over Britain is very much appreciated.

This donation placed the fund on the last $100.00 needed to reach the next thousand dollar mark.

A second donation from employees in another department of this same plant came in the afternoon, when the 10th donation of $5.00 was handed in by Miss A. McCracken which has always appeared under the name of "Odd Nickels from Induction Motor Test, C.G.E. Miss McCracken is very much the spark plug behind the effort put forth for this fund from this group which, by the way, is perhaps the smallest of its kind in number of employees, making their $50.00 to date a very creditable showing indeed.

The radio appeal by Ernest Nickel, concert whistler, last Wednesday night continues to be of help to the fund, when a $10 donation was given by L.E.H., who expressly stated it was to be credited to that. The special appeal made to the school children of the district through a letter to their teachers prior to the school closing for the summer recess has again borne fruit, with a donation of $3.30 from the pupil of S.S. No. 11 Emily. Miss Alfreda Mulligan of R.R. No. 4, Peterborough is the teacher to whom credit goes for inspiring leadership to the children in this particular, and they too must have some satisfaction that some of their holiday time has been placed to good use in helping others. One nice personal donation of $5.00 was handed in by G. A. Renwick of Westwood, whose action shows a practical kindly interest also in the welfare of those who have suffered through enemy action over Britain.

IN MEMORIAM

ASTA.—In loving memory of Peter Asta, who died July 20, 1929.

We do not forget you, nor do we intend,
We think of you often, and will to the end;
Gone and forgotten by some you may be,
But dear to our memory you ever will be.
—Ever remembered by Mother and Familly.

GILL.—In loving memory of my dear wife, Mrs. William Gill, who passed away one year ago, July 19, 1941.

As I gaze on your picture that hangs on the wall,
Your smiles and your welcome I often recall;
I miss you and mourn you in silence unseen,
And dwell on the memories of days that have been.
Dear is the grave where you are laid,
Sweet is the memories that never will fade,
Flowers may wither, leaves fade and die,
If some do forget you, never will I.
—Ever remembered by her Husband.

GILL.—In loving memory of a dear mother, Victoria Matilda Gill, who died July 19, 1941.

One year has passed since that sad day
The one we loved was called away.
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our heart she liveth still.
A faithful mother, one of the best,
May God grant her eternal rest.
Good was her heart, her friendship sound,
Loved and respected all around.
To a busy life came a sudden end,
She died as she lived—everyone's friend.
—Ever remembered by Julia, Roy, and Family.

ed word by word a medical vocabulary, enough for one lesson, and by keeping a lesson ahead of the students they got along. So that each person might have a copy of the lecture and to keep some for future use, they obtained a stencil machine and in this manner a book grew in the Korean language. By the end of six years, Dr. Avison had completed the book on Anatomy and came home on furlough. Upon his return to Korea there was a bad fire and everything was lost, and the work had to be started all over again.

At the end of fifteen years' hard work, in 1908, seven men who had completed the whole course graduated. By this time the Japanese had overrun Korea, and it was necessary to get permission from the resident general to continue their work. This permission was soon granted. Of the seven men four agreed to stay on as helpers at the hospital. The others went out into the country to lay the corner stones of Dr. Avison's dream.

Finished Work

In 1911 a second class graduated and from then on every year saw more and more doctors taking up the torch. When the doctor left Korea and retired in 1935, there was a complete edition of Korean medical books in the Korean library, a thoroughly up-to-date hospital with 200 beds, run on American methods, a medical school with about 300 students where between 40 and 50 men graduate a year, and a fine nursing school with about 80 nurses-in-training.

In honor of his great work, the members of the college alumni got together and had a life-size bronze statue of the doctor built out in front of the college and hospital.

In their early hospital they used native buildings and patients had to lie on a mat on the floor. One of the greatest hardships, Dr. Avison said, was that of procuring nurses. Girls married around 13 years and the women were not allowed to mix with the men, and while a few widows looked after the women patients, the male side of the hospital lacked that gentle feminine touch, the doctor twinkled.

"The authorities said it would take forty years to break down the social system with its prejudices, but inside of 24 hours a miracle was wrought, and once the women got started there were no half-way measures.

"When the Japanese took over Korea all the Korean army with the exception of one regiment in barracks in the capital city was disbanded. Finally deciding to put an end to the regiment, Japanese officers were sent to inform the soldiers officially. The officer was so insulting that the Korean officer tore up the order and stabbed himself, and his enraged soldiers killed the Japanese envoys. This was the signal for Japanese troops to begin fighting.

"As soon as the fighting began," Dr. Avison recalled thoughtfully, "we at the hospital guessed at the trouble and calling for volunteers we set out for the battlefield, and commandeering every vehicle we could, we started sending the wounded back to the hospital.

"Upon our return, the boys did what they could for the men, but they were in a pretty bad state. One man had 30 bayonet wounds I remember. Some of the women came in from the hospital compound and suddenly it seemed to strike them that these men had been fighting for them and they started in to work, and so from then on the nursing staff gradually grew."

Serving as court physician to the King for 15 years gave Dr. Avison some unusual experiences. When asked if his position there was ever precarious, he said that "the only danger was from war, which was quite often."

In order to tell the story of the attack on the palace, he started at the beginning. King Yi's father had been regent, and when the young king came of age the father expected to be the power behind the throne. But the Queen had other ideas, and before long it was she who was really running things, "as most women do," he said slyly.

Hated by the Japanese for the way she was upsetting their plans, the Queen was marked for death. The Japanese found an unexpected ally in her father-in-law, who hated the Japanese, but hated the Queen more. One night the palace gates were left unlocked and a gang of Japanese desperadoes did away with the Queen and her body disappeared.

The Queen's supporters, feeling that she had escaped her assasins, determined to punish the King and someone told both Dr. Avison and Dr. Underwood of the plans, and these two reported it to the American, British and Russian embassies, who decided to keep hands off on the ground of internal affairs.

King Yi apparently had a pretty good idea how things stood, for he sent word that he wanted Dr. Avison because he was sick. "No wonder," the doctor laughed.

Both doctors had free access to the palace, and for some time after the Queen's death the greatest precautions had been taken. All the King's food was prepared at Underwood's house and locked in a money till and carried by Dr. Underwood into the King personally, and when His Majesty unlocked the box he ate before anyone could slip any poison in.

Wanted "Foreigners"

The night of the attack the three doctors, Avison, Underwood and Hulbert, armed with revolvers, got through to the King's quarters with some difficulty, and at the King's request, they agreed to spend the night. At twelve o'clock the fighting broke out and the three men dashed into Yi's room where he was shouting for "the foreigners."

Soon afterwards the pro-Japanese cabinet arrived en masse to persuade their ruler to leave with them for a safer place. The Prime Minister grabbed the King's arm and the annoyed monarch got hold of Dr. Avison, while the Crown Prince seized Dr. Hulbert, and with Dr. Underwood trying to push back the officials, a bit of a free-for-all took place between three American doctors, the King of Korea and Japan's new puppet cabinet.

The following morning after the attack failed, the cabinet crawled in on their hands and knees to make their apologies and the three doctors were each given an armed escort to ensure their safety home.

Dr. Avison has been highly honored by his Korean friends and has many jewel - studded decorations. Hirohito of Japan, long ago presented him with the fourth degree of the sacred treasure, the highest degree given any foreigner. The King of Korea decorated him with the Order of Yang and Yin, the insignia of the Korean flag and the emblem of all things living, and many gifts of silver, gold and jewels were given on his 60th birth date, the most important Korean anniversary.

Dr. O. R. Avison is the father of Dr. D. B. Avison, M.D.H. of Peterborough. His son served in Korea in the same hospital that his father built up for twenty years, and only returned to Canada a year ago when they were evacuated.

Pupils that Dr. Avison taught while on the faculty of the University of Toronto are all over the world, and two reside in and near Peterborough. John F. Lynch, druggist, is one of his pupils and Dr. MacKay, M.O.H. of Oshawa, is another. Dr. W. D. Scott of this city was attending medical college in Toronto at the same time as Dr. Avison and the two old friends wintered together in Florida this year.

Colorful Cross-Stitch Makes This Lovely Rug

All Crosses in Same Direction

The individual touch that makes your home charming—a handmade cross-stitch rug! Or RUGS—for you can make several with fast sturdy cross-stitch.

The first thing is to rule squares on your rug canvas (35 squares on a 26 by 35-inch piece) leaving a ½-inch margin on all sides.

Then to stitch, following for each square our pattern diagram. Each little block stands for one cross-stitch; the shades are for colors—peach, turquoise, brown. In alternate squares you might have turquoise, orchid, cerise.

After completing all squares, make a border of one row of turquoise and one brown and stitch canvas to denim backing.

Our 32-page booklet has detailed instructions and diagrams for making this rug; also shows how to make lovely hooked, woven, braided and crocheted rugs. Includes Oriental, novel styles. Tells how much material you need for each.

For your copy of "How to Make Your Own Rugs" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

POSTPONING TRUMPS

YOU CANNOT afford to run trumps, at the start of your play of a hand, if some of those in your hand or the dummy are needed first for ruffing out certain losers before the trumps so used get dropped on trump leads. That is the primary reason for not leading them. But the second, and equally vital reason, can come if in leading them you are likely to lose a trick to the defenders while you still have a loser in another suit which they can pick off. In that case, it may be better to get a discard of that loser first, if possible.

North: ♠ Q; ♥ Q 10 4 2; ♦ Q 6 4 3 2; ♣ A J 4

West: ♠ 9 8 4; ♥ K 8; ♦ A K J 8 7; ♣ K 7 2

East: ♠ J 10 7 5 3; ♥ J 6; ♦ 9; ♣ Q 10 9 6 3

South: ♠ A K 6 2; ♥ A 9 7 5 3; ♦ 10 5; ♣ 8 5

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

West led his diamond K and then, not wishing to risk setting up the diamond Q for a later discard by South, decided to hammer that club A out of the dummy at once as a possible entry, using the club K for the purpose. South let this rattle him. After winning the trick in dummy, he led the heart Q, let it ride to the K, and beat himself thereby, for West immediately cashed his diamond A and then led the club 7 to the J and Q for the setting trick.

South could have made his contract, after winning that second trick with the club A, by using his spades to discard clubs from dummy. The third trick could have been the spade Q, then the heart 2 could have gone to the A, and the spade A and K could have furnished discards of the dummy's last two clubs. No matter how the rest of the play went, the defenders could not have made a club trick, but only another diamond and the heart K, so that ten tricks could have been harvested by South.

Gen. Ma In Charge

CHUNGKING, July 20.—(AP).—Appointment of Gen. Ma Put-Sing, powerful Chinese Mohammedan leader, as reclamation commissioner in the Tsaidam Basin of Western Chinghai was announced by the government to-day in a move which political quarters believed would materially strengthen its power in the North-west.

Gen. Ma is one of the four brothers—all Mohammedan generals—who virtually control Chinghai. His acceptance of the appointment is regarded as a brilliant stroke by Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi, Vice-Chief of the Chinese General Staff, who has been conferring with Ma and other Mohammedan leaders at Wuwei in the Kansu panhandle.

New Potatoes Are Quoted At 50-70 Cents

Potatoes ranged from 50 to 70 cents a peck on the produce market Saturday. The top price was quoted during the first hour of business, and it held up in some spots until noon. Evidently growers had their separate ideas about what they should get. Certainly there was no sign of getting together on a common price

D. Olan asked 50 cents for his Irish Cobblers and Herb Doig 60 cents. Wes Fallis had Warbas at 60 cents the peck Ken Dawson of Baillieboro quoted $2.25 for his Cobblers; Leo Canns Warbas were 40 cents the six quart basket. Fred Clifford tagged his six quart quantities at 45 cents He said the peck of potatoes should weigh fifteen pounds, and the six quart measure goes around 10 pounds. The early varieties looked attractive Healey Brothers had both Warbas and Cobblers at 40 cents the basket and 60c the peck.

Butter is gradually disappearing from the market. Only several baskets were left at 11 o'clock, and probably that was the extent of the mornings supply. . If you find no butter on the market next Saturday you should understand that farmers are not going to the inconvenience to carry twenty or thirty pounds to Peterborough on a hot Saturday, likewise cold, and get less return for their butter fat than if they sent it to the creamery. The government bonus of six cents a pound on butter fat is paid through the creameries. And by the way, its gross for one year is estimated at $15,000,000. The property committee of the council has gone a long way to make things more attractive at the market. but the war is tending to put a crimp in any move of that kind.

Growers were sold out of peas, for example at 11 o'clock Saturday, the Pleasant View folks from Bowmanville had hardly anything left at 11.30 except some cabbages and head lettuce.

Well, butter was 38 cents. Eggs spread over the price scale from 25c to 37c, according to size from the pullet to the extra special. The bulk of the buying was in the 32 to 35c group.

Chickens were 32 and 33 cents and hens 28 cents, with quite a heavy offering.

Only a few huckleberries were noticed One man said he had picked a few baskets at Kaledar. His price was $250 for 11 quarts. Red raspberres were in pint and quart box measures. At least that is their reputed quantities. Prices for those pints were 15 and 20 cents each, and also two for 25 cents.

New Duchess apples were 10 cents a quart; gooseberries 10c a box; red currants 15c and white currants two boxes for 25c. New crop honey was tagged at 70c for four pound pails and $1.25 for the eights.

Carrots, beets and onions were six bunches for 25c at the Doig stands. Peas were 35 cents the six quart basket, unshelled, and all gone by 11.30 Cabbages 10c or two for 15c. Chard 15c a peck.

Joe Chimenti had a few new tomatoes at 20c a pound, grown at home He was also showing Johnnie Williams' method of outstripping the season by starting them in pails.

The feature of the market was the quality of the chickens and also quantity, the scarcity of peas and the vanishing of butter. Seven weeks pigs were quoted at $7.50 and $8.

JOHN JOSEPH MURRAY

MARMORA, July 20.—(ENS)—Stricken with a weak spell while attending mass at the Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, on Saturday, John Joseph Murray upon leaving the sacred edifice, fell on the cement outside, sustaining a fractured skull. He was immediately conveyed to his home in the village and passed away at 3:30 p.m. without regaining consciousness.

The late Mr. Murray who was held in high respect in the district was born in Marmora Township and had almost reached his eightieth birthday. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. John Murray. For many years he was an industrious agriculturist but fifteen years ago retired from his farm to take up residence in the village where his familiar figure will now he greatly missed.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Catherine McGrath and three children, Rita, New York City; Joseph at home, and Mary, Toronto. He is further survived by three brothers, James, Kingston;. Martin, Glenavon, Sask.; Dr. J. M. Murray, Ottawa, and three sisters, Sister Mary Dominic, Kingston; Mrs. R. D. McDonnell, Erindale, Ont. and Mrs. J. C. McGee, Stirling.

He was a member of the Sacred Heart Church where requiem mass was sung at 9:30 a.m. on Monday by Rev. Father H. J. Farrell. Interment took place in the Sacred Heart Cemetery.

R. R. H. KEEGAN BROWN

MILLBROOK, July 20.—(ENS)—Cavan township lost one of its oldest, and most favorably known citizens, through the death of Saturday, July 18, of Keegan Brown, life-long resident, in his ninety-fourth year.

Injured while attending to the cattle in the barn on Friday evening, with no other members of the family in the immediate vicinity, so that the exact nature of the accident was not known, fatal results followed some time during the early morning hours.

Always of an active disposition, Mr. Brown even to his advanced age continued a lover of nature, interested in his flower garden and in grape culture, as well as in the various other activities about the farm homestead. He is survived by his widow, whose maiden name was Frances Jane Mitchell; by three sons, Alvin of Manvers, Raymond of Fallis Line, and Newton of Toronto; and by four daughters, Mrs. J. McInnis (Mabel) of Omemee, Mrs. R. Challice (Goldie) of Bethany, Mrs. H. Patton (Bena) of Toronto, and Violet; also by one brother, Leslie of Souris, Manitoba, and one sister, Mrs. J. Wilson (Sophia) of Detroit, Michigan. There are a number of grandchildren.

He was connected with the United Church, and active for many years in the Orange Order.

The funeral will take place from his late residence, Lot 8, Concession 2, Cavan, where practically all of Mr. Brown's life had been spent, on Tuesday at 2:30 p.m., Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D., conducting the service. Interment will be in the family burial plot at Zion cemetery.

JOHN O'BRIEN

Friends will mourn the passing of John O'Brien, Peterborough, who has been a resident of this district all his life, and who died after a long illness, Sunday, at the age of 85.

The son of the late Daniel O'Brien and Mary Barrie, who came from Ireland to this district as children, he was born in Douro and was a farmer in Chandos Township, coming to this city 15 years ago. The late Mr. O'Brien was a faithful member of St. Mary's Church, Chandos, for many years and was a highly respected member of the community.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Ellen Gooley, of Peterborough, and many nieces and nephews.

The funeral will take place Tuesday at 7 a.m. from the Bert Duffus Funeral Home, proceeding to St. Mary's Church, Chandos, for requiem mass at 9:30 a.m. Interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

GEORGE SPAFFORD

George Spafford, a life-long resident of Harvey Township, who resided near Rockcroft, died at Buckhorn, Sunday, after a long illness, in his 55th year.

The son of the late William Spafford and Mary Calvert, he was born near Buckhorn and farmed on the family homestead all his life.

Surviving are three brothers, Howard of Rockcroft, Sherman of Detroit and Clifford of Detroit.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. from the Comstock Funeral Home. Interment will be in Lakefield Cemetery.

British And American Girls Line Up Together In Big War Job

The members of Britain's most exclusive help-to-win-the-war unit have recently been augmented by a number of famous American air-women. They have come over to join the women's section of the Air Transport Auxiliary—better known as the Atagirls. Their hazardous job is to collect new planes at the factories and deliver them—in all weathers, at any time—to the airfields where they are wanted. Atagirls are pictured, UPPER LEFT, going over a map to check up routes after receiving instructions for the day from their home station. Flight-Captain Jacqueline Cochrane, who is responsible for the welfare and discipline of the American women pilots, is pictured, LOWER LEFT, giving final instructions to one of her pilots about to take off in a Spitfire. Before taking off from her home station on the daily rounds, this Atagirl, RIGHT, fastens on her parachute.

Two Barns Lost In Lindsay Fire

LINDSAY, July 20 — (ENS).—Shortly after two o'clock Sunday morning and while the electrical storm was at its height, lightning struck the large barns on the Logie farm, on the eastern boundary of the town, and the building and contents were totally destroyed.

The firemen were at a small fire at the residence of Mrs. M. Hodgson, Melbourne street, when they received the call. The barn contained between sixty and seventy-five tons of hay, and the flames shot in the air to such a height that the fire could be seen a distance of [illegible]ty miles. The firemen first fou[illegible] the blaze from the floor of the barns and were making good progress until the mow became a fiery cauldron, the flames nearly trapping the fire-fighters. The barns were the property of William Murphy of the Murco Farms. A long woodshed separated the barns from the brick residence on the farm, but both escaped destruction. The loss, which is partly covered by insurance, is placed at $6,000.

Chinese Retake

among between 50 and 60 planes on the ground and leaving six great fires blazing, Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

In a second attack the American airmen yesterday bombed Linchwan, Japanese base in Kiangsi Province. All the planes returned safely from both raids.

The reports of these successes after a long series of Japanese gains was greeted as the best news in weeks from the warfronts.

Both Wenchow and Juian, 13 miles to the south, were recaptured last Friday less than six days after their occupation by the Japanese in a thrust which extended across the length of Chekiang from Hangchow in the north.

Leaves Town in Flames

The communique said that in Kiangsi, inland province which adjoins Chekiang on the west, the Japanese took flight from Hengfeng after firing the town. The flames were extinguished by Chinese troops who marched in Saturday.

It added that Iyang, railway town 15 miles west of Hengfeng, was captured early yesterday by forces attacking from several directions.

After losing the two towns and with their domination of the Chekiang-Kiangsi rail line the Japanese attempted a new thrust from Kwangfeng, in eastern Kiwangsi, but were repulsed. Hengfeng fell to the Japanese on July 1 and closed the gap between their east and west columns.

In still another victory, the Chinese said their troops captured Yenshan, Southern Honan, yesterday after a five-day battle and that an attack is in progress on the nearby Japanese base at Sinyang. Yenshan is about midway between the Yangtse and Yellow Rivers.

The communique from Gen. Stillwell's headquarters said Japanese headquarters were attacked with "excellent results," at Linchwan in this second raid upon that base. It was first attacked July 10.

New Whack At Canton?

Canton last was attacked by United States bombers on July 4 when the Whitecloud airdrome on the outskirts of the city was the target. Today's official announcement that an airdrome was attacked, without identifying it, indicated a second field was visited this time, since the Japanese maintain several around most of the larger cities under their domination.

Paying tribute to the U.S. Air Force in China, an official Chinese statement said today its operations had considerably lessened the Japanese air threat to Chungking.

The statement said the people here "have a special grudge" against Hankow bases from which the Japanese took off for their unchallenged assaults upon the provisional capital heretofore. These bases have been recent targets of the Americans and are expected to come in for considerable more attention.

reported a new withdrawal in one sector there "under pressure of numerically superior enemy forces."

However, in another sector of the Millerova battle, the Russians said they had broken up a German wedge driven into their positions, killing more than 1,200 Germans and destroying 15 tanks, 10 guns and 60 machine guns.

Escape Encirclement

The withdrawal from Voroshilovgrad apparently was ordered to prevent an encirclement of the defenders by the German column advancing along the Moscow-Rostov railway south of Millerova.

To the north around Voronezh, the picture was brighter. Dispatches reported Soviet forces not only holding grimly to this anchor, but improving their positions and delivering counter-blows of increasing strength.

The mid-day communique said a day-long battle in a populated place resulted in victory for Russian infantry and tankmen. The Germans were reported to have left 1,500 dead officers and men on the streets of the village.

An "important German crossing" over the Don river was reported recaptured and south of Voronezh a Soviet unit moved into "important inhabited locality" after a three-day attack. A violent battle for another German bridgehead on the Don was reported in progress.

The stubborn defence at Voronezh and the aggressive spirit of the Soviet forces there, coupled with German reports of large Russian troop concentrations in that region, seemed to indicate that a Russian counter offensive of considerable scope is in the making against the Germans' extended lines.

The increasing tempo of aerial warfare was indicated in an announcement that 211 German planes had been destroyed in last week's fighting against Russian losses of 136 planes.

The Germans were reported making increasing use of their parachute troops and the Russians said that in one sector, apparently south of Millerovo, a "German parachute party which landed in the rear of our troops was completely annihilated."

2 Losers Perish Trailing Poker Winner

CAIRO, July 20.—The story of the French Foreign Legionnaire and his fortune won at poker and dice trickled in from the desert battlefront today.

He and his hundreds of dollars went through the Axis siege of Bir Hacheim in Libya. When the withdrawal finally was ordered, the men knew that many would die in running the gauntlet over the blisterind sand.

Five comrades who had contributed liberally if unwillingly to the gambler's purse knew his pockets were stuffed with their money. They decided to follow him, so if anything happened the Germans and Italians would not get it.

They shadowed him on the way out from Bir Hacheim, trailing the gun carrier on which he hitched a ride. Two of the five were killed, a third wounded.

Freighter Reports

BUENOS AIRES, July 20 — (AP) —The Argentine freighter El Argentino radioed her owners last night she was homeward-bound off the Canary Islands on an Atlantic crossing without incident ending fears that she was a war casualty.

The freighter left Lisbon on Monday. Unofficial Portuguese reports on Thursday night said she had been torpedoed.

A Foreign Ministry official said he believed the rumors arose from a garbled version of the fact the Argentine Legation in Lisbon engaged five planes to hunt for a wealthy Argentine ("Un Argentino") who was a passenger on the torpedoed British liner Avila Star.

Churchill, Chiefs In Second Front Huddle

By DREW MIDDLETON

LONDON, July 21 (CP)—British and United States staff officers are seeking some means of aiding Russia through a limited diversion on the continent in second front conferences which will continue for some time, it was reliably reported today. Prime Minister Churchill, who initiated the second front talks in Washington in December, 1941, and continued them there during his June visit, again met with high British and American officers.

The chief problem before the group is to frame measures for immediate aid to the Soviet armies if the present grave situation in South Russia further deteriorates, said a reliable informant whose identity it is not permitted to disclose.

Since a large-scale invasion seems to be unlikely this summer, it is possible the strategists are mapping a limited diversion such as a small-scale incursion at a point which would draw German forces from Russia and at the same time safeguard communications with t: Soviet.

There has been much emphasis among British and American military men on the need of maintaining the northern supply routes to Russia.

"Russia needs materials, not men," one high-ranking British officer said.

May Need To Feed Her.

The problem of securing communications with Russia grows in importance as Russia faces the winter with much of its wheat lands lost to the enemy and means of distribution devoted to war purposes.

British ecolo- ic experts have predicted that the United States and Britain may have to increase rationing to send Russia supplies.

With these considerations before them, Allied strategists might choose a limited landing in an area like Northern Norway where the army would be able to strike at U-boat bases and airfields imperilling Russian-bound convoys.

Many informed sources view the discouraging comment on a second front as a smoke screen veiling the real intentions of the British-American high command.

There are many indications that the main problems of a second front are being courageously tackled by the British and American service staffs in the conversations now proceeding.

Aerial Sorties Bag 50 Axis Planes

Caught At Airdromes; Navy Pastes Matruh Third Night

CAIRO, July 21—(AP). — The third and heaviest naval bombardment of the Axis-held port of Matruh in three nights, and two aerial assaults which destroyed more than 50 Axis planes on the ground in a single day were reported by British authorities today, all part of a determined campaign to dest. oy the enemy's African air force and ruin his reinforcement efforts.

Buildings, jetties, schooners and other craft in the harbor at Matruh—105 miles behind the German-Italian lines—were hit by naval shells early Monday morning. Explosions could be heard for miles.

British planes scored their smashing blows yesterday at El Daba and Fuka, 25 and 60 miles respectively behind the lines. The raids were the second and third in two days.

From Alexandria came reports that simultaneously British fighter-bombers swarmed down on the Nazi air base at El Daba for the second successive day, dumping tons of bombs on the surprised concentration.

One pilot said he saw more than a score of planes burst into flames.

Long range British fighters set afire enemy barges protected by fighter planes northeast of Sidi Barrani and R.A.F. medium bombers made night attacks on Axis tanks, planes and trucks in the battle area around El Alamein, causing explosions and fires.

Clergyman's Tax Fears Calmed

OTTAWA, July 21—(CP). —The case of the clergyman's finances, which will not be a" strained as he thought they would, came before the House of Commons last night with Finance Minister Ilsley as the detective who put everything to rights.

Conservative House Leader Hanson, during debate on income tax resolutions, said he had a letter from an Anglican clergyman in Quebec who received a stipend of $1,500. He had a free rectory on which he was charged a rental valuation of $250 annually. So he had to pay taxes on $1,750. He had to keep a conveyance of some kind and had to send his children to a school away from home. He had repeated calls for a little charity and had to give.

He should have his rectory free of income tax, said Mr. Hanson.

Warships Batter Matruh To Fiery Debris

By LARRY ALLEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE BRITISH NAVAL AIR SERVICE EAST OF MATRUH, July 20.—(AP).—(Delayed). —Guns of British warships poured salvo after salvo of high explosive shells into battered Matruh early today (Monday), delivering the severest plastering of the war to this Axis-occupied port on the fringe of the Egyptian desert.

The navy, determined to keep the harbor in "a hell of a mess," despite frantic efforts of the Nazis and Italians to rebuild jetties and installations so badly needed war supplies might be unloaded from supply ships, did some of its best shooting of the war, landing every salvo directly within the target area.

From an advanced base for naval aircraft I watched navy planes zoom out under the light of a new moon and hover over Matruh.

Soon afterward flame gushed from the guns of warships swinging broadside into position a few miles off, and the first projectiles landed a little short of the illuminated target.

But that didn't happen again throughout the bombardment.

The succeeding salvo and other salvos swished through the air and nose-dived squarely into the shore building, jetties, schooners and other small craft in the harbor with terrific explosions that could be heard for miles.

This was by far the heaviest pounding given Matruh from the sea.

Blast After Blast

Strangely there were no large fires started in this shelling—just a series of blasts followed by a huge column of smoke which climbed like a snake high into the sky.

Navy officers said they were convinced that a small fuel ship which failed to get out of the harbor had been sunk either in the previous air bombing or in this bombardment since the vessel, although most of her superstructure still was above the surface, appeared to be resting on the bottom of the harbor.

Salvo after salvo from the warships seemed to pepper the entire harbor and adjoining area as if the shells were laid down in a well-

Dutch Girls Perk Lost Yank Raider

SEATTLE, July 21—(AP).—The sight of two Dutch girls, sitting near a window of a second-storey apartment in The Hague, calmly eating their breakfast, acted to quiet the nerves of one American flier on his first raid over German territory.

Widen Forced Savings Proposals

Add New Insurance Premiums To $100 Maximum

OTTAWA July 21 — (CP). — New insurance policy premiums up to a maximum of $100 a year may be charged to the compulsory savings portion of the new income tax schedules under proposed changes announced in the House of Commons to-day by Finance Minister Ilsley.

Under the provisions in the budget as originally presented only the premiums on policies in operation on the day the budget was presented could be charged against compulsory savings.

The minister announced several other changes in the classification of charges which may be made against the compulsory savings portion of the income tax.

The provision for charging payments into certain approved pension and superannuation funds is extended so that it includes not only funds which are a part of the terms of employment but of association in trades unions, as approved by the Revenue Minister.

Principal payments on mortgages in effect on budget day were chargeable to compulsory savings, and now it is proposed to include principal payments on sales agreements under the same circumstances.

The insurance concession is broadened in other ways but the main provision of allowing policies taken out since the budget applies to only half the premicms up to $100 on the first year, and the whole —up to that maximum—in subsequent years.

Yank Pilots Over

With United States Forces in Northern Ireland, July 21 (AP)

AMERICAN pilots and negro troops have arrived here, swelling the ranks of United States invasion forces. There are air force maintenance crews with the pilots.

The pilots, drawn from all sections of the United States, are commanded by a 40-year-old colonel, who declared:—

"You will hear from these fellows. They are among the best of the lot."

They immediately mingled with British forces, inspecting British planes and exchanging shop talk.

No Lottery Yet

OTTAWA, July 21—(CP). — War Services Minister Thorson said in the House of Commons today that the lottery system of calling men for compulsory military service will not be used for the August call-up.

Mr. Thorson said he could not indicate whether a lottery would be used in later call-ups, since the proposed system was under reconsideration.

Catalinas Doing Heroic Job In The Aleutians

By KEITH WHEELER
(Copyright, 1942, Chicago Times, Inc.)

At Sea With Pacific Fleet, June 18 —(Delayed)—Someday when the Japs are driven out of Kiska and the Aleutians are blocked as a road to conquest, the people concerned with such things will find time to hang medals on the men flying and fighting this command's Catalina flying boats.

In a war where bravery is common place there has been nothing to excel the courage with which this handful of men drove the brash Jap back from Dutch Harbor and now is pounding day and night at his bases on barren Kiska and Attu.

There were few Catalinas here when the battle began nearly two weeks ago and if there are more today the reason is not that the crews made prudent use of their lives and planes. Every day new planes arrive to replace the fallen.

As might have been expected, the losses have been heavy — heavier than the censor would care to let me say.

The Catalina is a huge, magnificently durable and far ranging airplane, ideal for long patrols and rough landings in these uneasy waters. But they're big and slow too—and nice targets for the opposition.

In the first 48 hours of the invasion the Catalinas landed only when too tattered to fly any longer or when they ran out of fuel.

Many Never Returned.

Many flew out into the fog and never came back. One was disabled at sea and when the crew landed and launched their rubber crash boat the Zeros machine-gunned the fliers on the water.

On the fourth day the force commander voiced his admiration for their well-nigh incredible durability.

'Your persistence of effort and general combat behaviour has added its quota to the best pages of the traditions of the naval service, he told them. 'My personal thanks to all hands and I have every confidence you will continue to accomplish the impossible.'

As the fifth day began the Catalinas' wing commander reported on the state of his force:

'Their superhuman endurance and doggedly heroic persistence in contacting and trailing the enemy day

City of Rostov Aflame Says Berlin

Enemy On 3 Sides; Reds Pinching Off Last Voronezh Claw

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 21—(AP).—The forward wall of German tanks and motorized infantry pushed southeast of Voroshilovgrad toward Rostov today down the rich Donets Basin coalfield region, left ablaze and wrecked by the Russians falling back for a new stand at the northwest gate to the Caucasus.

At the north of the curving 300-mile battleline Red Army forces were battling hand to hand with the Germans on both flanks of the Don River in a fight to sweep the Nazis from the last of their bridgeheads and trap those holding on in newly-fortified positions between the river and Voronezh, 10 miles to the east.

The Germans apparently were massing their forces in the great grain area between the Donets and the Don—from Boguchar to south of Millerovo—for an effort to take Rostov from three directions and Stalingrad from two.

A dispatch from the Bryansk front, southwest of Moscow, to the army paper Red Star said Soviet bombers made a highly effective attack on a large railway junction deep in the enemy's rear. The airmen said they destroyed 500 railway cars, including 28 carrying ammunition and 200 loaded with trucks, and estimated they killed or wounded more than 1,000 Germans.

Blackout Breach Costs Howe $10

HULL, Que., July 21 — (CP). — Through counsel, Munitions Minister Howe pleaded guilty today to a charge of infraction of blackout regulations during a test blackout here June 17 and was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Leon Ladjoie.

Mr. Howe, who did not appear in court, was represented by Alphonse Fournier, K.C., Liberal member of Parliament for Hull. The Minister was charged with striking a match and lighting his pipe over the protest of an A.R.P. warden, John H. Dewar of South Hull.

In his deposition, Dewar said he was on the Aylmer Road when he saw a car being driven without lights from the Royal Ottawa Golf Club He stopped the car and saw a radio light showing.

"I warned the driver who, after objections had been made by his passenger, turned off the light," said the deposition. "The passenger, whose name was given to me as C. D. Howe by him and by the driver, struck a match to light his pipe. He got out of the car and continued to smoke his pipe against my protests."

Rubber Pile So Low, Figures Mean Jail

Situation Be Impossible If It Weren't For Synthetic Hope, Says Supply Head

MONTREAL, July 21 — (CP).— Canada is so short of natural rubber, Supplies Controller Alan H. Williamson told the Province of Quebec Police and Fire Chiefs' Association today, that quoting exact figures on the shortage probably would constitute an offence under the Defence of Canada Regulations.

Appealing to members of the association to act as "watchdogs" in helping to conserve rubber, Mr. Williamson said:

"To obtain any more natural rubber would require a miracle. We must not look for miracles."

"We must get along with what we have—and what we have is very, very little—so little that, if I were to give you the figure, I am afraid I would be arrested under the Defence of Canada Regulations on a charge of giving 'comfort to the enemy.

"Soberly and seriously, I must tell you, gentlemen, that we are in the grip of a rubber shortage which might bring defeat in the struggle to quench the flames that already are licking at our shores."

Rubber requirements of the United Nations had soared to the highest peak since the war began. The situation would be "utterly impossible" except for the possibilities of synthetic production.

Some United States plants had already started shipping military tires to American Army camps for testing in mock warfare and camp commandants were instructed to prepare detailed reports on how the new synthetic rubber tires compared with those made from natural rubber.

"But the mere fact that these tests have only just begun must be evidence enough that synthetic production in the quantities needed to win this war, is still only a dream," Mr. Williamson said. "If the dream of 800,000 tons in the United States, plus 41,000 tons in Canada by the end of 1944—if that dream does not come true, the rubber position of the Allies will be immeasurably worse.

"Whenever you read about some new substitute for rubber, some new way of making the synthetic product remember that the war could be lost before the factories would be built to make it.

"Remember, too, that the planned production of the types of synthetic rubber which will roll out of the factories of North America will be barely enough to meet the war needs of the United Nations."

Nazis Also Say 4th Ship Hit In St. Lawrence

BERLIN, (From German Broadcasts), July 21 (AP)—The German high command claimed today that German submarines operating north of the Azores had sunk seven ships aggregating 38,000 tons "from a strongly escorted convoy bearing war material bound for Africa."

(There was no confirmation of this from Allied sources.)

This was one phase of a series of actions in which the high command claimed its U-boats had destroyed 16 Allied ships totalling 104,000 tons in a period of four days.

"One submarine penetrated to the St. Lawrence River, sinking there three ships aggregating 15,000 tons in an escorted convoy," it said. "A further steamship of 4,500 tons was torpedoed and was run aground by her crew."

(Loss of three ships in the Gulf of St. Lawrence was announced by the Canadian Navy Minister, Hon. Angus Macdonald, at Ottawa last week.)

Six ships of 51,000 tons were declared sunk and a freighter severely damaged by torpedoes in United States waters.

Use Norse As Guinea Pigs

Concentration Camp War Experimental Station

MONTREAL, July 21 (CP)—Stories in which humor mingles with tragedy continue to filter out of occupied Norway to tell the world that the spirit of freedom and independence has not been conquered in that occupied land.

The Norwegian information bureau here learned that the Nazi concentration camp at Ulven, near Bergen, is being used as a war experimental station with prisoners acting as "guinea pigs" for various undisclosed purposes. So many Norwegian prisoners have tried to escape that the Germans have been compelled to surround the camp with land-mines and man traps.

The bureau tells of the appointment of a "Quisling" traitor as president of the council in a village in northern Norway. As soon as he assumed office he received through the post a parcel containing a bullet. An accompanying note read: "Next time you will get this from the muzzle of a gun."

In another village a civil servant was contemplating joining the Quisling party. One morning on leaving his home to the office he saw a trail of pine tree branches such as are usually placed outside houses when a person dies. The trail led from his doorstep to the church cemetery. The information bureau adds that the Quisling party lost a recruit then and there.

HOUSE OF COMMONS TOLD LIMIT REACHED IN INCOME TAX LEVIES

Hanson Urges Ending Tax Boosts

Claims Limit Reached; House Passes Land Settlement Act

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 21—(CP). — Conservative House Leader Hanson made an appeal in the House of Commons last night for an end to the policy of yearly increases in the income tax, claiming that the peak had been reached.

He was taken to task by Angus MacInnis (C.C.F., Vancouver East) who declared Mr. Hanson was interested only in property with no thought of the lives that were being sacrificed.

Mr. Hanson denied this but declared the people could bear no further income tax increases and said he and many like him were being forced to resort to savings. There should be more borrowing, he said.

"Men are falling i flames from the sky—men whose lives had not yet begun," exclaimed Mr. MacInnis. "What are my honorable friend's savings of a lifetime compared to that sort of thing?" he asked.

This flare-up came when the Income Tax Act amendments were being considered just before adjournment of the first 12-hour day which the House has inaugurated in an attempt to end the session next Friady.

An hour before the adjournment the House passed the new Veterans' Land Settlement Bill which will be what the Soldier Settlement Act was to the veterans of the first Great War.

Goes To Senate.

This measure, designed to place on the land many thousands of veterans of the present war and disabled members of the merchant marine, if they are qualified to be farmers, was given third reading an sent to the Senate.

It will be an entirely different administration from the Soldier Settlement Act which still operates, and it was the expressed hope of the government that difficulties which arose in administration of the first measure will be eliminated in the new administration.

Little progress was made with the budget resolutions but one section, the initial provision for compulsory savings in the income tax act, was approved. Budget resolutions will be the first item of business for today.

Revenue Minister Gibson announced in the House yesterday than an order-in-council has been adopted authorizing transportation

Most Of Japs Moved

OTTAWA, July 21—(CP).—Approximately two-thirds of the 23,480 Japanese to be moved from protected areas of British Columbia have been dealt with, Labor Minister Mitchell told a group of British Columbia members of parliament today.

"The Japanese now are removed from areas considered by the military to be particularly vulnerable," Mr. Mitchell's statement said.

Under special permits 1,162 had been placed in employment in various parts of Canada and 1,046 financially able to support themselves had been located.

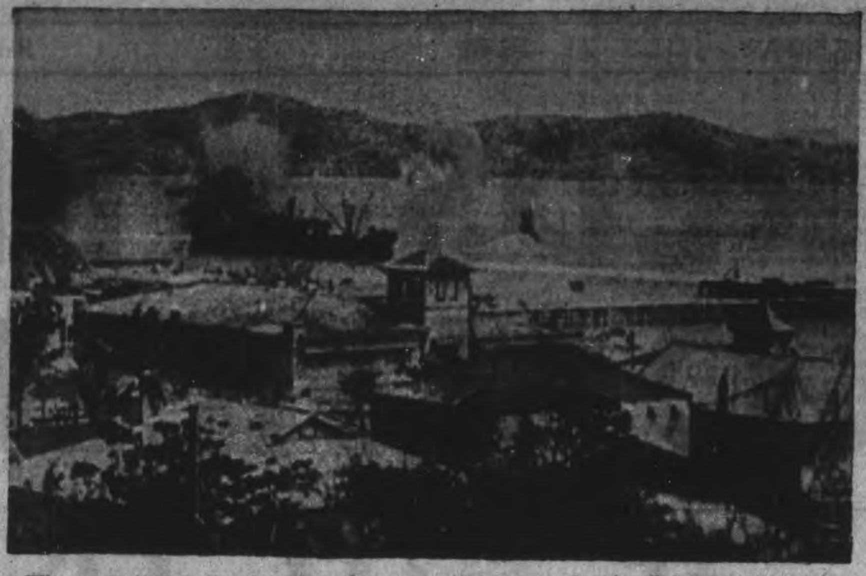
Jap Bombers Met Convoy On Arrival



When a United Nations' convoy of supplies arrived in Port Moresby, New Guinea, they were greeted by a Japanese bombing fleet. The ship may be seen in the harbor with geysers of water flying into the air as a result of the Japanese bomber near misses. The convoy had just arrived and there was no time for the supplies to be unloaded.

Argentine Balks At Convoy Plan

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, July 21—(AP).—Argentina's Foreign Minister, Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, according to advices received here from informed Argentine sources, told last week's secret session of the Chamber of Deputies that his government refused to convoy its own merchant ships when the suggestion was made by Washington.

Argentine government spokesmen have indicated they consider convoying a step toward war.

Ruiz Guinazu was quoted as telling the Chamber Argentina would not join "the herd" of American republics, which he said was being led by the United States to make war on the Axis. This disparaging reference to other American nations was deplored by one Opposition leader.

Ruiz Guinazu's statements were made in the course of a speech answering a foreign policy interpellation by Socialist Deputy Nicolas Repetto.

Some of Ruiz Guinazu's opponents were quoted as having expressed belief that the Foreign Minister went before the Chamber as a man inspired by resentment and suspicion against the United States, detachment toward the plight of Britain, which for years was Argentina's chief customer, and complacency toward the Axis.

At his insistence the session was held in secret without stenographers. He explained that he planned to introduce confidential Foreign Office documents in support of the government's policy.

Cordial Ties With Axis.

The Minister was said to have described diplomatic relations with Germany, Italy and Japan as cordial, to have asserted that Britain exerted pressure to force Argentina to break with those nations, and to have ascribed to the United States a plan to promote federation of several unspecified countries after the war.

At one point he read a document said to have originated in Washington to show that the United States Government, before it would agree to lend-lease materials to the Argentine army and navy, demanded that Argentina agree to convoy merchant ships between ports of the two countries.

He said the Argentine purchasing commission found the United States army and navy co-operative and friendly, but blamed the State Department for introducing a last-minute condition of "No convoy, no arms," which brought about a breakdown of negotiations.

"That young man, if he has two children and let us assume he has an income of $1,750—last year his tax was $48; for this year, under this budget, his tax is $53."

Mr. Hanson: "Plus his savings."

Mr. Ilsley: "Yes, he is paying $5 more in taxes, but in addition to that he is being asked to save $52. Now if he has life insurance or anything of that kind, and the probability is that he has, he can deduct that up to $50...So that man has gone to all the trouble of writing to the leader of the Opposition and having his case brought forward in parliament as a typical case, because he is paying, if he has two children, $6 more under this budget than he paid last year.

"We took off early Saturday morning at about 7 a.m We were to raid each of four German airdromes in Holland. Mine was Valenburg, about five miles north of The Hague and about a mile and a half west of Leiden.

"We were warned especially to keep clear of The Hague, because it was the hottest spot on the Dutch coast. Something like 300 anti-aircraft and machine-gun emplacements were around and inside that city.

At Wave Top Height

"Faulty navigation by the lead ship, however, brought us right smack over The Hague. We came it at about eight or nine feet over the water and...we screeched through the main streets of The Hague, dashing almost 300 miles an hour.

"I guess our low-level took them completely by surprise, because we got very little flak there. I remember once, looking through the side window, I saw two girls in a second-storey apartment in The Hague sitting there and eating breakfast. It eased my nerve and I laughed to myself.....

"It took just about one minute to get through The Hague. The people didn't bother to run; they didn't know we were there until we had gone.

"The airdrome itself was so beautifully camouflaged we didn't recognize it until we were right on top of it....I saw square ahead of us a flak tower, its guns gleaming in the early-morning sun. I yelled to my gunner 'Open up fire! and pressed my own trigger, coming at it was our front guns wide open. I sprayed lead all the way across the field and into the barracks ahead of me.

change in the provision that a man over 65 years of age is not required to pay the compulsory savings part of the tax if his income is not more than $5,000 a year. The maximum was originally $3,000.

Take in Other Plans

Mr. Ilsley said it is considered unfair to limit exemptions for payments on pension plans to those already in effect. It had been decided to bring in the pensions plans of trade unions and add annuity and other instalment payments, provided they could not be postponed.

If the payments could be dropped without loss to the taxpayer then they would not qualify as exemptions.

Mr. Ilsley said he does not think the Government should go the full distance urged by the life insurance companies, insurance agents and some members of the House of Commons. Had the Government made the changes proposed by these interests great impetus would have been given to the sale of life insurance. This would have been, in a sense, class legislation.

There was weight to the argument that young person getting married should obtain insurance and be granted an exemption. Exemptions would be allowed on new policies provided they did not exceed normal limits, with a top of $100 a year on premiums paid. Only one-half of the first year's Premier could be used as an offset on taxation.

Agreements for sale had been added to mortgages as a means of obtaining tax exemptions. The registration date of a mortgage would not be insisted on, and Revenue Minister Gibson could decide on what were forcible obligations in effect before June 23, Budget Day.

In the original budget resolution persons more than 65 years earning less than $3,000 were not required to pay the refundable portion of the tax.

Mr. Ilsley said his amendment proposed that those earning up to $5,000 should be exempt from the refundable tax. There were "quite a number of persons over 65 who were giving war service and were in receipt of incomes of more than $3,000. Under such conditions some of these workers might encouraged to give up their jobs, so the limit was raised.

Emergency Provisions

Mr. Hanson asked the minister to consider provision of latitude for amending the times at which repayments of compulsory loans may be made after the war. There might be emergencies in which the taxpayer would be in dire need of some portion of his compulsory savings, or settlement of an estate might be held up for a long period because of this clause.

J. G. Diefenbaker (Con. Lake Centre) said there should be an amendment whereby a person might withdraw part or all of his compulsory savings in the event of emergency. The power to permit withdrawals might be in the hands of the minister. Such provision would eliminate most existing objections to the plan.

Mr. Ilsley said the government could only go so far in meeting objections. It was not possible to meet every emergency. The British plan did not provide for return of compulsory savings.

Tourist Season Is Better Than Expected

Most of the rooms in the summer resorts of Haliburton are occupied this week, and the whole district is reporting a much better season than was expected earlier in conjecture of the effect of travel restrictions.

This information was received from a man who came through the northern district Monday, although he had not gone beyond Minden and Haliburton villages. American visitors are not so numerous as last summer, but many Canadians are managing to get away for a holiday, and present business is said to be quite satisfactory.

"But you are not likely to see as many people in Peterborough these two months," the Examiner's informant said. 'They haven't enough gasoline to travel about while they are here.'

Hanlan Howard of Rice Lake said that the Rice Lake cottages are occupied, and he has had to make so many trips to Peterborough for all hands that his own supply of gas is giving him some worry.

The fishing crowd that comes to Hastings is not as large as in peak seasons, but many of the regulars are back again. Further up the Trent cottages are doing business this week, and altogether the season so far has been busier than was anticipated.

(The attack from the east would imply that the German forces which have been driving down from Voroshilovgrad region on the north have reached the area east of Rostov. The city lies athwart the Don, mainly on the west in the delta country about 26 miles from the Gulf of Taganrog. It was there that the German drive was stopped and thrown into reverse last winter after the Nazis had broken into the city.)

German troops also have made a rapid advance of 80 kilometres (about 50 miles) farther east in the direction of Stalingrad, the communique claimed.

Russian rear guards and other scattered forces have been destroyed while the German air force is continuing to attack crowded Soviet lines of retreat and river crossings and railways in the Rostov area, the communique reported.

North of Voronezh (left flank of the present German drive in the south) Soviet attacks were repulsed, while in the central sector of the Russian front a German infantry division destroyed an encircled Russian group, the account continued.

"Reports spread in the Soviet and British press about the situation at Voronezh are sheer invention," the high command stated. "Infantry divisions fighting there are neither cut off nor fleeing across the Don.

"Now, as previously, they are holding the first bridgehead of Voronezh and the town itself and have repelled all Soviet attacks with heavy casualties."

South of Lake Ilmen and on the Leningrad front several Russian attacks were reported repulsed in the fighting which at times was hand-to-hand.

Long Hun Coast Shot Up By 200 Spitfires

LONDON, July 21—(CP).—The swelling British air might slashed at Nazi installations on the French invasion coast and the prime industrial targets of Northwest Germany yesterday and last night in another demonstration of events to come.

The four-engined R.A.F. bombers which scattered explosives and incendiary bombs on the shipyards and U-boat nests at Vegesack, Germany, Sunday night had skimmed in from their night's work only a few hours before some 200 Spitfire fighters roared across the English Channel.

Ranging up the coast from Le Havre the Spitfire squadrons swooped down on military targets as far north as Le Treport. They shot up the radio masts at Fecamp, attacked gun posts and factories.

Early, last nigth Wellington bombers swung out over the Continent and blasted targets in northwest Germany without losing a plane.

They followed a group of Boston bombers which prodded the German defences in occupied France into action and attacked a power station in the Mazingarbe area.

1,000 Bombers a Month

This display of aerial might coincided with the authoritative statement that Britain's bombing squadrons are to be strengthened at the rate of 1,000 four-motored bombers a month.

Sir Charles Bruce-Gardner, chairman of the Society of British Aircraft Constructors, said in the new 1941 edition of "Jane's all the world's aircraft" that the United States is planning to build these bombers for the R.A.F. Many of them, he said, will be Liberators (Consolidated B-24's) and Flying Fortresses (Boeing B-17's).

Sir Charles added that the ideal of "standardized Anglo-American military airplanes embodying the best thought of the two nations" is in sight.

The new manual said that 8,574 Axis planes had been shot down by the R.A.F. from the start of the war to Jan. 1, 1942. In the same period the R.A.F. lost only 3,692 of its own planes.

Britain's Hawker Hurricane was described in the manual as the most heavily-armed fighter in action in the world. It mounts either 12 Browning .303 machine guns or four

They recorded near misses on another light cruiser and destroyer. All this they accomplished in addition to their primary mission of keeping the enemy under observation.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 21 — (CP). — Cattle trade was slow at steady prices up to mid-session on the Livestock Market here today. Lambs were 50 cents to $1 lower. Veal calves and sheep were steady. No price was established for hogs. Unsold from yesterday was 400 head of cattle.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle, 520; calves, 500; hogs, 560; sheep and lambs, 400.

A considerable part of Monday's cattle supply at the Union Stock Yards was consigned to the Wartime Food Corporation for appraisal. The run was somewhat below normal, but was cleaned up fairly well at steady prices. It was estimated that 300 head were unsold at the close, although there was a possibility these would be taken by the Wartime Food Corporation when it had completed its appraisals for the day.

Weighty steers sold at $10.60 to $10.85; butcher steers, $9 to $10.65; heifers, $10 to $10.50; butcher cows, $7 to $ 8.25; bulls, $8.75 to $10; fed calves, $10.50 to $12; stockers, $8 to $10.75.

Veal calves sold at $14 to $14.50 for choice with other grades downward to $9.

Good ewe and wether lambs sold generally at $15 with a few up to $15.50, and other grades, $13 to $14.

Sheep sold at $5 to $8.

Hogs closed previously at $15.90 to $16.00 dressedweight at yards or plants.

For Wednesday, July 22

EXCEPTIONAL opportunity for expanding th position and prestige is promised. This may be accompanied by financial growth and credit. Matters [illegible] this end should be extremely lively and eventful, probably through travel, contacts and agreements, through agencies, communications, writings and other meriterious contracts or correspondence.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a successful and prosperous year if they will take advantage of glowing and expansive conditions. There are signs of increase of funds and credit, with new programs of brilliant ideas having appeal from those in power and high station. Also there may be advancement by means of travel, writings, agencies and new ventures.

A child born on this day should have much practical versatility, with lofty ambitions and much acumen. Its friendly nature may invite imposition or fraud.

Hand To Hand Fighting On Two Banks

Retreat In South Continues Into Hilly Lower Donets

By EDDIE GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 21—(AP).—Hand-to-hand fighting raged on both banks of the Don before Voronezh today as the Russians sought to capture all bridgeheads and cut off strong German forces striking at the city from newly-fortified positions.

Red army seizure of the initiative in the Voronezh area, however, was accompanied by a further withdrawal of the Soviet left flank southeast of Voroshilovgrad to escape encirclement, a fighting retreat into hilly country of the lower Donets basin.

Movements in the battle of Voronezh were so swift, a dispatch said, that one Red army group which had driven back to the Don plunged across without waiting for extra support, swimming and wading to grapple with the Germans on the western bank.

The principal crossing still is in Red army hands, although many places on both banks have changed hands several times, another dispatch reported.

Rumanians were reported rushed into action to reinforce staggering Hungarian and German regiments south of the city, in the "V" formed by the junction of the Don and the Voronezh Rivers. The Russians were said to have made several crossings of the Don in this zone to strike at supporting groups on the west bank.

Both the Soviet information bureau and the army newspaper Red Star told of the fight-and-fall-back defence to the south.

Southeast of Voroshilovgrad lies a branch-line east-to-west railway from Pervozvanovka to Likhaya which the Germans need for their operations. The line connects with the Moscow-Rostov trunk railway and a spur to Stalingrad, on the Volga.

Wipe Out 100 Tanks.

Air and ground action was declared to have destroyed or damaged about 100 more of the hundreds of tanks thrown into the Don Basin offensive by the Nazi Field-Marshal Von Bock.

Churchill Mum Upon Election

LONDON, July 21 (CP) — Prime Minister Churchill declined in the House of Commons today to commit himself on the question of calling a general parliamentary election before the end of 1942. The last general election was in 1935.

(The life of a parliament generally is five years or less but this has been extended because of the war. The parliament which sat during the First Great War met on Jan. 31, 1911, and was dissolved on Nov. 25, 1918, having existed for seven years, nine months and 25 days).

In answer to a request by Rupert De La Bere, Conservative, for a statement regarding the government's intentions concerning holding a election, Mr. Churchill replied:—

"It would be most unusual, in my view, and contrary to the best precedent for any statement to be made forecasting the advice which, in the hypothetical circumstances, should be tendered to the King in respect of a dissolution."

In order to obtain a general election it would be necessary for the Prime Minister to advise the King to dissolve parliament.

Some sections of parliament, the press and the public have been demanding dissolution of the present house, which was mainly elected in 1935, and calling of a new election in an effort to determine what critics term the true sentiments of the people.

Objections have been raised, however, that an election would upset the country and require a new registration of voters because of wartime shifts in population.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

Wheat, Rye Cut In Hamilton

GORE'S LANDING, July 21 — (ENS). — Harvesting in the north end of Hamilton Township started on Thursday when Frank Westington cut and stooked a field of barley. George Henderson and Leslie Carruthers of Rice Lake Drive started cutting wheat and on Frank Westington's farm the wheat is 68 inches tall. An odd shoot of rye measured 72 inches.

The crops are in excellent condition at present. Vegetable gardens in the village are yielding peas, potatoes, carrots and beets in large quantities. The raspberry crop has not been as good this week as expected, and still selling at 20 cents per quart.

Sure They'll Replant

LONDON, July 21—(CP).—Confidence that reconstruction of Java's rubber plantations will be started "as soon as the tide of war and the enemy finally recede from Java," was expressed by W. H. Daukes, chairman of the board of the Anglo-Dutch Plantations of Java, Ltd., in a report at the Board's annual meeting here Monday, Aneta, the Netherlands News Agency reported.

Tolls To Go

MONTREAL, July 21.— (CP) — Bridge tolls may be lifted shortly on the Federal-controlled Victoria and Harbor bridges here, Provincial Roads Minister Bochard said yesterday. Mr. Bouchard said he had talked with Hon. C. D. Howe, acting minister of public works on the week-end and that "prospects were encouraging" in regard to abolition of tolls.

Their War Profit Of $860,000 Under Investigation

William Scrimgeour, LEFT, is shown as he testified before a House naval affairs committee in Washington that his firm, the William Scrimgeour and Sons, received the sum of $860,000 in commissions in the last 18 months. This sum was realized by obtaining war contracts for 11 manufacturers. When Rep. Magnuson, of Washington, asked William Scrimgeour, father and founder of the partnership, "What's your definition of war profiteering?" he replied, "I don't think that I have one." Maxwell Scrimgeour is shown, RIGHT, trying to dodge the photographer while testifying before the committee. He testified that the family had collected $205,864 in commission fees for contracts obtained in the last three years from the Navy Department alone.

Death Ends at 64 Annenburg's Colorful Career

ROCHESTER, Minn., July 21. — (AP).—M. L. Annenberg—immigrant, newsboy, circulation genius, millionaire publisher and, finally a federal prisoner who won his parole only seven weeks ago—died last night. He was 64.

Publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer and head of an extensive financial empire based on racing publications, Annenberg had been a patient here since his release on parole June 3 from the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa.

He had served 23 months of a three-year sentence for income tax evasion in a case called the largest of its kind on record and which obligated him to pay the United States Government $10,000,000.

Annenberg was four-year-old when his father, an impoverished Russian farmer, came to the United States in 1882 and settled in Chicago as a junk peddler. The boy had little formal schooling. He carried messages, clerked in a grocery and sold newspapers.

The start of his meteoric rise to fame and fortune generally is counted from 1904 when Hearst made him circulation manager of the old Chicago Examiner.

Millionaire At 39.

Newspaper circulation was Annenberg's forte. It pyramided under his touch and that—coupled with judicious investments in real estate—made him a millionaire at 39.

In 1918, Annenberg became circulation manager for Brisbane's newspaper in Milwaukee, and when Brisbane sold it to Hearst the following year, Annenberg moved in as circulation manager for the entire Hearst system.

About the same time, Annenberg went into the racing publications business and it grew into the largest in the country.

He bought the Inquirer in 1936 for an estimated $15,000,000, went into Republican politics and fought the New Deal.

When he was indicted on charges of evading taxes, penalties and interest of $5,548,384, on 1932-36 income—and was sentenced on his plea of guilty to one count—Annenberg declared he was a victim of political persecution.

He became ill shortly after he entered prison.

At his bedside when he died were Mrs. Annenberg and four of their eight children.

Flying Fortress Holds Off 23 Japs

WASHINGTON, July 21—(AP)—A Flying Fortress bomber, piloted by Captain Frank D. Sharp of Salem, Ore., fought off 23 Japanese fighters, shooting down four of the enemy planes, during a two-hour battle over Burma, the United States War Department reported today.

After bombing Rangoon, the four-engined Boeing B17 was attacked by the enemy fighters. One gunner was killed and four other members of the crew were wounded. All the bombers' guns were put out of action, the rudder controls were shot away and two engines knocked out of commission.

Nevertheless, the Department reported, after six members of the crew, including two wounded, had bailed out, Sharp and his co-pilot, both wounded managed to land the plane and make their way back to their command.

The announcement did not identify any of the crew except Sharp, and did not disclosed when the battle occurred.

Centenary friends Honor Young Couple

ROSENEATH, July 21.—(ENS).—Mr. and Mrs. Willis Dowler, a recent bridal couple, were guests of honor on Friday night when the community folk of Centenary gathered in the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dowler and presented the young couple with a miscellaneous shower of gifts. In addition, the charivari party of a few evenings previous made a gift of an electric toaster, a silk bedspread and maderia pillow slips. Ernest Burrison conveyed the good wishes of this group and Dawson Timlin offered the gifts.

The members of Centenary W.A. with little Miss Lois Arthur on the society's behalf making the presentation of a silver relish dish, conveyed their good wishes in an address read by Miss Emma Sherwin. The recipients made a happy response.

A sing-song and crokinole were enjoyed before refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Dowler (nee Phyllis Bosnel) will reside in Port Hope.

How to make the most of your Coffee

WHATEVER type of coffee-maker you use, follow these rules to prevent waste and to use coffee to best advantage.

1 Use good coffee — correctly ground for your method of coffee-making.

2 Measure ground coffee and water carefully so as to provide just the number of cupfuls you need and no more. Use freshly drawn water.

3 Make coffee at just below boiling point. Boiling develops bitterness and spoils flavor. Remove grounds as soon as coffee is made.

4 Serve immediately, if possible. If necessary to keep hot, use only low heat.

5 Keep coffee maker scrupulously clean. Stale odors and sediment affect flavor. Preheat by scalding just before use.

MAXWELL HOUSE is a blend of the world's finest coffees, roasted by a special process to capture all its extra goodness. It offers precisely correct grinds for each type of coffee maker—Drip and Regular. Maxwell House reaches you absolutely roaster-fresh because it is sealed in a Super-Vacuum tin. This is important because roasted coffee, once ground, loses flavor rapidly when exposed to air. The best way to retain its aroma is to keep it in the tin.

Claims Italians Are Poor Shots

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 21—(CP). — The trouble with the Italian Air Force is not that they are unable to fly, says Sqdn. Leader Lloyd C. Schwab, D.F.C., but that they just can't shoot.

Sqdn Ldr. Schwab should know. He has just returned here after fighting Italians in Libya, Greece, Crete and Syria, and has bagged 11 of them.

He was a victim of infantile paralysis in 1928, but overcame this handicap to become the commanding officer of the single squadron of ancient Gloucester Gladiator fighters which challenged the whole Italian air force on the Albanian front in the Battle of Greece.

A member of the Royal Air Force for almost seven years, Sqdn. Ldr. Schwab has been loaned to the Canadian Government by the R.A.F. and will be chief flying instructor of a fighter operational training unit, first of its kind in Canada.

"Right in the middle of a nasty dogfight" he said, "the 'Eyties' will do the prettiest acrobatics you'll want to see."

"That's the reason we were able to knock them off. They outnumbered us and their aircraft were a lot faster than our Gloucester Gladiators."

They Call Her George

MONTREAL, July 21.— (CP) — The Shaughnessy barracks cat is a very feminine feline but the Canadian Women's Army Corp girls call her "George." I guess the girls feel there's a man around the house," says Capt. Madeleine St. Laurent of Quebec, senior officer.

Bolt Shocks 14

MOUNT ALBERT, Ont., July 21—(CP). — Fourteen persons suffered shock and burns on Sunday when a bolt of lightning passed through Byron Armstrong's home in this York County village.

Accompanied by a blinding flash, the charge came along the stovepipes from the chimney and also down from a radio aerial.

Mrs. Morris McNelly, who was seated in the kitchen, was burned severely about the shoulders and back. Mona Armstrong and Marion McNelly were burned about the body.

Peterboro Boys In Depot Band

A number of Peterborough boys who are serving as members of the 3-A District Depot Band of Fort Frontenac Barracks, Kingston, put on a very fine band concert in Macdonald Park there recently, according to word received from Musician Sydney Smith.

Hundreds of people thronged the park along with swimmers, and boats drifted up and down the shores. Songs that are so effectively arranged for band work, such as the Sousa March, "Seper Fidelis" and "The Rosary" were very much enjoyed.

The other boys stationed there at present are E. Jones, E. P. Suddards, R. Clarke, C. Crowley, K. Kenwood, S. James, G. Johns and L. McDonald, the latter recently retired because of ill-health.

Musician Sydney Smith said in his letter that the people of Kingston had been kind and tried to make it a second home for them, but that as far as they were concerned Peterborough still was tops.

Tourist Wires Car For Thieves

(ENS). — The persistent blowing of the siren on an automobile this week resulted in the juvenile population of this village flocking around the Rice Lake House to investigate a car with a Pennsylvania licence.

Two American visitors, father and son, who owned the sedan obligingly satisfied the curiosity of the boys, explaining the gadgets which had been installed to prevent thieving.

The son who is an electrical engineer, had the bumper, tires, and other portions of the car charged with electricity which started the siren screaming whenever the car was touched. Thieves had once tried to take the tires in New York, but the siren called so loudly that their work had to be abandoned in a hurry.

A seaplane landed at the dock on Friday with two men and a woman on board. It was a dual-controlled machine and had flown down from Toronto in 30 minutes. After making a purchase in the local store, the occupants re-entered the plane and taxied from the dock to MacAllister's Point before again taking to the air and heading back for Toronto.

The intense heat on Saturday and Sunday brought many tourists and visitors to the lakeside for relief. Early on Sunday morning, the pier was lined with cars and all day Sunday until the heavy storm late in the afternoon traffic was heavy on the roads.

Rev. Mr. Fisher left on Saturday noon for Oak Lake Summer Camp, where he is taking part in the lectures. Accompanying Mr. Fisher were Misses Betty Graham, Doreen McKinlay of Plainville, Shirley Drope, Louise Cowper, and Dorothy McCulloch of Harwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Dilk and three children of New York are guests at the Rice Lake House, and also of Miss Norah Hennessey, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Melville Harris.

Several cabin cruisers were anchored in the bay and at the pier with parties on board for the week-end.

The electrical storm on Sunday afternoon was accompanied by extremely high winds which caused huge waves on the lake. Some boats were caught out in it, and in trying to make port were often lost to view in the trough of the waves. Big combers swept over the pier.

Rev. Allan and Mrs. Johnson, with baby son David and Mrs. Knight of Toronto returned to the rectory on Friday from vacation in Haliburton.

Letters To The Editor

All newspapers attach great importance to the department headed "Letters To The Editor"; if a paper is to be a true organ of public opinion it must provide space in which its readers may discuss local problems and make complaints and criticisms. Very frequently these criticisms are directed against the newspaper itself, and this is an excellent thing; a newspaper is by its very nature a monopoly; there is no record of a newspaper having been edited on a communistic basis; therefore, in the interests of fairness, a newspaper must be prepared to accept, and publish, criticism of itself.

• • •

But in publishing a Letter To The Editor a newspaper accepts responsibility for that letter, and may be called upon to take the consequences of such publication under the law. For this reason newspapers have long made it a rule that they will publish only such letters as have the writer's name attached to them. They will publish letters signed with pen-names, withholding the name of the author if that is his wish, but they must in every case know who wrote the letter. They publish no anonymous letters.

• • •

The justice of this attitude is apparent. Newspapers do not publish anonymously. A newspaper, as a company, stands behind everything which it publishes, and the names of officials of that company are published at the newspaper's colophon or mast-head in every issue. They are responsible for the views expressed in Letters To The Editor as well as for everything else which they print; it is only fair, then, that they should know whose opinions they are accepting responsibility for, particularly when they disagree with those opinions.

• • •

We have received a letter which takes violent issue with an editorial which we published on July 15, commenting on the recent action of James Caesar Petrillo, the head of the musicians' union. The letter makes many things clear. For instance, it is clear that the writer has not read our editorial attentively and has misunderstood much of what we said. It is also clear that the writer has not been following the Petrillo rumpus in the newspapers. It is also clear that the writer has a low opinion of the Examiner and its editorial page in particular. The letter is an interesting one and makes lively reading. We regret that we cannot publish it. It is not signed.

• • •

We see no reason why we should publish letters which are extremely abusive toward this paper when the writer is apparently afraid to acknowledge his views. We are keeping the letter, and we shall be glad to publish as soon as the writer comes to the Examiner office and gives his name. But we have no intention of helping him to remain anonymous. Anonymity has a strange fascination for some minds; it has a romantic, Scarlet Pimpernel air about it. It also provides chances to say things without running any personal risk. We have no intention, upon this or any future occasion, of publishing letters from men or women who are afraid to sign their names to what they have said.

Death Of a Gossip

It seems unlikely that many readers of this paper were interested in the announcement that Maury Henry Biddle Paul had died in New York last week, for he had no interest in Canada and his lively writings were not familiar to Canadian readers. Nevertheless he had his influence on Canada, as on all of this continent, for Maury Paul was one of the great arbiters of fashion, one of the great establishers of good social form. He made and broke New York society celebrities with a stroke of his pen; he invented the expression Cafe Society; he was one of the greatest gossips of the modern world.

The gossip writer and his enormous power are curious products of our North American civilization. Although we pride ourselves upon our democracy, and are genuinely democratic in essentials, many of us yearn for the iron pyrites of social acclaim; we long to move in exclusive circles, and to be envied by our less fortunate friends. It is remarkable how widespread this desire is; the only people who appear to be wholly free of it are those who are genuinely contented and those who are certain that they will never be able to aspire to such distinction. This passion to be considered "smart" gives rise to such power as was wielded by Maury Paul.

He knew everyone who was of any importance whatever. He knew every remotest twig and bud on every Family Tree. And he knew everyone who aspired to be a figure in the world of society. In his position as social reporter on the New York Journal-American he was able either to give them a helping hand or to banish them forever to the Siberia of social obscurity. Consequently he was courted and fawned upon to an amazing degree. He was best known by his pen-name of Cholly Knickerbocker, and his elegantly dressed figure was to be seen at every event of social importance; indeed, if he were not there the event, for many people, ceased to be of any importance whatever.

Maury Paul was an excellent journalist. Although he gave the public what it wanted he was discreet, honest and in no sense the victim of the truly remarkable power which he wielded. He was to New York what Beau Nash was to eighteenth century Bath, and what Cafe Society will do without him we really cannot say.

Remembering the Magic Lantern

The magic lantern is an extremely ancient device, and its invention is usually ascribed to Athanasius Kircher, who flourished about the middle of the seventeenth century. But last week, according to the Watertown Times there died a man who really bridged the gap between Kircher's lantern and the first moving picture projector. He was Caspar Briggs, and he was 96. He and his father produced slides with a background over which another slide with a figure was passed, giving an illusion of movement. Briggs travelled all over the U.S. with lantern-slide lectures on Evangeline and Hiawatha, and such popular tear-jerkers as Ten Nights In A Bar Room and The Drunkard's Reform. He gave a great deal of pleasure in this way.

There must be few people over thirty in Canada who have not seen a magic lantern show of one kind or another. Churches esteemed these entertainments highly and frequently used them as a means of raising money. They were surprisingly good entertainment, in a quiet way. Themes designed to further the cause of total abstinence were popular, but stories of the type once described as "semi-sacred" were even more so. Such semi-sacred tales were Ben Hur and The Sign of the Cross. As the slides were shown a reader accompanied them with selections from the book, and thus, in Ben Hur, the famous chariot race would remain before the eyes of the audience in a state of suspended, though violent, animation, for quite five minutes until the reader had finished, and clicked his little clicker for the slide to be changed. Missionaries, returned from that indefinite locality, described as "the foreign field," also lectured with the aid of the magic lantern, and remarkably interesting and informative some of them were.

The rise of the moving-pictures has robbed the magic lantern of all its magic and a great part of its usefulness. It has also wrought a great change in the lecturer's art. Nowadays a lecturer is someone who speaks for an hour or more without any pictures to help him, and there must be many people in the average lecture audience who long for a few magic lantern slides to beguile the dreary stretches of oratory. The lecturer, with his slides, his pointer and his clicker, was an entertainer; now, alas, he is an educator, stripped of his glory. There are few lecturers who would not be better off with a magic lantern and some slides, even if the latter were shown upside down.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Where should we have been at this period of the war if it had not been for the Russians, asks a Toronto paper. In full retreat from Medicine Hat, probably.

Moscow has a number of Iron Crosses in its War Museum which were awarded to German troops for the capture of Moscow last winter. Can someone have been too hasty?

This is the time of year when youthful philosophers speculate on the fact that black currants are really blue, and that they are green when they are red. Isn't it time that we had a Parliamentary enquiry into the ambiguous nature of this fruit?

Thoughts On Wartime Verse

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

A BOOK of verse has come to hand from Dent's which is the work of Squadron Leader G. L. Creed of the R.C.A.F.; probably you have seen some of his things in magazines and newspapers. The book is called "For Freedom" and all the royalties from its sale will go to the R.C.A.F. Benevolent Fund, which is used to relieve distress among the personnel of the Royal Canadian Air Force, past and present. If you buy the book, therefore, you are contributing to a worthy cause.

Unfortunately it is no part of my duty as a reviewer to recommend books because their sale will aid a deserving charity. But if you buy Squadron Leader Creed's book with your eyes open, you will not be cheated. He does not pretend to be a poet. He attempts no great flights. He is content to write light verse about the war and the R.C.A.F., and this he does very well indeed. The production of light verse is no simple matter. Far more than poetry of deeply serious intent, it relies upon pleasing and well-sustained rhythm and dextrous use of words. Its technique is acquired only by long application. It has difficulties, limitations and triumphs peculiar to itself. Squadron Leader Creed has evolved a manner which is entirely suitable for his matter, and his verse, therefore, has the virtue of being complete and highly finished in its own way. "For Freedom" may be read with pleasure by almost anyone; it contains nothing that is puzzling or disconcerting.

◇ ◇ ◇

SQUADRON Leader Creed is a Scotsman, the son of the inventor of the Creed Printing Telegraph System, a device which is in use in most up-to-date newspaper offices. He was born in Scotland and was educated at the Whitgift Grammar School at Croydon and at Cambridge. He entered the R.A.F. in the last war too late to see service; his first flight coincided with the Armistice, to his chagrin. Since that time he has done many things, including radio work and fox-farming. Immediately upon the outbreak of this war he joined the R.C.A.F. and now holds the post of Deputy Provost Marshal at Air Force Headquarters.

This writer has a pleasing lightness and deftness, even when he is dealing with serious subjects. Naturally it is not possible to write of war in a wholly comic vein while that war is still in progress. Readers will remember that it was not for some years after the last war books which dealt with it in a humorous manner began to appear and this war has been too horrible to appeal to humorists, who are as a usual thing the most humane of men. Squadron Leader Creed writes primarily inspirational and pathetic verse, but in doing so he never permits himself to become heavy. It cannot be said that he has anything particularly original to offer in the way of thought, but in many cases he has achieved genuine success in that field of poetry which consists of expressing universal emotions in simple and direct language.

LET no reader consider that I reproach this writer or decry his effort because I do not say that his work is an unqualified success. It is nothing to his discredit that he has not succeeded where many poets of genius have failed. War has given rise to much poetry of one kind and another, but surprisingly little of it is good. Examine the war poetry written during the last century; how much of it can be called great? Little enough. The best that our poets seem able to do is to produce brief snatches of verse in which an emotion, often connected with war only at second hand, is indicated with varying degrees of sharpness and directness. There is not one single long poem which deals with war objectively.

◇ ◇ ◇

It is possible to see in this lack of first-rate war poetry an indication of the progress of civilization. There was a time when war was one of the few permissable themes for poetic treatment. Much of the earliest verse which we possess consists of long, and sometimes wearisome, accounts of battles and killing. Love, war and virtue; upon these themes the ancients harped with the insistence of parrots who knew but three words. Odd how little modern poetry approaches any of these classic themes directly! Our modern poets hate nothing so much as simplicity and directness.

◇ ◇ ◇

Returning to Squadron Leader Creed I commend his book to your notice. He has written some good light verse about the R.C.A.F., which is the darling of his heart, and he is turning over anything he may make from the venture to a good cause. Whether he makes anything, and how much he turns over in consequence rests entirely in your hands. If you are looking for notable war poetry, he is not your man, but he will give you a very pleasant half-hour.

Unconsidered Trifles

Monty: "Six pork pies, six jam tarts, and three ices—all for six-pence. Just fancy that!"
Fatty: "Where? Where?"
Monty: "Nowhere. I said, 'just fancy'!"

◇ ◇ ◇

A man who owned a dilapidated motor car took it to a garage for the night. He was shocked when the proprietor told him the fee would be a pound. "Why a pound?" he asked. "I shall come for it in the morning."

"Ah," said the garage proprietor, "that's just it. Will you come?"

◇ ◇ ◇

"I have heard a good deal about people who borrow trouble, but I think my wife will want a lot of beating in that line."

"Why, I thought she was always cheerful and contented with her lot."

"She was until our baby was born six weeks ago. Now she is worrying because he may marry some girl that we shall not like."

◇ ◇ ◇

"What does this expression 'Sez you' mean!" asked the judge.

The clerk of the court replied:

"My lord, it appears that this is a slang expression of American origin which has gained regrettable currency in the language of our people through the insidious agency of the cinema, and is, as I am led to understand, employed to indicate a state of dubiety in the mind of the speaker as to the veracity, or credibility of a statement made to him."

"Oh, yeah!" said the judge.

HIS NIGHTMARE

He said he couldn't afford to buy War Savings Certificates.

Both Fronts Looking Better

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

HEARTENING reports from both Egypt and Russia marked the war news as the second month of summer opens.

In Egypt, the rebuilt 8th Army has more than held its own in opening phases of a new clash with Rommel. It not only shows strong evidence of defensive strength across the narrows of the desert corridor protecting Alexandria, but is inching its way into position for attack.

Rommel's situation is growing increasingly perilous. British forays in the centre and southward to the rim of the Qattara depression are a constant threat of encirclement. British-American power and British light naval craft are stepping up the attack on Rommel's coastal supply lines far in the rear of the fighting front.

RUSS WITHDRAWAL ENDING

As London authorities picture the Nazi-Russian front, it seems clear that Marshal Timoshenko has about completed his withdrawal in the Don-Donets Basin. Russian troops have not only held the Voronezh anchor, on the upper Don, thus menacing much of the Nazi battle design, but also made good a retreat behind the Don below that point to halt the eastward surge of the foe. It is only southward, toward Rostov and the lower Don, that the Russian retreat to new holding positions continues.

The German accounts virtually confirm that picture. They say the "pursuit" has been resumed south and east after a two or three day interruption not previously admitted by the Nazis. Heavy rains and bad roads in the Don-Donets Basin have caused the delay, Berlin said.

The weather does not appear to have similarly bogged down Timoshenko's withdrawal behind hard-fighting rear guards. The authorized commentator in London indicates he has virtually completed the massing of his main army on a line north of the lower Don anchored at Rostov in the west and running east along that river probably to the Don-Donets confluence, thence up the Donets and the Kelitva watershed to Raspopinsk on the upper or northern side of the Don bend.

STRAIGHT DEFENSE FRONT

That would represent a relatively straight defense front from Rostov on the north bank of the lower Don to Raspopinsk on the south bank of the upper Don between 250 and 300 miles long. On the lower Don it would be bolstered by marshlands, leaving its northern blank below Raspopinsk as its weakest sector so far as terrain goes.

The advantage of that position or its equivalent for defense purposes would be more than the shortened front it represented.

It would endeavor to hold at least a portion of the eastern side of the Don bend which comes within fifty miles of the Volga at one point and keep open a communications corridor north to the Moscow area served by railroads and highways.

The indicated Timoshenko defense line also suggests, however, that Russian leadership is convinced that the German attack is spending its force even in the south due to losses and transportation difficulties. The German admission that summer rains had clogged Hitler's war machine for two days or more at so vital a stage of the effort to crash through to the lower Volga at Stalingrad sufficiently demonstrates the increasing Nazi communications problem.

Hong Kong Secrecy

(Saturday Night)

WE are not disposed to censure the Government for its attitude on the secrecy of the Hong Kong evidence. Opponents of the Government—and since it is a party Government it naturally has opponents—profess to believe that there cannot possibly have been anything in that evidence which it would do the enemy any good to know. This, as we have already noted, appears to us to be highly improbable, considering that the subject matter of the inquiry must have ranged over the whole field of Canadian military preparation, transport facilities, training operations, equipment and so forth. It is true that with the lapse of time the information becomes less valuable to the enemy, and it is apparently on this factor that Col. Drew bases his confident assertion that it could all be revealed now without the slightest damage; but he does not have to take the responsibility for revealing it, and the Government does.

Nor does the matter appear to us to be of major importance. The whole of the evidence was available to the Commissioner and was weighed in his Report; and with all respect to Col. Drew we do not feel disposed to accept his view, which is in effect that the Commissioner must have been either senile or excessively partisan, and we doubt whether any large part of the electorate accepts it either. Meanwhile it is important to bear in mind that the fate of the Hong Kong expedition has no more to do with the matters at issue in the inquiry than with the weather on the day the expedition sailed. Hong Kong would have fallen just the same if the Canadian troops had been the most perfectly trained and equipped in the world; and the irresponsible sob-sisters of journalism who write as if somebody in Ottawa were responsible for the illnesses and deaths among the Canadian prisoners now in the hands of the Japanese are doing no good to Canadian morale or Canadian common sense.

A Word By The Sponsors

Six months or so ago, it was noticed by the censors in Cairo that all the despatches written by a certain gentleman introduced the subject of tea. The soldiers were having a gruelling time—but tea revived them. The duties of such and such a service were manifold—but they always found time to go and put a kettle on the fire. The articles and stories the correspondent told were quite interesting, but they all lightly brought in the subject of tea. The writer was duly called up for questioning. Yes, it was as the censors had suspected. He was working for some tea industry or association or something of that sort. All very amusing, but some little distance removed from Henry W. Nevinson or Philip Gibbs.—London Spectator.

Weeds

WHAT undoubtedly constitutes a menace to those farmers who are making an honest effort to keep farms clear is the crop of weeds found on vacant lots and roadsides and on neighboring farms whose owners are careless about such things. Everyone should cooperate and do his bit in the war against weeds.—Winchester Press.

Milkweed to the Rescue

WE are lucky in this country in having smart persons who can figure out substitutes for our shortages, some proving ever better than the original. Petosky, Mich., reports that engineers were studying buildings to set up the first gins for processing milkweed floss. There is an abundance of wild milkweed there which is to be used in place of kapok for life preservers and rafts. Kapok is no longer obtainable from the East Indies. The Navy Department indicates that it will take a million pounds of floss as a suitable substitute.—The Argonaut.

Ban On Tea For Under-Fives

After July 27, when the new food ration books will come into use, the weekly tea ration of 2 oz. will not be allowed to children under five. Announcing this, the Minister of Food stated that he was told that tea was not good for young children, for whom special provision had been made in priority supplies of milk, eggs, oranges, and cod-liver oil. The United States is supplying sufficient concentrated orange juice to meet the special allocation to infants up to two years old.—London Times.

A Bible Message For Today

(From The Authorized Version)

AND Jacob was left alone; and there wrestled a man with him until the breaking of the day. And when he saw that he prevailed not against him, he touched the hollow of his thigh; and the hollow of Jacob's thigh was out of joint, as he wrestled with him. And he said, Let me go, for the day breaketh. And, he said, I will not let thee go, except thou bless me.

And he said unto him, What is thy name? And he said, Jacob. And he said, Thy name shall be called no more Jacob, but Israel: for as a prince hast thou power with God and with men, and hast prevailed.

And Jacob asked him, and said, Tell me, I pray thee, thy name. And he said, wherefore is it that thou dost ask after my name? And he blessed him there.

And Jacob called the name of the place Peniel: for I have seen God face to face, and my life was preserved.—Gen. xxxii; 24-30.

• • •

Hear, O my son, and receive my sayings; and the years of thy life shall be many. I have taught thee in the way of wisdom; I have led thee in right paths. . . . Enter not into the path of the wicked, and go not in the way of evil men. . . .

But the path of the just is as the shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day.—Prov. iv; 10, 11, 14, 18.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Mr. Smith: In answer to your letter of July 18 in Examiner re Wednesday afternoon closing: Our hours are from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. from Monday until Friday except Wednesday, 12.30 noon closing and Saturday 10 p.m. Therefore, Mr. Smith, we work our half-holiday hours out on Saturday night while you are perhaps out having a good time; and moreover if you are a man of war work or factory, or beverage room, or farmer, what were you doing sporting around the streets on Wednesday afternoon instead of being about your business? We would gladly give up our Wednesday afternoons for the Saturday nights off instead of struggling with sugar ration cards and sugar vouchers but we don't mind that as it is our war effort—and an effort it is today. Mr. Smith when you work one or 2 hours overtime you get time of time and a half for it. What do we get? Nothing. We only give our pleasant smile whether we feel like it or not. Then do we get our cost of living bonus as you must get? No. But we go about from week to week with the same old salary and the same old troubles.

Compare a man's or girl's salary in a store to that of the factory man or woman and then the time off and see who is the better off. We also would like to see the smile on your face after having butter and lard and such like shipped from Simpson's or Eaton's in Toronto. If you shop out of town and I shop out of town, what is to become of Peterborough? Therefore Mr. Smith we do not wish for your vote for an all-day Wednesday closing.

Victory Recipes Planned For Canadians' Health

It is no longer the cook who makes the lightest, whitest bread, or cake, the richest shortbread, the flakiest pastry or the greatest variety of relishes and pickles who takes the culinary honors.

Emphasis in cooking to-day is on nutritious easily-digested foods so well prepared that the family will eat generous quantities of simple, wholesome things necessary to build and maintain health and vitality.

Nutritious foods need not be dull or uninteresting if you keep rules for meal planning in mind.

Balance food flavors. Don't serve all sharp, or all bland foods at one meal.

Serve at least one dish that is crisp and crunchy. Carrot sticks or cole slaw add to vitamin value as well as supplying crispness.

Vary the shapes of food dishes. Avoid potato croquettes with meat or fish coquettes. Serve potatoes in mounds instead. The best dish in the world becomes monotonous if served too often, or always in the same form.

Put contrast in food temperatures Even in hot weather a hot soup is desirable with cold salad meals.

Color is highly important because it is the food that's eaten that really counts in any nutrition program; attractive plates appeal to appetites. Vary colors on the plates. Use green and yellow vegetables to add interest and step up the vitamin A value of the diet. Use colorful garnishes for foods that have little color. You may have to bring your art training into play and avoid combinations as beets and tomatoes, but either one of these used with a colorless food, as celery, cucumbers, cauliflower, parsnips, or white-meated fish, supplies enlivening contrast.

Here is a menu suitable for a hot weather luncheon or supper which Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture, has prepared as a nutritious meal, rich in color and vitamin content and with contrast in flavors and in temperature:

Cream of Spinach Soup
Tomato and Cottage Cheese Salad
Fresh Raspberries
Oatmeal Cookies.

Cream of Spinach Soup.

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
3 cups milk
½ teaspoon salt.

Put one and one-half cups raw spinach through a food chopper, using the fine blade. Add to the white sauce with one cup of boiling water. Season with ½ teaspoon of salt and pepper. Cook five minutes stirring constantly. Serves six.

Tomato and Cottage Cheese Salad.

6 medium-sized tomatoes
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
4 hard-cooked eggs (sliced)

Peel tomatoes and leave whole. Chill in the refrigerator. With a sharp knife make four parallel cuts from the top almost to the bottom of the tomatoes, being careful not to cut right through. Insert slices of egg in the cuts, Arrange on crisp salad greens with a tablespoon of cottage cheese, and sprinkle with parsley. Serve with mayonnaise or boiled dressing.

Pte. W. R. Baskin, Norwood Married In England

On Wednesday afternoon, June 10, 1942, at the Ebenezer Strict Baptist Chapel, Broad Oak, England, the marriage took place of Pte. William Roland Baskin, R.C.A.S.C., only son of Mr. and Mrs. Olive Baskin, of Norwood, Ontario, Canada, and Miss Gladys Mabel Geering, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Reginald Geering of "Ambleside," Old Heathfield, Sussex, England.

The bride, who comes from an old-established Heathfield family, was a member of the Isenhurst Park Tennis Club.

Mr. Frank Gosden, pastor, officiated, and Mrs. E. Upfield was at the organ. The hymn was "Love Divine, All Loves Excelling."

Given away by her father, the bride wore a dress of ice blue crepe, an ice blue hat composed of tiny feathers, trimmed with navy blue veiling, navy suede court shoes and gloves. Her shoulder spray was of pale pink carnations, and she carried a navy blue elephant-hide hand bag, the gift of her mother.

Pte. Ormond Mitchel, cousin of the bridegroom, of Saskatchewan, Canada, was best man.

The bride's mother wore a dress and bolero of dusky pink crepe trimmed with shades of blue, a Reslaw floral tongue trimmed with veiling, and shoes and gloves to tone. The bride's only sister favored a grey tailored suit, pale pink georgette blouse, black hat and accessories.

Dorothy Rogers Wed at Marmora

MARMORA, July 21.—(ENS)—At St. Paul's Church, Marmora, the wedding was solemnized on Saturday evening of Dorothy Irene Rogers of Batawa, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rogers of Marmora Township and Jeroslaw Salmers of Batawa. Rural Dean A. B. Coldwell officiated. The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Horton. Mr. and Mrs. Salmers will take up residence in Batawa.

Cobourg Bride Weds Airman

COBOURG, July 21.——The wedding of Jessie Grieve, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Grieve, of Cobourg, took place yesterday afternoon to Sergeant George Russell of the R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Russell, of Cobourg. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. McKenzie of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at the bride's home.

Given by her father in marriage, the bride wore a white satin floor-length gown with finger-tip veil caught with tiny white flowers. She carried a bouquet of roses and sweet peas. She was attended by Mrs. H. Coats, of Cobourg, who wore a pink net dress, brocaded above the waist, blue hat and carried a bouquet of sweet peas and roses. The best man was Mr. Jack Chapman, of Cobourg.

After the wedding a reception was held at the bride's home, her mother wearing a blue printed silk gown with sheer coat and blue hat. Her flowers were a corsage of roses and sweet peas. The groom's mother received in a powder blue crepe dress with white hat and white accessories and she wore a corsage of sweet peas and roses. About 40 guests were present at the reception, and among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. P. McGlynn, of Mimico; Mr. and Mrs. W. Russell, of Toronto; and Mrs. P. Merridew, of Rochester.

The bride's travelling costume was a brown silk suit with white polka dots white hat and white accessories. After a honeymoon in Quebec they will take up residence near Mountain View where the groom is stationed.

Fish Fits Budget And Is Nutritious

With one eye on the food budget and the other on nutrition possibilities, don't overlook fish in your search for main dish summer foods. Available in almost unlimited variety, fresh, frozen and canned, fish from Canadian waters are well worth special investigation from both economy and food value engles. Light and easily digested, they are a perfect summer food.

Fish loaf, moulded or mixed salads and mousses are a few of the satisfying dishes that are fine for either family or company meals, picnics or week-ends.

Fish Celery Loaf

2 cups flaked, cooked fish (halibut, haddock, whitefish, etc.).
2½ cups soft bread crumbs
1 can condensed celery soup
2 eggs

Combine bread crumbs with fish. Add celery soup and slightly beaten eggs. Bake in 350 F. oven for 1 hour, or until mixture is firm. Serves 6. Serve with a tomato or egg sauce.

Vegetable and Fish Salad

2 cups flaked fish (haddock, halibut, mackerel, etc.).
2 tomatoes chopped coarsely
2 or 3 radishes chopped
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 cup chopped celery or cucumber
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, if available
½ teaspoon lemon juice and same of onion juice if wished

Pickles or a small amount of grated cheese (mild) may be added or substituted as wished. This salad gives any number of variations, according to what is used or omitted. Mix with mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce. Or mix with the following dressing:

⅓ cup salad oil
1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice
½ teaspoon mustard (dry)
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Moulded Salad

1 tablespoon gelatin
1 egg
2 cups milk
2 cups flaked fish (cooked or canned)
¼ cup cold water
1 teaspoon flour
1 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar

Mayonnaise: Mix flour, mustard, sugar and salt, and add to beaten egg, then add milk and vinegar. Cook 10 minutes. Soak gelatin in cold water for five minutes, and add hot mayonnaise. When lukewarm add the cooked flaked fish, and pour in moulds which have been rinsed in cold water.

Neal-Pressich Vows at Marmora

MARMORA, July 21.—(ENS)—The wedding took place at St. Paul's Rectory, Marmora, on Monday evening of Florence Olive Pressich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Pressich of Marmora and Howard George Neal, son of the late George Neal of Rawdon Township and Mrs. Thomas Quackenbush of Marmora. Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell officiated. The happy young couple were unattended.

DOROTHY DIX

Woman's Job Is to Bring Peace, Cheer and Comfort Into Home

DEAR MISS DIX: Two years ago, at the age of seventeen, I married a man twelve years my senior. My mother tells me that I have a good husband, but I am disillusioned. He does not measure up to the dream husband or to the romantic lover that I thought he would be. He treats me as part of the house fixtures and is indifferent to my presence so long as his meals are on time and the home spotless. I am very miserable. What shall I do?—MRS. A. S. C.

ANSWER: Yous is another tragedy of a too-early mariage, for it is only when one in is the teens that one is silly enough to expect to get a husband who will be a perpetual lover and the hero of one's dreams.

If you had waited to marry until after you had grown up, you would have seen enough of life to know that no woman gets a Fairy Prince for a husband and you would not have looked for the imposible. You would have been satisfied with just a plain, ordinary human being, such as you are yourself, and you would have thought yourself lucky to have gotten a man who was good and kind and gave you a comfortable home.

The Motor in the Home

Don't resent your husband regarding you as part of the household equipment. That is what every wife is bound to become. She is the motor that keeps the whole works going and it is no mean compliment that a man pays to the woman to whom he is married when she is just part of the peace and cheer and comfort of his home.

Without known it you have probably come to look upon your husband in much the same way—as a sort of cash register—the thing that provides the money that keeps you soft and warm and safe, that gives you pretty frocks and a car and the luxuries that mean so much to a woman.

After a man and woman are married they cease to be romantic figures to each other. They can't keep up the eternal billing and cooing. But, if their marriage is a success, they come to take each other for granted, and being sure of a love that will never fail them they don't have to be always protesting it or taking its temperature.

You will be wise if you will put all your vain imaginings and foolish little disappointments out of your mind and realize that you are a very lucky girl to have a husband whose only fault is that he isn't an understudy of some impossible creation of your miagination.

ODDS ON HAPPINESS IN MARRIAGE

DEAR MISS DIX: Is there anything left in marriage after the novelty of the first year has worn off? Has any one ever proved it to be a satisfactory institution? My mother and father stage a battle royal on the average of three times a week. My aunts and uncles merely tolerate eah other because they have to. My cousins look at their fractious children and small pay envelopes, and the chorus from one and all is: "Stay single. Hang on to your job and your freedom."

I am twenty-four, engaged to a man who is wonderful now, but I am afraid to get married. What are the odds on happiness in matrimony.—A. B. C.

ANSWER: I think the odds are just about what any two people want to make them. Undoubtedly the great majority of marriages are failures, but I honestly believe that practically every one could be made

ROYALS DEFEAT SOLDIERS TO TAKE SECOND PLACE IN MEN'S LOOP

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Fresh from their holidays the Westclox girls will be seen in action at Ashburnham Bowl tonight when they play their first game in over two weeks with the league-leading Generals as their opponents. The Big Bens were playing good ball before the vacation layoff and if they play back to the form they showed in their last couple of games they should be able to make things decidedly interesting for Mike O'Brien's talent in tonight's tussle. The Generals' pitching choice for this argument has not been announced but probably Norma Strckland or Marilyn McCarthy will get the call. Marg Watson is the likely choice for the Westclockers who are decidedly anxious to take a fall out of their old rivals, the C.G.E. outfit. Generals after going undefeated all season ran into an unexpected setback recently when they dropped a game to the Electrics. They want to wipe out the sting of that loss by walloping the Westclockers. It should be a merry old battle and attract a real crowd to the Bowl. The contest is billed to start at 7 o'clock.

Just before last night's City League game Plazas, through Eddie Starr, waived any claim to the services of Bob Crowe and the young pitcher who started the season with the hockey club team and was allowed by the league to transfer to the Juveniles to help the youngsters along, was signed on by the Royals. It was a good move for the Parnell team for Fraser was an absentee and when the Soldiers began to tee off at the expense of Ronnie Akers who started on the rubber for the Royals, Crowe was sent to the hill top and held the Soldiers in check for the rest of the battle. As a result he got credit for the win when the Royals finally won the argument by scoring five runs in the ninth to take the decision 13 to 11. Incidentally the youngster beat out three perfect bunts to lead his club in hitting. It was an interesting game. Soldiers played some of the best defensive ball of the season with four fast double-plays but in spite of that fact came up with six errors and some of them were decidedly costly. The win gave the Royals a firm grip on second place, only half a game behind the leading Plazas who are billed to play two games this week, one a postponed fixture with the Juveniles and the other a clash with the Soldiers. The schedule is nearly completed and there is still a lively battle all along the line.

We could be wrong but in the announcement that there is to be a softball battle at Riverside Park on Saturday evening at 6.30 o'clock in aid of the British War Victims' Fund between the all-stars of Genelco and the C.G.E. selects we seem to see all the ingredients of a grudge battle. There has been a lot of jockeying going on between the two outfits and as a result the clubs have decided to fight it out on the diamond. Whoever loses, the War Victims' Fund will benefit and with the rivalry between the two outfits at fever heat there should be a tidy tussle between the representatives of the two sections of the big south-end plant. Neither club has announced its lineup as yet but unless such information comes under the head of military secrets we may be able to supply the dope later in the week.

* * * * * *

The hockey situation next winter seems to have a lot of the scribes guessing. At least there is plenty of speculation these days in the sport columns as to the probable situation in the N.H.L. It helps to fill space in the dog days but beyond that serves no useful purpose. It would be just as easy to figure when and where the United Nations will open their second front as to dope out what the hockey roundup will be when the cold weather rolls around. An order-in-council at Ottawa can change the whole setup. The recent announcement that 20-year-old youths are to be called out for military training is an example of what can happen overnight. Many professional clubs were counting on players of that age for the coming campaign but that seems to be out. All the N.H.L. outfits are depending to a considerable extent also upon married players but it could easily be that before the playing season arrives the draft provisions will be extended to cover married men in the lower age groups and that would knock a lot of material out of the picture completely. So what's the use of even trying to guess what is going to happen in hockey. A lot of players do not know what is going to happen tomorrow so far as they are concerned.

While tomorrow night's game in the City Softball League between Luckies and Juveniles does not mean much to the youngsters, it will have a lot to do with the fate of the former team and on that account should be an exciting tussle, especially as the Juveniles are just the sort of a club liable to spill the beans at any time in a game that is badly needed by the opposition. Luckies need a win to get up with the parade and they will have their strongest lineup out there tomorrow night in their drive to climb the ladder before the schedule ends. Bill Lewis who has been training in Haliburton on vacation will be back with Manager Griffin's club and will likely get the pitching assignment. The Juveniles have not yet announced the name of their heaver for tomorrow night's clash. It will not be Bob Crowe anyway for the latter has transferred to the Royals, after Plazas who had first claim on him, waived on the youngster.

There was only one game in the big leagues yesterday but that was enough for the Brooklyn Dodgers to pick up a half game on the idle St. Louis Cards and build up their lead to six and a half games. The Bums won a 5 to 0 decision over the Pittsburg Pirates and Larry French, pitching surprise of the 1942 season harvested his eleventh victory of the campaign as against one defeat by turning in a five hitter to blank the Corsairs. Apparently the veteran southpaw was out to show that he could start games and go through to a win just as easily as he can gather victories in a relief capacity. He has been a gold mine to Brooklyn all season. Brooklyn hammered out ten hits off the offerings of Lanning, their blows including Dolf Camilli's fourteen homer of the season. The Dodgers open a home stand today with the Cincinnati Reds as their first opponents, while St. Louis are billed to play a double-header with the Phillies.

Owing to the fact that most of the Soldier team will be on leave this week-end it has been necessary to revise the City Softball League schedule to some extent. Soldiers were billed to meet Plazas Friday night but the league executive has switched that game over to Wednesday of next week and it will be the final battle of the regular schedule. The Luckies-Juvenile game slated for tomorrow night will go ahead. It had been planned to have had the Plazas and Juveniles play their postponed game Thursday night but that game will now go over until Friday night. The remaining schedule is as follows: Wednesday, July 22, Juveniles vs. Luckies; Friday, July 24, postponed game, Plazas vs. Juveniles; Monday, July 27, Luckies vs. Royals; Wednesday, July 29, Plazas vs. Soldiers. The playoff schedule will be announced next week.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Joe Gordon is the only Yankee in the first ten batters in the American loop, leading the parade with .344. The Boston Red Sox have four, Williams with .337, Dobby Doerr with .331, Pesky .328 and Dom DiMaggio .302....Williams leads in runs scored, runs batted in and home runs....Jack Fitzpatrick and Harold Freeman of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Cilub are each sporting a new shirt today. They won first prize in the twilight doubles competition at Lindsay last night.... Royals are soon going to lose the services of Arnold Smith, veteran first baseman who has enlisted for active service and will report for duty shortly....Ken Fleming, southpaw pitcher of the Soldiers, left today for Ottawa where he will take over new duties....His departure leaves the Military Training Centre club hard hit in a vital department with only one pitcher, Irish Kilfoyle, left to carry on the battle with the playoffs just around the corner....Buddy Rosar is back with the Yanks and has had a fine of $250 slapped on him....Soldiers pulled one of the neatest double plays of the season last night. With Parnell on second Giardino hit a roller to Anderson who threw him out at first and Sero covered third in time to take Thompson's fast throw across the diamond and tag Parnell as he slid in.

Soldiers Fail To Hold Five-Run Lead

Royals grabbed off second place in the City Softball League race at Riverside Park Monday night by coming from behind with a five-run surge in the ninth frame to defeat Soldiers 13 to 11. The military team answered with a two-marker rally in their half of the inning, but fell two short of sewing up the game.

Soldiers had a lead of 7 to 2 at the end of the third session, but Bob Crowe, who took over the pitching burden in the second half of that frame, did a fine relief job for the rest of the battle. Akers started for the winners, but was hit hard in the third and was relieved by Crowe. Royals kept after Stan. Kilfoyle, who went the route for the Soldiers, and finally caught up to him in the ninth. Soldiers tore off four snappy double-plays, but also kicked in with six fielding misplays that did nothing to help their cause.

Thompson, new first baseman for the military team, led the hitters with a homer, triple and two singles in six trips to the plate. Perce Nichols, hockey star, had a single and a double in two appearances, driving in four runs, but defensively he was not so fortunate, dropping a couple of flys in the outfield.

Bob Crowe had three hits and Earl McNabb, George Hawks, Arnold Smith and Pat Calladine each came through with two for the winners.

The Soldiers started the scoring in the first. With one away, McKerrigan walked and Herrick singled off Hawks' hand. Kilfoyle lifted a fly to centre which Pryde dropped and McKerrigan scored, Herrick going to third and the batter to second. Nichols singled to centre to drive in the pair.

Royals came back with a pair in the third. Lionel Holmes was safe when Nichols dropped his fly to right. Akers struck out. McNabb walked. Hawks singled to score Holmes and McNabb registered when Smith was thrown out by Anderson. The third baseman also got Pryde to retire the side.

Soldiers had another big innings in their half of the third. Mortimer singled past second and Thompson slashed another single through short, Mortimer going to third and Thompson taking second on the throw to third. Sero drove a hot single past McNabb, scoring Mortimer and Thompson. McKerrigan forced Sero. Herrick was safe on a fielder's choice when Giardino failed to get McKerrigan going to second. Kilfoyle flied to Pryde, but Nichols doubled to left to send McKerrigan and Herrick home. Crowe relieved Akers, and after walking McIlveen, got Anderson on a fly.

The Royals came through with a five-run splash in the fourth. Parnell got a life when McKerrigan missed his pop fly and Giardino walked. Gatfield was safe on a fielder's choice to fill the bases when a play failed to get Parnell at third. Holmes' single scored Parnell and Giardino. Bob Crowe bunted safely to fill the bases. McNabb's tap to Anderson saw Gatfield snuffed out at the plate. Hawks singled to left to send Holmes and Crowe in. Smith bunted safely, again loading the sacks, and McNabb registered when Kilfoyle walked Pryde. Parnell, up for the second time, hit into a double-play started by Thompson to retire the side.

That big inning tied up the game, but Thompson, second up in the Soldier end of the same inning, drove a long homer to deep centre to put the military team in front once more, 8 to 7.

The losers made it 9 to 7 in the sixth when Mortimer walked and Thompson and Sero scratched infield hits to fill the bases. McKerrigan drew a pass, forcing Mortimer in, but Herrick hit to McNabb, who tossed Thompson out at the plate. Kilfoyle flied to Parnell in left, and when Sero tried to score after the catch he was doubled out at the plate.

Gatfield opened the Royals' seventh with a single to right, and after Calladine had popped to Herrick, Crowe bunted safely, Gatfield going to third and scoring on McNabb's fly to left. That left it 9 to 8 for Soldiers, and it remained that way until the ninth when Royals staged their winning rally.

Giardino started with scratching a hit on a roller to McKerrigan's right, but was forced at second when Gatfield hit to centre field and Mortimer got the ball into second in time to force the Royals' second-sacker. Pat Calladine got his second hit, a single to right, and Gatfield ran around to third. When Barnes' throw got away from Anderson, Gatfield tore for the plate and the throw home hit him, with the result that the runner scored and Calladine also crossed the counting station on the error. Crowe bunted safely for the third time and scored on McNabb's long triple to centre. Hawks' fly to left sent McNabb in. Smith doubled to left. Pryde's roller down the first base line was fielded by Herrick, whose throw hit the runner and he was safe, Smith scoring on the play. Parnell ended the inning with a roller to McKerrigan.

With one out in the Soldiers' half McIlveen singled to centre and ran home ahead of Anderson on the latter's homer between right and centre. Mortimer popped to McNabb for the second out. Thompson tripled to right centre, but died on third when Sero raised a fly to McNabb.

Cubs Defeat League Leaders

The league-leading St. Peter's were short several of their regulars Monday night when they clashed with the Cubs in a Catholic League game at Memorial Park and as a result they went down to defeat at the hands of the East City club, 13 to 7.

It was a hard-fought battle in the early stages with the teams all tied up with six runs each going into the sixth frame. Cubs suddenly exploded in a seven-run scoring splurge that gave them a convincing win.

Caccavella for the Cubs had three hits to lead the winners, while Purdie for the St. Peter's Club had three safe blows in four trips.

The fielding feature was a fast double play, Tompkins to Herr to Condon for St. Peter's.

Cubs—F. Garvey c, J. O'Toole 1b, Sullivan cf, Brady 3b, Leonard ss, Caccavella 2b, O'Donaghue rf, Heffernan cf, Hayes p.

St. Peter's—Condon 1b, Conroy lf, Tompins 3b, Herr 2b, Collins p, Perdue c, Driscoll rf, Murdock ss, O'Dette cf.

Hoss Sits Tight Fans Yelp

It took track police several minutes to break up the group of some thirty angry fans, including one woman who scaled the rail in front of the lawn and milled around the finish line yelling for a refund on Mrs. W. Rosen's Notes after the 3-year-old colt refused to break when the barrier was sprung.

Tony Pelleteri's Louisville II won the race by two lengths. Notes finally walked out of his stall and, refusing to run, was led back to the paddock. Notes was second choice in the betting at $2.90 to $1.

The rules of racing, as stated specifically in the program, are that no refund can be made on a horse getting to the post unless a stall gate in the barrier fails to open, or for some such mechanical deficiency.

Despite that, the fans poured out on to the racing strip and called for the track to give them their money back. An explanation of the rules was announced over the public address system, but the irate bettors remained on the track. Five track detectives came out to try to make them leave, but it was not until after several more of the track police arrived and the angry fans argued with them for a number of minutes that the demonstration ended.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

Leaders' Camp Planned

At a special meeting held last Wednesday it was decided to hold a leaders' camp at the scout grounds, north of Lock 22.

A committee was chosen to make all arrangements for menus, equipment, items for discussion and other details.

An invitation is extended to every cub and scout officer and to all group committee men and members of the local association.

In order that sufficient canvas can be secured for the occasions we would ask all who can attend to get in touch with Commisisoner J. T. Hornsby at once.

This is the first leaders' camp ever arranged in this district and the co-operation of every officer will be appreciated.

Cooking will be done on the central eating plan and not on the patrol system, as it is felt that every possible moment should be given to the study of the various subjects.

It is also expected that a nature hike will be one of the items of interest.

Plan now to attend and notify the District Commissioner at once. Phone 7832.

We Lose Another Officer

Since our last column we have lost another officer to the Air Force. Scouter Pete Dominik, who has for some year past been attached to the Sacred Heart group and has always been very active in all scout affairs in this city, has joined the Air Force, and is now taking up special courses at the Central Technical in Toronto. We will surely miss his smiling face around. Just before his departure the Sacred Heart group held a special meeting and presented Pete with a pen and pencil set, and at a small gathering of friends in the home of Commissioner Hornsby, Scouter Dominik was presented with a wrist watch.

Yet Another Goes

Charlie Jefferies was in town over the week-end to bid farewell to his former friends in scouting and business as he prepares to leave for Halifax, N.S., to join his unit in the navy.

Charlie started his scouting in Hastings some years ago. When his family came to Peterborough, Charles (more commonly known as Judge), joined the St. John's group, soon becoming a patrol leader. With several other members of the troop, Judge became one of the first members of the St. John's Rover Crew, and was Rover Mate for some time.

On taking up residence in Hamilton, he was put in touch with a rover crew in that district, and attended their meetings up to the time of his joining the navy.

Always a studious and steady character we feel sure that his advancement in the navy is only a matter of time, and all join in wishing him God speed.

Medicine Bottles Needed

We would ask every cub and scout to do his best in the collection of medicine bottles, as some are needed at the medical hut in the local training centre. Bottles of all sizes up to 8 ounces are those needed. All bottles should be sterilized. Small bottles for eye drops are among those wanted.

If you have a quantity, phone 3067 and arrangements will be made to collect them. Cub and scout officers, please take action.

At St. Luke's

The pack has been meeting every week as usual during July, with outdoor work the main item.

One week a friendly game of softball was played with the St. John's group. Although a one-sided affair, some real fun was had.

We understand that the troop went camping for the first week but no reports have been received to date.

St. James's

The scouter and some of his officers went for a trip to Port Hope recently, where they were entertained by the Toronto Sea Scouts who were in port at that time. A real time was enjoyed. Scouter Leggett reporting that the Toronto crew handled their boat very well. The boat of St. James' troop has not yet been fitted out owing to the lack of crew members caused through the rules and regulations regarding the qualifications and standards held before a boy is allowed to board vessel. We hope these difficulties will soon be overcome.

St. John's

Both the cubs and scouts are continuing the meetings through the summer months.

The troop is meeting at the scouter's home where last week a number of the boys made up two parties—one travelled to the far side of the canal and signalling practise was carried out.

Although it was pouring with rain last Friday, eight cubs braved the elements to attend the cub meeting.

Owing to the rain the meeting was held in the Parish Hall, where Sixers W. Woodcock, B. Morris and C. Sargeant made up their new six registers. Bobby Craw and Billy Cummings passed National Anthem. Bob Morris and Billy Cummings passed compass.

Akela Pammett will be home on furlough during the coming week and arrangements will be made for the pack to meet him.

The pack will meet outside the Sunday school on Friday next, at 6.45. All cubs, please take notice.

At Sacred Heart

Carl Heath will remember his investiture ceremony, for it was the occasion of a special meeting of the troop at which District Commissioner and Mrs. J. T. Hornsby, and Assistant Commissioner E. Wolfe were present. This happened on June 29. It was at this meeting that the mother's auxiliary and group committee gave the pen and pencil set to the scouter.

On Sunday, July 5, the group held a church parade following which H. O'Rourke was invested into the world brotherhood of scouts. Mr. William Grady, the oldest member of the group committee, was presented with the Thanks badge by Mr. Demers for his long service in scouting with the Sacred Heart group.

After the ceremony, the cubs and scouts presented their departing scouter with a camera.

Mixed Golf Is Big Success

The first endeavor in three years to make a success of a mixed two-ball foursome was realized Sunday at the Peterborough Golf Club, when the ladies paired off with the men.

With sixteen twosomes out battling first the terrific heat and then the gale and lightning, all reported at the nineteenth hole that it was the most enjoyable afternoon of golf they had ever participated in, even though most had not played all the way round due to the rain.

Only seven of the teams finished, and considering the weather, really did well and all in all a good time was had by all.

This event, which realized the ladies' section of the club possibly $12.00 to aid in their war work, will be carried on some Sunday in August as all prizes could not be paid out due to all entrants not finishing, and with more preparedness should warrant a big success.

War savings stamp winners were:

Low gross—Mr. Spittall and Mrs. Blakelock 86.

Low net—Mr. Steer and Miss A. Davidson, 98-26-72.

Other scores turned in were:

Mr. Putnam and Miss Comstock, 99-17-82.

Lombardi Creeps Up Fast On Pete Reiser

NEW YORK, July 21 — (AP). — Pounding the ball at a clip that recalled his fence-busting days with Cincinnati Reds, Ernie Lombardi of Boston Braves closed in on Brooklyn's Pete Reiser during the last week in the battle for the National League batting crown.

While Reiser was losing ground for the second straight week, the Boston catcher continued his advance until at the end of Sunday's play he trailed Pistol Pete by only five points. The Brooklyn outfielder, dropping six percentage points, ended the week with a .350 percentage. Lombardi, adding twelve points to his gain of eighteen the week before, boosted his average to .345.

Lombardi's drive displaced Joe Medwick of the Dodgers as the runner-up. Medwick lost twelve points and saw his average drop to .331 and threatened by the rise of Stan Musial of St. Louis, who tacked on seventeen points to send his average soaring to .325.

After a week out of the "Big 10" Chicago's Bill Nicholson returned and Bob Elliott, Pittsburg's third baseman, forged his way in. They replaced Mickey Owen of Brooklyn and Ray Lamanno of Cincinnati.

Reiser moved out in front in total runs and took undisputed possession of the lead in stolen bases before he was hurt Sunday. He boosted his total runs to 64, three more than Manager Mel Ott of New York and Mize, who were first and second, respectively, a week ago. Pete pilfered two bases for a total of twelve.

Mize remained No. 1 at driving in runs with seventy. Medwick cracked out nine hits, despite his slump, and continued to head the parade in that department of play with 106, a lead of one over Reiser.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

There is no change in the standing of Group No. 2 after last night's games—F. H. Dearborn and C. Giroux are still tied for first place.

With the schedule entering the home stretch it will be interesting to watch from now on. One game may change the entire setup. One badly played bowl may be the cause of a rink being knocked out of the prize money. Maybe by the end of this week we will have some idea as to who is likely to be in at the finish.

Chairman B. Chesler has been chasing the boys regarding their singles competition, and many of the games were run off last night. It's an awful long way to go yet.

Playing in Toronto on Saturday at the Morningside Club T. Doughty, Judge S. Smoke, and G. Gimblett were successful in landing the third place for two wins. They were well on their way for three wins but the thunderstorm broke it up.

It will be men's rinks for Friday evening. Chairman G. Coleman has just handed us that information.

LARRY FRENCH HURLS BROOKLYN TO 5-0 SHUTOUT OVER PIRATES

Dolph Camilli Poles Out His 14th Homer

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer.

Baseball has been turned into a game of blind man's buff in the last two or three days and the average fan is what the kids call "it," not to be confused with Elinor Glyn's substance of the same name.

You can't tell where a ball played will pop up next.

First Buddy Rosar fled New York Yankees and they got hold of Rollie Hemsley quicker than you could find a Cincinnati-New York train in a time table.

Then Eric McNair, who had been sold by Detroit to Washington, and supposedly quit baseball was sold instead to Philadelphia Athletics and decided to play some more.

And last night Lefty Larry French, the jovial veteran who usually pitches about once in two weeks, went to the mound in Pittsburg on one day's rest and hurled a five-hit 5-0 shutout for Brooklyn Dodgers against the Pirates, his former teammates for his 11th victory.

One of the Brooklyn runs was Dolph Camilli's 14th homer of the season. This was the only game in the major leagues yesterday.

The confusion concerning the Yankee catchers continued to be unrivalled, of course. While everybody was trying to understand how Rosar, who was a member of the American League all-star team and teh heir-apparent to Bill Dickey's catching mantle, could shoulder approximately $12,000 (including his World Series share) to become a cop in Buffalo his wife gave birth to a son.

Most people probably charged the whole experience to the vagaries of expectant fathers and manager Joe McCarthy fined his $250 and ordered nim to rejoin the club in Cleveland for the game with the Indians to-night.

The Hemsley Mystery.

The question of how Hemsley, who could make only 13 hits in a half season with Cincinnati in the National League, could make five in one double-header with the Yanks remained a mystery, however.

McNair, veteran of more than a decade in the American League, was understood on Snuday to have told President Clark Griffith of Washington Senators that he was washed up and intended quitting baseball, thus bringing about the cancellation of his sale from the Tigers to the Senators.

Yesterday McNair was sold to the A's and denied that he had said he is washed up or quitting baseball. What he mean't but didn't say, he revealed later was that he was ready, willing and able to play for any club except Washington. He did not explain why.

Newark Bears Set Royals Back By 6 to 2

By The Associated Press

Newark's Bears, who day by day look and act more like their parent New York Yankee owners, took advantage of a quiet day in the International League yesterday to extend their league lead to six games.

With the schedule and the weather man combining to keep all other clubs idle, the Bears administered the eighth straight setback to Montreal Royals 6-2.

It was the eighth victory in nine games for the Meyer-men.

The Royals, a threat to Newark only two weeks ago, could score only twice off George Washburn although they were the recipients of eight bases on balls and garnered two hits in the first three innings.

Shortstop Bill Johnson's 10th homer was among the nine hits the winner collected off Bob Chipman.

Toronto and Jersey City, who are in the midst of a feud for second place, tangle in a twilight-arclight contest at Roosevelt Stadium today.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 21. — (CP). — Many peculiar things happen on golf courses, but this freak of fate recorded by Hal (Toronto Globe and Mail) Walker is one of the best of the season: At Glen Mawr Club near Toronto ex-football and rowing star Bung Morris bashed a 250-yard drive off the 18th tee and made a hole-in-one....But nobody cheered....He'd sunk his drive on the wrong green, the 14th.

Soldiers don't fool....In a softball tournament at the Connaught Ranges near Ottawa the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards 4th Reconnaissance Battalion (a ponderous bit of name, that) hung it on the Governor-General's Foot Guards 28-5....Lieut. Alan (New York Rangers) Kuntz had two homers and three other hits....Lieut. Gord (Boston Bruins) Bruce had one round-tripper....But here's the punch-line of this little ditty: The game was a replay. The day before the teams ha played to a (hold your head, Mr. Doubleday) 35-35 tie.

Incidentally

There were two softball no-hitters on one night in Winnipeg.... Alex Kuhlman of Globelites threw one at the R.C.A.F. Headquarters team in a senior contest and Frank Guly tossed one for Rangers in a juvenile league....Toronto has two of the most accomplished no-hit artists in the country.... Bunny (Toronto (Toronto Telegram) Morganson recorded the other day that during 15 years of competition Cam Ecclestone has pitched 10 no-hitters....Thelma Golden is the other no-hit whiz.... Her alltime record isn't available but she has had two in the last few weeks, and against the toughest of competition.

Mae Divorcing Frank Wallace

LOS ANGELES, July 21—(AP).—Mae West and her one-time vaudeville partner, Frank Wallace, planned today to end their marriage, a ceremony kept secret for years, then widelly publicized.

Wallade, whom she married in Milwaukee, April 11, 1911, pleaded for separate maintenance of $1,000 a month. He asked Superior Judge Walter Desmond for alimony on the representation he was destitute.

Mae, he contends, has a fortune of more than $1,000,000, accumulated through her acting and producing on the stage and screen. Wallace was not represented by an attorney.

25-POUNDER FIELD GUN

A prize field piece is the 25-pounder artillery gun being made in quantity in Sorel, Quebec. In an artillery plant which covers more than 14 acres, hundreds of special machines and more than 7,000 tools, gigs, dies and gauges produce the gun and carriage from scrap iron to the finished product. The 25-pounder now largely replaces the familiar 18-pounder used in the last Great War.

Fine Papa Rosar, Back Tonight With The Yanks

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 21—(AP). —Buddy Rosar, father of a new 8½-pound baby boy, said last night he would report to New York Yankess Tuesday night at Cleveland, after Joe McCarthy, manager of the world's champions, announced he had fined the Yankee catcher $250 for leaving the club without permission.

McCarthy, who was in Buffalo on an off day for a "good rest," said he had fined Rosar and decided he will be indefinitely suspended if he fails to report for to-night's game with Cleveland Indians. The Yankee's manager said Rosar had not mentioned the expected birth of a second child before leaving.

Rosar, insistent in denying that he had "quit the team and left the boys flat," said he had talked with McCarthy Monday, and declared he had given the manager advance notice of his intention to come to Buffalo to take a civil service examination for appointment to the police force.

"He had plenty of time to get a catcher," Rosar said, conceding, however, that McCarthy had refused him permission to leave New York and had threatened him with suspension.

Rosar explained he was determined to come home at this time because he wasn't sure when he could take the examination if he missed Monday's and because he was anxious about his wife's condition.

Confused by the flood of publicity attached to his departure from New York, Rosar said he didn't know "where I stand with the club. I'm willing to play ball but I haven't heard anything from them."

In refusing permission to Rosar, McCarthy said he told him, "Absolutely not, not even if you were my brother."

The Yankees snapped up Rollie Hemsley, Cincinnati Reds' catcher, who was unconditionally released last Firday, to fill the gap.

Rosar said he would continue to play ball for the present if the Yankee management was agreeable, but said the patrolman job was "insurance."

He pointed out "no one can say when I'll go out there and meet with an accident that might end my baseball days."

Mrs. Rosar and the 8½-pound boy were reported doing well in a Buffalo hospital. The couple have another child, Mary Ann, 15 months old.

Gulf Stream Acts For Bankruptcy

MIAMI, Fla., July 21.—(AP). — Trustees of Gulfstream Park, the beautiful $1,000,000 horse track which folded four days after its opening Feb. 1, 1939, yesterday filed a bankruptcy petition in Federal Court here.

The entrance of the United States into the war removed any possibility of re-opening the track for horse racing, the petition stated. Several proposals for other uses of the park had been entertained, but the likelihood of succeeding was 'little more than remote,' the document said.

It was filed in the name of Trustees Fred W. Cason and Warren T. Eller.

Judge John W. Holland set Aug. 13 for the bankruptcy hearing and instructed all creditors to file claims by Aug. 1.

The petition declared that "every reasonable effort had been made to bring about reorganization, but no plan has been consummated."

The track was built by John C. Horning, Miami Beach architect and sportsman, and was incorporated as the Hollywood Jockey Club.

On opening day an overflow crowd tore down fences to get in, but attendance quickly fell off and financial difficulties followed.

Dutch Ram Sub Twice To Make Sure

LONDON, July 21.—(CP). — A Netherlands freighter recently twice rammed a U-boat, destroyed it and then saved the survivors of a torpedoed vessel from two German planes, Aneta, the Netherlands news agency, said today.

The freighter an old, slow vessel under 7,000 tons, formed part of a convoy. Suddenly the submarine torpedoed a companion vessel, without sinking it.

On seeing the periscope 120 yards ahead crossing his bow, the Netherlands skipper ordered full speed ahead and jammed the helm to starboard to cross the U-boat's course.

It was touch and go as to whether the ship's speed was enough to catch the submarine, but the old freighter just managed it and violently rammed the U-boat's stern.

All eyes were glued on the periscope. Then the crew saw the Nazi undersea craft heel over as the freighter's gunners sprayed the submarine with machine-gun fire. The periscope disappeared and the U-boat's stern emerged vertically from the water.

But the Netherlanders were not satisfied. The skipper yelled: "Come on, let's give her another bump."

Pushing his helm hard to port, the skipper again rammed the submarine. With a terrific impact which shook the freighter from bow to stern, the skipper scored another bull's-eye. For a few seconds the U-boat's stern continued to tower in the air, giving the impatient gunners their last chance to pump lead into her before she went to the bottom.

The skipper then manoeuvred his vessel to the assistance of the torpedoed ship which had stopped. It was fortunate for the survivors that he did so, as soon two German bombers came up to finish off the stricken ship.

The Netherlanders greeted the raiders with such a hail of bullets that all the bombs missed their mark. The Nazi airmen flew around, waiting for another chance, but every time the planes approached the target the Netherlanders poured out such a concentrated withering fire that eventually the planes disappeared into the clouds.

Gunner Sticks To His Post After Torpedoing

of war materials between United States points through Canada by motor truck, in bond. This was especially designed to enable such supplies to be handed by road through south-western Ontario, between Buffalo and nearby points and Detroit, instead of via the longer route to the south of Lake Erie.

In the Budget resolutions debate Mr. Hanson asked if Mr. Ilsley did not think "we have reached the peak of what we can take in taxation from the people of this country?" It was Mr. Hanson's view that "we have gone about as far as we can in the personal income tax field."

"I do not know how I am going to pay mine if I have to pay one third on Sept. 15," he added.

Changing the Date

"We are going to change that date," said Mr. Ilsley.

Mr. Hanson expressed the opinion that the people could stand no more personal income tax and said he had "reams" of protesting letters. Future generations "for whom we are fighting" would have to assume their share of the huge war cost.

He and many like him, Mr. Hanson said, were being forced to reduce the standard of living and 'resort to savings which we put into effect over a long time.'

Mr. MacInnis said men were falling in flames from the sky — 'men whose lives had not really begun'—and asked: 'What are my honorable friend's savings of a lifetime compared to that sort of thing?'

Mr. Hanson said there was no comparison. 'I admit that the sacrifices of a soldier cannot be measured in dollars and cents but if we are to have anything left in this country then I say, do not tax us too heavily.

"Can the young man who is taken into the army say 'if you are to have any people left in the country after the war do not take us away or take our lives away?' Mr. MacInnis exclaimed. 'Every word the leader of the Opposition has said is based on 'our property.' Not a word about the lives of the young men which are being taken away and which it is advocated should be taken away more completely.'

Try Other Ways.

Mr Hanson again interrupted. 'I denty that,' he exclaimed. 'I will not let tht go unchallenged The Minister has to have money but I say he has gone the limit in one method and he must devise some other method. Page Mr. Blackmore (Social Credit advocate and leader of the New Democracy) as to the other method.'

Ralph Maybank (Lib. Winnipeg South Centre) suggested that payments on home mortgages be charged to the compulsory savings portion of the income tax even though the contracts are entered into since the budget but Mr. Ilsley said that would create an undesirable stimulus to the sale of property for residential purposes.

Debate in committee on the veterans' land settlement bill occupied the House all morning and afternoon and most of the evening sitting.

Pensions Minister Mackenzie frequently reminded members that the points they were discussing had been subject of long debate in the special committee but on several occasions he quickly agreed to minor amendments to meet suggestions for improving the bill.

These included, particularly, changes to take away powers the bill proposed to place in the hands of the director of land settlement and leave such powers in the hands of the governor-in-council, to meet objections raised by John Diefenbaker, Conservative member for the Saskatchewan riding of Lake Centre.

At the suggestion of Mr. Hanson a clause was added to the bill to require the minister to make a periodic financial report to parliament.

More than a score of members, particularly those representing farming communities, took part in the discussion.

Urge Care In Choices

The government was warned to exercise the greatest care in selecting those who would be placed on the land, and in selecting the land for this purpose.

Difficulties which surrounded operation of the old soldier settlers act were frequently discussed until Chairman Vien ruled that there should be no further references to the previous statute which is to operate entirely separate from the new measure.

When income tax amendments in the budget resolutions were taken up, Mr. Hanson asked the finance minister if the increased taxation and compulsory savings clause had resulted in heavy redemptions of war savings certificates or cancellations of subscriptions.

Mr. Ilsley said there were no figures but redemptions had been "substantial" and there had been some subscription cancellations.

But war savings would be sought and encouraged and a great educational campaign fully to acquaint the public with the details of the new taxation and the necessity for saving would be launched by the national war finance committee.

Mr. Ilsley was questioned by H. R. Jackman (Con Toronto-Rosedale) as to the objective set for war savings sales and in general the minister's plans for raising the $1,800,000,000 required this year over and above the national revenues.

The System Used

"It is a case of spending whatever the country is capable of spending on war and then of adopting some financial method or other to see that the cost is met," the minister replied.

"From the very beginning our decision has been to do everything the country was capable of doing, no matter what the cost, and then finance it one way or another—and we have been able to do it so far."

Mr. Jackson said he subscribed to that statement but could not help wondering how it would be possible to carry the policy on under the present financial system.

Victor Quelch, New Democracy member for the Alberta riding of Acadia, suggested the minister broadcast to the people a warning that the practice of selling their war savings certificates and war bonds to the banks defeats the purposes of the financial end of the war effort. The minister said he would consider the suggestion.

Find 3 Children Chained By Neck

SCOTTSDALE, Ga., July 21. — (AP).—Three children were found yesterday with a thirty-two-foot log chain padlocked around their necks, and a Dekalb County policeman, Hubert Day, said cruelty charges were placed against the parents.

Day said he found the three children in their shadeless yard with the chain, weighing fifteen and one-half pounds, wound about their necks.

The policeman said the parents were Mr. and Mrs. Archer R. Burney, and while they did not tell him the reason for chaining the children, neighbors reported to him that Mrs. Burney said the children were being punished for taking three or four nickels their father had been saving.

The children gave their names and ages to police as Adolph, 8; Flourney, 10; and Marguerite, 12. They were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Day reported that the chain binding the children was not attached to anything else, but they appeared fearful of leaving the yard.

Bond was fixed at $5,000 each for the parents and they were placed in jail.

With activity on the El Alamein front limited to patrol work, British mobile forces reported yesterday that Rommel had withdrawn his right flank slightly to a point 10 miles north of the Qattara salt depression.

This indicated that the line had again assumed roughly the appearance of a fish hook with the hook at the fluid southern end of the front and the northern tip still anchored above the Tel El Eisa—Hill of Jesus—about 10 miles northwest of El Alamein.

The Russians' fighting retreat south-east of Voroshilovgrad cost the invaders more than 400 killed and five tanks disabled in one sector a communique said, adding that "when our roops were in danger of being encircled they withdrew to new positions by order of the command."

Another settlement fell to the Red Army tank crews in the battle of Voronezh and German casualties mounted by the hundred, it was announced. Soviet detachments were said to have broken through enemy defence lines there, occupied another river crossing and cut German communications.

German entrenched at the outskirts of Voronezh, 10 miles east of the Don, continued to throw up fortifications and plant anti-tank mines, but they were reported heavily attacked and losing prospects of reinforcement and supply one by one in the systematic destruction of their bridgeheads.

Koenigsburg Bombed

Moreover, the Moscow radio announced that Soviet bombers had struck Saturday night at the distant east Prussian port of Koenigsburg setting off more than a dozen heavy explosions and 38 fires—17 in the heart of the city. All the raiders were reported to have returned safely.

"Our troops have occupied several Don crossings," the Soviet Information Bureau announced. "The Red Air Force actively is supporting our land troops and bombing enemy positions."

A Nazi attack was repulsed in one sector of the Voronezh battle field, 300 miles below Moscow, and Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's forces counterattacked, the Bureau said.

"In this engagement," he reported, "the enemy lost over 700 officers and men, 13 tanks, five guns, 18 machine-guns and ten trench mortars."

(The German people were warned by a radio military commentator identified only as Gen. Dietmar of the implications in the Russians' fluid defence of the Caucasus.

("They are falling back deliberately with the obvious intention of making their real stand on the banks of the Don," he said. "We must expect them in their own time to counterattack with considerable forces.")

The Voronezh area it at once the most northerly zone of the Don basin operations and a potential jumping-off point for a counter-offensive against the Germans knifing across coal, ore and grain fields toward munitions producing cities of the Volga and the oil of the Caucasus.

Major action on the lower part of the front was officially placed "southeast of Voroshilovgrad," Nazi-occupied Donets River port 100 miles above Rostov. The midnight communique did not mention developments in the Millerovo and Boguchar sectors, to the northeast withing the Don's big bend.

Wheat Storage Problem For '42 Harvest

FORT WILLIAM, July 21.—Because grain elevators from the Lakehead to the seaboard are plugged with grain, 5,500 box cars, full of grain, are standing in Lakehead yards of Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways while the railway officials are seeking to free them for urgently needed movement of other traffic.

Officials of Canadian National Railways' Western region have visited the Lakehead terminals in an effort to find a solution. The party was headed by J. J. Behan, chief of car service, and J. Porter, chief engineer. Local terminals officials admitted they saw little hope for early handling of the 1942 crop, which promises to be fairly good.

Last week only 24 vessels, carrying 4,000,000 bushels, left Lakehead ports and an additional 487,000 bushels went by rail. Carloadings in the West are limited to the amount of grain shipped from here; but say railwaymen, that doesn't reduce the number of cars which they have sitting in the local yards. They don't even receive demurrage of storage rates for the grain in the cars. About 400 or 500 cars of grain per day are being unloaded by both railways in elevators here.

Lakehead elevators now contain 129,500,00 bushels, of which 47,600,000 bushels are in temporary storage bins erected last year. This is said by elevator men to be practically the full capacity of the houses, considering the necessity of having working space and segregating, in partly filled bins, of special and off-grade grain in small quantities. Licensed capacity of elevators and temporary storge in Fort William and Port Arthur is 144,500,000 bushels.

Last week wheat consumption and shipments outside of Canada exceeded receipts from Western farms by 1,400,000 bushels, leaving the total visible wheat in Canada at 404,100,000 bushels, as compared with 463,400,000 bushels one year ago. Deliveries from farms amounted to 3,500,000 bushels during the week, according to Board of Grain Commissioners' figures.

Those French Ships

LONDON, July 20.—(CP).—British authorities at Alexandria and representatives of the United States State Department are continuing negotiations for disposal of interned French warships there in case the Mediterranean port falls to the Axis, a foreign office commentator said.

"Both the State Department and the foreign office are working in the closest co-operation in this matter," he added.

Your Army Leaders

Brigadier A. Ernest Walford, M.M. E.D., Deputy-Adjutant and Quartermaster-General at the Canadian Corps Headquarters, was financial executive of James A. Ogilvie, Ltd., Montreal, in civilian life. Before that he practised as a chartered accountant with Alfred Walford & Sons. Born at Montreal, August 20, 1896 he was educated in Westmount, Quebec. His first connection with the Army was as a signaller with the 58th Westmount Rifles in which he enlisted in September, 1914. He served with this unit and in the Royal Canadian Volunteer Reserve until September, 1915, when he enlisted in the 3rd Siege Battery, C.E.F. going overseas in December, 1915. He served in the 3rd and 12th Siege Batteries in the ranks, winning the Military Medal and rising to Warrant Officer (Class 2) until December, 1916, when he was commissioned. He remained with the 12th Siege until the Armistice.

He continued in the Non-Permanent Active Militia after demobilization, commanding the 7th Medium Battery, R.C.A., from 1927 to 1934, serving as Regimental Adjutant until 1937 and then commanding the 2nd Medium Brigade R.C.A., to the outbreak of World War Two, when he was appointed Deputy Assistant Adjutant-General of a Canadian Division. He went overseas in December, 1939, and served as Assistant Adjutant and Quartermaster-General of the Canadian Corps in December, 1940. He assumed his present position with rank of Brigadier in April, 1942.

He passed the Militia Staff Course in 193, the Senior Officers' Course in 1963, and the Senior War Staff Course in 1940. Swimming and skiing are his favorite forms of outdoor sports. He is a member of the Montreal Branch of the Institute of International Affairs and a member of the Society of Chartered Accountants of Quebec.

NOW'S THE TIME TO BUY YOUR COAL!

'Fill that coal bin now!' says the government

"Get all the winter coal you're going to need—and get it NOW," is the urgent request of the government. Protect your family from the serious consequences of the possible shortage next winter!

There is a simple way to buy all the coal you need—to buy for cash and take advantage of low coal cash prices. A special plan now lets you have all the cash you need and repay the cost in small monthly instalments at a very small net charge per ton. For instance, a $100 loan can be repaid for as little as $7.78 per month.

You get four other important advantages by taking prompt advantage of this new plan. 1. Complete privacy in making all arrangements. 2. No co-signers or endorsers required. 3. 15 full months in which to repay. 4. No guarantee of your loan by your coal dealer or any outside source. And the first payment will not be due for thirty days.

Learn all about this budget plan for coal users. Phone or visit Household Finance Corporation of Canada, 177 Charlotte Street, Peterborough. Phone 5841.

Hi-Test Petroleums Net Preferred Royalties

The intensive search for new oil reserves in Canada—doubly imperative at the present time—has brought the Taber area of southern Alberta into the spotlight with the successful completion of Standard Province No. 1 well drilled by Standard Oil of British Columbia.

The completion of this well has proved a wide area of productive sand, lying as it does 2½ miles from the only former producer in the field, Plains Petroleum No. 2.

Hi-Test Petroleums Ltd. controls 1,280 acres in this territory, the present programme calling for five wells to be drilled, as shown on the map.

SALIENT FEATURES OF HI-TEST ROYALTIES

- Price per 1% unit is $2,600.00, or $90.00 per 1/40 unit, covering the entire 5 wells, providing a diversified programme.
- Depth to completion is about 3,200 feet.
- Drilling costs are less than one-fifth those of Turner Valley.
- Royalty purchasers in the initial issue participate in future development of the acreage held by the company through a share bonus.
- Drilling time at the Standard Province No. 1 well was less than one month, compared with six to seven months and more in Turner Valley.
- The area has been proved to contain oil in commercial quantities.
- The geology of the area has been intensively surveyed, both by private and government geologists, and the locations of Hi-Test wells were selected by Dr. J. O. G. Sanderson, who was largely responsible for the successful development of North Turner Valley.
- The area is handy to transportation and refineries, water, fuel supplies and skilled manpower.

VOL. LXXXVI, No. 17 — PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, JULY 21, 1942

The Peterborough Examiner

HOME FROM HALIFAX

Petty Officer Robert Huffman, 629 Charlotte street of the Canadian navy, is home from Halifax until the end of this week.

AT MILITARY CAMP

City Clerk Outram is absent from city hall circles this week. He is taking his holidays at Connaught Ranges, west of Ottawa, with the 4th Field Battery.

A MILITARY SPECIAL

The C.N.R. special train Sunday for Connaught Ranges carried not only the two Peterborough units, Rangers and 4th Field Battery, but also two Lindsay batteries and detachments of the Midland regiment from Campbellford and Hastings.

CAR ABANDONED

Word was received by the police department this morning that a car had been left abandoned near Warsaw since Friday. A car bearing a Quebec license has been reported stolen at Oshawa and it was thought the machine on the Warsaw road might be the missing automobile. Provincial police are investigating.

DECISION DEFERRED

The suggestion of Board of Education for noon hour traffic control at Monaghan Road and Sherbrooke street during the school term was laid over for further consideration by the Police Commission Monday. It was thought that some arrangement might be made for the "staggering" of hours at which children leave school at noon, but no decision was made Monday.

DANGEROUS SPORT

The Fire Department had an alarm Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock when two small children, aged 3 and 4, who live with their uncle, Frank E. Houlihan, 238 Aylmer street, set fire to some rubbish in the garage. Outside of smoke there was no damage. Chief Gimblett said that the children told of finding the matches lying in the gutter and when they got fooling with them they got a little more than they bargained for.

ASSAULT CASE GOES OVER

The case of a woman charged with assaulting a woman guest in her house was adjourned until Saturday when it was called before Justice of the Peace Vincent Eastwood this morning. Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., who appeared for the accused said that his client was in hospital and intimated that the crown was agreeable to an adjournment. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., confirmed that statement and the case went over until Saturday.

IT'S A GYP.

Neighbors of Roy A. Dixon, 375 Stewart street, are wondering whether he pulled a fast one on his friend and neighbor, Ralph McGarrell. It seems that Mr. Dixon has a raspberry bush and he made a deal with Ralph McGarrell that he would sell him half the bush when the fruit was ripe. The fruit ripened beautifully, but the first thing Ralph knew, there was nothing but a stripped bush. Everyone is anxious to know just what Roy Dixon did with the raspberries that he intended to make a little money on.

CIGARETTES FOR SOLDIERS

During Army Week a special drive was made for cigarettes for the soldiers, and Bob Hotrum, manager and sole force in Peterborough behind the Buckshee Fund, reports that citizens donated sufficient money to purchase 158,000 cigarettes and the total to date amounts to 1,065,000 cigarettes.

CAR DAMAGED

A car driven by Mrs. Kathleen Rusaw, 19 Frank street, was damaged in a traffice accident on George street when a taxi driven by Jack McGowan, 109 James Street, in backing up collided with the rear fender of Mrs. Rusaw's machine as the latter was turning into a parking lot. The damage was not heavy.

CHECKING ON BATHERS

As the result of complaints from residents in the neighborhood of Crescent street Chief Newhall has issued instructions that officers of the department periodically check up on bathers in Little Lake. There have been complaints about the conduct of some of the swimmers, especially on Sundays.

STORMS DO LITTLE DAMAGE

Although the lightning was severe and the wind high, Sunday's storms around the lake district did very little damage. In the Crowe's Landing area of Stoney Lake, telephone and power facilities were shut off for some time. A motorboat filled with water during the afternoon storm but the occupants managed to reach Salmon Island in safety and were later rescued.

THEY'RE STILL COMING

Although there is nothing like the July rush of tourists of other years the gasoline and tire situation has not completely stopped visitors from across the border. A number of American cars were seen in the business section this morning and groups of visitors engaged in shopping were noticed around the main stem. It is expected that August will see the northward trend strongly increased.

GEORGE STREET ROMEOS

A great many girls have been annoyed and embarrassed lately by the increase in civilian pick-ups. They claim, too, that not only have the offers increased, but that they are much more persistent than they used to be. Short of making a fuss, there seems to be no way of really putting these men in their place and policemen are rarely available at the moment when they are needed, the girls say.

Rambling Reporter

A WET JOB

It is reported that two of the campers out on Lake Chemong had a little difficulty with their boat Sunday afternoon. They have a punt with a sail on it and when they started off for a little ride early in the afternoon the lake was very calm. But before they were able to get back to their cottage, the lake got so rough that they had to land a good distance up the shore, leave their boat and hoof it home. Later in the afternoon one of their neighbors who had a launch offered to take them up and tow the boat home, and this was done. When they came back the water was still rough, and after they untied the punt and started to make for the dock, the oars made no headway against the waves. As one chap tried to clamber into the punt he fell headlong into the water. Nothing daunted, he decided that since he was wet already he might as well finish the job, he started to pursue the drifting boat up the lake. Finally he caught up with it, and walking in water up past his waist he started to tow the boat back while his friend rowed. But still they were making no progress. As a last resort the man sitting in the back of the punt jumped out and began to push, and with the towing in front and the pushing behind, plus the man at the oars, they finally made a successful landing.—J.S.

21 Men Apply To Join Army

The Armories recruiting office, under the direction of Lieut. G. P. Brook, hit a new high when twenty-one men applied for active service, Monday. Of course it is not known yet how many of these will be in a category eligible for active service, but it is very encouraging, officials said, to see the active interest that is being taken in enlisting.

One of the hardest things about the job, according to Lieut. Brook, is that of turning men down, who are medically unfit. He said that Monday night there were four mothers called the office to know if there wasn't something he could do, because their boys had been turned down and were taking it pretty hard. That speaks well for the spirit of young Canadians and their sincere interest in winning the war.

Others are persistent, but for a rather different reason. Two young men driving an old jaopy made the trip from Minden to enlist, and both had had a little refresher before they arrived at the Armories. They informed the officer that they wanted to join the Army and nothing anyone could do would persuade them to come back on Tuesday. When they left their last words were "We want to join the army, please let us join the army."

Outside of Lieut. Brook, who arrived Monday from Ottawa, and the C.W.V.S. helpers who have rallied nobly to his support, the Armories is a deserted place. All the rest of the staff has taken itself bag and baggage to camp, and for a while on Monday, according to reports, the going was a little tough.

Recalls Early Teacher Of Ashburnham School

Alexander Locke, retired missionary who recalled memories of the Peterborough of his boyhood seventy-five years ago as published in the Examiner yesterday, was a guest at the home of Mrs. E. E. Sage, 515 Albert Street. Before leaving Monday for Oshawa to visit one of his four sons he mentioned also that he began his schooling in the Scotch village, Ashburnham, where his parents first lived after coming to Peterborough.

"The teacher was Mr. Stratton. I think his name was David," Mr. Locke said "He went into the stationery and book business about 1866 or 1867."

Dog Interrupts

BATTERSEA, Ont., July 21—(CP) Boy Scouts were holding a service at nearby Dog Lake when a dog briefly interrupted devotions and bit two of the troop members. A doctor attending the service dressed the wounds.

Fires Going Out

FREDERICTON, July 21.—(CP)—New Brunswick's forest fire hazard had decreased to a low level, the forest service department announced. Fires reported last week-end in York and Sudbury counties have been extinguished.

Rotarians Are Shown Scenes Of Liverpool

The highlight of the evening, Monday, when the Rotarians entertained those who helped at the carnival, was the showing of pictures by Fred Roy of blitzed Liverpool. These pictures were obtained from the Toronto Rotary Club and it is estimated that vivid though they are they show only about one one-hundredth of the total damage that this great port has suffered.

While his audience watched tensely, Mr. Roy showed pictures of vast areas completely shorn of buildings and other blocks with skeletons of houses and buildings tottering in mid-air. One of the most pathetic and yet at the same time most striking shots was one of a very old cathedral which at first view from the front looked normal. Then as the camera travelled around it revealed that only the front wall was standing with its paneless windows and that steps led down into the heaps of rubble of what had once been a beautiful piece of architecture.

Houses Cut in Two

Perhaps the most poignant sight of all was the scene after a particularly heavy bombing attack. Houses that had been cut in two lined the streets, and where homes had been, nothing but tall heaps of bricks, many feet high, littered the way. While workers worked speedily to open a way through these piles of stone, families stood and looked grimly at what had once been their dwelling places.

Al Lewis, manager of the carnival, expressed the thanks of the Rotary Club to all those who had helped make this undertaking the greatest success that it has ever been when they made in returns more than the club has ever done before.

He said that the greatest help had come from people outside of the club, and that while Rotarians had a duty there, these other helpers do it because of their great interest in a fine cause. It was his experience, he said, that the best response came from these helpers and he felt that he would go a long way before he would find a community where the citizens co-operated so heartily. His remarks were echoed by President Ian McRae, who said that without this outside assistance the club could not operate such an affair.

Musical Program

The musical part of the program was well chosen and smoothly run off by Harry Northrop. Two well-known songs were sung by Pte. R. V. Abrahams, of Kingston, "Homing" and "Deep River." A most original "radio broadcast" was put on by a trio composed of Mildred McIntyre, Wallace Wright and Gordon McKendry. The two boys sang a delightful group of well-known "old melodies" which included their theme song, "Linger Awhile," "Anchors Aweigh" and "Come Back to Erin." Mildred McIntyre accompanied them at the piano.

A further treat was given the guests when Mrs. Dorothy Goldie gave two numbers, "A House on the Hill" and "Sweet Song of Long Ago." The two veterans, Jack Smith and Bob Hendry, let go with some rollicking Scotch numbers that took their audience by storm.

Rotarians are reminded that the district assembly meets next Monday in Whitby and starts at 9 a.m. and will conclude at 8.30 in the evening.

Some Regulation Affecting Sugar

Fruit and sugar for preserving need not be purchased at the same store and the same time, according to information from the local office of Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

How do you get sugar for preserving and canning and the making of jam and jelly?—When purchasing the required amount of sugar, the housewife must sign a sugar purchase voucher provided by the retailer. Sugar purchased in this manner must not be used for any other purpose. Vouchers are liable to checking by ration officers.

"How about Visitors?"—Considerate visitors on a short stay should bring their own ration cards. On visits more than two weeks in duration they should give their cards to their hostesses.

Can owners of boarding houses providing regular meals use the ration cards of their boarders?—Yes.

Can sugar be obtained for social functions?—No; hostesses and organizers of social and charity functions must provide sugar from their own rations or request their guests to bring their own.

What should be done with a ration card on the death of its owner?—It should be returned at once to the nearest ration office by the next of kin.

10,000 Lions Visit Toronto

TORONTO, July 21.—(CP). — More than 10,000 Lions from South and Central America, the 48 United States and eight Canadian provinces opened their five-day 26th annual convention here today.

The celebrations today will include a parade—expected to be the longest in the history of the city—as well as presentations of Canadian historical episodes at Maple Leaf Gardens and addresses by Mayor Fred J. Conboy and prominent members of the Lions Club.

The parade at six o'clock, featuring detachments of Canadian armed forces, 25 bands and thousands of gaily-dressed Lions, is expected to take three hours to pass a saluting base.

There will be competitions for the best bands in the parade, the best floats and the best Lions units, and judges will be Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader; Maj.-Gen. J. A. Gunn, G. Harrison Smith and Dr. W. J. Dunlop.

License Women To Drive Taxis

Provision for the licensing of women as drivers of taxis was proposed at a meeting of the Police Commission Monday, and a bylaw will be prepared for that purpose. It will also regulate their hours of employment.

Several girls are now engaged for the first time in this work. Hugh Davis of Capital Taxi said he was greatly satisfied with a girl in his employ. Her hours are from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

"She has been doing a fine job for us," Mr. Davis said. "I may lose two more men who are waiting the result of their physical examination for military service, and it looks as if we'll need more girls as the demand for men in war work increases."

Police Constables Trennum and Moyes have completed two years' preliminary work and have been promoted to the grade of first-class constables.

Big Water Main Is Crossing Charlotte

The big water main of the Utilities Commission was this morning crossing Charlotte street on its way south along the west side of Bethune street. It has come all the way from Smith street since the frost went out of the ground, and eventually may be carried through to Lansdowne street.

The present job terminates at Sherbrooke street, connecting with a big main laid across town, and will be carried further south in another year or two.

R. L. Dobbin, manager of the Utilities, said that the next link to be authorized should be from Smith street to the pumping station, which might require two seasons, depending on the decision of the Utilities Commission. It might be too long a stretch for one year's work.

The Betune street job has been going according to schedule. "We thought at first of getting finished by the first part of July," Mr. Dobbin remarked, "but there did not seem to be any special rush for it."

The cost of the work is a little under the estimates. "Of course we might have estimated too high," was Mr. Dobbin's frank comment.

Workmen have been encountering a network of sub-surface water mains, gas mains, telephone conduits, sewer pipes, buried connections of the old railway signals and various other services that have combined to impede progress at that crossing. In fact there are two sets of gate apparatus that were left where they were first sunk.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 21 —(CP).—Hastings county produced 1,795,505 pounds of cheese in June, H. L. Fair, county agricultural representative, said today That total gave Hastings the lead over all other Ontario counties in June cheese production, he added.

The production bettered that of June, 1941, when 1,554,707 pounds were produced. For the first six months of this year the county produced 3,911,903 pounds compared with 2,890,010 pounds for the same period last year.

Six-month production figures for the counties of Prince Edward and Northumberland were announced as 1,537,395 pounds and 1,648,799 pounds, respectively.

15 Blood Donors To Report For First Clinic

The Red Cross Blood Donors Clinic will get into full swing Wednesday when the doors open at 9 a.m. The Clinic is not going to attempt to handle their regulation fifty the first morning, but will gradually work into it by easy stages. R. M. Glover said that fifteen donors on the list had been notified that their services were required, and that two of these were in outlying districts.

The last of the equipment was brought in today and the helpers faced a busy day placing this in working order and in getting the Clinic spick and span for the real job which starts Wednesday. A complete staff will be in charge of operations.

Those who are doing such a worthwhile job for the war effort are reminded again about the matter of breakfast. There must be no fats eaten, avoid milk, cream and butter, or the blood taken will be cloudy and valueless for serum. For what the donors lack at breakfast they will receive ample reimbursement after the transfusion when women of the churches and I.O.D.E.'s serve and prepare buttered toast along with some liquid refreshment, probably tea.

For those who have not yet volunteered their services, remember that 2,000 donors must be on the list for Peterborough, and if 100 a week pass through the Clinic and no person can be called on oftener than every three months, it will mean that the Red Cross will not be able to fulfill its allocation of serum.

1000 Greeks Died Daily In Winter

LONDON, July 21 —(CP) Greek Premier Emmanuel Tsouderos declared today that 1,000 Greeks died of starvation every day last winter and were buried in common graves.

Many still are dying, he said, because the Germans and Italians have refused for four months to agree on distribution of wheat shipments from Canada to Greece. Some food has reached Greece from Turkey and the Middle East.

Tsouderos also said that Britain had handed over four destroyers, four corvettes and two other warships to the Greeks for use in the Mediterranean "and other waters."

Meanwhile Dingle Foot, parliamentary secretary for the ministry of economic warfare, told the House of Commons that the "worst food conditions in German-controlled Europe continue to prevail in Greece, some parts of Poland and occupied Russia."

There is also a shortage of food in Belgium and the Belgian government in London has been allowed to make purchases in countries inside the blockade zone, such as Portugal, to send to the occupied territory, Mr. Foot said.

No Ordering Done

WOODSTOCK, Ont., July 21.—Members of the Woodstock Rotary Club had a picnic luncheon meeting here yesterday—without the lunch. They met in the garden of a club member and then adjourned to restaurants to eat when it was discovered the luncheon committee had forgotten to order food.

Beet Outlook Good

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., July 21. —(CP).—The Lethbridge Herald reports in a crop survey that the sugar beet outlook is bright. Growth has been rapid and growers are busy with the second hoeing. The survey reported spring wheat practically all headed out and many 40 and 50 bushels to the acre crops are forecast.

Endless Line Of Bombers Cross Atlantic

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press Staff Writer

An Air Base Somewhere in Canada, July 21 —(AP)—Across 2,000 miles of foggy North Atlantic, the bombers from United States factories are thundering into airdromes in Britain in growing numbers. But Britain is just a stopping-off place. Those big babies going across were built for attack and not defence. They aren't spanning the Atlantic just to give the crews a joy ride. And it's almost all one-way traffic to the east.

Up in a sunny corner room of the administration building of this great Canadian airport, a doughty little British warrior watches the noisy, swarming, endless activity with increasing satisfaction. He peers from blue eyes beneath a pair of startling fierce sandy eyebrows that curl over his forehead.

He is Air Chief Marshal Sir Frederick Bowhill who runs this show like a veteran ringmaster keeping a three-ring circus moving smoothly. His job is one of the most vital in the United Nations' scheme of smothering the Axis under clouds of planes.

He must see to it that the ships get to the fighting fronts. His command extends to Britain, India, Africa, South American and Australia.

Air Force Secret

Just how many bombers are going across is a tight secret of the Royal Air Force Ferry Command — but let me tell you what I have seen at this huge air field from which the bombers take off day after day in thundering herds, their pilots heading them for war fronts as casually as you might run down to the corner store for a package of cigarets.

Row on row of flying giants and their smaller kin—their aluminum skins daubed with gray-green war paint—are getting a final tune-up and check before taking off. There are the huge Boeing Flying Fortresses, Consolidated Liberators—Sir Frederick says the Liberator is "a ship without a vice"—Lockheed Hudson and other medium bombers including the high-tailed B25 in which Jimmy Doolittle and his boys bombed Tokyo.

Some of the ships have cartoons painted on the sides: one was the "Bataan Avenger." Another showed a bomb sight trained on Tokyo. Another showed a bulldog chasing Hitler over a fence. . .Indications that the fliers have a goal behind the ferry destination.

An Apt Comparison.

The number of planes on the apron never seems to change. As some roar down the runways and pull their landing gear up into their bellies for the trans-ocean flight, others glide in to take their places in an endless round robin.

It's a big show at this western terminal on the high road to Britain—and it's getting bigger. Sir Frederick, the boys will tell you, is doing himself quite a job, and he's leaning heavily on American civilian ferry pilots to get the job done.

"Ginge" is his nickname. It's an apt one, for Sir Frederick is a gingery, tireless, 61-year-old bit of spring steel energy, working just as hard as he did during the height of the Battle of Britain when he was commander of the R.A.F. Coastal Command.

Lady Bowhill is working under her husband's command as a flight officer in the Women's Auxiliary Air Force which she joined in England two years ago. She has about a score of WAAF's under her direction.

10,000 Bottle Tops

BROCKVILLE, Ont., July 21.—(CP)—Three Brockville boys—Bobby Eddy and Ray Levis—have topped any of their previous war efforts. They turned into salvage headquarters here a load consisting of 10,000 bottle tops.

Show 60 p.c. Shell Cases Defective

PICKERING, July 21.—Alexander Dodwell, killed on June 25 in an explosion in a near-by munitions plant met his death accidentally while watching his foreman complete a buffing operation to remove high spots from a defective shell-casing, a coroner's jury decided following the inquest held here last night.

Evidence showed that, up to June 8, 60 per cent. of the two-pound armor-piercing shell casings received from a Montreal firm for filling at the plant, were defective, making the final buffing necessary.

Evidence showed that no defective casings had been received after June 9 and a large quantity of them had been put aside until a machine arrived to make corrections before they were filled. The defective casings were stored in the same room as those which were perfect and the night before the accident some 732 of the defective ones were accidentally sent along the filling line. It was one of these that exploded.

The jury recommended that greater precautions be taken in the future and other and safer methods used in this operation should the need again arise.

Transferred To Borden

A.C.1 Harry Withers of the Royal Canadian Air Force, who is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Withers, Burnham Street. He recently completed his aero engine mechanics' source at St. Thomas and has been transferred to Camp Borden. His father served in the last war.—(Meyer Studio Photo).

Malta's Night Shooting Tops

LONDON, July 21 — (CP). — Exploits of Flt. Lt. Robert Carl Fumerton of Fort Coulonge, Que., in destroying four enemy raiders in two nights over Malta were used by the British Air Ministry in pointing to the brilliant work done by the night fighters over the island.

The Air Ministry mentioned specifically the work of the Canadian officer in telling how the night fighter unit in Malta came to be born, how it scored successes which have to some degree been overshadowed by the more specacular feats of the day fighters.

The unit was born last November before the German air force returned to Sicily. It was formed from among volunteers in the day fighter groups then stationed on the island. Shortly after the new group's formation it was estimated that of every 10 raiders approaching the island—most of them were Italian—eight were illuminated by searchlights and four were brought down.

Spitfire Fund Drive Is Planned

A Peterborough drive to raise further funds for the Canadian Police Spitfire Fund is to be launched as the result of co-operation between Radio Station CHEX and the Peterborough police department and of the local merchants and manufacturers.

The plan was approved at a meeting of the Peterborough Police Benevolent Association Monday night in which the details of the drive were discussed. The public will be appealed to over the air for donations to the Spitfire Fund and in addition there will be a popularity contest to choose Miss Peterborough, by means of tickets issued through various stores and factories. The drive will wind up with a big police dance on Labor Day at which the winner of the contest will be announced.

Canadian police are intensifying their efforts to complete the fund for a second Spitfire in view of the recent news that the first Spitfire donated through subscriptions received by the police of the Dominion has been destroyed in action.

Time And Music

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 21. —(CP).—The thief who broke into the home of Mrs. E. Snyder in Sidney Township will now be able to record the passage of time as he merrily strums out tunes. Mrs. Snyder told police someone had stolen a wrist watch and guitar.

INDEPENDENCE STRUGGLE

The fight of Dominicans for self-determination was begun in 1821, but independence was not achieved until 1844.

Saturday Sales By Children Help War Fund

Of all the days in the week, Saturday has so far proven to be the most favored by the children to hold various efforts on behalf of the victims of air raids over Britain through the local and district fund for that pupose.

This was fully borne out through the summer months of last year, and particularly since the holiday recess from school duties began at the end of last month, that too has been the experience this year so far.

Last Saturday, two such events were held, one in the south-end and the other in the west-end of the city.

The effort in the south-end was held on the lawn of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie, 441 George street south, and possibly reflects back to a similar event held the Saturday previous on the opposite side of the street by Buddy Neary, who with two other girls turned in the money they raised at that time to the fund. The group this time in addition to Buddy Neary, consisted of Marcelle Ritchie, Jean Reil and Doreen Whitmore, who had collected an assortment of canned goods and groceries for sale, and in some cases a cash donation was given them, all of which helped them to raise $5.16 for the fund, and was turned in by Buddy, who perhaps is all the more conscious of wanting to help with the war effort since an elder brother is serving in the Navy.

A group of boys in the west-end of the city, Donald Cowan, Neal White, Ross Lawrence and Bobby Hinton, ranging in age from 7½ to 10 years of age, were the promoters of a similar event which was held on Homewood avenue, and was entirely planned and carried out by themselves, which for their age reflects very much to their credit, and evidently they themselves got a great deal of satisfaction from this labor of love for others, that they now plan further aid for the fund by having a fish pond on August 1 for the same purpose. This group had lemonade, cakes, cookies and punch for sale, and through this they realized an even five dollars which is credited in their name in to-day's list of receipts.

One donation of $2.19 listed under the name 'Anonymous' is the result of having a handy box in a private house for the depositing of odd coppers, and demonstrates what can be accomplished in this manner, which if adopted by others might from time to time be of considerable help to the people of Britain.

Driver Is Charged With Drunk Driving

As the aftermath of an accident on Park street near Elm street on Sunday afternoon, in which two cars were damaged, when a northbound machine crashed into one of them and shoved it into the rear of the other, Percy Campbell appeared in police court this morning to face charges of drunken driving and failure to remain at the scene of an accident.

Campbell was arrested Monday afternoon in the beverage room of the Hotel Champlain by Constable C. J. McGillen.

Justice of the Peace Vincent Eastwood was on the bench, and the accused was remanded until Monday next for trial without plea, bail being fixed at $500. T. B. Thompson of the office of Carley and Standish appeared on behalf of Campbell.

DOCTORS ON CALL.

The Peterborough Doctors are observing Wednesday Afternoon as a Half-Holiday throughout the year. Those on call on Wednesday Afternoon and Evening of this week are: Dr. F. O'Reilly, Dr. R. K. Magee, Dr. E. A. Hammond.

DRUGLESS HEALTH SERVICE

This Office is equipped to give the best possible health service in the various drugless treatments.

The RADIONIC EXAMINATION will detect the cause of any ailment you may have, whether it is infection in any part of the body, or diseased tissue of any kind. We examine every organ and tissue of the body. Your health depends on the knowledge you have of your body.

The ULTRA SHORT WAVE instrument used in this office is the large heavy type mostly used in large hospitals and clinics. It is very beneficial in cases like Sinus and Antrum infection, Arthritis, Neuritis, Sciatica, Lumbago, Bronchitis, Colds, etc. It produces a wonderful heat that penetrates to the deepest of tissues, improves the circulation, and relieves pain very quickly.

COLD QUARTZ ULTRA VIOLET LIGHT is used successfully for Acne, Eczema, Shingles and other skin conditions, Tonsilitis, Hemmorhoids and other infectious conditions.

CHIROPRACTIC SPINAL AND FOOT ADJUSTMENTS will release any nerve pressure at any of the joints of the body where an inpingement can take place.

Let our DRUGLESS HEALTH SERVICE be of help to you in your health problems. Make an appointment now for a thorough examination.

a success if the husband and wife were determined to make a go of it, and if they would put into marriage the same amount of determination, of common sense and self-control that they have to use in making a success of anything else in life.

But they don't try to adjust themselves to each other as they do their bosses or their clients or their customers. They scorn to use any diplomacy or even common politeness in dealing with each other. If they find they have gotten into the wrong environment they haven't intelligence enough to get up and leave, and they vent on each other all of their nerves and ill-temper and spite at life in general.

They don't really give marriage a fair show, and when things go wrong they don't try to remedy them. They throw up their hands and quit, or else they sink into a sullen acceptance of their disappointment.

So don't be afraid of marriage. It is like everything else in the world. You will get out of it what you put into it and you can make it what your choose.

SEEK SPIRITUAL COMPANION

DEAR MISS DIX: I am engaged to a pretty, sweet girl who has very little education and who has never even read a detective story in her life, while I am a book-worm. The girl is very domestic, knows how to keep house and make a home, but so far as culture is concerned she is nil. It is enough for a wife to know how to cook and make her husband comfortable?

A NEAR-BRIDEGROOM

ANSWER: Not unless his physical comfort suffices him. If I were a man I should rather have a wife who would feed my soul than one who would feed my body, one who would be a companion to me rather than a good cook. There is a restaurant or a hot dog stand on every corner where you can get something to eat, but if your wife has no understanding to give you, you will starve to death spiritually. Nor is a man always hungry for food, but he always craves comradeship.

Any woman with a fair intelligence can learn how to cook; but a love of reading and for the finer things of life comes by nature. If a girl is born without the desire for culture, she will never acquire it. You will always speak an unknown tongue to her. And she will always resent your love of reading and feel that books are her deadly rival.

But why chose between a domestic girl and an educated girl when you can so easily get both in the same person?

A GIRL'S HOME TELLS A STORY

DEAR MISS DIX: Does a man judge a girl by the appearance of her home? I mean whether it is neat and clean, or dirty and untidy?
—BETH.

ANSWER: He certainly does, and if he has any intelligence whatever he doesn't ask the girl to marry him who lives in a slovenly home. He naturally thinks that the girl who is being reared in that kind of a home will keep the sort of a house that her mother does. And he think salso that if she wasn't born lazy she would get a broom and mop and clean it up herself.

MRS. BARAK HUBEL

HAVELOCK, July 21 — (ENS).— The death occurred at her residence Orange Street, Havelock, on Saturday, of Mrs. Barak Hubel, in her 66th year. Her maiden name was Annie Elizabeth Pittam daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Silas Pittam, Toronto, and was born on June 22, 1876. She was married to Barak Hubel and resided in West Toronto all her lifetime until she moved to Havelock four months ago. She has been in ill-health for over a year.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one son Alfred Hubel, Peterborough, and one brother Alfred Pittam, West Toronto.

Mrs. Hubel was a member of the former Methodist Church later the United Church. Her funeral was conducted on Monday afternoon from the family residence at 2:30 by Rev. J. W. Wilkinson of the United Church, thence to Maple Grove Cemetery for interment.

WILLIAM HORNER THOMSON

William H. Thomson, St. Mary's street, who had been in poor health for some time, passed away Monday in his 64th year. Until his retirement about ten years ago, he worked at the Canadian General Electric Company.

Born in Glasgow, Scotland, son of the late James Thomson and Mary Ure, Mr. Thomson was a resident of Peterborough for thirty years and was well known around the Caledonia Club for his Scotch imitations. He was a member of Knox United Church.

Left to mourn his loss are three daughters, Mrs. M. Beebee of Peterborough; Mrs. Isabella Hope and Agnes of Port Hope, and a son, Samuel Thomson of Toronto.

The funeral will take place Wednesday, at 3 p.m. from the residence at St. Mary's street. The Rev. William MacDonald will conduct the service, and interment will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

JOHN J. MURRAY.

MARMORA, July 21—(ENS). — There was a large attendance at the funeral of the late John J. Murray, which was held on Monday morning from his late residence to Sacred Heart Church. Mass was sung by Rev. H. J. Farrell and Rev. F. Quinlan, O.M.I., assisted at the graveside.

Interment was made in Sacred Heart Cemetery.

FIGHTING TEETH

Piano Playing an Art You Can Teach Yourself

Charts Help in Reading Music

The girl who sighs "Nobody notices me" is strictly out of date, for there's a quick way to teach yourself the piano and MAKE people notice you!

You have a chart that looks just like the piano keyboard except that it also pictures the musical staff, with each note next to the key it stands for.

And you'll find mastering keys is really simple. The same seven white and five black keys are repeated throughout the keyboard. See them starting at Middle C in our diagram and continuing to the next C.

Our 24-page instruction book has chart for most-used part of piano keyboard; explains rhythm, elements of music. Has chords for playing tunes a short-cut way, three airs for practise.

For your copy of "Quick Course in Piano Playing" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name address, and the name of instruction book.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

A MESS OF POTTAGE

WHEN YOUR side can make a vulnerable small slam, it is selling your birthright for a mess of pottage if you content yourself with merely beating not vulnerable opponents a few doubled tricks. It may be that you cannot score your slam without playing like the very dickens; but whoever expected to deserve any kind of reward unless he exerted himself somewhat?

North: ♠ A J 9 6 5 ♥ K A ♦ A K 4 ♣ 8 6 4

West: ♠ 7 ♥ J 8 5 ♦ Q J 9 8 7 6 ♣ Q 9 7

East: ♠ K 8 4 2 ♥ 10 9 7 3 2 ♦ 10 ♣ 5 3 2

South: ♠ Q 10 3 ♥ A Q 6 ♦ 5 3 2 ♣ A K J 10

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	2 ♦
Dbl	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	5 NT	Pass
6 ♥	Pass	6 NT

That is not the way the bidding went at one table of a duplicate game. There South passed his partner's double of 2-Diamonds, and the contract was beaten only three tricks, for a score of 500 points, insignificant compared with what North and South can make in playing the deal themselves, as at the table where the bidding was as given above.

Against the No Trump small slam, West led the diamond Q. South, seeing the importance of spade tricks, led to the heart A so he could finesse the spade Q. When that lost to the K, he decided that West, lacking that card, probably had the doubly guarded club Q as an adjunct to the suit he used for an overcall. If so, a squeeze was in sight.

Planning for that, he won the returned club with the A, scored the heart K, spade 10, heart Q, and then three more spades, discarding the last two diamonds from his own hand. West, with the diamond J-9, could not afford to throw one of them when he could see the K-8 in dummy. So he tossed a club from his Q-9, so that, after the diamond K won, the club 8 to the K dropped the Q, and the J took the final trick.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ Q J 6 3 ♥ 8 6 4 ♦ K 8 ♣ J 5 3 2

West: ♠ A K 10 9 4 ♥ Q 7 3 ♦ Q 10 2 ♣ K 4

East: ♠ 8 7 5 2 ♥ K J 10 2 ♦ J 9 7 ♣ 9 8

South: ♠ None ♥ A 9 5 ♦ A 6 5 4 3 ♣ A Q 10 7 6

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the soundest lead by West against South's 5-Clubs on this deal? What principle is exemplified by the result of it?

Attack Any Moment

DEVONPORT, Enland, July 21—(CP Cable).—Former War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha said in a speech today that Russia might face an attack from Japan "at any moment."

He declared the successful opening of a second front immediately would bring the prospect of victory near. He said the margin of territory Russia still could sacrifice without gravely prejudicing the outcome of the war was "becoming narrow."

See Timoshenko Standing On Don Elbow

LONDON, July 21 — (CP). — Informed military quarters, who must remain anonymous, expressed the opinion today that Marshal Semeon Timoshenko hopes to safeguard the Caucaus by forming a line along the great elbow of the Don and by holding his own communication lines between the Caucausus and Moscow.

They said they expect he will continue to withdraw until his forces form a line anchored on Rostov on the west and extending northeastward along the Don elbow to Raspopinsk.

With his armies astride the river line, Timosheko would be in position to bar a southward drive by the Germans into the Caucasus.

Military sources pointed out the importance of staunchly-defended Voronezh in such a scheme. Should the Germans be able to advance northward on the Moscow-Vorenzh line they would menace Timoshenko's two main railways.

One of these runs from Astrakhan to Saratov and thence northwest to Tambov and Michurinsk where it forms a junction with the Voronezh line to Moscow.

Rubber From Corn

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — The United States Department of Agriculture today reported producing "excellent yields" of pure butadiene —basic ingredient of synthetic rubber—in small-scale operations using butylene glycol made from corn.

"The major problem remaining is conversion of butylene glycol to butadiene on a commercial scale" the department said, in disclosing also the development of a short and economical fermentation process for making butylene glycol from such plentiful farm crops as corn and wheat.

Nova Scotia Bush Fires Slacken

HALIFAX, July 21.— (CP). — A change of weather erased the menace of forest fires in Nova Scotia woodland during the week-end, but the situation remained menacing in some areas to-day. Fires near Shubenacadie and at the Debert military camp were reported under control, but a big Queens County blaze near Lake Rossignol was spreading through valuable timber stands.

Chief Forest Ranger G. W. I. Creighton termed another fire which had burned over 20 square miles near Enfield, 'the worst fire we've had in years,' and added that although the blaze had been 'quiet' on Sunday, its danger could be considered over. 'There are several points, now practically under control, which are still potentially dangerous.'

After approaching to within 1½ miles of Enfield Saturday, the fire turned and travelled 15 miles north toward Truro. Four homes in the path of the spreading blaze were saved by volunteer firemen who also saved a schoolhouse at Beltman after a hole was burned in its roof.

Another wing of the fire burned southward toward Nine Mile river and threatened homes in that area.

Girl Drowns In River

NORTH BAY, Ont., July 21 — (CP).— Jean Ouellette, 17-year-old daughter of Archie Ouellette of the Powassan district, drowned on Saturday in the Little Pickerel River.

Unable to swim, the girl apparently stepped into a deep hole. She was alone at the time.

The drowning was discovered by Mrs. Walter Hesman, operator of a tourist camp where the girl worked, who had warned her against going too far into the river. The body was recovered.

150 Welders Out

WINDSOR, Ont., July 21—(CP)— Approximately 150 welders and sheet metal workers are still out at the Gotfredson, Limited, plant here. The company makes bodies for army trucks.

The plant works two shifts of 11½ hours, according to information given by George Burt, regional director of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.), which has a number of the plant workers as members. No working agreement exists between the union and the management.

Cavan Institute Hears Talk Upon Emblems

CAVAN, July 21 (ENS). — The monthly meeting of Cavan Women's Institute was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Albert Byers. The roll call for the meeting was "Name a Canadian leader and what made him famous."

The secretary read a letter from Manson Cathcart, a Cavan boy who is overseas, in acknowledgment of parcel that had been sent him by the Institute a short time ago. When he wrote the letter, he was on leave in Edinburgh.

The Institute members were given an invitation to attend the annual Achievement Day for the girls' home economic course that is being held in Millbrook Town Hall on Friday, July 24.

The Institute sent a donation of $4 for the overseas jam fund. It was decided to send cigarettes to each of the Cavan boys overseas instead of the usual packages this month.

Each group was asked to be responsible to make funds for the general Institute fund.

A most interesting program planned by Miss Malone and her group opened with several selections of community singing. Miss Malone then gave an excellent paper on the Emblems of Canada. She especially stressed those of Ontario and Quebec, and showed pictures of the emblems of each province. She pointed out what each object on the emblem represents. Mrs. Milford Byers sang a solo, Mrs. Norman Braithewaite read an interesting historic poem. Miss Bernice Hibbard gave a violin solo.

The meeting closed with God Save the King." A sugarless lunch was then served by Miss Malone's group.

The meeting next month will be in charge of Mrs. Hunter's group.

Cheese Revenue $7,343 In Month

The sum of $7,343.45 was earned in May by Marmora Cheese and Butter Company, $6,187.55 for cheese and whey butter and the government bonus of $1,155.90.

The amount paid to patrons: cash $5,033.56, butter $33.30, cheese $19.35, total $5,086.21; plus bonus to patrons $1,155.90. Total expenses $1101.34. Total payments $7,343.45.

The information was received from Charles Jones, secretary of the Marmora Cheese Factory. His statement was supplemented with the following comment: "I notice a certain creamery is offering 42 cents for first grade cream and 43 cents for special grade. This means that cheese factories are still better than creameries, even with the 6c bonus they are receiving and turning over to their patrons."

Total pounds of milk delivered to the Marmora factory in May, 337,754.

Total pounds of fat in milk, 11,110.3. Bonus paid per pound of fat, 10.406 cents. Price paid for butter fat clear of expenses 56.18 cents, including bonus. Average price of milk clear of expenses, $1.84 per hundred pounds.

Steel Curb On

OTTAWA, July 21—(CP).—Restrictions on the use of steel, copper and all other metals except gold and silver in the manufacture of a list of about 100 articles go into effect July 31, manufacturers were reminded to-day by D. P. Cruikshank, co-ordinator of the metals administration of Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Under these restrictions, originally announced June 13, manufacturers were permitted to use up sticks which were processed to a point where they would be no use for any other purpose. This provision expires July 31 and not even stocks of metals or alloys on hand may be used after that.

Groundhog Wins

Cavan, July 21 (ENS).

RECENTLY a dog and a groundhog had a set-to outside of the home of Lillie G. Malone and the groundhog came off very much the winner.

Those inside the house heard a young dog kicking up quite a noise outside the house and upon investigating they saw a small groundhog just beneath the pantry window, who was standing up on his hind legs. The dog had him cornered but seemed afraid to touch him or get too close. Suddenly the groundhog made a jump at his tormentor, and the terrified dog made a very quick get-away.

Bethany Couple 50 Years Wed

BETHANY, July 21 — (ENS). — A record audience assembled by invitation in the Town Hall on Thursday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Driver, for 34 years highly esteemed citizens of Bethany on the anniversary of their golden wedding. They were married in London, England, where they continued to reside. Mr. Driver served in the Boer War. About 34 years ago they came to Canada with their three sons, Gilbert, Douglas, and Leonard.

At the outbreak of the World War Mr. Driver and his two older sons were among the first to leave Bethany, serving for three years, when Mr. Driver was invalided home.

Rev. Mr. Harding was chairman for the evening's program which consisted of community singing, acompanied at the piano by Mrs. Richardson of Pontypool, a piano solo by Norman Lowes, a reading by Miss E. Richardson songs by the Misses Gladys, Grace and Audrey Driver, solo by Ralph Preston, instrumental number by Beatrice and Earl Morton, song by Dorothy Lowes and a short address by Alexander Monk.

The presentation of a purse of money was made by Mrs. Clara Armstrong. Mr. Driver expressed his heartfelt gratitude to all present for their great kindness. Refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

Congratulations were read from the Governor-General and Prime Minister Mackenzie King, which were followed by an address by James Paul, a veteran brother Orangeman. Douglas Driver of New Toronto expressed his deep regret that his sister Miss Doris Driver was unable to be present owing to illness.

The younger portion of the visitors remained for dancing, which concluded a very enjoyable evening.

Cubans To Hunt Subs, Lions Told

TORONTO, July 21 — (CP). — "Our Navy is limited but ready to fight and in the last few days units have been obtained from the United States by means of agreements in the fight against submarines in the Caribbean," said Dr. Custavo Cuervo Rubio, Vice-president of Cuba, who arrived here yesterday to attend the 26th annual Lions Club international convention.

"Our people feel very deeply the happenings of this war and follow very closely its course," Dr. Rubio stated. "Our spirit has never been backward or indifferent and when Congress declared war upon the Axis 48 hours after Pearl Harbor, it expressed a popular sentiment deeply rooted in the people."

Dr. Rubio said the people of Cuba were suffering rationing difficulties the same as other peoples in countries at war. Traffic is 50 per cent less and the consumption of electric power has been limited three-quarters.

The course for the classes in the Home Reserve Nursing, which has been carried on for several weeks past under the able leadership of Mrs. Lloyd Byam, Reg.N., assisted on three occasions by her sister, Mrs. (Dr.) Greico, of New York, was concluded on Friday evening. Mrs. Byam was presented with flowers by the members of the final class for the day, and it was decided to have the three classes, including a membership of over seventy, join in a picnic when the diplomas are received, and ready for presentation. Mrs. Ross Edmunds, Mrs. P. Stinson and Mrs. J. W. Hilton were appointed a committee to arrange this matter. An outside speaker will probably be invited to come and address the students, and present the diplomas.

Before dismissal on Friday night, Mrs. Byam, who has spared herself no trouble in providing material for her lectures and for the practical demonstration, announced that something over $45 remains on hand, after all expenses have been met, and this sum, it was agreed, will be given to the local branch of the Red Cross, probably at the picnic, it being urged that Mrs. Byam have this honor.

Miss Muriel Smith is on her annual vacation, and after spending the first week in Toronto, intends to take a boat trip in the northern lakes before returning to her position in Captain W. R. Howard's law office.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Henry, of Peterborough, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Henry, also of Peterborough, were guests of Reeve W. E. and Mrs. Ball this week.

Mrs. A. A. Smith is visiting her daughter, Mrs. R. Scott, and Mr. Scott, at Essex for the current month, and will join her daughter Miss Muriel when the latter returns from her vacation.

Two Rains Save Havelock Crops

HAVELOCK, July 21—(ENS).—A million dollar rain fell in this locality on Saturday morning, again early Sunday morning and in the afternoon quite a severe electric storm lasted about an hour.

Lawns, gardens, pasture fields and berry patches were almost burned up last week, but they are already showing signs of new growth.

A great many of the residents motored back to Belmont or Round Lakes and spent the afternoon and evening in swimming and boating.

The Midland Reserve Company "B" Regiment left on Sunday morning to spend the next two weeks in training camp in Ottawa. The Havelock boys motored over to Hastings and left by special train for the capital city.

Mr. Douglas Hutchison left Sunday morning for Glen Tay to work as C.P.R. operator.

The Rev. Tennyson Seeney returned to Bancroft after holidaying for a few days here.

Mrs. C. W. Switzer and daughter Shirley and Mrs. H. B. Humphries and daughter Patsy, Toronto, visited last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sanderson.

Mr. Bill Hubble, Toronto spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hubble.

Rev. S. A. Kemp and Mrs. Kemp have returned from visiting Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kemp, Peterborough.

LAC. Howard Harnden and Mrs. Harden left Monday to take up residence in Trenton.

Miss Josephine Hoffman, Toronto, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. J. Hoffman.

Crashed In Fog Ship Goes Down After Collision

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT July 21 — (CP). — One ship was sunk and another damaged in a lower St. Lawrence River collision early on Sunday, a naval afficial said here to-day.

The damaged ship which docked yesterday with a crumpled bow, will undergo necessary repairs here. The other ship sank shortly after the collision. The 21 crewmen of the sunken ship reached land safely and were taken to another Eastern Canadian port.

The sunken ship was riding at anchor in a local patch of "thick weather" when she was rammed amidships by the other vessel. Flames broke out, but crewmen were said to have had time to take their belongings with them before their ship went down.

Earlier reports said that two ships were sunk and a third damaged.

Leahy New Staff Chief, Grave Situation Over Shipping Losses

WASHINGTON, July 22.—(AP).—Soviet Ambassador Maxim Litvinoff and members of the Pacific War Council went to the White House today for separate conferences as grave developments appeared on the Russian front and in the shipping situation.

President Roosevelt had an opportunity also to discuss with his callers the sharpening warfare in the Aleutian Islands so near to Siberia.

When Litvinoff came out of the White House he replied with a "no" to questions about whether he and the President discussed the possibility of a second front in Europe.

Litvinoff for many months has publicly advocated an invasion of Western Europe to relieve German pressure on the Russian front, but refused to discuss it with reporters today.

Mr. Roosevelt, in deciding strategy matters in any of the pressing situations, can turn for advice to Admiral William D. Leahy, whose appointment as chief of staff to him he announced yesterday.

Mr. Roosevelt announced Leahy's appointment late yesterday and said the Admiral will assume duties immediately. Confronting the chief of staff as he took office was a report by the war shipping administration that shipping losses during the week of July 12 were the highest since the war began and that sinkings of United Nations vessels have greatly exceeded new construction.

The Navy, meanwhile, had announced the sinking of three more Japanese destroyers by United States submarines in the vicinity of the Aleutian Island of Kiska. This brought Japan's losses in the Aleutian area to six destroyers, one transport and one cruiser sunk; one destroyer probably sunk; and four cruisers, two destroyers, one aircraft carrier, one gunboat and one transport damaged.

These 18 ships sunk and damaged went to pay for Japanese occupation of three islands—Kiska, Attu and Agattu—all at the western ex-

LONDON—(CP).—The Press Association, quoting a "reliable foreign source," said today that 10,000 Germans were killed in the 1,000-plane raid on Cologne May 30, and were buried in communal graves. This source was quoted as saying the Germans moved 140,000 persons from the city, that houses by the hundreds were ruined beyond repair, and that at least 16 factories, including railway workshops, were destroyed.

VALETTA, MALTA—(CP).—Civilians suffered 201 casualties in this British Mediterranean base in June, it was announced to-day. The incessant Axis air attacks killed 54, seriously injured 97 and slightly wounded 50.

Trouble Spot At Home

NEW YORK, July 22 — (AP).—Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler has converted his SS Black Guards into "a civil war army" of 750,000 by recruiting mercenaries from the German-occupied countries of Europe, the secret German radio station "Gustav Siegfried Eins" said last night in a broadcast heard here by CBS.

Croats, Latvians, Rumanians, Poles and others have been "rubber stamped" into German citizenship by Himmler's agents the broadcast charged, to form "an army of mercenaries without convictions of whom Himmler asks nothing more than that they blindly sell themselves for money."

Alaska Action Hide and Seek War of the Mist

By KEITH WHEELER
(Copyright, 1942, By Chicago Times, Inc.)

AT SEA WITH PACIFIC FLEET (Delayed)—The war of the mists began June 3 with the first Japanese attack on Dutch Harbor, America's base on Unalaska Island.

That was the day before the Japanese commenced their wholesale hara-kiri of ships and men in the neighborhood of Midway Island.

The Japs appeared from the morning murk at 8.09 a.m., 15 fighters clearing the way for four Kokekiki carrier-based bombers.

Fighters identified as Zeros, came down and splattered machine gun bullets on shore installations, barracks, warehouses, the radio station and on several Catalina flying boats in the harbor.

The bombers laid a stick of 18 200-pound bombs in the neighborhood of Fort Mears. Barracks and warehouses in the fort installations were hit and began to burn, a fire that smoldered three days.

Dutch Harbor was ready for attack with everything but weather. Weather along the Aleutians is never favorable for anything but getting lost.

Our Catalinas and the army's big fortress bombers were out searching even before the first plane appeared. Within an hour of the second attack one "Cat," snooping through the drifting wreaths and festoons of mist stumbled on one aircraft carrier lurking south of Umnak, the next big island west of Unalaska. By midafternoon a second carrier was spotted in the Bering Sea above the island chain.

2nd Days Raid Livelier

Dutch Harbor found the going hotter when the second attack materialized shortly after noon. The first planes had stayed 9,000 feet up and dropped their loads from that height with meagre success.

The second wave by three closely-spaced three-plane bomber sections was by dive bombing. They dropped six sticks of three 500-pound bombs each, shooting for the navy radio installation and fuel tanks. They scored on the radio, putting it out of commission for several hours.

Sees Victory In 1943 —If Lucky

Rommel Shot His Bolt Little Hope Of Aid Says Churchill's Son

By SETH MOSLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, July 22 — (AP).—Capt. Randolph Churchill, 31-year-old son of the Prime Minister, predicted to-day that "if we're lucky" the United Nations would win the war by the end of next year "and if we're unlucky then we'll win by the end of 1944."

"We, the British, were only one-quarter ready for this war," Capt. Churchill said at a press conference. "Germany prepared for 20 years for this war. The English have not been as clever in this war as the enemy.

"We have been largely enthusiastic amateurs in this war as compared to professional military men We still have a lot to learn, but we are learning fast and we are going to win."

Churchill, captain in a parachutist formation reached here yesterday from Egypt where he suffered a crushed vertebrae in an automobile accident last May.

It was reported that Captain Churchill was injured during a commando raid, but he said he was hurt in an auto accident last May which took the life of a British newspaper correspondent. The accident occurred near Cairo.

Capt. Churchill said that he took a hopeful view of the Egyptian situation.

"I think Rommel has shot his bolt," he said. "Whatever help he wants must come from the German forces in Russia—and I don't think he's going to get it."

As Capt. Churchill talked, he bent forward to ease the pain in his back, which was strapped by splints. His face was marked by a bruise suffered in the auto accident.

Finds Egyptians Loyal.

"I saw the battle of Egypt from a hospital bed—or rather I didn't see it," he said. "One thing I'd like to say about that Egyptian campaign was the extraordinary calm and loyalty of the Egyptians. Even when the going got tough their loyalty was unswerving—a tremendous vindication of 70 years of loyalty to the United Kingdom."

Capt. Churchill said he was on his way home to convalesce and hoped to get back into action soon. He joined the parachutist formation several months ago after first serving with the Commandos.

"We had decisive air superiority in Egypt, but I realize the results

Hope Via Bomber

LONDON, July 22—(CP).—British bombers streaking over Germany and Italy as well as the Axis-occupied nations of Europe almost daily drop thousands of tiny newspapers carrying United Nations' news and uncensored items about Naziland.

The midget newspapers, no larger than a cigaret when rolled up, are printed in various languages. There are four pages, 8-by-5 inches but the fine print makes possible 110,000 in a single issue.

Canucks Bomb Duisburg Leave It Aflame

LONDON, July 22—(CP). — The Air Ministry announced today that many widespread fires were started in an attack last night on Duisburg and other Ruhr Valley objectives by a strong R.A.F. force which included at least four Canadian squadrons. Thirteen bombers failed to return.

Duisburg, a large industrial town at the junction of the Rhine and the Ruhr Rivers, was the main objective. It was last raided at night July 13, and the Germans announced it was attacked by daylight last Saturday.

"Intruder patrols were maintained over enemy airdromes in France and the Low Countries by aircraft of the Bomber Command and the Fighter Command," it was announced.

An R.A.F. informant said more than 300 planes took part in the assault upon the German industrial centre. They were favored by good bombing weather.

A communique said German aircraft dropped a few bombs at scattered points in the east of England last night, causing some damage, and one raiding bomber was destroyed.

The Canadians formed "a large proportion of the striking force," R.C.A.F. headquarters said.

It was the first night attack on the Ruhr—main German war-industry centre — since July 13 but daylight attacks were executed last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The sweep into Germany by the R.A.F.'s big machines followed an early-evening low-level mass attack by fighter squadrons against the coastal areas of occupied France and Belgium. It was the second successive dusk raid on the coastal area.

The fighters shot up German troop concentrations, gun positions, locomotives, army trucks and armored cars at Ostend, Dunkirk and

Allied Fliers Bomb Unopposed

Blast Concentration Of 1,000 Vehicles In Central Sector

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CAIRO, July 22.—(AP).—The Allied air forces have virtually driven the Germans out of the sky over the North African battle area, military sources said to-day.

These sources, whose identity it was not permitted to disclose, said hardly any enemy air activity was observed yesterday by bombers and fighter which ranged far beyond the El Alamein front, blasting at lage concentrations of Axis vehicles and attacking the Nazi supply base in Crete.

Ground fighting, meanwhile, had settled into artillery duelling, General Headquarters reported.

In one sortie yesterday light bombers smashed at concentration of some 1,000 Axis vehicles in the central sector of the front.

While R.A.F. forces were ranging over the Egyptian battle front, other bombers made an attack "in force" on shipping in Suda Bay, Crete, and scored direct hits on two vessels there. A pier also was set afire, the communique said.

In the actual desert fighting yesterday action was confined mainly to artillery fire at the northern end of the front west of El Alamein, it was reported.

Coastal roads west of El Alamein also came in for attention from the R.A.F. as Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel moved up reinforcements of infantry in trucks. The motorized infantry was described as "badly dispersed."

"Many direct hits were scored and fires started" on enemy positions and Axis vehicles, the communique reported. The air action ranged over the entire 40-mile battleline and at dusk bombers attacked vehicles in the southern sector.

Lights Stay On

MONTREAL, July 22 — (CP). — Benefits from a total blackout of the shores of the lower St. Lawrence would be offset by increased danger to navigation Navy Minister Angus L. Macdonald said last night in an interview.

Without lighthouses and signal lights functioning, he said, the danger from collison would be as great as that from enemy action.

For The Yanks

LONDON, July 22—(CP).—Several new airdromes have been built in Great Britain to accommodate the growing United States Army Air Forces, it was disclosed by reliable sources today.

Members of the American Air Forces are seen in increasing numbers all over Britain and the first bombers bearing the U.S. insignia already have appeared over London.

The United States Army Air Forces here will include fighters and reconnaissance planes as well as bombers.

Canada Limiting New Oil Well Taxes to 40 P.C.

OTTAWA, July 22.—(CP).—Finance Minister Ilsley said in the House of Commons today that the new tax on income of oil or gas well drilling syndicates will not be permitted to exceed 40 per cent., the minimum corporation tax.

This provision will be placed in the income tax amending bill, the Minister said.

Provision for a tax on the income of new oil or gas wells is contained in one of the few clauses of the budget resolutions which remained to be desposed of when the House resumed committee consideration of the budget this morning.

The clause provides that in the case of royalty syndicates organized to drill for oil or gas, in circumstances where the production belongs not to companies but to investors in the property, the production shall be deemed to be for and on behalf of the company and the means of the company shall be deemed to include the proceeds obtained from sale of the gas or oil, less necessary expenses.

Mr. Ilsley said new oil syndicates in the United States had been taxed for some time, but not in Canada. While there was great necessity for obtaining new sources of oil, the Government had come to the conclusion that new royalty companies prospecting for oil and gas should be taxed and that it was desirable that those forming such syndicates should know in advance how they would be taxed.

There had been suggestions that any taxation on these new developments should be in the form of an output tax, but that was a field now occupied by the provinces and the Dominion was content that it should be.

Fight To The Death, Is Plea To Retreating Armies As Nazis Near Nerve Centres

Berlin Says Lower Don Crossed, Rostov Ringed Break There Cuts Caucasus Off; Russ Charges Hoist Boche Back At Voronezh

By EDDIE GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 22—(AP).—Stalingrad and Rostov both were imperilled gravely by fresh German advances today as the 1,000,000 men of Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock pressed relentlessly south and east against bitterly fighting but outnumbered Russian forces.

Red Star, the army newspaper, said ominously that the Germans are approaching the border of Stalingrad province.

A furious German assault beat against the men of Marshal Semeon Timoshenko along the Moscow-Rostov railway. The drive was moving on Rostov from south-east of Millerovo and from Voroshilovgrad, both of which have fallen to the Germans in the 300-mile wide Don basin offensive.

Red Star pointed to the danger thus:

"Terrible days face the country. The enemy is rushing to the vital centres of our country."

The newspaper called on Red soldiers to repeat the example of 28 Soviet troops, who in defending Moscow last winter fought tank charges with their hands, all dying in the struggle.

(The German high command claimed the lower Don had been crossed on a broad front and organized Russian resistance in the Rostov region had collapsed. Rostov was declared hemmed in.)

Reds Gaining at Voronezh

As the Russian armies in the south strove to stem the German advance, the forces at the northern end of the front around Voronezh were reported holding the initiative and counter-attacking vigorously. The Russians announced four bridgeheads had been seized.

But the Russian press showed that the greatest urgency was before Rostov and Stalingrad, both vastly important industrial and communication centres and guardians of approaches to the Caucasian oil lands and fertile farms.

The loss of either city, it was acknowledged, would be a tragic blow, but by far the worst damage would be caused by cutting communications. Stalingrad lies astride an elbow of the Volga within 45 miles of the Don and the Volga is the Russian life line through which Britain and the United States have been pouring supplies via the Persian Gulf route.

The fall of Stalingrad would mean the virtual separation of the Russian northern and southern armies. The loss of Rostov along with the Russian-held section southeast of Millerovo would mean the near isolation of the Russian army of the Caucasus.

Oil—the lifeblood of mechanized war—would be denied to large sections of Russia except that which has been stored.

The fall of both cities would isolate many other southern centres from aid in the north, so vital to carry on Russia's resistance.

The Germans are pouring tanks, cannon, trench mortars and planes into the battle zones before Stalingrad and Rostov. The Russians

Two Men Killed In Port Hope By CN Passenger

PORT HOPE, July 22— (ENS).—Walter Hughes, 65, veteran baker, and one of this town's most highly respected citizens, and William Trew 70, also of Port Hope, were instantly killed shortly before two o'clock this afternoon when they were struck by the C.N.R. train pulling in from Peterborough.

The accident occurred at the crossing east on McKibbon Street, right by the Art School, and the car was carried fifty feet by the train.

Both men were thrown clear of the wreckage, but according to Dr. R. McDerment, who investigated along with Constables Weathrup and Rafter, they died instantly.

The bread and a considerable amount of fruit were scattered along the railway.

Mr. Hughes leaves a wife and grown-up family.

Rostov Menace Grave—London

LONDON, July 22 — (CP). — Small German armored forces may have reached the lower Don in a drive south-east from Millerovo and "there is no denying the danger to Rostov" from this and two related operations, British military sources said to-day.

The invaders were reported converging from three points, basing columns from Taganrog 40 miles west of Rostov; Voroshilovgrad, 100 miles north; and Millerovo, 130 miles north-east.

At the same time it was declared that the Germans had been deprived by Russian counter-attacks of every bridgehead but one across the Don in the Voronezh sector.

300 M. From Tobruk 17 Days

Ten Show Up In El Alamein—Live Off Wrecks

EL ALAMEIN, Egypt, July 22—(CP-Reuters)—In the early dawn of a day on which the British were standing off Rommel's men at El Alamein five British and five South African soldiers, bearded and unkempt, walked into this outpost and told the story of a 300 mile journey on foot from Tobruk. Thirty yards outside the barrier of El Alamein they met a British night patrol returning from a raid. Three hundred miles and 17 days before that meeting they began their journey.

The party was piloted the whole way from Tobruk by Lieut. W. Gibb, a South African international soccer player who now is an officer of a reconnaissance battalion. He was equipped with a compass and maps which took them as far as Mersa Matruh. The rest of the way he just relied on a general sense of direction in the desert.

Huns Mass In Finland To Stab Murmansk

Plans Quick Blow To Cut Off One Of Russia's Two Main Life Lines, Strangle Her

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

While Soviet Marshal Timoshenko coolly manipulated his hard-pressed forces under the terrific assault of a million-man Nazi army at the gateway to the Caucasus, way up on the northern extremity of Russia's 2,000-mile front there is developing against the Red army another grave threat which is correlated with the southern offensive.

I am reliably informed that the Germans are concentrating heavy forces in Finland, preparatory to a major attack against the Soviet Arctic port of Murmansk. Hitler's hope is to make a quick conquest of this vital rail-head and thereby cut one of Russia's two remaining feasible lifelines to the outside world, the other being the cumbersome route through the Persian Gulf.

Hitler's strategy is to apply to the Muscovites that fierce economic strangulation which the British blockade has inflicted on the European Axis countries and occupied territories. It's well to recognize this situation now, for it's likely to tower like a monster this coming winter, not only for the Hitlerites but for the United Nations.

To put it bluntly, Russia which covers a sixth of the entire land space of the globe and is blessed with a diversity of resources which make it virtually self-contained, is drawing terribly close to a dangerous lack of supplies, both military and foodstuffs. The time may come when she will need bread.

Long ago when Hitler's effort to conquer Europe still was young, this writer ventured the view that kernels of grain would have more to do with ultimate victory than would bullets. That's increasingly true. With the destruction of Europe's farm lands, and the severance of communications, the little kernel of grain is becoming a mighty factor.

The Allied blockade of Europe has squeezed Hitler so hard that the chief reason for his present great offensive is to break through to fresh supplies. Unfortunately for the Allies, however, they haven't been able to retain exclusive use of this economic garrote, and the Nazi leader is struggling to fasten it about Russia's throat.

Timoshenko's task is more than that of preserving his armies from annihilation and preventing a Nazi break-through into the Caucasus. It also is to keep Hitler from cutting the Reds off from the vital supplies of southwestern Russia and the Caucasus.

Timoshenko's tactics for carrying out his Herculean assignment apparently project a stand on the great bend of the Don River where it curves deeply eastward into the fertile steppes that guard the route

Vining Report Secret Too

Mr. King Refuses To Table It—Hanson Mystified

OTTAWA, July 22—(CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons today that he will not table the Vining report on Canadian publicity in the United States. He was rejecting a motion by L. E. Cardiff (Con., Huron North), instructing the Government to table the report. Mr. King said the report was not intended for the public but as guidance for the Government which now was considering it.

Conservative House Leader Hanson said Charles Vining of Montreal author of the report, occupies a position of importance in Canadian life, and that his report is a matter of interest to all Canadians. The subject of the report had caused concern ever since the war began.

"I do not understand why the Government should always by trying to keep such matters secret," said Mr. Hanson. Mr. King said it would be impossible to carry on government unless confidence were maintained in regard to certain official documents.

The Vining report contained information and expression of opinion from people who would not have spoken if they thought their words and names would be made public. Every government had the same problem of publicity, Mr. King said, and he was an anxious as the Opposition Leader—and more so—to see Canada's war effort get as much publicity as possible.

OTTAWA IS EXPECTED TO LIFT THE BAN ON COMMUNIST PARTY

OTTAWA, July 22 (CP)—If parliament approves the recommendation of a House of Commons committee, the long-standing ban on the Communist party of Canada and other organizations now held to be illegal will be lifted. The Defence of Canada Regulations Committee will recommend to the House tomorrow that the ban be lifted, The Canadian Press learned last night.

Other organization covered by the decision are Jehovah's Witnesses, a religious sect; Technocracy Incorporated, an organization upholding monetary reform; International Bible Students' Association; White Star Bible and Tract Society and another organization by the same name which is incorporated, and the Ukrainian Labor Farmer Temple Association.

These organizations are among a num' including also Nazi and Fasc bodies, declared illegal under the Defence of Canada Regulations in the summer of 1940.

The committee's recommendation is expected to lead to a sharp debate in parliament, which may take place next week. Little chance was seen today that the Commons could dispose of all its unfinished business and adjourn by the end of this week, the original objective set.

Michaud Steps Out.

The decision carried by the committee in secret session yesterday, led to the resignation of Fisheries Minister Michaud as chairman. It was learned that the vote was eight to five and that the voting cut across party lines.

H. B. McKinnon (Lib., Kenora-Rainy River) was chosen to succeed Mr. Michaud as chairman and will present the report to the House

The move, even if endorsed by Parliament, will not mean the automatic release from detention of the 70-odd communists now interned in the Dominion.

Justice Minister St Laurent told a press conference six months ago just after his appointment to that portfolio—that 'no one has been interned because of his sympathy for Soviet Russia but because he has advocated policies which contained a threat to Canadian institutions.'

It is understood that this attitude sill holds good. The committee member who informed The Canadian Press of the decision to recommend lifting the ban said the Justice Department would have to judge each case on its merits.

The most colorful member of the Communist Party of Canada—Secretary Tim Buck—is not detained But his whereabouts have not been definitely established since shortly after the war began. Royal Canadian Mounted Police hold a warrant for his arrest.

The Communist Party of Canada had a membership of some 18,000 in 1940, it was shown in a return tabled at that time in the House of Commons. The Ukrainian Laother points. Three planes were lost.

As the bombers swept out over the Channel last night, official sources made known that the R.A.F. Ferry Command had completed safely 995 out of 1,000 of its flights of American-built bombers and flying boats across the Atlantic in the last 12 months.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Charles Portal in a congratulatory message to the Ferry Command last night on the eve of its first anniversary, said "You are playing a most important part in building up the strength of the R.A.F. May your second year be as successful as your first."

Set Plenty of Blazes

LONDON, July 22 —(CP Cable)— "Plenty of fires" were left burning in Duisburg, bombed with other Ruhr Valley objectives last night by a strong force of R.A.F. and R.C. A.F. planes, Sgt. Harrow Bruce of Bracebridge, Ont., tail-gunner in a Halifax bomber, reported on his return to base.

Four Canadian squadrons participated in the raid, in which 13 bombers were lost. It followed on the heels of an early-evening attack by fighters against the coasts of occupied France and Belgium.

In Bruce's crew were Sgt.-Air-bomber Doug Ross of Margaree, N.S., Sgt.-Observer Clarence Evans of Winnipeg and P.O. Frank Day of Preston, Ont., the wireless operator. They completed their mission and returned their plane to base undamaged.

A piece of flak penetrated the radiator of the port engine of a Halifax bomber piloted by Flt. Sgt. Fred J. Taylor of St. Eustache, Que., whose mates included two Nova Scotians, PO. Al Cook of New Waterford, observer and Sgt. Airbomber M. F. Robbins of Waterford. They were caught in the beam of defence searchlights for 10 seconds after reaching the target.

Two members of Wing Cmdr. (Moose) Fulton's squadron, E. R. Wilson of Edmonton and E. S. Alexander, D.F.M., of Montreal celebrated their promotion from flight sergeant to pilot officer by smacking their bombs right on the target.

"It was a wizard of a job," said PO. C. D. Jane of Thorold, Ont.—sentiments echoed by a fellow crew member, Flt. Sgt. J. W. East of Adgetts Landing, N.B. Both were gunners with Wilson and Alexander.

A crew captained by PO. S. R. Fillmore of Alma, B.C., sighted a Nazi fighter and the tail gunner, Sgt. Pat Murphy of Halifax, let go with his guns but could not discern the result.

All aircraft in the squadron returned safely.

have been made with gold mines under arrangements to assist mineral development.

George Ross (Lib., Calgary East) said assistance was entirely apart from taxation concessions given to encourage the production of required war minerals. In any event provision for these concession to gold mines would expire this year.

Mr. Ross said the oil industry was more important than gold and should have any assistance now given to gold production. "We should transfer some of the benefits given to mining to oil development," he said.

Mr. Ross said petroleum and gas developments should be treated generously, in light of the great need for these commodities, concession now provided in the excess profits tax act for base metals and minerals production, and of the concessions, now expiring, which gold mines have enjoyed since 1936.

The section was adopted and the committee took up the clause providing income tax deductions in respect of contributions to registered prospecting syndicates searching for base metals or strategic minerals, the amounts not to exceed $500 to any one registered syndicate and not to exceed $5,000 in the aggregate.

Shot Down At Sea

Last Christmas Day was spent in a little rubber dinghy far out at sea in the Far East by Pilot Officer David B. Babineau, of Saskatoon, Sask., it was learned only recently. Navigator attached to an R.A.F. squadron in Ceylon, the Canadian flier was shot down on Christmas Day by a Jap raider and spent 20 hours in the dinghy with other members of his crew before he was picked up. A product of the British commonwealth air training plan, he graduated from the bombing and gunnery school at Jarvis, Ont., and gained his navigational knowledge at the air observer school, Malton, and the air navigation school, Rivers, Man.

They achieved near misses alongside several old wooden fuel tanks and managed to hit the only hospital in 500 miles.

Weather defeated efforts to maintain contact with the invaders.

The Catalinas early next day came on two Jap carriers and two destroyers heading southeast 200 miles below Seguam Island. American attack groups began to converge from every base in the islands and the open water. They came from as far away as Kodiak, 600 miles eastward.

The day's operation order was a marvel of military brevity. "Land-rearm, refuel-attack," it said.

Fortress and B-26 bombers joined the Catalinas, but it was like boxing blindbloded. The questing planes picked upon carrier again at noon, finding two cruisers in company. Contact was established again at 5 p.m. and yet again at 9 p.m.

The second day's attack on Dutch Harbor was by 10 Zero fighters, 10 dive-bombing Kokekikis and eight torpedo planes which were met by heavy anti-aircraft bursts from the Harbor's guns.

From the ceiling, then 12,000 feet high, the Japs came twisting down to lay their bombs in the area of hangars, barracks, shops and fuel storage. This second day's raid was more effective than the first. They made several good hits and several near misses.

The attacks were driven home viciously, but the defenders regarded the damage as something less than serious. No attack by so few planes can hope to knock out a well established base.

Except for a subsequent weak attempt against Umnak Island, the second day's raid has been the last against American bases in the Aleutians—unless the occupation of empty Kiska and Attu constitutes attack.

For Thursday, July 23

A PARTICULARLY lively and enterprising day is read from the ruling planetary aspects. While there may be hold and audacious moves in launching such programs, yet they could be easily nullified or bungled by rash, hasty and impetuous moves or with erratic or irregular impulses With well-organized plans and properly thought out actions there should be real success and satisfaction.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to enjoy a progressive and profitable year, with much enterprise and initiative, provided they exercise precaution and restraint, as there is a sign of impetuous, erratic and possibly violent impulses and emotions. Ambitious programs should attract the friendly support of those in high places, especially if public or community interests are at stake.

A child born on this day although disposed to be rash, impetuous and carried away by its erratic impulses, may be well-endowed for a successful and popular career, possibly in public service.

were summoning all their strength at the front. Significantly, the Red army introduced wound stripes recently to decorate wounded soldiers who return to the front.

The Red army's courageous stand at Voronezh has now turned into daring counter-attacks. These drives are helpful but not enough to offset the impending danger to Stalingrad the Volga and Rostov.

The Russian man in the street's confidence, however was unshaken and there was not a man or woman with whom this correspondent talked who did not express confidence that Russia would survive this crisis.

Dispatches continued to report that the Germans had numerical superiority in men and machines in all southern sectors.

The crisis in the south all but overshadowed the losses already suffered — the rich Donets Basin coal fields, the industrially important Donets region and the wheatlands of the Steppes of the Don Cossacks' home.

Tass agency, telling of the Voronezh fighting, declared:

"The iniative has been wrested from the Germans by bold attacks of our troops. The pressure of our troops grows stronger daily. Sanguinary fighting continues between the Don and Voronezh rivers and in the city area. The enemy is evacuating one position after another but keeps resisting and incessantly shelling our positions."

Ilsley Chides Hanson On Tax Kick

Opposition Leader Objects To Baring Private Circumstances

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, July 22 — (CP). — Finance Minister Ilsley compared the sacrifices being offered on the battlefronts of the world with the inconveniences involved in the new budget in rebuking Conservative House Leader Hanson last night in the House of Commons.

Mr. Hanson entered a vehement protest over the budget. conditions requiring a member of Parliament to reveal to a Government official his life insurance and mortgage circumstances in order that proper deductions may be made from his indemnity.

He objected to that underlying principle on behalf of all taxpayers Mr. Hanson said, and he objected also to the clause requiring employers to collect taxes for the Government without any offsetting consideration.

Mr. Ilsley said the Government would try to "counteract" the effect of Mr. Hanson's speech which might have the effect of undoing what the Government was properly trying to do.

With "a terrible war" raging throughout the world, and "awful reverses being suffered," said Mr. Ilsley, "the Leader of a great party gets up and says that his freedom must not be interfered with to the extent that he shall tell a Government official how much life insurance he has. That is total war, is it?"

If He Were 20 Years Younger

But the incident passed off with good humor when Mr. Hanson said he could not get "enraged" but added that if he were 20 years younger he might be "flying across the floor."

The incident came at the close of an all-day struggle on the part of Mr. Ilsley, assisted by Revenue Minister Gibson, to get the detailed resolutions of the most complicated and highest income tax system ever presented in Canada, through committee of the whole.

There was considerable progress and an end was looked for today when Mr. Ilsley will present two amendments, one of which will have to do with taxation of those in the forces.

The House was informed yesterday by War Services Minister Thorson that the lottery system of calling men for compulsory service will

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 22 — (CP). — Cattle trade was slow at steady prices up to mid-session on the Livestock Market here today. Veal calves, lambs and sheep were steady. No price was established for hogs. Unsold from yesterday was 100 head of cattle.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle, 350; calves, 370; hogs, 600; sheep and lambs, 500.

Because there was a holdover this week from previous weeks when producers were rushing cattle to market ahead of the advertised drop in prices, there will be enough for consumers this week. A certain amount of anxiety was evident, however, with regard to next week when there will be no holdover. Another shortage of beef for Toronto then is regarded by many as probable, although when the next date for a drop in price early in August comes another run may develop.

The question of supply is also one of concern due to the fact that present uncertainty as to markets and prices is causing little buying of Western stockers to be finished on Ontario pastures. They are allowed to go to the United States from Western farms and stock yards. Prices are high for stockers just now and that increases the uncertainty.

A few weighty steers sold at $10.50 to $10.65; butcher steers, $9.25 to $10.65; heifers, $9.50 to $10.50; butcher cows, $7 to $8.25; bulls, $8 to $10; a few stockers, $9 to $10.

Choice veal calves sold at $14 to $14.50, with common vealers selling downward to $9.

Good ewe and wether lambs sold at $15 to $15.25; bucks, $14 to $14.25, and culls, $13.

Sheep sold at $4 to $8.

Hogs closed previously at $15.90 to $16 dressedweight at yards or plants.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 22—(AP).— Hogs, 400; good and choice, 180 to 230 lbs. $15.75 to $15.90; similar weights trucked-ins, $15.60 to $15.75; 240 to 300 lb. $14.85 to $15.50.

Cattle, 200; common to medium southwest grass steers and heifers, $11 to $11.90; cutter and common cows, $8.75 to $10; strong weight sausage bulls to $12.

Calves, 100; good and choice, $1.50.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, July 22 — (CP). — Market transactions were featureless in the early part of the session on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Export business was at a standstill and only one trade was posted in the July wheat future which remained unchanged at 80⅞ cents a bushel. October wheat was ignored. At Chicago, wheat was ¼ lower.

Scattered trades in October oats were reported and one or two trades were made in barley and rye.

MOSCOW, July 22—(AP).—Fresh tanks, planes and infantrymen poured into the German drive toward Stalingrad today and Nazi pressure persisted relentlessly north of Rostov, but the Russians announced seizure of control of four Don crossings and other gains in the aBttle of Voronezh.

Increased Soviet air activity throughout the Don basin was noted by the newspaper Komsomol Pravda. It said Russian bombers, as well as roving tanks and infantry groups, were raiding airdromes newly gained by the Germans.

"Southeast of Voroshilovgrad (100 miles north of Rostov) our troops are waging defensive battles and on some sectors, under the pressure of numerically superior forces, have withdrawn to new positions," the mid-day communique said.

Powerful artillery and mortar fire was reported employed in a flank attack on one advancing column.

"The Germans lost over a regiment of infantry in this battle, as well as 19 tanks," the communique declared.

Reds Widen Wedge

At the same time, dispatches said the Battle of Voronezh.

In the German left flank northwest of Voronezh, recaptured a large and strong fortified point south of that battle-scarred city and won control of four main crossings of the Don to the west.

Nazi detachments still battling within the "V" formed by the Don and the Voronezh rivers were declared imperilled, their prospects of reinforcement and supply dwindling with expansion of the Red army counter-offensive.

A battalion of German infantry and 17 tanks were wiped out in a successful Red army action to recapture a highway, the communique reported.

The Russians were said to have destroyed two temporary bridges installed by German engineers across the Don for the advance upon Voronezh, cut a third and placed a fourth under artillery fire from emplacements newly re-established on the west bank.

A Soviet dispatch said that even while seeking to isolate the still

2,500 Veterans Are Wanted For Army

Recruiting continues at a good pace for active service, Lt. Brook (in charge of recruiting at the Armouries), reported today. Tuesday there were twelve men who came to sign up and arrange to get their medical. Veterans are wanted for overseas work and for doing guard work on German prisoners in Canada.

The recruiting officer said that the importance of veteran enlistments cannot be stressed too much. Ottawa is keeping in very close touch with the recruiting officer on the number who are enlisting, and they are most anxious to see a greater number of applications. There are 2,500 veterans across Canada needed in this next two weeks. The young men are doing their job well, and this is an opportunity for others to really help their country in an hour of urgent need.

Scheelite Vein Uncovered On Sudbury Farm

SUDBURY, July 22 (Special.—According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, scheelite is "a mineral consisting of calcium tungstate." And tungsten, obtained from scheelie, "has a hardening effect on other metals...is a constituent of some of the most important industrial alloys."

That being the case, the seven brothers Fielding, who live in Waters Township, near the Creighton nickel mines, may have a fortune beyond their wildest dreams in the 140-acre property they inherited from their father.

Or they may not. Certainly there is scheelite there. Whether it is there in sufficient quantity to warrant industrial development on a large scale remains to be seen. But Mining Recorder Martin A. Story of Sudbury is authority for the statement that it is there. He has seen it with his own eyes.

This all stared a few days ago, when Carmen Fielding walked into Recorder Story's office with a sample of quartz-calcite ore that he thought might contain scheelite. Now tungsten is a vitally important war weapon. As a hardening agent it helps to make tanks, guns and ships. It put a more enduring edge on cutting tools.

The United Nations need all of it they can get. Germany has a supply of her own, is obtaining additional supplies from conquered Czecho-Slovakia. These perilous days tungsten is more important than it has even been since it was first discovered. And where you find scheelite, there's tungsten.

The accepted tests for scheelite employ ultra-violet ray lamps. The mineral has the peculiar property of giving off a purple glow when exposted to ultra-violet rays. The sample Carmen Fielding brought to Recorder Story's office did just that. Recorder Story was interested. He was sufficiently interested to go right out to the Fielding farm with his portable fluoroscope that night and make his own tests.

Seven 20-Acre Plots.

When their father died the 140-acre homstead was divided among his seven sons, each taking possession of twenty acres of land. On the adjoining properties owned by Carmen Fielding and his brother Frank, there is an old pit opened up years ago with the idea that the rock formations might contain nickel. Nothing came of that enterprise, but it was from this abandoned prospect that Carmen Fielding took the sample he showed the mining recorder at Sudbury.

Working in pitch darkness in order that the ultra-violet ray reaction, if present, might be at once discernible, Mining Recorder Story and the seven Fieldings prospected the old pit and other rock exposures. The purple glow betraying the presence of scheelite was all over the place. Mr. Story says he has traced a scheelite vein approximately three feet wide and 25 feet long. Samples of the ore have been sent to the Dominion and the Ontario Departments of Mines for further examination and reports.

That is how the matter stands today. If there is sufficient scheelite on the Fielding properties to yield any coniderable amount of tungsten the brothers will have made a valuable contribution to the United Nations war effort, and incidentally turned a nice stroke of business for themselves.

"Dive Bomber" Attack On Front Lawn

Almost daily, out in Seattle, a robin and a gentle white kitten name of "Oscar" go through the exact motions of a dive bomb attack. For some reason a fair and usually mild robin gets a mad on, whenever she spots "Oscar" sunning himself on the lawn of "Oscar's" mistress, Mrs. Edward Finnegan. Comes a peculiar noise from the robin and whoooosh—down she dives at the frantic cat. Slapping at "Oscar" with her beating wings, or pecking at the almost helpless cat, the robin swoops upward at the bottom of her dive, only to begin the attack on a new quarter. "Oscar" gets himself all out of shape in dodging the attack. Even to standing for an instant on one hind leg and his tail, but remains strictly on the defensive. The robin is so fast on the attack that sometimes the attacker is behind "Oscar" before he can whirl around to the new "front."

Obituaries

IDA MARY CORNEIL.

Ida Mary Corneil, sister of Norman and Walter Corneil and Mrs. R. G. Allan, of Peterborough, died Tuesday at her home, 42 Victoria avenue, north, Lindsay. The funeral service is at 2 p.m. Thursday. Interment will be in Riverside cemetery, Lindsay.

MRS. MORLEY STOCKER.

BONARLAW, July 22—(ENS). — The funeral of Mrs. Morley Stocker which was largely attended, was held from his late residence at Bonarlaw on Monday afternoon. Service was held in St. Mark's Anglican Church of which she was a member, at 2:30 p.m. conducted by Rural Dean Rev. A. B. Caldwell of Marmora. Interment was in Mount Nebo Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Charles Gordenier, Morley Barlow, W. J. Barlow, Douglas Brown, Charles Nobes, and Gordon Webb. A portion of the graveside ceremony was under the auspices of Harmony Lodge No. 600 L.O.B.A., of Marmora, and was conducted by Mrs. M. Kouri, Acting Mistress, Mrs. L. Williams, Secretary, and Mrs. Cyril Tandy, Chaplain.

The late Mrs. Stocker, who was held in high respect in the community was a lifelong resident of Bonarlaw and in her 40th year. She is survived by her husband, six sons Douglas, Thomas, Robert, Mornington, Neal, and Kent aged 16 to 6, and one daughter Rose Ellen, aged 4, all at home; also her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Neal of Marmora Township, four brothers William of London, Ont., Till, Harry and Arthur of Marmora, and two sisters, Mrs. R. Langley (Lottie) and Florence of Marmora Township.

A son James and a brother Thomas predeceased her nine and two years ago, respectively.

Relatives and friends from a distance attending the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. W. Beeton and family and Fred Barrett of Toronto, Mrs. Robert Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Kent Brown of Port Hope, Mrs. Lyall of Oshawa and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis and family of Trenton.

Mrs. Stocker's sudden death on Saturday morning last came as a great shock to the community.

Miss Hazel Burnham Buried In Port Hope

PORT HOPE, July 22.—The funeral was held of Miss Hazel H. Burnham, lifelong resident of Port Hope. The service was conducted at her home, Dunbarton Hall, by the Rev. T. Crosthwaite of St. Mark's Anglican Church. Interment was in St. John's cemetery.

Miss Burnham was a great lover of flowers and nature. She was noted for her contralto voice, which was given freely for church and charitable causes. During the last war she was an ardent worker and took part in the operation of a tea room from which the funds were used for Canadian hospitals overseas.

The late Miss Burnham is survived by five sisters, Mrs. Edward L. Currie, Mrs. H. Maude McKinley and Miss Grace E Burnham, Port Hope; Mrs. P. F. Hodgson, Dyers Lease Lacock, Eng.; Mrs. F. Adele Lowes of Calgary. A brother was the late Lieutenant-Colonel J. G. Burnham of Toronto.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

It was for R. F. Downey, George Coleman, Jr., and George Gimblett to make the headlines in last night's schedule games.

Along about the 15th end in the Downey-Long game, the school inspector was trailing by about eight shots. On this particular end Downey was lying shot and just about the full length of the green. Jimmy Cullen, who plays vice for Dr. Long, asked the Dr. to pick out the shot bowl. Dr. missed with both bowls.

Harold Darling, playing vice for Downey, did some fast thinking. He saw that if "R.F." could remove the second shot that they might get a big end—and Mr. Downey did that little thing and counted five. From the bank it looked as if Long, Cullen and Co. were caught flat-footed on the play—in other words, to use a rugby term, Darling pulled a "sneaker" play. Downey is now right back in the game and coming strong.

On the last end it was a tie coming home, and Ross Frederick Downey again rose to the occasion by picking out this shot bowl to count game and rubber.

Now over on the outside green Gimblett and Renaud had another photo-finish. About half-way through Gimblett was leading 10-3, but Mr. Renaud's boys kept plugging away until they were only two down and playing the last end. The last end was all in favor of Charlie, in fact, when he threw his last bowl he was lying three shots, enough to win the game, but George Gimblett had yet to play. Things were serious. He walked down the green and then back again, all the time biting a small piece off the end of a nickel cigar. However, he finally got set and played a beautiful wide out-turn bowl to come in for second shot. It not only saved the game, but it kept the rink right up in the running.

Now then over on the back fifty the rink of G. Coleman Jr. has earned the right to have their pictures hung in the "Hall of Fame." They came through with what a lot of bowlers dream about, but seldom do: score a possible 8-end. Yes, this time it was at the expense of Rufus Payne and Co.

The remaining games, outside of the McMillan-Coleman Sr. one, were never in doubt. In fact, some of the scores were as large as one's income tax.

In the Ladies' Section there was some good games and some not so good. However, that's bowling.

It seems now that their schedule has been thrown wide, wide-open, and with the defeat, last night, of the top notchers, it brings more rinks right back into the contest.

Tonight, No. 2 Group will play games according to schedule.

Birth Of a Baby

Last night we took the opportunity afforded by a local movie house to see The Birth of a Baby, a film which is being shown in Canada under the sponsorship of the Division of Child and Maternal Hygiene of the Department of National Health. The picture has been the cause of much comment in this country; it has been treated with respect and sometimes with the awed sentimentalism with which many people regard its subject. We thought it an excellent film of its kind and one which every adult and most children over the age of ten should see if they ever expect to become parents. The Department, in distributing this film, is doing an admirable and necessary work.

* * *

It is surprising that after so many million years of continuous occurrence the processes of reproduction should still be so imperfectly understood by most laymen. But in our own country the spread of sound information about childbirth has been hampered by the existence in the minds of the majority of people of two ideas which at first sight appear to be contradictory; the first of these notions is that childbirth is "natural" and that therefore no special care need be taken about it; the second notion is that childbirth is not a fitting subject for frank conversation, and that embarrassment must attend any discussion of it. As a result of these two ideas there is an appalling ignorance of the nature and processes of childbirth in this country, and many avoidable tragedies and many handicapped children and sickly women result from it.

* * *

The chief lesson of the film is that the risks to mother and child involved in birth may be reduced to an almost negligible point if proper care is taken from the beginning of pregnancy. Regular monthly visits should be made to a physician to ensure that nothing is amiss, and his instructions about diet and exercise should be followed carefully. The time to give a child a good start in life is not when it is eighteen, but before it is born.

* * *

As entertainment the film is somewhat heavy, but it is understandable that many people would have been offended if attempts had been made to liven it up; public discussions of these matters are always somewhat ponderous. There are a few good moments: the beating of the foetal heart, which sounds like African tom-toms pounding out a declaration of war, is good, and the actual birth of the child, obviously speeded up by the camera, is the sort of thrill which Hollywood cannot provide. Fathers in the audience may have been annoyed that the father was shown as an incompetent buffoon, but the father is invariably cast as a low comedian when a birth is in progress; his period of labor in behalf of the child comes later and is considerably more protracted.

* * *

It is to be hoped that this film will be widely exhibited in Canada and that its lesson will be thoroughly digested. When once that has been learned we shall have to begin on the even bigger task of learning to bring up our children to be better men and women than ourselves, in the interests of civilization and human progress.

Salvaging Tubes

There is a law that people who wish to buy tubes of toothpaste, shaving cream and such other necessities as are packed in collapsible metal tubes must give their dealer an empty container before they may have a full one. Of course this law has to be treated with discretion, for there are occasions when it is not possible to turn over an empty tube, either because it is in a distant city or has never existed. But great numbers of people who have no excuse are neglecting to hand over their empty tubes when they are buying fresh supplies.

That is not playing the game. The tubes contain valuable metals which are badly needed in our war effort and we must see that they are returned as soon as they are empty. It is not easy or pleasant for a merchant to refuse to serve you because you have not brought him an empty tube; if he did so you would be offended and would probably take your trade somewhere else. Do not put the poor man in an embarrassing position. Do your duty and turn in your empty tubes as soon as you have done with them. If you never have to do anything harder than that to help the war effort you will be lucky indeed.

Flying-In Taxes

A good deal of justified public annoyance is felt at the revelation that a number of administrative officers of the R.C.A.F. have been arranging to get their 100 hours in the air every year in order to avoid the payment of Income Tax. And the public will wonder why officials of that service—who must have known what was going on — did not check it before it became a matter for Parliamentary discussion and a public scandal.

As we said yesterday, the whole attitude of the country toward Income Tax must change. It is no longer an impost arranged to take from the rich some of the money which they do not need; it is now designed to leave every citizen with no more than is necessary to maintain his position and avoid the workhouse. Evading the tax is not clever; the officers who have resorted to this method of bilking the Government are not droll fellows who provoke our approving laughter. They are just as much culpable as any other citizens who evade payment of taxes. And they aren't cheating a mythical body called the Government; they are cheating all the rest of us. And they are disgracing a service which has done notable work in this war. And attempt on the part of the armed forces to treat themselves as privileged beings beyond the reach of the law must be vigorously put down. Deeply as we appreciate their sacrifice we cannot permit them to look upon themselves as an elite. And in justice to the heroes of the R.C.A.F. it must be made plain once more that it was not the flyers, but administrative officers, who resorted to this equivocal device for avoiding taxation.

Taxing The Future

During a debate on Income Tax schedules while the House was in committee on Monday night Mr. Hanson, the Leader of the Opposition, said, "I do not think we can have so much of this war taken out of the taxpayers, but that the future generations for whom we fight will have to play their part as well — and a larger part than we are playing today... I do say future generations, if we are to have a future at all, have got to sustain their part of this war."

This is sadly unrealistic thinking. The future will have its own troubles, and posterity will curse us heartily if we burden it with debt. The only interest which future generations will have in this war lies in the decision. They will not want to pay for it and we have no right to expect them to do so. Every era has its own wars, and it usually has all it can do to pay for them without adding inherited debt to its burdens. Mr. Hanson's idea is rather like that of the man who presented his son with the bill of the doctor who had attended at his birth, as a twenty-first birthday present. Mr. Hanson wants to burden the future in order that our present load may be lightened. But this is our war; our stupidity and our lack of worthy statesmanship brought it about; now we are paying for it. Let us bite the bullet and pay as much as we can, and with what good grace we can, and not talk nonsense about the duties of posterity. Gratitude for winning a war, as has been amply proved in the past, seldom lasts more than five years. Let us see that the debts do not outlive the gratitude.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"U.S. And Finland Near Open Break" says a headline. The finish of the Finnish?

Men who smoke in munitions factories and live to go to jail for it may think themselves lucky. Prison bars are preferable to those on the pearly gates.

There is some talk of a ceiling on liquor, and the Dunnville Chronicle thinks that the matter should be confined to the usual place—the cellar.

Newfoundland has a surplus of more than $7,000,000 for its fiscal year of 1941 and has not raised its taxes for the year to come. No wonder it doesn't want to come into Confederation!

A Nazi spy was picked up in New York because he gave himself away while drunk. Although this proves the popular contention that drinking impedes the war effort it must be admitted that no partiality is shown as to whose war effort.

British Eastern Banks

From The Manchester Guardian

WITH the Japanese conquests in the Far East a large field of commercial enterprise in which British banks have long played a leading part has been cut off. The network of branches in China, Siam, Malaya, Burma, and the Dutch East Indies through which these great firms used to finance an enormous trade in produce has been swamped. Yet the real losses sustained by the Eastern exchange banks have been much smaller than might have been expected, and they still retain both a certain amount of current earning power and the reasonable hope of great future. The loss of branches, and with them of areas of operation, has certainly been serious. The Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China has lost 37 branch offices out of 48. The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation has lost its former head office in Hong Kong—it was transferred to London just before the fall of the colony—and 20 other branches out of a total of 42 offices. The Mercantile Bank of India had twelve offices in the countries occupied by the Japanese and has now thirteen others left free.

✧ ✧ ✧

These were the most serious losses, but a few branch offices were lost also by the National Bank of India, the Eastern Bank, and the Imperial Bank of India. Nevertheless, a glance at the profit statements and balance-sheets of the various banks shows that the financial loss has not been large. The report of the Chartered Bank for 1941, for instance, returns net profits of £352,865, compared with £400,160 for 1940. This is a moderate reduction considering that the profits for the second half-year of all branches under enemy control at the end of the year have been excluded. Even so, it would have been possible to maintain the dividend at 10 per cent, but for obvious reasons of prudence it was reduced to 7½ per cent. The Chartered, like the Mercantile Bank, has still a flourishing business in India. Although the scope for financing Indian foreign trade and exchange business may be restricted by Japanese sea power, the Chartered Bank has already obtained a stake in domestic banking in India by its acquisition of the P. and O. Banking Corporation, which in turn has a share in the Allahabad Bank.

The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank has not yet been able to publish its accounts for 1941, as the main Eastern offices were overrun before the necessary information could be cabled to London. It is generally assumed that the interim dividend of 2½ per cent paid in July will remain the only distribution for that year, against 5 per cent paid for 1940. Until a balance-sheet is published the financial position of the bank cannot be analysed, but it would be very surprising if the great bulk of all assets were not found to have been liquidated and withdrawn intact before the occupation. All the banks working within the shadow of Japanese ambitions in the last few years have been building up a position of extreme liquidity ever since the outbreak of the China war. Even before that the abandonment of the silver standard by China in 1935 had made it far too risky for the exchange banks to continue their accustomed credit commitments. With the spread of war conditions in China, the growing molestations by the Japanese invaders, and the depreciation of the Chinese dollar, it became a matter of normal prudence to lighten commitments.

✧ ✧ ✧

But while it is certain that these banks have come out of the landslide with their resources intact, and ready to resume operations when Japan has been defeated, it is not easy to foresee the precise conditions under which they will return to the East. One can only speculate on certain aspects of the future. The Asiatic nations will no longer accept European aid in any sense of tutorship. There can be no doubt, in particular, about China's emergence as a great Power, and the progress of India and Burma can be guessed from the offer of complete Dominion status already made by this country. With these developments the growth of local banking systems will almost certainly go hand in hand. But though the British banks do not for a moment expect to return on the old terms, they may well be asked to take a highly important part in the restoration of trade between East and West and in the financing of those vast schemes of capital development for which Asia would then be ripe after more than thirty years of revolutions and wars. In China the three principal British exchange banks have already had a satisfactory experience of working in close concert with the Chinese Government banks in the handling of the joint exchange stabilization fund. There was no question of inequality then, and depended on extra-territoriality. This kind of collaboration may well be resumed and developed when it becomes once more possible.

✧ ✧ ✧

Next year the bulk of India's sterling debt will have been paid off. Fiscal autonomy is already largely established. Before long, then, the British banks will have to adapt themselves to working in an independent Dominion. But since when have British overseas enterprises lacked power of adaptation? The Eastern exchange banks have still vast financial resources left; they have a specialized knowledge of the Eastern markets, both commercial and financial, and they have easy access to the capital markets in London and New York. That is a combination of advantages which will ensure them considerable scope for post-war activities in a changed Asia.

Unconsidered Trifles

The case was one of assault. The magistrate eyed the prisoner sternly.

"You maintain that you threw your wife out of the second-storey window through forgetfulness?" he stated.

"That's right, your worship," returned the prisoner. "We used to live on the ground floor, and I forgot we'd moved up."

Don The Main Red Stand

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

INTENSIFIED Anglo-American staff conferences in London in search of quick means of relieving Nazi pressure on Russia proceed against the background of a darkening outlook for Red armies on the lower Don.

German war bulletins imply that the river has been reached at some point east of Rostov, the outpost for defense of the Caucasus. A triple attack is converging upon the city, by Berlin account, from the east as well as the west and north. If that is true, the battle for the Caucasus has begun. The most serious crisis is at hand in Southern Russia since Rostov was taken last winter, only to be surrendered a week later when the German winter retreat began.

It remains to be seen whether Marshal Timoshenko's plans for defense of the lower Don include standing siege in Rostov proper. It lies on one bank of the wide Don estuary, while his main line of defense must follow the other.

"FLEXIBLE DEFENSE"

The city's destruction under the Stalin scorched-earth policy and evacuation for a stand behind the Don water barrier, seems the probable Red strategy. Rostov was given up by the Russians last winter rather than risk an entrapment.

Berlin admits that the advance on a 300-mile front in Southern Russia has encountered a Red "flexible" defense of retreat at every point except on the upper Don about Voronezh and the Don-Voronezh wedge. The German public is warned that a Russian stand all along the Don from Voronezh to the Rostov corner is to be expected.

The speed with which the Nazi advance units have closed in on Rostov and, by German reports, stabbed fifty miles closer to Stalingrad somewhere in the Don bend itself indicates that Timoshenko has about completed his retirement. Rear-guard actions in the Don-Donets basin have granted him time to get troops and supplies north and west of Rostov out of a dangerous pocket. With all the southern wing of his army concentrated behind the Don, and the army of the Caucasus also available, he seems to be prepared, back of water bulwarks all the way from the Don-Donets confluence to Kerch Strait, to meet Nazi frontal or flank efforts to break into the Russian oil fields.

DIVERSION POSSIBILITIES

The grim Russian stand in the Voronezh area where the only Nazi bridgehead across the Don has been achieved makes it clear that it is the Don line, with some modifications, upon which the Russian High Command hopes to halt the Germans. The Don-Voronezh position and the exposed Nazi flank from that angle northwestward to Kursk or Orel are the probable keys to Russian expectation of regaining the offensive, once the German tide southward has been stemmed.

London advices say that Anglo-American staff work there is aiming at a diversion attack from the west to draw off some of Hitler's reserves in men, planes and tanks concentrating against Russia. That still does not imply a major second-front operation.

London speculation that some effort will be made to plant Allied air and submarine bases on the Continental coast, preferably in Norway, to serve the double purpose of diversion and protection of the Atlantic convoy lanes to Russia, sounds plausible. The Atlantic supply route for Russia must be kept open at all costs.

Islanders Forced To Feed Nazis

(From Manchester Guardian)

PEOPLE living in the Channel Islands have no salt, no soap, no jam, sweets or cakes, and there are no useful clothes left in the shops.

News of the ordeal of the islanders since the German occupation two years ago has been given by one of them who escaped to Britain, and from his report and other sources the Channel Island Refugees Committee has pieced together a mosaic of life in the islands.

The States—the island Parliament—continued to function in the normal manner, but such laws as they made required the sanction of the German commandant.

The Germans were using more and more labor, with the result that there was a shortage of labor, particularly for agricultural purposes.

The States were obliged to supply all labor free of charge according to the requirements of the Germans.

They had also to provide hotel and billeting accommodation and food for the German troops.

The stock of cattle was on the increase, as there was no normal export trade. The Germans had bought for export a few prize cattle only.

As the Germans required butter to be made for them, milk had to be rationed. In an area which normally is overflowing with milk each person was limited to half a pint daily. These were the weekly rations:

Butter, 2 oz. (no other fats).
Tea, 1 oz. (This was expected to disappear shortly, and the islanders were using dried blackberry leaves instead).
Sugar, 2 oz.
Bread (grey, and made from rye and crushed beans), 4½ lbs. for men, 4 lbs. for women, 3 to 3½ lbs. for children
Meat, generally 5d worth a week.
Cigarettes, 10 per man, with an occasional 1 oz. of tobacco.

For those working for the Germans there was an additional ration of 1 lb. of bread a day and ½ lb. of butter a week.

Apart from a little French wine and cider there was no liquor of any description.

For such foods as could be bought, prices were controlled at a reasonable level.

Advice To Swimmers

AS the summer progresses, accounts of deaths by drowning are appearing more frequently in the newspapers. Auto crashes are taking second place to drownings as a menace to life. Reducing the speed of cars undoubtedly has cut down the motor fatalities of this province; and if we only do something to make swimmers more careful, there may be a similar decrease in the number of pleasure seekers who find watery graves. The Owen Sound Sun-Times has produced a list of rules for swimmers, which will bear careful study; and if this precautionary advice is heeded there seems to be no doubt that many lives will be saved. Here they are:

1. Cramps are no respectors of persons—if you are subject to cramps, better stay out of the water.
2. A strong undertow can carry the best swimmer in the world out to his death.
3. Treacherous eddies in unfamiliar streams can nullify all your aquatic ability.
4. Always wait two hours after eating before going into the water.
5. If you have heart trouble do not go in swimming.
6. It is wiser and safer to bathe in protected areas only.
7. Never dive in a spot you do not know. It may not be deep enough.
8. Do not bathe or swim alone. It is always safer to have companions with you.

A New Twist

SOMEONE mentioned the Nazi-Japs. What about the Mussihits — Kitchener Record. Judging from the way Il Duce leans on Hitler it might be more appropriate to call him "leany" Musso instead of Mussolini.—Chatham News.

Lawyer's Fantastic Claim

LAWYERS, along with clergymen, doctors and newspapermen, claim a certain immunity in protecting the source and nature of confidential information and in keeping secret certain intimate details of their relationships with other persons they deal with in the course of their daily work. This right has been recognized by the courts on numerous occasions. But there are limitations and a case in point has been before the county police court in Toronto.

A lawyer there has been asked where he acquired a stolen bond which figures in a breaking and entering case. He admits he received it as fees from a client but he declines to reveal the client's name, contending that he could not do so without violating the confidence of his client.

This is surely a fantastic position and if accepted by the courts it would mean that the offices of unscrupulous lawyers could become fences for the disposition of stolen goods, forever untouchable by the law. A lawyer is an "officer of the court" with a double responsibility in seeing that justice is carried out.—From the Edmonton Journal.

FASTER THAN WIND

"Can outstrip anything but the wind," says one writer in describing Canada's newest aircraft. What he means is evident, but if taken literally it would not mean much because the poorest of present day planes can travel three to four times as fast as the highest wind, which, incidentally, is described in encyclopedia as 90 miles an hour, when it is called a hurricane. A gale is 40 miles an hour. — Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

A Bible Message For Today

(From The Authorized Version)

AND Elihu the son of Barachel the Buzite answered and said, I am young, and ye are very old wherefore I was afraid, and durst not shew you mine opinion. . . .

Great men are not always wise: neither do the aged understand judgment. Therefore I said, Hearken to me; I also will shew mine opinion. . . .

The Spirit of God hath made me, and the breath of the Almighty hath given me life. If thou canst answer me, set thy words in order before me, stand up.

Behold, I am according to thy wish in God's stead: I also am formed out of the clay.—Job xxxii; 6, 9, 10; 33; 4-6.

Cease ye from man, whose breath is in his nostrils: for wherein is he to be accounted of?—Isa. ii; 22.

The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? the Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid? . . . When thou saidst, Seek ye my face; my heart said unto thee, Thy face, Lord, will I seek.—Psalms xxvii; 1, 8.

As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness.—Psalms xvii; 15.

A Tribute To Dealers

IN the May issue, Canadian Automotive Trade had occasion to complain bitterly about the sabotaging of the automotive business by irresponsible public speakers, Government officials, newspapers, etc. It comes as a breath of fresh air, therefore, to find one newspaper giving some credit where it is due. The London, Ont., Free Press pays editorially a tribute to the automobile distributors of Canada, almost a 100 per cent war casualty, yet continuing to serve as a vital part of the whole war effort.

"There are roughly 3,500 auto dealers in Canada employing several thousand men and women," says the London paper. "On their staffs were not only highly trained mechanics but skilled salesmen and experienced office staffs. The large part of these became unemployed when Ottawa ordered discontinuation of automobile production. It is to the credit of the dealers that they did not at once turn these men loose. Instead, from coast to coast, they reduced their staffs gradually. Mechanics went directly into the fighting forces. Thousands of salesmen found their way into war industries where their mechanical gifts were turned to use in making guns, trucks, gun carriers and other items. Many became army drivers. Office staff members found work in war industries and in new government departments. All were specialty men and women who are now contributing this specialized knowledge to the nation at war."

"Not only have the auto dealers given skilled men to Canada's war effort. Before the government established its mechanical training schools the car distributors organized and maintained training schools in their own garages for men and women. These night courses were supervised by the dealers' mechanical staffs, the expense being met by the distributor, a worth-while contribution to our effort."

"Today Canada's automobile dealers, with heavily reduced staffs, are carrying on a repair and maintenance service for the necessary highway transportation system and for such essentials as public utilities, ambulance service, police, doctors. Should these distributors close their garages and discontinue these services our war effort would be seriously curtailed. Canada's automobile dealers, under the most difficult circumstances, are rendering the nation invaluable aid and deserve our thanks."

Girls Enjoy Service In Canadian Women's Army Corps

Girls from every part of Canada, now serving in the Canadian Women's Army Corps and performing the important job of releasing able-bodied men for combatant duty, are definitely happy in the service, as these pictures show. The Corps, which will treble its strength within the next few months, is employing girls in many of the jobs available to their sisters in civilian life. In every department of the Army, women are proving they can work efficiently and well. The Corps is headed by Major Joan Kennedy (1) CENTRE, formerly of Victoria, B.C. (2) LEFT TOP shows genial Vol. K. Priestly, of Montreal, reading a letter to Vol. J. Rogers, also of Montreal, while the latter shines her buttons. (3) TOP RIGHT attractive mechanics at work; L.-Cpl. E. Reid and Vol's. P. Robinson and E. Davis servicing one of the station wagons at the Canadian School of Army Administration at St. Marguerite, P.Q. (4) LOWER LEFT—It's not all work and no play, because here are Sgt. D. McDonnel, Cpl. J. McKee and Vol. P. Robinson riding on the vast d'Esterel grounds at St. Marquerite; swimming, fishing and tennis also help pass spare hours. (5) LOWER RIGHT shows a pretty C.W.A.C. typist taking dictation from Capt. Brown. A few months ago she joined the ranks, but has earned and received speedy promotion. Those interested in joining can get information at the nearest recruiting office.

Canadian Women Army Corps Members To Serve Overseas

By Lt. Patricia Connolley

Girls who have longed to go overseas may soon be able to realize that ambition through service in the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

Major-General H. F. G. Letson, the Adjutant-General, disclosed that Corps members will be able to serve in Britain, although naturally those who enlisted first will have the first chance.

When he announced at Ottawa that the Corps, which is fulfilling its primary purpose of releasing able-bodied men for combatant service, would triple its strength within the next few months, he revealed a bit of news that will be greeted with acclaim by thousands of girls wishing to join the C.W.A.C.

War service as an integral part of the Canadian Army is as modern as the times, and girls from every section of Canada have proven their ability to be good soldiers.

Already the Corps has 3,600 girls in uniform performing a wide variety of highly skilled jobs, both technical and mechanical.

Organized In 1941

Final decision to form a Corps of women for the army whose role would be that of replacing soldiers in fixed establishments in Canada and overseas such as Training Centres, District Headquarters, Fortress Headquarters, hospitals, etc., was made during the summer of 1941. Category "A" soldiers would thus be relieved for duty with field formations in which it was not reasible to employ women. By Order-in-Council dated 13th August, 1941, the establishment of the "Canadian Women's Army Corps" was authorized.

First recruits for the new corps reported September 1st, 1941, and as the Corps expanded and became consolidated experience showed that if it were definitely made a part of the Defence Forces administration would be simplified. By an Order-in-Council dated 13th March, 1942, the Canadian Women's Army Corps was made a definite part of the Defence Forces.

The new status of the Corps does not drastically change the conditions of service as the original regulations.

As it now stands officers and other ranks of the Canadian Women's Army Corps undertake to serve anywhere in the world for the duration of the war and for 12 months thereafter should they be required.

Officers are granted the King's Commission and ranks in the Corps are the same as in the rest of the Army except where the word "soldier" is used in a collective term the word "volunteer" is substituted.

All regulations governing the Army, insofar as they can be, are made applicable to women. The Corps is disciplined by its own officers and in the event of adequate punishment for a certain offense beyond the powers of a C.W.A.C. officer, theoffender may be tried by an officer other than in the C.W.A.C. provided he is not below the rank of major. Women may be tried by Court Martial in the same way as men except that C.W.A.C. officers must be members of the Court but they cannot be president of the Court.

Punishments which can be awarded to women are similar to those applicable to men except that death, penal servitude, imprisonment and detention cannot be given.

Organization

The C.W.A.C. is organized into platoons and companies. Personnel are quartered together going out to the various Army Units to carry out their employment. The platoon and company commanders keep in close touch with officers of the other Corps under whom C.W.A.C. personnel work so that harmony is maintained. Misbehavious are dealt with by the company or platoon commander and not by the officer under whom the woman works. This method of dealing with misbehaviour is based on the premise that normally a woman officer is more capable of looking after those who are under her constant and immediate control than an officer of another Corps who is in charge only during working hours.

The Canadian Women's Army Corps now has its headquarters at National Defence Headquarters, Ottawa, and has one or more companies in each military district. Major Joan Kennedy, is officer administering the Corps, at headquarters and in each Military District there is a C.W.A.C. staff officer on the staff of the District Officer Commanding.

Personnel of the C.W.A.C. now number more than 3,600 and present enlistment is governed by available accommodation and by the number of capacities in which soldiers may be replaced.

A candidate for enlistment in the C.W.A.C. must be either category "A" or "B" (minimum height 5'0", weight not lower than 105 lbs. nor 10 lbs. above or below the standard of weight laid down in the table for her height), have no children under the age of 16 years, must have grade VIII or equivalent education, must be between the ages of 18 and 45 inclusive and a British subject. Enlistment is for service anywhere but at present no C.W.A.C. personnel are serving overseas. N.C.O.'s and volunteers are on duty in Washington at National Defence Headquarters.

90 Cents Per Day

Pay for personnel of the Corps is approximately two-thirds that of a corresponding rank in the Army. A recruit received 90 cents per diem and after three months of satisfactory service her pay is raised to 95 cents. They are entitled to subsistence allowance, when living out of barracks, at a soldier's rate, and receive an initial allowance of $15.00 on enlistment and an additional $12.00 per year for personal necessaries in addition to the uniform and clothing ordinarily provided.

Personnel of the C.W.A.C. are entitled to free medical and dental treatment and hospitalization. On discharge from the Army they are entitled to receive generally the same post discharge benefits accruing to a soldier. In the case of death they are accorded a military funeral.

Newly enrolled recruits receive a four-weeks course of basic training at the C.W.A.C. Basic Training Centre, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que. A special syllabus of training is laid down and upon completion of the course recruits are despatched to various companies for employment. After 30 days probation in their employment they replace a soldier who is thus freed for other duties.

Duties

Caupacities in which C.W.A.C. personnel are serving include clerks, typists, stenographers, bookkeepers, switchboard operators, messengers, drivers, cooks, dental and laboratory assistants, technicians, radio operators and many others.

The uniform of the Corps is khaki. The headdress is a peaked "Kepi" somewhat like a ski cap, the jacket is single breasted with two hip pockets and has a breast pocket on the left side. The shoulder straps are beech brown. The skirt and collar are khaki and a beech brown necktie is worn. The skirt is plain, slightly flared with the bottom edge 17" from the ground. The stockings are khaki lisle though silk may be worn on occasions. The shoes are low-heeled brown Oxford type with a moccasin pattern front. The greatcoat is khaki, double-breasted of cavalry pattern with brown shoulder straps. A gabardine waterproof is also issued together with brown overshoes, gloves and rubbers.

Khaki canvas satchels with a zipper opening at the top are also part of the issue. The satchel is worn suspended from the left shoulder by a brown strap.

The cap badge consists of three silver maple leaves on one stem placed on the heraldic lozenge in gilt inscribed "Canadian Women's Army Corps." The collar badges are the helmeted head of the Greek Godess "Athene" whose traditional activities were concentrated in aiding warriors and mythological heroes. Brass buttons worn with the khaki tunic and great coat also bear the head of "Athene" and are inscribed with the letters C.W.A.C.

Military Police Are Traffic Experts Of The Canadian Armored Unit

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AN EASTERN CANADA ARMY CAMP, July 22—(CP).—Three men schooled in the police departments of three Canadian cities worked together recently at an army camp on the job of policing the army. Each was the deputy assistant provost marshal of a division, by civilian standards the chief of police.

Capt. H. M. Baker, D.A.P.M. for the 4th (Armored) Division had his job organized as his division had reached an advanced stage in its training, and Capt. R. T. Taft, D.A.P.M. of the 6th Division and Capt. G. H. R. Wrigglesworth, D.A.P.M. of the 7th came to find out how he did things.

Baker was formerly traffic engineer with the Montreal City Police department; Taft was detective sergeant with the Winnipeg City Police, and Wrigglesworth served for years as a policeman in Toronto.

In a sort of joint interview the three officers told how an army police department runs. The two visitors had decided to take a few tips from the 4th Division men whom they had seen handle traffic during an inspection of the division by the Governor-General.

"A military policeman must be a good soldier plus," one of them said. He must know all that any other soldier know, and some of the things better. He must be better than the average at map-reading in order to handle traffic."

Lay Out Route

When troops move the provost men always move ahead to lay out the route, mark it and arrange for uninterrupted passage. Sometimes a mistake by a provost man might tie up a whole division in a snarl and a mechanized division in line of march stretches over 200 miles of road.

The provost men are the first to enter new territory, enemy or friendly, and the last to leave. They may have to fight rearguard actions during a retreat.

The provost company of the 4th Division is under the command of Capt. F. W. Kempt of London, Ont., who is responsible for the organization of the men, while operations are under the direction of Capt. Baker. The company looks for men in the army of the same type as those who make good civilian policemen. They must be big, intelligent, level-headed.

As the army can NOT recruit enough civilian policemen it must train its own police around a nucleus of officers from civilian forces. In addition to Capt. Baker the 4th Division has three sergeants with civilian experience which helps them: J. Perfound, a former game warden of London, Ont.; F. Manning, formerly with the Kitchener Fire Department, and A. Daniels, formerly with the York County Police Force.

WESTCLOX GIRLS HAND GENERALS SECOND DEFEAT OF SEASON

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Luckies face the acid test tonight when they meet Juveniles in a City League game at Riverside Park. Manager Griffin's club which made the running over a considerable portion of the race has slipped back recently and needs a couple of wins to improve its position ready for the playoffs. Juveniles won their only victory of the season at the expense of Luckies and if they repeat that feat tonight it will be toe bad for the losers. Both clubs promise to be at full strength with Bill Lewis slated to do the heaving for the Luckies and the Juvenile pitching selection not yet announced. The kids who have got a couple of bad games out of their systems recently expect to come back to the form they showed early in the season, even although the game means nothing to them, and they will fight to the last ditch for a win. The O.A.S.A. playoff season is rapidly approaching and the Juveniles are anxious to get tuned up for their games in the provincial juvenile series so that they will turn on the heat tonight and Luckies will have to come through with one of their good games to hold them off. The game is called for 7 o'clock sharp.

Inspite of the fact that they have been sailing along without any difficulty until the last couple of weeks and that they have a corner in pitching talent with Norma Strickland, Marilyn McCarthy and Bea McDowell all available, C.G.E. Generals are not yet out of the woods and unless they tighten up their defence they may have trouble in the playoffs after leading the loop all season. In losing their last two games the league leaders have piled up the inglorious fielding record of 19 errors and that total might have been increased with strict scoring. That kind of fielding is certainly not championship form. It was defensive slips at critical moments and far-from-alert playing that defeated Generals last night when Westclockers, back from holidays, won their first victory of the season from their old rivals by 13 to 11. The losers were decidedly shaky defensively and the Big Bens, showing enterprise on the bases took full advantage of every slip. Westclox are improving and may prove tough opposition in the playoff stage.

A funny play bobbed up in the second inning of last night's game with Westclox at bat. With two out and Isobel Bullock on second Umpire Bennett called a third strike on Marg Watson, the Westclox pitcher. Annette DeCarlo, catcher for the Generals dropped the ball but instead of tagging the batter who did not run because she thought it was only the second strike, made a bad throw to third trying to catch Isobel Bullock who was running to that base. The runner came on and scored. Eventually the Generals got the ball to first base and the batter was declared out. Although the last run was across the plate half a minute before the ball finally reached first the score did not count because the third out was made on a runner going to first base. The rules provide that as long as the runner crosses the plate before the third out is registered the run shall count, except when the third out is made on a runner going to first or on a force out, these being the only two plays that can kill the run. The one in last night's game probably was a record in the time it took to retire the batter after the runner had reached home.

Remember This Classic?

Twenty years ago today was a red-letter date in the history of Peterborough baseball. On Saturday, July 22, 1922, the Petes climaxed a thrilling drive for the championship of the first half of the Central Ontario League race by defeating Oshawa in a playoff game at Cobourg by 4 to 1. To get up on even terms with Oshawa the club had had to win seven games in a row and Al Heckman did the iron man stunt by pitching them, including a double-header on one Saturday and four games altogether in seven days. The playoff was a honey. Over 3,000 fans from all over Central Ontario gathered in Horse Show Park, Cobourg to see the battle, Peterborough running a special train to get the fans down to the scene of the struggle. Heckman held Oshawa to one unearned run and four scattered hits while Teddy Gallagher, Kingston southpaw, who worked for Oshawa was almost as good, allowing seven hits and striking out 14. Oshawa scored in the second. The Petes tied it up in the fourth when Heckman tripled and Eddie Dugan singled to send the run in. The rivals battled on even terms until the ninth when the Petes batted in three runs. Dugan again coming through with a timely hit to drive in two of the three counters. He shared the honors of the day with Heckman.

One of the best softball pitchers ever to be developed in Peterborough has been an interested spectator at recent games at Riverside Park. He is Benny McLean who used to tie rival teams in knots when he pitched here twenty years ago but who for nearly two decades has been a resident of Cleveland where he has played softball for years. McLean had a world of stuff, a real curve ball and a dipsy-doodle that had the batters tied in knots and it was nothing for him to retire 16 or 18 by the strikeout route. His catcher was the peppery Cy Hopkins, who could also pitch on occasions and sometimes he would do the throwing with McLean working behind the bat. Hopkins is now a sergeant overseas with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders. Benny commenting on the Royals-Soldiers' game Monday night, remarked that he liked the fielding of George Hawks at third for Royals and the work of Nick Sero at short for the Soldiers.

New York Yanks, only three games in front of Boston three weeks ago are now ten games in the lead and the American League race is to all intents and purposes in the bag. Yesterday the Yanks easily won from Cleveland 8 to 3, getting four runs off Al Smith in the first three innings and coasting home. Lefty Gomez was the winning pitcher although Johnny Murphy had to finish the job. Cleveland only made five hits, one of them a homer by Ken Keltner. Meanwhile the Red Sox were beaten 5 to 4 in 10 innings by Chicago, a single by Luke Appling in the extra frame driving in the winning run. The Red Sox outhit the winners 12 to 9 but it did not save them. Heber Newsome was the losing pitcher and the winner was Humphries. Buck Newsom was also beaten yesterday when the Detroit Tigers made merry at the expense of their old pitching star to defeat the Washington Senators 6 to 4. At that Detroit made five errors but pitcher Hal White only allowed the same number of hits.

* * * * * *

In the National race the Brooklyn Dodgers continued their winning ways by slapping down the Cincinnati Reds 8 to 4. Johnny Allen held the Reds to six hits and Paul Derringer who started for the losers was far from being a mystery. Rookie Eric Tipton, in a pinch-hitter role, slapped out his first home run as a Red player. St. Louis Cards held on to the pace by taking an easy win over the lowly Phils 6 to 1, thanks to superb pitching by Howard Krist who held the losers to six hits and timely hitting by the Cards at the expense of Tommy Hughes. The feature game in the National yesterday was the seventeen innings battle between Boston Braves and the Chicago Cubs which the former finally won by scoring a run after eight extra frames to win 4 to 3. The teams had battled without a score from the eighth innings on and the Braves won by the decidedly useful but much despised method of clever bunting on which they filled the bases in the 17th and then the veteran Johnny Cooney singled in the run.

Dodger Hurling Veteran Proves Outstanding This Year

While the Brooklyn Dodgers smash their way to what seems surely to be the National League championship in 1942, they are being aided and abetted no little by the resurgence to pitching prowess of 34-year-old Larry French. Southpaw Larry has won 10 straight games this season while losing none. He attributes his success this year to the development of the knuckle ball as taught him by Fred Fitzsimmons. In this magic eye sequence French is shown delivering one of his knuckle balls from the mound.

Western Clock Team Takes Early Lead To Win Softball Game, 13-11

Westclox, out of action for more than two weeks, handed Generals their second defeat of the season at the Bowl Tuesday night, the Big Bens winning the argument 13 to 11. They were always in front after scoring five runs in the second inning.

Norma Strickland started on the mound for the losers but lacked control and as a result the Westclox, cashing in on five bases on balls, a couple of errors and timely hits by V. Patterson and Isobell Bullock, scored six runs in the first two frames to set up a lead the Generals were never able to overcome. Bea McDowell took over the pitching duties for Generals in the third and yielded eight hits and seven runs in the next five frames, the game being called at the end of the seventh on account of darkness. Generals were shaky in the field and their defensive misplays were costly.

Marg. Watson was the winning pitcher. She twirled steady ball all through the engagement until she developed a wild streak in the seventh frame and Generals took advantage of three bases on balls and as many hits to score three runs. They had the bases full with two out when Isobel Bullock was sent in as relief pitcher and she got out of the hole by striking out the hard-hitting Eleanor Craig.

Westclox scored a run in the first on a pass to Eunice Armstrong, two passed balls and an error but Generals came back in their half by scoring twice. Annette DeCarlo opened with a single to right and went all the way round when the ball rolled through B. Rome. Hits by May Wade and Marilyn McCarthy accounted for the other counter.

Westclockers had lots of fun in the second. With one out Norma Strickland passed V. McLean, D. Walker and A. Anderson in succession to fill the bases. A hit over second by V. Patterson, an error by Eleanor Craig on Marg. Hawthorne's roller, a hit by Isobel Bullock and two steals of home by good base running gave the ultimate winners five runs.

Generals got two back in their half on a pass to Elva Adamson, a fielder's choice, a double by A. DeCarlo and May Wade's single and closed the gap by blanking Westclox in the third and scoring another pair of runs themselves on hits by Eleanor Craig, Norma Strickland and Bea McDowell.

However the Westclockers chased three more runs across in the fourth on hits by Eunice Armstrong and Isobel Bullock, an infield out and two errors. They got single markers in the fifth and sixth and wound up with two in the seventh when Generals were guilty of three costly errors.

The losers failed to score in the fifth and sixth but made a bid by getting three in the seventh only to have Isobel Bullock shoot down their rally.

May Wade and Marilyn McCarthy had three hits each for the losers and Eunice Armstrong and Isobel Bullock sparked the Westclox attack with two safe blows.

TIRES kept going... keep workers "ON TIME!"

● Unreliable tires can hold up production on a bomb or a bomber just as surely as a lack of raw materials. Workers must be "on time" too!

Today it is vitally important that those who work in war industries, make sure their tires are kept in top-notch going order ... just as long as possible.

The way to be sure of getting all the mileage that the manufacturer built into your tires is by following certain simple driving rules faithfully and by providing for systematic, skilful tire service.

You can observe the driving rules yourself. Regular tire care is another matter. Hit and miss methods won't do.

The Goodyear Tire-Life Extension Plan offers you week-to-week service for a year, which provides, at low cost, for special tire conservation services by experienced tiremen. No other plan of tire care can do as much for you.

Signing up for this plan, before tires are beyond saving, may mean the extra use of your car for months, perhaps a year, or even longer.

Thousands of motorists, who depend on their cars to take them to and from their work, are using the Goodyear Tire-Life Extension Plan. Already accommodation is becoming limited. Make sure of your tires ... see your Goodyear dealer today!

GOODYEAR

TIRE-LIFE EXTENSION PLAN

IF YOU ARE ELIGIBLE FOR NEW TIRES ... here is our advice to you!

Replace your worn out tires with big-mileage Goodyears and LifeGuards. The LifeGuard is a reserve safety-tire within an extra-sturdy tube. Should casing and tube be injured, the LifeGuard's inner tire carries you to a safe, easy straight-line stop. LifeGuards not only prevent blowout accidents ... they also enable you to get the last mile out of your tires in complete safety.

BRAVES STRUGGLE 17 INNINGS BEFORE SHADING CUBS BY 4 TO 3

Dodgers Trounce Reds 8-4 Behind Allen

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

Underneath the sign that says "Braves Field" at the National League ball park in Boston there should be added a line, "Home of Extra-Inning Ball Games."

Maratnons disguised as baseball are the specialty of the Braves just as home runs are the trade mark of the New York Yankees, pitching of Cincinnati Reds, speed of St. Louis Cardinals.

For this reason that 17-inning struggle of the Braves and Chicago Cubs yesterday was bound to happen.

It was the longest game this season and the Braves won 4-3 with a unique finish that made it entirely satisfactory to the Boston fans. The Braves tied the score in the eighth with two runs, and after eight more scoreless stanzas, they loaded the bases with none out in the 17th on three successive bunts. Then old John Cooney stepped to the plate and rapped a smart single to right centre to finish the fracas four hours and 17 minutes after it started.

While this was going on Brooklyn Dodgers curbed Cincinnati Reds 8-4 with 12 hits in six innings against Paul Derringer. Johnny Allen limited the Reds to half-a-dozen blows, one of them a circuit clout by Eric Tipton.

St. Louis Cardinals kept the Dodgers from increasing their National League lead, however, by bowling over Philadelphia Phils 6-1 in a night game with Howard Krist pitching six-hit ball and his teammates rattling three pitchers for a dozen safeties.

Giants Win 6-5

Three home runs and Buster Maynard's two-run pinch single in the eighth inning gave Earl Hubbell and New York Giants a 6-5 triumph over Pittsburgh Pirates in a twilight game from which Manager Frank Frisch of the Pirates was banished in the fifth inning. New York's homers included one by Mickey Witek in the third and two in succession by Manager Mel Ott and Johnny Mize, their 13th and 18th of the season, in the sixth.

New York Yankees extended their winning streak to 10 games and Joe Dimaggio stretched his hitting string to 18 games in an 8-3 victory over Cleveland Indians.

Boston Red Sox dropped a 10-inning 5-4 decision to Chicago to let the Yanks slip another game ahead. Bobby Doer hit his 12th homer, a double and two singles and Ted Williams made three hits, but these proved insufficient.

St. Louis Browns were held to four hits by Luman Harris and Phil Marchildon, but beat Philadelphia Athletics 4-3 on Walt Judnich's three-run homer in the first inning and a roundtripper by Harlond Clift in the second.

Detroit Tigers broke Buck Newsome's spell with a 6-4 triumph over Washington Senators in the five-hit hurling of Hal White, who pitched a fine game in spite of five errors by his teammates.

Some Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALLAN NICKLESON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 22 — (CP). — Eighty-two-year-old Alf Mitchell of Cardiff, Wales, looking like a cross between Jim Jeffries and Tommy Burns, stepped sprightly into the newspaper office and claimed he was English middleweight champion back when the prize ring was the scene of marathon bouts—and police raids.

He liked to reminisce and, pushing his "boater" back on his head, was insistent he not be confused with the late Charlie Mitchell, who British record books claim as English heavy and middleweight titlist from 1882-1894. He grunted disapproval of the record book.

"How many men are alive today to prove that?" he asked. Then he answered his own question—"not many besides myself."

The old man chuckled as he told of the day he beat Gipsy Alf Ball "for the middleweight title at Gravesend." That fight lasted 64 rounds, he said.

"A highly-placed person who wanted to see the scrap waited for the boat at Westminster instead of Temple Pier," Alf added. "Perhaps it was just as well, because after the fight, Ball, myself and the crowd were chased by the police."

He relayed an "inside story" of the historic John L. Sullivan-Charlie Mitchell 39-round draw in Chantilly, France.

"The great John L. could have taken Charlie Mitchell, Alf Mitchell and a dozen other Mitchells in one ring and knocked them all out together," he smiled. "After five hours' boxing at Chantilly both John L. and Charlie Mitchell appeared next day at a London party with not so much as a mark between 'em. I tell you, it was the joke of 1888."

Eddie Petrin of Montreal, former Canadian bantamweight king, and Phil Milligan of Oldham put up the most furious battle seen around Lancashire since the start of the war before Petrin was kayoed midway through the 10-round bout.

The scrappers tore into each other from the start. Petrin hit the canvas twice in the first round and Milligan once. In the fifth, a right cross finished Petrin after he's been down three times.

Rosar Must Quit Yanks in '43 If New Job Takes

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 22—(AP)—Buddy Rosar, New York Yankee catcher who was fined $250 for leaving the club on Saturday to take a Buffalo Police Civil Service examination will be required to give up baseball next season if he accepts appointment to the force, Mayor Joseph J. Kelly indicated yesterday.

"That is the Civil Service law," the Mayor explained. "No leave of absence can be granted to a policeman during his first year probationary period."

He said Rosar is aware of the rule.

Mayor Kelly asserted that Buddy told Peter J. Naples of the Civil Service Commission "the reason for wanting an immediate appointment and it is this:

"Buddy despairs of baseball for next year—he doesn't believe there will be any baseball, and he wants to get a job to protect his wife and family."

Admitting it was a grave error to leave his team in the lurch for a catcher, Rosar spent an hour with his wife and day-old son, his second child at the hospital and boarded a train for Cleveland to rejoin the Yankees.

Mayor Kelly disclosed that Rosar turned in the fastest time for the mile run among the 954 candidates who took the examination on Sunday.

"The City of Buffalo would like to have policemen of Buddy Rosar's type," said the Mayor, a baseball fan himself.

Rosar and McCarthy arrived about the same time last evening from their Buffalo homes for last night's series opener against Cleveland, but the Yankee manager declined to say immediately whether Buddy would warm the bench awhile for the unauthorized week-end, taken at a McCarthy-announced price of $250.

"I'll make up my mind before the game," McCarthy told the questioners.

Rosar, who had left to take an examination to become a policeman and to be on hand for the birth of a son purchased a box of cigars and passed them to teammates in his hotel lobby.

Buddy's reaction to affairs: "I want to forget about the whole thing. I'm in enough trouble already."

Gunder Haegg Sets 4 Records

By HAROLD CLAASSEN,
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, July 22—(AP). — Gunner Haegg, Mr. Swish of the Swedish tracks, right now apparently is as hot as the fires he helps put out.

On vacation from his duties as a fireman in the city of Gaevle, Haegg has shattered four world records for distances from 1,500 metres to two miles in the past four weeks.

Last night, at Malmoe, Sweden, he clipped two-tenths of a second from the standard for the rarely-run 2,000 metres. He was clocked in 5:16.4.

Previous to that he lowered the outdoor mile time to 4:06.2; the two-mile to 8.47.8, and the 1,500-metre to 3:45.8. All the time will be unofficial until approved by the international track group.

His mile and two mile efforts, which followed each other by only 48 hours, were run especially at distances recognized by United States track followers and won him an immediate invitation to compete in this country during the coming winter's indoor season.

Gerhard Rooth, sports editor of a Swedish newspaper in New York, is certain Haegg will accept the bid mailed him by Dan Ferris, secretary of the A.A.U. He adds, however, that figuring out how Haegg will make the journey from Nazi-encircled Sweden to the United States will take most of the summer.

Coombs Pitches Lone Hitter

By The Associated Press.

As far as twilight-arclight games are concerned, Montreal Royals want no more of them. For the second time the Royals have come from behind in the ninth either to tie an International League contest or to go ahead—only to have the runs wiped out because the lights were turned off.

In a game with Jersey City Giants early in the season, the Royals scored a flock of runs in the ninth but when stalling tactics were used in the latter half of the frame the inning could not be completed and the score reverted to the eighth with the Jerseys the victors.

However, League President Frank Shaughnessy ordered the game to be replayed from the Giants' half of the ninth on.

Montreal wasn't so fortunate against Newark yesterday. After deadlocking the contest with a three-run outburst in the first of the ninth they lost out when the Bears couldn't finish their half and the score reverted to the eighth with Newark winning, 3-0.

The daring base-running of George Sirnweiss featured the game. He stole three bases to bring his total to 43 for the season.

Bobby Coombs missed baseball's no-hit hall of fame by a lone single as he blanked Toronto Maple Leafs, 1-0. Ed Fernandes broke the Jersey City righthander's spell in the sixth inning.

Buffalo Bisons and Baltimore Orioles divided a twin-bill with the Orioles winning the opener, 6-0, and the Bisons the nightcap, 8-3.

Syracuse Chiefs temporarily stalled the Rochester Red Wings' drive to emerge from the cellar by downing the Wings twice, 7-3 and 2-1.

He Picks The Horses

NEWARK, N.J., July 22—(AP)—Art Lea Mond, racing writer of the Star-Ledger, picked every winner in yesterday's eight-race program at the Garden State track near Camden—but didn't bet on one.

The eight winners paid a total of $46.30 and would have brought a parley total of $6,390.30 on a $2.00 wager.

The "grand slam" brought Lea Mond's record on selections for the first three days of the forty-nine-day meet to thirteen winners out of twenty-four. He picked only one on Saturday, opening day, but hit four on Monday, one paying $35.00 and another $16.30.

Yesterday's winners and the amount each paid: Panamerica $4.80, Ocbeggo $7.50, Lord Vatout $3.10, Bienweed $7.80, Dreach $6.70, Visiting Nurse $5.50, Air Brigade $3.40, and Gentle Savage $7.50.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

TORONTO, July 22 — (CP). — Many of baseball's best stories are built aronud peculiar scoring plays. There is the old one in which the batter hits a homer with the bases loaded, but not a man crosses home plate. (It's a girls' team, yuk yuk, yuk.) And there is the one about one well-known Canadian newspaper beating another 23-6 at baseball although only 13 members of the winning team reached first base. (The third base coach jumped to third base and ran home on almost every hit.)

Wrestler Ray Steele has come up with a new one. He told Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll of a game in St. Louis a couple of weeks ago in which a batter hit a homer with the bases loaded and five (yes, proofreader, old pal, five) runs scored. The crowd went nuts trying to figure out what had happened until somehow the news leaked out; The first base coach had jumped to the paths and sprinted valiantly across the plate with the others.

Roll call:

Pat (Vancouver Sun) Slattery has left newspapering for the Army.... Bobby Hooper, Vancouver swim star who represented Canada at the 1936 Olympics and 1938 British Empire Games, is PO. Hooper, R.C.A.F. ....Jimmie Abson, promising rookie half-back with Ottawa Rough Riders last year will train as a pilot in the R.C.A.F.

Incidentally:

Among the hockey players available in the Sudbury district are George Hastie, Jim Dewey, and Bobby Walton, all former Allan Cuppers; Alexander Singbush, former Montreal and New Haven defenceman; and several others whose great deeds have been restricted until now to Ontario competition.. ..Bill (Halifax Herald) Bartlett notes that Len O'Hara, Toronto sailor who holds the Canadian discus championship, is getting in shape for the Maritimes services track and field meet at Halifax.... Gordon Lawrence Victoria swimmer, trained for the Canadian swimming championships at St. Adele, but all for nothing....A few days before the meet he found they had no distance events and the short ones don't interest him.... Lawrence is stationed at Halifax with the Navy.

U.S. Fliers In Action In The Mediterranean Theatre Of War

Members of the crew of a U.S. army Consolidated Liberator" bomber shown giving the 'thumbs up' sign of victory after they had taken part with the R.A.F. in a raid against the Italian fleet in the eastern and central Mediterranean June 15. It was the first raid in the Mediterranean theatre of war in which the U.S. fliers took part and they accounted for one 10,000-ton Italian cruiser sunk, two battleships and several smaller cruisers damaged.

not be used in the August call-up. He added that the plan announced last March to use the lottery system for call-ups was being reconsidered.

Finance Minister Ilsley, replying to a contention by Mr. Hanson that there was "great waste and extravagance" in government expenditures, said proposals had been made for watching certain expenditures and added a statement might be forthcoming later from one of his colleagues.

The Senate passed the reinstatement bill and the government's vocational training bill, making minor amendments in both, after Senator L. Cote (Con. Ontario) had expressed his view that the former—a measure to reinstate members of the armed forces in civilian jobs after the war—should not be held out as an expressed promise to encourage recruiting.

First reading was given in the Red Chamber to the veterans' land settlement bill and a bill providing Dominion incorporation for the Alliance Insurance Co. was passed.

Main debate in the Commons yesterday was around the provisions by which income tax and compulsory savings will be deducted at the source.

Ilsley Amendments

Four amendments were proposed by Mr. Ilsley and approved by the House, in committee:

1. That new life insurance premiums, within a limit of $100 annually, may be applied as offset against the tax payable. In the original resolution, the full amount of premiums on policies in force before budget day, June 23, might be deducted up to the total of the compulsory savings portion of the tax. Those owning policies issued before June 23 may also claim exemptions on payments on annuities or other instalment savings contracts on which the premiums cannot be postponed without loss.

A proviso regarding life insurance premiums taken out since June 23, however, stipulates that the insurance should not be more expensive than insurance of the "whole-life" plan. Finance department officials said this would have the effect of practically limiting new insurance on which exemptions could be claimed to straight life insurance payable on death.

2. Principal payments on agreements of sale as well as mortgages may be deducted from the refundable portion of the tax payable—if they were registered or in effect before budget day or were an enforceable obligation.

3. Deductions will be permitted not only on approved superannuation payments but also on new plans approved by the minister of national revenue.

4. Taxpayers aged more than 65 need not pay the refundable portion of their graduated tax if their income is less than $5,000. The original resolution provided they were exempt only if their income was less than $3,000.

Date Shifted Month.

Quarterly income tax due dates under the new budget will be moved back one month, Mr. Ilsley announced in the House last night, making the first quarter's payment due October 15 next.

The Minister said he would change the due date so that the first payment of one-quarter of the tax, as estimated on the previous year's income at current rates, would be set back one month from September 15 as originally provided in the budget.

Second quarter of the total must be paid on or before January 15, 1943, the third quarter on or before April 15 next, the final payment on or before July 15, 1943.

The Minister also announced a change in the time limit for filing returns from March 31 as at present to September 30.

These changes all apply only to tax payable by persons other than corporations and apply to the tax on 1942 incomes.

The quarterly plan does not apply to those whose income tax is deducted at the source and whose salary or wages constitute three-quarters or more of the total income.

Member after member, mostly among the Opposition groups, opposed many features of the income tax provisions, particularly the requirement that deducations must be made in every case even if the employee is only a transient worker who would not likely earn a yearly income in excess of the taxable minimum.

Mr. Hanson attacked the Government's proposal to have employers collect the income tax and compulsory savings where that is possible.

"No employer wants this trouble thrust upon him," he exclaimed "The big companies do not.

"Is the Government going to give them any consideration at all for the extra clerical help."

Force Disclosing of Affairs.

H. B. McKinnon (Lib., Kenora-Rainy River) suggested that the system forced the employee to disclose his private affairs to the employer whereas income tax matters were generally supposed to be secret.

Revenue Minister Gibson said this was a regrettable feature and might be obviated by having the employee file his insurance, pension and mortgage payments schedule with the income tax branch and have them notify the employer of the portion to be deducted. But it would be a cumbersome method.

Mr. Hanson said there would be objections to this feature, especially among higher-paid members of trade unions. He raised the question of the status of a member of parliament.

"Will he have to disclose to the clerk of the House of Commons or some other governmental authority what his offsets are against this tax?"

"Yes," said Mr. Ilsley.

"It is not in keeping with the dignity of a member of parliament that he should have to do that..." said Mr. Hanson.

Later Mr. Hanson again asked about the position of members of parliament. "Are we employees? Have we to disclose to some person —I do not know what body yet—"

"I would say it would be the comptroller of the treasury himself," said Mr. Ilsley.

"Well, I object to disclosing to any comptroller of the treasury my private affairs," Mr. Hanson said. "It is bad enough to have to do it to the commissioner of income tax, for whom, of course, I have a profound respect...

Charges Breach Of Standards

"..There are certain standards of ethical conduct which we like to see observed and this is a violation and breach of some of those standards."

Mr. Ilsley replied "We shall have to go out and do what we can to counteract the effect of that speech, if anyone reads or listens to it.

"This is not an authoritarian government trying to perform a bureaucratic act. It is the harsh necessities of the present situation.

"If the honorable gentleman knows any better way to do this I would like to hear it. He certainly hasn't told it to the committee tonight.

"All he has done is to use very harsh and very bitter language which, if taken seriously by workmen throughout this country, will make them sore.

It had been proposed at first to have the employer collect the whole tax including the compulsory saving portion and let the employee obtain a refund by tendering his offset receipts to the tax collector. But that had brought great protest because it tied up the taxpayers' money for a year. The present proposal was an alternative.

"That seemed sensible," the minister said. "And the workman of this country have not all this excessive pride which the Leader of the Opposition say he has as a member of Parliament.

"What hurt is it going to do a member of Parliament to divulge to the Comptroller of the Treasury that he has some life insurance, or that he has a mortgage on his property?"....

"We are entitled, I think, to a little more co-operation than the kind of speech the Leader of the Opposition has just made...."

Mr. Hanson said he had given the Government all the co-operation "as I could be humanly asked to give" and he resented the "scolding" he had received from the minister.

He was "a pretty pacific kind of man," Mr. Hanson said, and "even now I cannot get very much enraged over the minister's scolding."

"If I were 20 years younger or if this had happened 20 years earlier, I might be flying across the floor, but I am not doing that any more."

Special Services In Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, July 22—(ENS).—Churches of the Presbyterian charge of Lakefield, Lakevale and Omemee have just closed a week of special services which began Sunday, July 12.

The minister, Rev. L. M. Sharpe, was in charge and Rev. A. J. Schultz of the city of Kitchener, gav illustrated lectures upon the Holy Land, Egypt, Rome and Bible Lands, linking them with the present world war and its outlook.

The lecturer, who was a foreign missionary for about twenty years, had more than 2,000 slides portrayiny features of his travels and revealing the Divine Hand in the unfolding of history. Mr. Schultz has preached in sixty-two countries of the world and has spent many years in collecting facts concerning research and prophecy.

Members in attendance were augmented by residents from Peterborough and Lindsay, and in spite of the harvesting activities among farmers and the camping season there were splendid congregations.

Mrs. Schultz travels with her husband, manages the excellent slides and meets the people with their current questions.

The electric storm and rain on Friday, the closing evening, marred the event considerably. Senior Elder J. M. Simpson publicly expressed the thanks and appreciation of the people and the pastor endorsed very heartily the commendation.

The Rev. Mr and Mrs. Schultz left Saturday for their next campaign to begin at Beamsville, Ont.

huge invasion force between the Don and Voronezh the Red army spared strong infantry and artillery detachments to develop the battle area on the west bank.

These not only grappled with the invaders, but in one sector pushed westward, it was declared. The German air force launched heavy bombing formations against the recaptured positions.

168th Division Toppled.

The 75th German infantry division badly mauled in the first of the Russian counter-attacks, was reported to have been reinforced and returned to battle. Remnants of the 168th were trapped between the river and the city and the 387th was in a bad plight northwest of Voronezh, dispatches said.

Losses of the Nazi Field Marshal Von Bock's northern divisions in their effort to anchor the 24-day-old offensive at Voronezh were described by the Moscow radio as unprecedented.

Russian gunners have slain more than 10,000 and knocked out several dozen tanks in a single sector, the Soviet Information Bureau said.

At the same time observers did not minimize the threat to Russia's military position inherent in the manoeuvres of a 1,000,000-man Nazi army striking circuitously through burning coal towns and across green wheat fields toward Rostov, a gateway to Caucasus oil field, and Stalingrad, Volga River industrial centre 250 airmiles northeast of Rostov.

German concentrations forced another retirement of Soviet forces to new lines southeast of Voroshilovgrad, on the Donets River 100 miles north of Rostov, raising a question as to how much longer Marshal Semeon Timoshenko could afford to trade space for time.

Tanker Aground

KINGSTON, Ont., July 22 — (CP). — The 890-ton tanker Harmony of Philadelphia still was aground on a St. Lawrence River shoal near Clayton, N.Y. at noon to-day.

Owned by the Gulf Oil Refining Company, the tanker went aground on Saturday.

Cut Mosul Oil Line

VICHY, July 21—(AP). — In dispatches datelined from the Syrian frontier, French newspapers reported today that Syrian insurgents had cut the Mosul oil field pipe lines to Tripoli and Haifa in two places.

(For several days Vichy French dispatches have reported raids on the pipe line by native bands. There has been no confirmation from other sources of an interruption in the flow of oil from the fields in Northern Iraq to fueling points of the British fleet in the eastern Mediterranean).

British Convoy Runs Gauntlet To Malta

Here are three pictures made during the great Axis attack on a British convoy in the Mediterranean in mid-June. The convoy was en route to Malta with sorely-needed supplies when it was attacked in the Sardinia-North Africa channel by land based Axis aircraft in force. Forty-three Axis planes were shot down and the convoy got through, but with "serious losses," which have since been revealed as a cruiser and five destroyers. At TOP, bombs fall astern of three ships of the convoy; CENTRE, warships lay down a smoke screen to shield the merchantmen. BELOW, a stick of bombs strike ahead of a battleship.

New Rubber Plan Has Tires For All

WASHINGTON, July 22—(AP).—The rubber industry today proposed a plan which it said would provide usable tires for everybody in the United States for at least the next two years.

This became known in connection with an exhibit prepared by the industry in a Washington hotel to demonstrate to government officials and the press means of utilizing the industry's facilities to make as many tires as possible under war conditions.

The plan, it was learned from sources who declined to be quoted, would provide for rationing tires under a new system, but would enable every one to get tires provided he took good care of his rubber.

A feature of the program is that new tires would be made out of thiokol, a substance heretofore believed to be usable only for recapping. Thiokol is a new substance something like rubber, for which the war production board has given a go-ahead on production for tire uses.

A key point in the program, the sources added, would be some system of severe penalties for motorists who waste rubber by excessive speed and long, unnecessary trips.

There would be three classes of rationing, with preference given to most essential needs, but with some tires provided even for pleasure driving.

Mineral Search Breaks Down

TORONTO, July 22 (CP).—The search in Canada for new sources of strategic minerals and base metals has collapsed, the Ontario Prospectors and Developers Association said in a statement today. The collapse was reported after a survey of the field across Canada.

The statement said the situation is critical and added that the association today was sending a telegram to Prime Minister Mackenzie King to that effect and urging that a memorandum which the association has prepared, outlining the causes of the collapse and suggesting immediate remedies, should be considered by the cabinet.

"According to executives of the association, 680 prospectors in Ontario alone were, at the beginning of May, organized to go into the bush in the hunt for needed war materials," said the statement which was signed by V. R. MacMillan, secretary-treasurer.

"In British Columbia, another 500 experienced men were reported ready as well as unstated numbers in Quebec and other provinces. Four hundred men of the Ontario total are still waiting to have their status clarified by Ottawa and of the 200 who started, an increasing number now is coming out of the bush for the same reason.

"Development plans on a number of strategic mineral properties, the association states, were halted after the issuance of order No. M.C. 19 on June 22 which prohibited all such work without a written permit from the metals controller.

500,000 Japanese To Hit Siberia

LONDON, July 22 — (CP).—Japanese preparations for an attack on Russia's Siberian maritime province and Vladivostok are almost complete and if necessary the Japanese could "press the button and start to move into Siberia," a British source declared today.

This source, whose identity was not permitted to be disclosed, said the occupation of islands at the western tip of the Aleutians resulted in a useful strategic situation for the Japanese since it placed them "on the flank of a possible American attack on Japan."

While Japan has massed an army of about 30 divisions in Manchukuo, her military activity in Burma and other areas necessarily has been limited, it was pointed out.

In Burma and the South Pacific, this source said, Japan has been consolidating her positions. He added that the only real Japanese activity in those areas now is in the Solomon Islands from which the Japanese can interfere with communications between the United States and Australia.

Bad weather, which will continue until October or November, also has been a factor in restricting military operations by both sides in Burma. There have been no real signs, meanwhile, of further Japanese moves toward an invasion of India.

Siberia is the danger point of the Allied strategical situation in East Asia, this source said.

"The Japanese will attack when it suits them, not the Germans," he added.

He predicted that Japan is preparing to throw at least 500,000 men into such an overland onslaught against Russia's Siberian strongholds.

Yards At Record High.

On the shipping crisis, the Shipping Administration gave this report:

"Shipping losses during the week of July 12 reached their highest level since the beginning of the war. While construction in American shipyards is breaking all records, sinkings of United Nations ships through enemy action and marine casualties have greatly exceeded new construction.

"Construction of new merchant tonnage in Great Britain continues within the limits of its available supply of labor and materials, but the volume is not large. The great bulk of new shipping must come from American yards supplemented by the production of Canadian yards, which turn out a relatively small tonnage compared to the United States....

"It can be stated that no essential military cargoes have been left on piers because of lack of ships. The War Shipping Administration has been able, by radical conversion of our shipping resources to war operations to meet the necessarily exacting requirements of our armed services."

The report said that because of losses the Shipping Administration had to "accelerate the application of its policy to limit space in ships under its jurisdiction to cargoes essential to prosecution of the war, whether cargoes are for export or for import."

Shipping losses, the Alaskan battle and all military aspects of the war would come under a supreme general staff.

Some Big Names.

Military and naval men who declined to be quoted by name talked of the possibility that such an unprecedented command organization might include Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief, and Admiral Ernest J. King Director of Naval Operations. The name of Lt.-Gen. Henry H. Arnold, Chief of Army Air Forces, also figured prominently in speculation.

Mr. Roosevelt gave no information as to exactly what the functions of Leahy's position would be. Military and naval authorities indicated his duties might involve decision of questions of high military and naval policy turned over to him by the President, advising the President on grand strategical problems, and clearing all military and naval matters before they reached Mr. Roosevelt's desk.

In making Leahy his Chief of Staff, Mr. Roosevelt has in effect interposed a ranking officer between himself and Gen. Marshall and Admiral King with whom he has heretofore dealt directly.

Japs Recapture Chekiang Port

CHUNGKING, July 22—(AP).—Japanese forces fought their way back into Wenchow, south Chekiang seaport, last Friday, a day after they were dislodged by Chinese units, an army spokesman said today.

In Kiangsi province, he said the Chinese have widened to between 20 and 25 miles their wedge along the vital Chekiang-Kiangsi railroad. The Chinese broke the enemy's domination of the line last week with the initial seizure of a 15-mile strip between Hengfeng and Iyang.

The tactics of infiltration that worked so well in Malaya and Burma are being used liberally by the Japanese in Chekiang and Kiangsi provinces, a Chinese war correspondent reported today.

Avoiding frontal assaults, the Japanese send out fast mobile columns armed chiefly with machine guns, the correspondent related, and aim their attacks at points known to be thinly defended.

The success of these tactics depends largely on close co-ordination among land and air forces, scout work by spies and the use of fifth columnists familiar with trails and secondary roads.

Firing Squads Busy

VICHY, July 22, — (AP). — Four Frenchman, a Belgian and a Pole were executed last week by German firing squads in Belgium, three of them for killing a German soldier, dispatches reaching here to-day said.

The German military headquarters for Belgium and the Netherlands, announcing the executions, said two Frenchmen and the Pole were put to death for shooting the German, two other Frenchmen for alleged Communist propaganda and illegal possession of arms, and the Belgian for 'carrying out communist instructions.'

MAIN STREET TOPICS

VIRGINIA APPLES

Duchess and Red Williams apples, imported from Virginia, are selling in local stores at 35 cents a measure, and the measure is one-quarter of a peck.

HARVESTING GRAIN

Binders were clipping through the wheat fields on the Smith township farms along No. 7 highway this morning. Some of the grain was lodged and tangled delaying the work, but reports say this condition was not serious.

FRACTURES ANKLE.

Pte. Max Glover, son of Ald. R. M. Glover, who is in training at Cornwall preparatory to entering the Canadian Pay Corps, fractured an ankle recently while engaged in training exercises.

THE MAYOR ATTENDED

His Worship Mayor James A. Hamilton, who has taken a very keen interest in the Blood Donors Clinic since its beginning, was there sharp on the dot of nine and remained for a good part of the morning to watch the smoothly functioning organization in operation.

SPITFIRE DONATIONS

The fact that the first Spitfire raised in Canada by the police departments of the Dominion and donated to the Royal Air Force overseas has been lost in action has given a remarkable impetus to the current drive for a second police Spitfire and today Police Inspector James F. Reid, Dominion secretary of the fund announces several local donations. One is from Peterborough Lodge No. 111, I.O.O.F. for $31 and the other a donation of $2 from Harry Millard.

EARLY CORN.

The first corn on the cob is reported in Belleville. It was grown by Mrs. Percy DeMille of Foxboro.

DOORMATS FIRST.

Stan Longhurst has received the first furnishings for the new staff house on Monaghan Road, an order of fibre doormats. Few other minor accessories have also been checked over at the Water Street office.

BALANCED THE TILL.

An Akron tourist drove about 80 miles to return a five-dollar bill to a George Street store. Arriving at a northern resort he found an excess five-spot, and knew from his only purchase where he must have got it, a shop that does considerable business at both ends of the year as well as in the middle.

BREAD AS INDEX.

Bread deliveries throughout the lake resort areas around Peterborough are not as heavy as last year, according to Stocks' bread records, but on the whole business has been "very good" so far Alderman Dutton said to-day. The season of 1941 was one of the best in years. To save gasoline and tires deliveries are not being made directly to cottages and some smaller resorts, but are left at nearby stores.

BACK ON DUTY

Provincial Traffic Officer John Hinchcliffe, formerly stationed in this district but now at Ottawa was in town today on a holiday trip. He will vacation at his cottage on Scugog Lake. Traffic Officer Hinchcliffe enlisted early in the war and served two years in the Canadian Army and on discharge returned to his old traffic post at Ottawa.

Obituaries

ETHEL ELEANOR LOGAN.

Ethel Eleanor Logan, Port Credit, died suddenly at her home, Monday, in her 54th year. She was the beloved wife of Gordon Logan, and sister of H. Ernest Perry. The remains are resting at the Chapel of Washington and Johnston for the service, Thursday, and interment will be in Little Lake cemetery.

JOHN HENRY LEAHY.

Attended by his many relatives, friends and neighbors, the funeral of the late John H. Leahy was held from the home of his brother, Francis J. Leahy, on Tuesday morning to St. Joseph's Church, Douro, where mass of requiem was offered by Rev. J. J. McCarthy.

A large number of spiritual offerings and floral tributes were accepted by his brothers and sisters with profound appreciation.

Mr. Leahy is survived by two sisters and five brothers: Genevieve of Toronto, Elizabeth and William of Peterborough, Francis and Albert of Douro, Rev. Brother T. Marcellus and Martin of the De La Salle College, Aurora.

Those who attended from out of town were Rev. Brother T. Marcellus and Rev. Brother Conrad. Miss Genevieve, and Martin Leahy.

Interment was conducted in St. Joseph's Cemetery by Rev. J. J. McCarthy.

MICHAEL JOSEPH CLANCY

The funeral of Michael Joseph Clancy, which was held from the J. J. Duffus funeral parlors on Monday morning to St. Peter's Cathedral was largely attended by his many friends to express their sorrow, sympathy and deep respect. Mass was said by Rev. H. Malane.

A large number of spiritual offerings and floral tributes were gratefully accepted by his sorrowing wife and daughters.

Friends who attended from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Artkins, Mr. F. Dwyer, Miss G. Clancy, Joe Clancy, Miss N. Artkins, Frank Clancy and Pte. E. Bill Clancy of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. E. Cronin, Hamilton; Mr. M. Kennaley, Keene, and Miss Lillian Bowie, Lang, Ontario.

The bearers, Messrs. Albert Juby, William McClelland, Oscar Hallahan, Joe Fontaine, Alphonse Shevaline and Genelce Guerin.

Interment was made in St. Peter's Cemetery by Rev. Father J. Greenen.

Monaghan Road Drains Examined

Drainage of Monaghan Road in the King-Bolivar stretch was examined Tuesday afternoon by city and county officials, and it was decided to report the results to North Monaghan council in the hope of obtaining some co-operation from them. Those present were M. H. Gainey of the Suburban Area Commission and Alderman Dutton and the city and county engineers.

Several of the owners of new houses on the east side of Monaghan Road appealed to the council for some diversion of surface water that was pouring through their properties and into their cellars at the spring peak. They asked that the sidewalk level be raised to conform with their boulevard level, and in agreement with what they said was the city's promise.

Opposition developed in the neighborhood, and new reports of the progress of negotiations left the affair in the air for the sake of harmony along the boundary. Alderman Dutton thought that improve drainage on the west side of Monaghan Road might solve the problem on the east side, and hence the meeting Tuesday afternoon. The next step will be to call in North Monaghan's council for their opinion and probably their help.

Vacation Club 100 Strong

Young voices shouted with joyous excitement at the Y.M.C.A., Tuesday, as the Vacation Club got under way on its second round. Boys between the ages of eight and fourteen are eligible and already there are about 100 attending and judging from appearances everyone is having a marvellous time. This 'Club' is run for those who are unable to leave home and go to the camp at Clear Lake.

The swimming class under Gordon Minty's direction has about twenty-five members so far and their course lasts for two weeks. This week the would-be-swimmers meet Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Next week they meet Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. There are six lessons in all, three a week, and at the end of that time the boys are expected to have a fair knowledge of swimming.

Three times during the week, craft work, such as light woodwork and perhaps leather work, is studied, then there are hikes to places like Nassau, Jackson Park, daily swims, sing songs, stories, softball tournaments and many other interesting activities.

The Club is being held this year from July 20 to July 31 and the fees (which are the same for the swimming class) are 25 cents a week for Y.M.C.A. members and 50 cents a week for non-members. This fee covers all the materials needed for the craft work. Not only do the boys have a lot of fun learning something useful, but they have the opportunity to indulge in some hearty good companionship with other boys and it teaches them to make adjustments.

The members of the staff who are assisting in this work of the club are: Miss C. Wagar, Miss L. Dewart, Miss Dorothy Grady, Mrs. P. King, H. Sheppard, D. MacPherson and Q. S. McKinney.

Peterborough Sailor Torpedoed

Ralph Strong Is 13 Days Adrift Gulf of Mexico

When Chief Officer Ralph Strong, son of Mrs. Ada Strong, 87 London street, and brother of Mrs. R. B. McWilliams, 17 Manning avenue, left the Collegiate Institute to join the merchant marine, perhaps he didn't visualize being torpedoed and drifting helplessly on a small raft in the Gulf of Mexico for 13 days and nights, pursued by a submarine and escorted by sharks.

Chief Officer Ralph Strong said on landing at a gulf port that their merchant vessel had been pursuing a zig-zag course all day and everything was proceeding normally when without warning a torpedo struck the port side of the boat, tearing away the stern. There were two torpedoes aimed, but one missed.

"I was in my cabin reading," he continued, "when I felt the concussion. I had just cleaned up and put on a new pair of pants when she struck. By the time I got ashore, the pants were torn off above the knees."

Many of the men were killed when the boiler exploded, and others were unable to get their life belts on in time. Thirty lives were lost on ship. The vessel sank very quickly, so fast that by the time the gunner got down from the platform aft, the poop deck was under water. She went down in three minutes.

Along with others, Chief Officer Strong tried lowering a life boat, but the ship rolled over and crushed it. Fifteen men made their way to the life rafts, but the captain remained with the ship and went down with his boat. One man died after five days of aimless drifting in burning heat in the daytime and freezing chill at night, and he was "buried at sea." His buddies did the best they could with a final service by reciting the Lord's Prayer and saying a blessing, while the angry waves tossed their life rafts hither and yon.

Disappointment Terrible

Three days after the sinking, hope revived as a plane was spotted, but the visibility was so poor that the plane passed over unseeing. This disappointment unnerved one man who went to pieces and took to thinking that he was travelling on the Mississippi River and he kept asking if we had picked up the pilot yet.

In spite of their terrible isolation the men never lost hope. They rowed steadily westward day and night, navigating by the stars and rationing their food and water. Each man was allowed 2 cups of water a day and some of Strong's shipmates reported that it took an awful lot of will-power not to ask for more.

The men huddled together on rafts, Chief Officer Strong said, while the rafts rolled in the heavy seas. They were obliged to sit in two feet of water, because they were unable to stand and bail it out without hanging on to something, and every day they grew weaker. Many of the men were suffering from injuries and exposure and all were hounded by the fear that a submarine was trailing them, just waiting for a chance to nab any vessel doing a rescue act.

Sang As They Rowed

To keep up their spirits as they rowed at night, the weary men sang "Miss You" and "By the Light of the Silvery Moon." When the men were finally rescued after thirteen terrible days and nights against nature and life stripped of all their niceties, they still had two weeks' supply of food left, due to their careful rationing.

"When a second patrol hove into view, we could hardly believe it, and we all expected to see a recurrence of our first experience. The rafts were two miles apart, so that in case they were being followed being followed by a submarine they would have more chance. Those on the other raft were picked up first," Ralph Strong said.

"We were flying orange flags, both for identification and as an awning, and the plane crew, taking no chances, yelled at us to tear everything down so they could make sure this was no disguised submarine. Everyone scrambled into the plane as fast as he could for fear of a salvo being fired from the submarine. When we saw we were going to be rescued, we ate and drank everything in sight."

Rescued By Navy Plane

The survivors were rescued by a PBY navy patrol bomber, and when it was first spotted the men still had doubts as to whether they were really going to reach land or not. They all hurried as much as possible to get into their places so that they would not make the risk any greater for the plane.

Other members of the crew told of the sharks that swam along side of the rafts. They were so thick and came so close that quite often the paddles hit their heads. At first the men did not realize what they were. Several guessed porpoises and small whales, but after a while they were pretty certain as to just who their companions were.

The rafts were equipped with electric water lights and were provisioned with food and 15 gallons of water. The supplies included pemmican, graham wafers, chocolate and malted milk tablets. One of the 19-year-old crew members from New Orleans, Milton Jacobson, said that after the first little while the hunger problem no longer existed because their stomachs felt like empty vacuums.

There is one thing that Chief Officer Ralph Strong and his shipmates are all of the same opinion about and that is their appreciation of liquids. Never again will they treat them as casually as they have done in the past.

Careless Driver Is Fined $5 and Costs

Fred Castlick, 19, Rubidge Street, was fined $5 and $14.50 costs in police court this morning after he had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of careless driving, following a recent accident on Highway 28 in which a Toronto girl, passenger in the car driven by Castlick, was seriously injured.

"I don't suppose this boy is in a position to pay a heavy fine," commented Magistrate E. A. Gee. He warned Castlick that he was lucky that he did not have to face a more serious charge

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, explaining the circumstances to the court after the accused had pleaded guilty, said that Castlick was a novice driver. He had cut out to pass a truck, coming down the water trough hill on Highway 28 and the car got out of control, ran off the road and turned over in the ditch.

It was stated that the car Castlick was driving, the property of Carman Grose, Margaret A nue, was a complete wreck. Castlick had a beginner's driving permit.

He himself had received head injuries, requiring eight stitches, and appeared in court with a bandage around his head. Margaret Priestman of Toronto, a passenger in the car, was taken to Nicholls Hospital, suffering from a broken back.

The charge against Castlick was laid by Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure, who investigated the accident.

Excellent Crop Of Wheat Is Being Cut

Farmers in Northumberland are busy cutting fall wheat and rye, "and there are some very excellent fields," the report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture comments in its summary for the week ending last Saturday.

About 30 per cent. of Durham hay remains to be harvested. Last Friday night's rain and wind tangled many of the fields of spring grain. Much of the wheat and rye in Prince Edward has been cut and oats are ripening rapidly. High winds caused a great deal of damage to the raspberry crop.

Peterborough spring grain fields look promising. Some of the early sown fields may be ready for cutting in about three weeks and are now fully headed. Others have not begun to head, indicating that the harvest may extend over a longer period than usual. There is also a good yield of fall wheat.

Wheat Damaged

Rains at the week-end caused considerable damage to fall wheat and heavy spring crops in Ontario County. Seventy-five per cent. of the hay crop is in.

Frontenac reports 30 to 60 per cent. of its hay in the barns. Corn is improving, but will not be the abundant crop of 1941. The yield of fall wheat is apparently about normal, judging by the fields already cut.

Grenville is estimating a light grain crop. Corn, sudan grass and root crops are suffering from lack of rain. Fall wheat and rye are excellent in Leeds.

Barns are full of hay in Renfrew, and the last of that crop is being stacked. Nine barns in Halton were struck by lightning and burned with contents Friday night. Crops were flattened in all directions. The grain crops were the most promising in years. A Bronte farmer used 100 pounds of binder twine on 24 acres of wheat.

Japs Hoeing Beets

The second hoeing of sugar beets in Huron is being done by Japs; canning of peas will be finished this week. Simcoe crops were damaged in the storm Friday night. The labor situation is serious. Urban workers are responding fairly well.

Winter barley is returning more than 50 bushels to the acre in Haldimand County.

Farm "commandos" are helping in Haldimand. Twelve men from Cayuga were in the field Thursday evening. They shocked five fields of wheat and one field of hay. Eighteen men were out Friday evening and completed the last field at 10 o'clock by tractor headlights. In this case the farmer was still cutting grain at 9.45, using lights on the tractor.

Nearly every farm in Lambton needs harvest help. Oats are ripening before the wheat can be finished, complicating the labor problem. Pastures have abundant grass. Second crop alfalfa is in splendid condition. A few choice loads of cattle have been held in reserve. Many were sold in the last three weeks.

15 Blood Donors Rather Enjoy Visit To Clinic

Instead of fifteen serious-demeanored men, filled with the responsibility of the job they were doing at the Blood Donors' Clinic Wednesday morning, a group of high-spirited business men were having themselves a grand time, visiting and comparing notes. Mrs. O. A. DeGraw, head of the transportation committee, put in a very slow morning as nearly all of the donors insisted on walking or bicycling home or back to work. All the men who gave transfusions are those who signed up at the very beginning before a regular clinic was anything more than a dream.

Wesley Brown, 607 George Street N. who is a teacher in the Technical School at the Collegiate Institute, said there was certainly nothing to be afraid of, and if it was no worse than what he experienced there was nothing to it. In his opinion, he had a mighty thorough medical check-up, and he quite enjoyed visiting with the doctor and nurse during the transfusion. As soon as the twenty-minute job was finished he sat down to a hearty late breakfast of tea, marmalade and buttered toast, in the very charming room set aside for the donors to relax in.

Another donor indulging in his share of the joking was Percy Moore, 314 Frederick Avenue, who is manager of Loblaw's. He too said there was absolutely nothing to the transfusion and intended to go straight back to his work, under my own steam. James Lewis Young, of the Y.M.C.A., said he didn't feel a thing at all, and although the process was a little different from what he expected, he found it most interesting. Mr. Young thought that anyone who kept himself in good condition would experience no difficulty at all.

Small Bandage On Arm.

Not one of the other donors had any reaction whatsoever and the nurses said that the men were tickled to death to be able to do something that they considered very necessary. The only sign of their morning's work was a very small bandage taped on the arm.

The other donors on the job were: James Harkness, 345 Park Street, who is a mining engineer; F. Marlow Banks, 117 Lock Street, an employee of the Brinton Carpet Company; John T. Arnott, 136 Sophia Street, who works at the London Life Insurance Company; George Eason, 454 Mark Street, an employee of the Trent Canal, Department of Transport; R. W. Lyon, 588 Park Street, of Vermont Marble Works; William Hunt, 341 Downie Street, work for the Peterborough Bus Lines; the Rev. Arnold C. Hubert, Hastings; Rex Rose, 676 Stewart, an employee of the Canadian General Electric; Jim Clark, with the Walkwel Shoe Store; Robert Findlay, 418 Water Street, a veteran; Capt. Douglas Loomis, of the Training Centre, and C. J. English of the Western Clock Company.

The clinic was fully staffed and all the helpers were amazed at the smoothness of operations on their first day. There were no hitch, and the nurses and other assistants had almost as much fun as the men who were giving their blood. A stiff hospital atmosphere was completely lacking and the free and easy give-and-take air made all the donors feel at home.

Staff On Duty.

The staff doing duty for their first big day was as follows: the doctors—Dr. Rodger S. Chenoweth and Dr. W. J. Gordon; the nurses: Mrs M. Pringle, Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. F. M. Warren, Mrs. Fred Revoy, Mrs. Roy White, Mrs. J. Sharpe, Mrs. G. LaPointe, Mrs. E. Zufelt, and Mrs. R. D. Taylor, technician. Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner was in charge of the outer office, Mrs. H. G. FitzGerald was recording secretary, and Mrs. C. Ray was there as general helper, along with Miss Helen Munro, receptionist.

The I.O.D.E. women who looked after serving the lunch were Mrs. F. E. Hooper, Regent, and Mrs. C. E. Graham, both of the Peter Robinson Chapter. Mrs. S. Smoke and Miss Mary Elliott were in charge of the preparation of food and they were assisted by three ladies from Trinity Church, Mrs. N. D. Seaton, Miss M. Clarry, and Mrs. A. J. Boorne.

The number of people signing up for donor work is increasing slowly and the Clinic will be very glad to take the names of any others who would care to register.

6,000 Fewer Cases Of Peas Are Packed

With twenty-five per cent. less acreage than last year, the pack of peas at Canada Packers will be 6,000 cases more than in 1941.

The canning department will likely complete their work on the pea crop this week, after three weeks' operations since July 2. Work will be suspended until the tomatoes are ripe, probably in another four weeks or about the end of August. Pumpkins will follow tomatoes, as the concluding pack. No fruit and vegetables are being refrigerated for winter use.

The pea crop averaged slightly more than ten acres of shelled peas to the acre.

Make More Use Of City Parks As Playground

If citizens leave Alderman Curtis in charge of the parks for awhile it is likely that more attention will be given to their use than to their appearance. That does not imply any neglect of horticultural standards, but it does mean a recognition of the need of community playgrounds as neighborhood resources too long overlooked.

This is a comment on observable trends, and is not intended to be a reflection on the late Alderman Stocker's ideals of stewardship. However, citizens will hear less sounding of "keep off the grass" while Alderman Curtis has anything to do with the parks. Retention of aesthetics, yes, but more emphasis on utility, especially in those parks adaptable for supervised playgrounds.

Alderman Curtis has not expressed any of those ideas to the Examiner, but his attitude has been gradually disclosed since he succeeded Fred L. Roy as parks chairman at the beginning of the year. Flowers to admire, lawns to extol, hedges trim and gay; all this and playgrounds, too. Open spaces for children to play and also where they will learn to play without the juvenile dictatorships of local bullies. If service clubs and associations of women will put some support into this desirable change of policy and demand more use of parks for the boys and girls of the city rather than exclusive beauty for their elders to admire, a substantial change could be effected here in a few years.

The parks committee met yesterday at the Nicholls Oval and decided to begin this season a plan of improvement that will be first directed to the west side of the park. More practical accommodation for the public, more use of the grounds throughout the summer months, is the purpose of the projected alterations at the Oval, and it is regarded as a sign of a new trend that may not have to wait until the war is over for a adequate beginning.

Category Men Go To Kingston

The following men, anxious to get into the swing of things presented themselves for enlistment for active service on Monday, and the "A" and "B" categories left for Kingston, Tuesday, June 21.

Category A, A1, A2 members are as follows: Clayton O'Connor, Ottawa; Henry James Jones, Peterborough; Sylvester Joseph Delaire, Peterborough; Charles Rogers Kirk, Peterborough; Gordon Thomas Bocock, Peterborough; Ray Metcalfe Kitchen, Peterborough; and Duncan James Fulton, Peterborough.

Those in catgories B, B1, B2, are: Frederick Gordon Williams, Port Hope; Hubert Kennedy, Peterborough; Earle Samuel Harton, Kinmount; Harold Gray Naylor, Peterborough, and Arthur Dyson, Lindsay.

Those who are in the temporary category, and who will be called again are: Harold Cuthbert Ephgrave, Peterborough; Bruce Mills Harvey, Port Hope; Howard Everton Smith, Port Hope; John Joseph Dennie, Peterborough; Edward Leverne Cook, Port Hope; John Joseph Gainey, Peterborough.

Young Farmer Fined For Careless Driving

Harry Morrow, 21, a young farmer living near Havelock, pleaded guilty in police court this morning to a charge of careless driving, resulting out of a traffic accident on Ottawa street, Havelock, on July 14. The charge was laid by Chief Wm. Aikens of Havelock.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., told Magistrate Gee that Morrow had made a left turn without making sure that the move could be made in safety and as a result there had been a collision with another automobile.

"This boy has never been in trouble before," the Crown Attorney stated. "I understand he is a hard-working lad who is working on the farm of his mother. His father is dead."

Mr. McElderry suggested that the ends of justice would be served with a light fine, under the circumstances.

Magistrate Gee fined the accused $5 and $6.50 costs. "I will return your permit," he said. "If the department wishes to do anything about it that is up to the officials."

$10 Fine, $2,000 Damage

NEWMARKET, Ont., July 22 (CP) —Provincial Constable Alex Ferguson said Harry Graves, a Newmarket youth, caused $2,000 damage when he knocked down signs marking fresh white paint on a highway here. Graves was fined $10 for defacing the signs.

War 25 Years Ago

(By The Canadian Press)

JULY 22, 1917.—Russians continued to yield ground in Galicia. Fierce German attacks netted slight gains on Casemates and Californie plateau. Felixstowe and Harwich, England, raided by 20 German planes; 40 casualties. Siam declared war on Germany.

Canadian Army Comradeship The Real Thing

Lieutenant Jack Hughes, Peterborough, wrote the following story for distribution in the United States at the request of The Associated Press, which wished to give American readers an insight into the human side of the Canadian Army. Canadian readers will be just as interested in what Lieutenant Hughes has to say.

By LIEUTENANT JACK HUGHES

OTTAWA, July 22 (AP)—Canadian soldiers are used to training for war. They're almost used to themselves.

More than two years of waiting for a sock at the enemy hasn't improved very many dispositions, but all the time the boys have been learning about themselves as well as war.

A man can be himself in the army and I've found that soldiers have a great capacity for kindness. Their sense of comradeship is amazing. It may be trite, but it's also true that any one who needs a "Big Brother" can find one.

Recently, in one of the training camps in Ontario, a young soldier received an urgent telegram. It was from his wife 'way out on the prairie. Their infant son was dangerously ill. She wanted him to come home at once.

In most camps the men are paid twice a month. It was just before payday. The soldier had no money. A trip home would cost $60.

There were approximately fifty men in this hut. Each had been a stranger to the other less than three weeks before. But in less than fifteen minutes the soldier had more than enough money in his pocket for the trip—and he hadn't asked for a cent. Nobody expected a dime in return.

Well, the baby didn't live long enough for the father to see him alive again. But he had the satisfaction, and so did the fifty other soldiers, of knowing everything had been done that was possible.

Multiplied Many Times

This little incident is not so important in itself, but it is important when multiplied many times among thousands of men who must live and fight together.

In almost every platoon there are men from the country, men from the city, men who once called other lands their homes. Many of them have difficulty with the English language trying to make themselves understood, although their spirit can't be mistaken. Before long every man in the platoon is trying to help them.

One of my favorites was an Indian. He was almost too old for the army. He had been turned down in 1914 because he had flat feet. His feet still are flat, but he gave a wrong age and managed to pass the medical officers.

He's wrinkled and weatherbeaten, but there's nothing wrong with his heart. At first he was fortunate enough to be stationed near his home, about 25 miles from the fish beds he had worked for more than 40 years.

He knew human nature and the Canadian fondness for fish. Every officer from the Colonel down was fed fish every once in a while, often enough to keep them feeling just a little indebted.

Before he had been in camp two weeks he was a guest star on a camp radio program. After the broadcast he was asked if his wife and family heard him.

"Oh, yes," the Indian said. "When I heard I was going to broadcast, I bought a radio and took it out to them. We didn't need one before."

Get Along Together

As far as I have seen — and I've heard other officers say the same— there is no jealousy between the soldiers of Canada and the doughboys of the United States.

Our men get a kick out of seeing the American soldiers in their different uniforms. When the American and Canadian boys get together they exchange tall tales of army life and training, compare notes on girls, and act as though there was a feeling of kinship under it all.

And there's plenty of reason for this feeling. Before Pearl Harbor, Canada had many Americans in the ranks of her army. One of them—and his name really was Jones—earned a great reputation for himself with the Canadians.

His home was in Carnegie, Pa., and he began his army life in an artillery unit in Ontario. At the training centre it was discovered he was a fine boxer. Before long he was the camp favorite because of his sportsmanship. Wherever he is now, he's sure to be one of the most popular men in his outfit.

Softball Game Nets $45 For War Victims

Riverside Park was the scene on Saturday of a softball game between the Genelco All-Stars, and a team representing the Thompson Products of St. Catharines, accompanied by E. Bausch, team manager, and J. Oakley, who are leading the Senior League in that city.

The weather was hot, in fact it was very hot, and the local boys did not get any cooler from the results of the tilt, which did not go at all to their satisfaction, and likewise in the obverse, sent the St. Kitt's boys on their way rejoicing.

However, he laughs best who laughs last, and another day of reckoning has been set for August 1, when the local boys will carry the war into the enemy's camp at St. Catharines, and this column is pulling heartily for the local boys, for no matter what the actual box score read, or whether it represented a good job on the field of battle or not, it certainly did a good job for the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund by netting the tidy sum of $45, which is listed in today' receipts, having been turned in by A. L. Pilling of the Genelco staff.

A kenwood blanket was made the subject of a draw (rather something to make one shiver on such a hot day), to boost the sale of entry tickets to the game at 10 cents each, and at the conclusion of the game the draw revealed that T. Reid of 64 James street was the winner with ticket No. 2395.

Next Saturday evening, at 6.30, in the same locations, another battle is in prospect between the Genelco team and a selected team from the C.G.E., which promises to be just as hot as the weather was last Saturday, and this, too, is being made an occasion to raise some more money for the fund, which all parts of this, the city's largest industrial plants much to their credit have been most adept at doing, something which this fund's management is most grateful for. Details of this will follow in the course of the next few days.

Two personal donations are listed, one of which reflects back for half a century of happy home life, which began its course amongst those parts of England, now so wantonly attacked by a ruthless enemy, and speaks in terms of thankfulness for many blessings that have come in that time, for gratitude can be shown in no better way, than to give help to others in their time of need.

The fund now has reached the point where only a small amount will start it on its road towards adding another thousand dollars, only $13 being required to go over the top for the 44th thousand dollar mark.

Cheese Quality Is Below 1941

The quality of cheese throughout Central Ontario is not quite up to the level of last year, W. J. Moore, dairy instructor, said to-day.

"The industry excelled itself last year, and their work was shown in the amont of the bonus they received for high grade cheese. James L. Irwin, the Dominion grader of Belleville, has been noticing that for some reason or other the quality generally is not up to the 1941 peak, at least not yet."

Mr oMore said the week-end rains would help greatly in maintaining the flow of milk. In fact that series of showers looked to him like so many eighty or ninety pound cheese. The flow of milk has declined slightly from the volume of June, but the margin is not serious.

Production figures show that the factories are still keeping in front of last year's ouput. Hastings county in June turned out 1,795,805 pounds as against 1,554,707 pounds in the same week last year.

Northumberland factories made 733,173 pounds last month and 615,048 in June 1941.

St. Andrew's W.M.S. Meets

Mrs. E. W. Young, 439 Rubidge street, was hostess to the members of St. Andrew's W.M.S. when they held their July meeting at her home on Tuesday afternoon. "The Self-Discipline of the Christian" was the theme of the very inspiring worship service conducted by the president, Mrs. H. Tremain. Mrs. W. F. Nelson read the scripture lesson and a prayer was offered by Mrs. F. W. K. Harris. A comprehensive review of the fifth chapter of the Study Book, "The Chinese Church Comes of Age," was presented by Miss M. Jackson. Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Moynes, accomplished instrumentalists, entertained with selections during the afternoon. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. E. Humpage.

May Renew Link With Relatives After 50 Years

By C. F. MORIARTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 22—(CP)—A Canadian Press story describing her 101st birthday celebration has opened the happy prospect for Mrs. Jason Harms Post of hearing from Ontario relatives who lost track of her half a century ago.

"I'd like to go back there," she said wistfully when told that Mrs. A. J. Foltz, 497 Woodwich Street, Guelph, Ont., had read the story and asked for her address. Mrs. Foltz recognized the centenarian as her husband's aunt.

"Granny" Post, as she is affectionately known by the Sister Superior, nurses and other patients in Mount St. Mary's Home for the Aged here, was just a bit weary from all the excitement of the birthday party when the reporter called. Her son and grandchildren gathered about her on the occasion.

"I was born on a farm at Richmond near Ottawa, July 1, 1841," she said. "My maiden name was Margaret Nulty and my parents came from northern New York — United Empire Loyalists who wished to live under the Union Jack.

"When I was four my father was fatally injured by a falling timber while helping neighbors to build a barn. Then my mother, sister, brother and myself moved to Belleville.

"I went to school at Belleville and recall the Russell sisters, the Morton girls, the Robinsons, Camerons and Murnys. I knew former Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia when he was 11 years old, and used to visit his mother at Woodstock.

"When 15 I was married to Mr. Post who was a carpenter. We moved to Winnipeg in 1881, lived there four years and then went to Port Arthur. Five years later we moved to Victoria."

Son Works at 85.

Mrs. Post's husband died 10 years ago. She has one son, who at 85 works every day as a carpenter. Another son died some years ago. "He never recovered from the shock of losing his wife and young son in the Point Ellice Bridge disaster here on May 26, 1896," she said. An overloaded street car plunged through the bridge, resulting in the loss of 55 lives.

"Grany" recalled incidents of the American Civil War when she lived in Watertown, N.Y., and Jersey City. "Then there were the Fenian Raids in Canada. I was living in Gananoque and when the boys went away all the women cried. But the Fenians did not come far enough and the boys didn't have to fight them."

Mrs. Post remembered Confederation and said that she had seen Sir John A. Macdonald on several occasions. "We were Conservatives," she said, "but so long as Canada became a nation we didn't care who ran things. I'm a Canadian and always shall be."

She did not think that modern girls were different from those of her day. "In the old days some girls used something like lipstick and rouge. I didn't....and I never saw slacks until a year or so before I lost my sight five years ago. I was a Methodist and never smoked, danced or played cards. Dancing is good exercise, I guess, but I never learned."

Mrs. Post concluded the interview with the remark: "I honor any girl who puts on the Canadian uniform."

Armour-Clarkson Nuptials Pretty Keene Ceremony

A very pretty wedding took place in Knox Presbyterian Church at Keene Saturday, July 11, when Jean Marguerite, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Clarkson of Lang was united in marriage to Stanley Roy, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. John Armour, Park street, Peterborough. The Rev. Campbell, pastor of the church officiated. The church was decorated with ferns, delphiniums, and lilies. Miss Mae Renwick (Reg.N.) of Peterborough played the wedding music and Mrs. Helen Johnston, sister of the bride rendered the vocal solo "Because," during the signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a gown of silk lace and net over satin made on princess lines with a low neck and long tightly-fitted sleeves, coming to a point over her hand. The gown was buttoned down the back with tiny white buttons and ended in a long train. She wore a trailing veil caught with a halo shaped coronet of white corn-flowers and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Margaret Clarkson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and wore a floor-length dress of blue embossed organdy. Miss Edna Armour, sister of the groom was bridesmaid and wore a floor-length dress of pink sheer. Both carried bouquets of roses, lilies and delphiniums. Ruth and Arline Armour, nieces of the groom made lovely train bearers in short pink sheer dresses, with blue bows in their hair. The groom was assisted by his brother, Flt.-Sgt. Robert Armour, R.C.A.F., Ottawa, and the ushers were Fred Richardson, cousin of the groom, Peterborough, and Jack Hope of Lang.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for fifty guests. The bride's mother received wearing a gown of powder blue shadow sheer with black accessories. She wore a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother who also received wore a gown of navy shadow sheer with navy and white accessories, and a corsage of pink roses.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold bracelet and necklace.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to eastern points. For travelling the bride wore a three-piece beige and brown suit with white and brown accessories.

On their return they will live on Park street, Peterborough.

Beauty Is Paying High Toll In Canadian Taxes

Even though cleansing and beautifying agents escaped any additional tax in the recent budget, the Department of National Revenue is doing very nicely by the sale of these personal commodities.

Estimates are that the 25 per cent tax on toilet soaps and cosmetics in effect since April, 1941, will bring into the coffers of His Majesty's Government better than $3,500,000 by the end of the present fiscal year.

Before the tax was increased to 25 per cent, or from 1933 when a five per cent tax was placed on toilet preparations to swell the national revenue, these tax returns have shown an increase in each succeeding year. Statistics from April, 1937, show annual amounts collected for the two lines as follows:

1937-1938 (April to April)	$1,224,000
1938-1939	1,249,000
1939-1940	1,371,000
1940-1941	1,542,000

Although glycerine and alcohol used in many beauty preparations, acetone used in nail polish remover, and some other basic materials are heavily in demand for war purposes, there are as yet few shortages noticeable in the cosmetics field due to large accumulated stocks. There will be fewer shades and colors in nail polishes, in rouge and lipstick, however, as manufacture is restricted.

As for soap, there is plenty of this essential owing to the amount being made in order to produce its byproduct, glycerine, for munitions purposes. In 1937-38, according to the Bureau of Statistics, the purchase of toilet soaps per family amounted to some $5 a year. Cosmetics and toilet preparations averaged $2; toothpastes and mouth washes, $3. In that year, the last for which the figures are available, it was noted that the cost of personal care was rapidly increasing. Now, with so many more people employed, there is little doubt that the estimate of the Department of National Revenue is, if anything, low, in respect to soaps and toilet preparations.

995 of Each 1000 Bombers Cross Safely

LONDON, July 22—(CP). — On the eve of the first anniversary of the R.A.F. Ferry Command, British official sources said last night that 995 out of every 1,000 American-built bombers and flying boats had crossed the Atlantic safely.

The rate of losses for the 3,000-mile overseas hop was slightly more than one-half of one per cent., these sources said. Pilots of the planes often have to travel at 22,000 feet to avoid icing; and at this height sometimes have to wear oxygen masks for as long as 10 hours.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Charles Portal in a congratulatory telegram to Air Chief Marshal Sir Frederick Bowhill, Commander of Transatlantic Air Ferrying Operations, said "You are playing a most important part in building up the strength of the R.A.F. May your second year be as successful as your first."

A great part of the success of the Ferry Command is attributed to the development of weather forecasts. This transatlantic air control organization keeps in touch with planes from the moment they take off until they land.

Average Wage At Tops, $38.93

NEW YORK, July 22. — A new peak in hourly and weekly earnings and payrolls was reached in May, the regular monthly survey of 25 manufacturing industries by the division of industrial economics of the Conference Board disclosed.

"Manufacturers met the largest payroll as yet attained in the board's survey, as the 0.3 per cent increase brought it to a new peak, 31.1 per cent higher than the level of May, 1941 and 77.8 per cent higher than the level of 1929," a summary of the survey explained.

"Workers in the industries covered received weekly return of $38.93, new record, by working 42.7 hours at 90½ cents per hour. This was an increase of 0.6 per cent over the average of $38.68 reached in April. average of $38.68 reached in April.

"Hourly earnings advanced 1.0 per cent above the April level, 13.3 per cent over May, 1941 and 53.4 per cent above 1929. Since May, 1941, increased hours worked coupled with increased hourly earnings have caused a rise of 17.5 per cent in weekly earnings. Since 1929 weekly earnings have risen 36.4 per cent."

Oil Heir Weds 'Station' Girl

PHILADELPHIA, July 22—(AP). —Walter C. Pew, Jr., and his gas station Cinderella were honeymooning to-day in a new 'Philadelphia story' that started when Dan Cupid traded his bow and arrow for a grease gun.

Pew, an heir to the Sun Oil Company fortune and Miss Sophie Boyzick, pretty, blond attendant at a Sun filling station, were married last night.

And although Philadelphia's main line has always seemed a long way from Parrish street, this romance has the blessing of both families.

The young couple — both gave their ages at 23 in taking out a license — met several months ago when the Sun Company began hiring girl attendants to replace men called into service.

Young Pew, son of the general manager and great-grandson of the founder of Sun Oil, has been working around the stations to learn the business. Friends say he's only 19.

The brides father is a metal cutter. Both of her parents were born in Russia.

Cycle Cadet Corps

TORONTO, July 22 — (CP). — A cyclist Cadet Corps for boys under active army age has been formed here by veterans of the Canadian Corps Cyclist Battalion Association, with Dr. Norman Foy as officer commanding. Dr. Foy is a former officer of patrols, Royal Field Artillery.

Maj.-Gen. C. F. Constantine, Officer Commanding Military District No. 2, is understood to have approved of the scheme and it is expected that it will be affiliated with the army. Uniforms and other equipment will be supplied by the corps, but the cadets provide their own bicycles.

Russ Suicides

Moscow, July 22 (AP)

PILOT Sergeant Duvichenko and the crew of his Russian bomber were commended officially today for a suicidal dive into a column of German fuel trucks in the fierce fighting southeast of Voroshilovgrad.

Although enveloped in flames caused by Nazi anti-aircraft fire, a war bulletin said, Duvichenko's plane "kept destroying German planes on an airdrome in low-level attacks.

"When all ammunition was exhausted and it became clear the plane couldn't be saved, Pilot Duvichenko dealt a last blow by steering his machine into a column of fuel trucks which burst into flames."

May Examine All University Men

OTTAWA, July 22 — (CP). — Revision of war service regulations to provide physical examination for all university undergraduates is under consideration, Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, Associate Deputy Minister of National War Services, said before the Senate Banking and Commerce Committee yesterday.

He said this physical examination would be considered the first indication of whether the students would fight or work at home.

Gen. LaFleche appeared before the committee as a witness during consideration of the Government's Vocational Training Bill. At a previous meeting some committee members expressed concern whether some physically-fit young men would take advantage of Government assistance in medicine, dentistry engineering and science courses to escape compulsory military service.

The committee passed with minor amendments the Vocational Training Bill and a Bill providing for reinstatement of members of the armed forces in civil occupations after the war. They will be reported to the Senate later.

48 of 1011 Officers Flew 100 Hours

OTTAWA, July 22—(CP).—Finance Minister Ilsley told the House of Commons yesterday that Air Force officers had taken exception to a reference he made last Friday night regarding reports that R.C.A.F. administrative officers were arranging to travel by air to avoid paying income tax.

(At the time, Mr. Ilsley described the report as "scandalous" and said there would be an "administrative change to stop such abuse." Officers serving in Canada are required to pay income tax unless they are performing services which require them to spend a certain number of hours in aircraft each year.)

Speaking while the House was in committee of the whole to deal with budget resolutions, Mr. Ilsley said the air officers have asked him to bring to the attention of the committee the number of administrative officers who had more than 100 hours of flying during 1941. The number of officers at R.C.A.F. headquarters and command headquarters on strength December 31, 1941, was 1,011, and of these 48 flew more than 100 hours during the year. Of the 48, 13 were on the non-flying list and 35 on the general list.

Forbid Dealings Copeland Case

TORONTO, July 22 — (CP). — J. M. Fell, inspector of the Foreign Exchange Control Board in charge of enforcement in Toronto, announced Tuesday that the board had prohibited any dealings with the property of Joseph Copeland, former radio store operator, who was found in possession of $20,000 in cash and certified cheques at Buffalo, N.Y., July 10.

Buffalo police found the cash and cheques in Copeland's car along with bank receipts totalling $24,000. He was fined $25 in Buffalo for failing to produce a New York State driving licence and was remanded a week last Friday on a charge of failing to register under the United States Selective Service Act.

Mr. Fell said Copeland "has not been officially charged" here, but the board's action today "was undertaken chiefly because he is in the U.S. and has refused to come back to Canada to answer inquiries and questions of the board."

Likes Canucks Best

WINNIPEG, July 22 — (CP). — Ed. Evans, 41-year-old Madisonville, Texas, druggist was enrolled to-day in the recently-mobilized 3rd Battalion of the Royal Winnipeg Rifles.

Last week the Texan arrived in Winnipeg after journeying at his own expense from Madisonville, because "I think the Canadian Army is the best in the world." Evans, a First Great War veteran who served under President Theodore Roosevelt's son in France, said he was the first volunteer from Madisonville to join the American Expeditionary Force in 1917.

DEFY GERMAN BOMBS

SOUTHAMPTON — (CP). — A Southampton couple and their 7-year-old daughter, determined that "no German bomb is going to shift us," are repairing their bomb-damaged garden shelter and intend to make it their home. Their real home was wiped out in a raid.

Railway Travel Priorities Loom In States

WASHINGTON, July 12.— Americans may have to begin next month to explain to the ticket seller why they want to take a train ride.

Passenger 'priorities' can't be much more than thirty days away, informed persons here think. American railroads are carrying so many people that for the first time in fifteen years they're making money on their passenger trains. At least statistically minded railroad men think so. Exact figures aren't available yet.

Transportation Boss Eastman probably will be forced—somewhat against his wishes—into imposing passenger priorities some time next month. Army manoeuvres on top of the heaviest total railrad traffic on record will swamp the trains.

Priorities may be confined to Pullmans, letting the rule of first-come-first-seated apply to the coaches. The priority system may be nothing more than explaining the purpose of the trip. If there aren't enough berths, the man on a business trip will get one ahead of a vacationer, the man on war business will get one ahead of a garden variety business man; men in uniform will come first of all.

Meanwhile, railroaders no longer have wrinkles in their brows when they talk about hauling freight during the rest of this year. They're sure they can do the job. They're confident that there'll be nothing resembling a 'breakdown' in rail transportation or freight in 1942.

Priorities may start on a regional basis, gradually spread. Berths to and from Washington will be doled out first. Already people trying to reach or leave the nation's capital must wait three or four days to get a berth.

At the moment the rail passenger traffic level is higher than at any time in history—above the previous high reached in the days before the 'gas buggy' got going strong and higher than most rail men thought it ever would be again. While current traffic is the highest on record, rail economists say, total travel for the year will be slightly under the all-time annual high. This year's total will be around 44 billion passenger miles against 46.2 billion twenty years ago.

Booklet Gives Blackout Tips

OTTAWA, July 22.—(CP).—Practical hints for blackouts—"the most useful weapon of passive defence available to the whole civilian population"—have been summarized in a 30-page booklet, entitled "Blackout for Smaller Shops and Business Premises."

Published by the Pensions and Health Department under the direction of Dr. R. J. Manion, director of civil air raid precautions, the booklet includes illustrations of methods of blacking out windows and other openings.

Effective blackouts, it is explained, remove the tell-tale pattern of the community, conceal the identity of localities, discourage indiscriminate bombing and form a safety measure for civilians by reducing traffic.

Advance planning and preparation rather than spectacular individual effort during a raid make blackouts successful.

"Search your storerooms, cellar, shipping room and other similar places for supplies of heavy light-proof material—wood, sheet metal, cardboard, strong black paper, oilcloth, discarded draperies and other such material which can be put to use," says the booklet.

"Often discarded shop fittings, even packing cases, will furnish the wood needed for the frames of blackout screens. Use your ingenuity instead of your money in making blackout plans."

The public-spirited citizen should not worry about the appearance of the blackout, so long as it is effective, the booklet advises.

Strike In Syria

ANKARA, July 20 (AP)—(Delayed)—Travellers arriving from Beirut reported today that all stores and ships in Syria have been closed since July 17 in a general strike of merchants to protest against the high price of bread and flour.

Apparently all the principal cities of Syria are involved in the merchants' revolt against grain speculators and small-scale disorders were reported to have occurred at several places.

Build 65 Ships

SYDNEY, July 22—(CP Cable).—Canada, by the end of 1942, will have built 65 merchantmen at a cost of $92,000,00, Maj.-Gen. Victor Odlum, Canadian High Commissioner in Australia, told newspapermen here today. Most of these ships will be 10,000-ton vessels and within the next few months they will be produced at the rate of one every 3½ days, he added.

Gen. Odlum said also that striking reductions have been achieved in the production costs of Bren guns and Lee Enfield rifles in Canada.

Calling Nationals

LONDON, July 22 (CP)—Ernest Bevin, Minister of Labor and National Service, asked the House of Commons today for authority to call up British Nationals in foreign countries for military service. He requested that the regulation be applied first in Egypt where, he said, the present emergency made full use of manpower essential.

Joan Crawford Weds Her Third

The ceremony, performed ten minutes after midnight at the ranch home of Neil McCarthy, Los Angeles attorney and turfman, surprised even intimate friends. They applied for a licence several weeks ago, but under the names of Frederick H. Kormann and Lucille Tone it passed unnoticed.

Miss Crawford said friends introduced her and Terry, a Stanford University graduate, about six months ago. She gave her age as 34; Terry his as 33. He has been acting several years, chiefly in minor roles.

The actress was divorced four years ago from Actor Franchot Tone, to whom she was married in New Jersey in October, 1935. She had been divorced two years previously from Douglas Fairbanks Jr. She has two adopted children, Christina, 3, and Christopher, not quite 1.

Born Lucille LeSueur in San Antonio, Tex., Miss Crawford joined the cast of a Chicago musical revue against her family's wishes. Subsequently she went to the New York stage, where she was signed for pictures by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Miss Crawford and Terry returned to Hollywood this morning. She went to work as usual, telling no one of the ceremony for several hours.

The couple plans a honeymoon after the film is completed.

MODERN BRIDES UNPREPARED TO BE SUCCESSFUL WIVES

Establishment of Smooth Running Home Best Way to Hold Husband for Duration.

This season has produced the world's bumper crop of brides and every one of these young wives is simply sloshing over with good intentions about being a helpmate to her husband and keeping him glad he married her. Only she doesn't know how to go about it. Nobody has taken the trouble to teach her the technique of handling that strange and often savage animal, the married man.

All she knows on the subject is what she has gleaned from the movies, and they have led her to believe that the way to retain a husband's affections and inspire him to make a million is for the wife to remain glamorous and keep a string-bean figure.

All of which is, of course, folderol, and a broken reed on which to lean on the strenuous matrimonial journey. For pink chiffons and keeping up illusions and cooking and cleaning and baby-tending and wrestling with a budget no more mix than oil and water. Nor does the average man, after the honeymoon has waned, ever give his wife a good appraising look. He just takes it for granted that she stays the way she was on their wedding day. She may have been a sylph who has turned into a featherbed, but he still calls her the Little Woman. And that is a merciful dispensation of Providence for which married ladies should thank Heaven.

Now it must be admitted that the modern bride goes into marriage singularly unprepared for it, for she is not only handicapped by the theory that her husband is such a beauty-lover that all he desires of her is to be a living picture, but she has been catapulted into one of the most arduous and complicated and highly technical professions without being given the slightest training for it. Her family spent time and money in having her taught to be a good stenographer, or saleswoman, or teacher, or doctor, but no one has thought it worth while to have her taught how to be a good wife.

Hence it is no wonder that when these ignorant, blundering amateurs tackle the most difficult job in the world so many of them make failure and land in the divorce court. The amazing thing is that they don't all do it.

Learn To Be a Successful Wife

Yet there is, in reality, nothing about being a successful wife that any bride can't learn in a few easy lessons, for when you boil the situation down to its essence all that most husbands ask of their wives are just two things. One of which is for their wives to be easy to get along with. And the other is for their wives to make them comfortable.

The average man gets all the fighting he wants in his battle with the outside world, and when he comes home at night he longs for nothing so much as peace and quiet. All day he has fought for his life with his competitors. Often he has struggled against fearful odds. His nerves have been stretched to the breaking point. He has been torn with anxieties. He is bleeding from a hundred wounds.

He wants a wife to whom he can flee as to a temple of refuge, who will pour over him the balm of her sympathy, who will cheer him up by her optimism, who will breathe fresh hope and courage into him when he falters and who will bind up the sores in his vanity with her praise of flatteries. And when a man has a wife like that, he will overlook a thousand faults in her and still think that he was a grand picker.

"FEED THE BRUTE"

The other route to a husband's heart is via his stomach. This has been said many times, but nobody has ever found a way to detour it. The inspired woman who wrote the first Cook Book began by saying: "Feed the brute." And the advice still holds good. Every man's dream of a happy home centres around the table from which arises the savory incense of a good dinner. And when a wife makes this dream come true and when her husband staggers from the dining room, replete with good food, to his easy chair by a warm hearth and with the light just as he like it, his wife can snap her fingers in the faces of all the glamour girls in creation.

Nobody ever heard of a husband divorcing a wife who was the best cook in town, or wandering away from a home that was the most comfortable place he knew.

So there you are, brides. Simple, isn't it? Be a jolly companion and a good cook and you've got your husband signed up for the duration.

Married Private Paid Better Than Last War

OTTAWA, July 22.—(CP).—Current pay and allowances for a married private in the army totals $74 compared with $63 in the First Great War, said a House of Commons return tabled today for J. W. Noseworthy (C.C.F., York South).

During the First Great War some assistance was also available from the patriotic fund. The normal grant from this fund was $5 for a young married woman with no children, $10 for a married woman with childen and from $3 to $7.50 for the first child, depending on age. Lower rates were granted on other children.

Pay and allowances for a married sergeant-major, first class, now total $166 compared with $104 and for a married sergeant $101 compared with $75. An additional allowance of $12 is given for the first and second children, $9 for the third and $6 for the fourth.

Big U.S. Entry For 3-Day Henley Meet

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 22. —(CP).—There will be more entrants from United States clubs than Canadian clubs in the diamond jubilee of the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta which opens here on Thursday for a three-day meet, it was announced by officials Tuesday.

President H. B. Burgoyne Tuesday received the entry of the Nereid Boat Club of Belleville, N.J., whose party of five oarsmen will compete in five events. A. Walker will contest the 145-pound quarter-mile dash and the singles of that weight. H. Zink is entered in the senior fours for the New Jersey club in Saturday's finals.

Three Michigan rowing clubs, Ecorse, Wyandotte and Detroit, along with Buffalo Westsides, present sweepstake champions and the Nereid Boat Club are the American entries. The Canadian clubs are Brockville, Ottawa, Argonauts, Hamilton and St. Catharines. For the first time in Henley annals, weights for all classes, exclusive of senior and open races, will be 145 pounds.

Before, American clubs were forced to come in at the recognized English Henley weight of 140 pounds, which was often a hardship on United States scullers and sweep oarsmen, finely-trained for their annual national regatta.

Officials have been notified Hon. Mr. Macdonald, Minister of National Defence for Naval Services, has designated Saturday as navy day at the Henley. Mr. Macdonald has been invited to attend and sailors from H.M.C.S. Star at Hamilton and H.M.C.S. York at Toronto will compete for the championship of the Great Lakes in whaler and workboat classes.

Their Money's Worth

Frankford, Ont., July 22 (CP)

A 35-POUND muskie nearly caught his captor in the Trent River near here yesterday. Mrs. William Young, Rochester, N.Y. hooked the fish but was forced to hand it over to her husband who aided by Harold Rogers, a local resident, ended the hour and a half struggle by jumping into three feet of water and dragging it to land.

Lehman Splits Tam o' Shanter Honors 1st Day

CHICAGO, July 22 (AP)—Johnny Lehman, Chicago insurance salesman, who calls himself "Just an old grey-haired man," split medalist honors with youthful Johnny Holmstrom of Rockford, Ill., at the completion of Tam o' Shanter's 36-hole qualifying trials in the All-American amateur tournoment.

Lehman, who at 35 had been living on memories of his heyday in golf when he won the Western Amateur in 1930 and then became a Sunday player, tripped home in par figures of 36-36—72 for a 143 total. His subpar 71 yesterday had projected him into the early leadership.

Holmstrom, a 21-year-old graduate of Illinois and captain of the school's golf team, forged his 143 with a spectacular 66, one stroke above the course record set last year by pro Leonard Dodson of Kansas City. The husky college star who hopes to enter law school, trailed the field yesterday with a 77.

The Illinois youth's booming drives and deadly putts brought him a 32, four under par, on the outgoing nine and a 34 coming back. He required a total of 27 putts and was "on his game" so well that he banged a 275-yard tee shot to within four feet of the cup on No. 5 for an eagle 2.

Lehman wasted several shots in traps and missed a chance to win the Medalist Trophy outright with 142, when a nine-foot rolling putt on the eighteenth green failed to drop.

Sixty-four amateurs, aiming at $1,300 in war bond prizes, qualified to march through thirty-six holes of match play today, which will slice the field to sixteen. A card of 157 was good enough to get under the wire. That score was hit on the nose. No playoffs were necessary and all the better-known performers made the grade.

The forty-eight amateurs eliminated today will compete in the open competition the rest of the week. The remaining amateurs will compete in both the amateur and open tournaments.

While the simon pures are struggling through today's rounds, the pros—with the exception of sixty big-name competitors—enter eighteen-hole qualifying run for seventy-six positions in the open field. It means that the amateur-pro open list will total 200 players if every one reports.

Following Co-medalist Holmstrom and Lehman today was Frank Stranaham of Toledo, this year's Ohio amateur champion, with 145. He coupled a 73 with a first round 72. At 146 were Bob Cochran, the St. Louis city champion; Omaha's Johnny Goodman, former national open and national amateur king, ad Corporal Bud Ward of Spokane, Wash., the present national amateur titlist. Ward cracked out a 70, only other sub-par round of the day.

PAINTERS IN LUCK

LONDON—(CP).— Britain's art won't suffer because of wartime clothing restrictions. Heretofore clothing coupons were necessary for artists to purchase their canvasses, but now the Board of Trade has removed canvasses from the ration list.

Germans Making Slaves Of Norwegians

LONDON, July 22—(CP).—Children and old men, girls, teachers and prisoners of war have become slave workers for the Nazis in Norway. It is estimated there are 100,000 of them, and a further 70,000 Norwegians are to be conscripted soon to work under German militarism.

Most recent description of this situation to reach London is an editorial called "The Slave Era in Europe," which appeared in the Swedish labor paper Arbetaren. The paper said:

"The expression 'slave era' can under no circumstances be regarded as excessive agitation. It is actually the most adequate expression. Millions upon millions of men are turned into slaves under German militarism and the productive apparatus in its service.

"Like cattle, workers are sent to places and industries where the Nazi regime considers they are most needed. Labor conditions are arbitrarily decided upon by the slave-owners, and the slaves have nothing to say on the question.

"In Norway, although the Germans have conscripted so many thousands, they still want more. Among those being conscripted are all Norwegian children over 15 years of age and men and women up to 65. Young women are forced to work ten to twelve hours daily in German factories in Norway.

"Those who refuse to join the slave labor gang are deprived of many privileges, including the withdrawal of their food ration cards."

Fewer Affiliates In Softball

GUELPH, July 22 (Special). — A slight reduction in the number of affiliations in the Ontario Amateur Association this year, due to war conditions, was disclosed by Secretary Vern McIlwraith Tuesday, who issued a list of associations operating under the Provincial body.

Toronto and Hamilton association winners will again battle it out for the Provincial honors in Senior "A", while in Senior "B" Toronto, Hamilton and Guelph are represented.

Other affiliations include Intermediate "A"—Toronto, Hamilton, Peterborough, Brantford, North Bay, Trenton, Guelph, Saulte Ste. Marie, Kingston, Belleville, and Sarnia.

Intermediate "B"—Dundas, Simcoe, Kingston District, Collingwood, Owen Sound, Frankford.

Intermediate "C" — St. Marys, Grimbsy, Eastdale, Port McNicoll.

Junior "A"—Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Galt.

Juvenile — Toronto, Hamilton, Peterborough, Chatham and Brampton.

So They Wed

HOUSTON, Tex., July 22 (AP)—William E. Bergin and Miss Hazel Del Beal of Anaconda, Mont., met for the first time in 30 years but recognized each other instantly. They were married right away. The engagement, Bergin said, has lasted 32 years. Dependencies had postponed the marriage repeatedly but "I've been getting letters from her for 30 years."

Home Service

Money Earned by Women at Home

Money to Carry Out Pet Dreams!

"I'm helping, too!" Proud words from a housewife, earning money that may make possible new furniture, education, a new home!

Successful home earners have discovered that the way to earn money is to be "different," but it's not hard to be different!

Look at Mrs. U. who made a home dress shop different simply by having an "exclusive" stock of one-of-a-kind dress. Her advertising was different, too, cheap but charming — postcards that said "Come to the Back Door Shop. It's Lots of Fun."

Another way is to offer quality, yes and to charge for it. Mrs. G. built a flourishing cake business on a super angel cake she priced at $1.50, making 35 per cent. profit on each one. And there's Mrs. F., who offered low price, selling tea-sandwiches to those who couldn't afford caterers' wares.

You needn't invest money or be specially talented to earn at home! Our 32-page booklet explains five main rules of home business success, tells how other women got started making money; describes enterprises you might try. Has ideas for women who can sew, knit, crochet, cook, type, is helpful.

For your copy of "21 Ways to Earn Money at Home" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

BEST BRIDGE CAN FAIL

YOU MUST be prepared to see the very soundest of bridge give you a bad result, in cases where bad bridge would have produced a good one. Otherwise, you are doomed to a series of shocks. Don't let an unfortunate outcome of a particular hand swerve you from the paths which have been proved by experience to pay in the long run. On any single occasion, most anything can happen, perhaps "the exception that proves the rule."

And what card did West lead against that grudgingly-bid contract? The same one you would have led, the spade K. As it turned out, that was the only lead which could give South his contract, excepting the impossible lead of a club from the singly-guarded K. A heart or a diamond lead would have compelled the declarer to lose two tricks in hearts and one in clubs.

When the spade K was led, however, it enabled South to reduce his heart losers by one. South ruffed that, led to the diamond K and called the spade Q from dummy, discarding a heart on it. West won with the A, and fired back his heart Q in a desperate effort to prevent any more heart discards. But he was too late. The heart A won, also the diamond A, and the diamond 4 was ruffed by the club 2 to get into the dummy. The now established spade J brought a discard of the last heart in South's hand.

From there it was easy sailing. The club 3 was led to the A, the diamond 4 was ruffed by the club J, and dummy's last club was led to the Q, the K winning the defenders' last trick. South had two trumps left and the established diamond 6 for the final trick.

Cheese Doubled

OTTAWA, July 21—(CP).—Since last December 1 cheese production in Ontario and Quebec has been almost double that of the corresponding 1940-41 period, it was shown today in Agriculture Department figures on cheese gradings.

A total of 1,013,401 boxes was graded between December 1 and July 18, compared with 583,967 a year ago.

Unity Of Purpose Demanded By Bennett

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 22—(CP Cable).—Viscount Bennett told the House of Lords to-day that essential unity of thought and purpose among the Dominions in connection with this war no longer exists and warned British statesmen they must apply themselves to a solution of the problem because 'it is obvious that if we are to have a commonwealth of nations we must have a common policy and a common foreign policy.'

Speaking on Viscount Elibank's motion on the importance of maintaining now and in the future unity and solidarity of empire, the former Canadian Prime Minister said Britain had to inquire whether everything that could be done had been done to militate against any such opinion getting abroad as the dissolution of the British Empire.

He asserted it should be established beyond question that every policy entered into which affected the life and well being of the Dominions should be done after the fullest possible consultation that was real and not illusory.

'We face this situation,' he said. 'We have these great self-governing Dominions enjoying almost all the powers of independent states united together by a common allegiance to the Crown and freely associated as a commonwealth of nations. They are naturally concerned at every act that takes place in Britain that affects the Empire as a whole.'

He stated there is no such thing as the neutrality of any one of the nations of the British Empire when any one of them is at war and drew the attention of the Lords to the recent treaty with Russia.

Manvers Mourns Late Huber Preston

BALLYDUFF, June 22—(ENS)—The funeral of Heber Preston, formerly of Manvers but recently of Peterborough, took place from the residence of his son, Bernard Preston on the Port Hope highway on Sunday. It was one of the largest funerals ever held in the country with 220 cars leaving for the cemetery at Lifford. The whole community felt the loss of "Uncle Heber" as he was known to many for he was a good neighbor, churchman and staunch Orangeman.

Personals

Mr. W. Gray of Sarnia is visiting with his son Harvey Gray.

Mr. Arthur Warne and his bride were visitors in the community last week.

The annual Decoration Day will be held in the Ballyduff Cemetery next Sunday.

Watching Brussels

VICHY, France, July 22—(AP).—Dispatches from Brussels reported that reinforced patrols cruised the streets of the capital of Nazi-occupied Belgium today and all monuments were guarded on this Belgian Independence Day which the people were forbidden to celebrate.

Schools took advantage of a loophole in the ordinance banning celebrations and dismissed classes while churches held Te Deum services without sermons for capacity crowds, mostly women and children.

The men were at work in accordance with an order forbidding any businesses from closing for the day.

DAILY BATH OUT

LONDON—(CP).—The Metropolitan Water Board, discussing means of saving fuel, decided to urge people to look upon a bath solely as a means of washing the body when it gets dirty. There is no shortage of water, but a vast amount of fuel is needed for pumping both hot and cold water into homes.

Marines On Alert As Japs Bomb Aleutian Islands

The U.S. Navy released this photo in Washington first to show the attack on Dutch Harbor, Aleutians, on June 3 and 4 by Japanese air-raiders. U.S. marines are shown on the alert between attacks. In background is smoke arising from burning oil storage tanks, set afire by Jap dive bombers.

Institute Plans Lawn Social At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, July 22. — (ENS).—Second women's organizations in this district to announce plans for a lawn social during the summer is the Seymour West branch of the Women's Institute whose efforts are almost entirely concerned with aiding the war effort. Decision to hold their annual garden party was made at the regular meeting of the branch held at the home of Mrs. Allan Lewis. The affair will, as in former years, take place at Connelly' School, five miles west of Campbellford and will include both a supper and program.

The president, Mrs. R. A. Rutherford, presided for the business period and the following conveners were named: Grounds committee, Messrs. Don Rutherford, Fred Hendy, Harry Hoard, Ray McCulloch, Douglas Rutherford, John Kelly; Supper: Mrs. Fred Hendy, Mrs. Gordon McCulloch, Mrs. Raymond Free, Mrs. Fred McCulloch; Special Attractions: Mrs. Ray McCulloch, Mrs. James Waters, Miss Constance McKelvie; Advertising: Mrs. Ernest Fairman, Mrs. Cecil McCulloch. Undaunted by either sugar or gas rationing, members of the Institute expressed confidence in a large attendance, pointing out that the proceeds were going for war work. So far as the sugar question is concerned the ladies were not worried saying that plenty of salads, meat and potatoes would offset the third or fourth piece of pie that was sometimes asked for.

Roll call of the day was "A Preventive Measure for Health," which was well responded to and tied in nicely with the address of the afternoon given by Dr. H. B. Longmore, M.D., who was the guest speaker. He spoke on "The Disorders of Thinking" and emphasized that one of the principal troubles with people today is that they are not thinking, "or at least if they are, thinking carelessly. He pointed to the distinct need for "clear thinking in these troublous times."

Other items on the program were a reading by Miss Evelyena Hendy; a musical monologue y Miss Constance McKelvie; a piano solo by Mrs. Ward Archer; a chapter from the book "Forty Years of Growth" by Mrs. F. Hendy in which was told the founding of the Institute and of MacDonald Hall at Guelph. The next meeting will be at Mrs. Alex. Green's on August 20, when a demonstration by members of the Girls' Club will be a feature. The meeting closed with a prayer for Peace by Mrs. Howard Clark.

US To Mushroom Synthetic Rubber Output

WASHINGTON, July 22—(AP).—Tremendous expansion of the government's synthetic rubber production program was forecast today by Senator George Norris (Ind., Neb.) as the farm bloc sought to force Senate consideration of a measure establishing an independent agency to supervise the manufacture of rubber from grain alcohol.

Norris told reporters he believed the program now directed at the eventual production of 800,000 tons of rubber yearly might be boosted to 2,000,000 tons because of increasing military demands.

If any such expansion were ordered, advocates said they believed production from grain alcohol sources might be relied upon largely for the increase.

Escapes Torpedo Thinks It Real Miracle

An U.S. East Coast Port, July 22 (AP)—Gosta Obo, first officer of a Swedish merchantman, believes the day of miracles has not ended.

His ship was sunk in mid-Atlantic, 800 miles from land.

A submarine first torpedoed the craft. Then it hurled a dozen shells that started fires smoldering. After that the raider opened up with machine-gun fire.

The submarine fired on lifeboats that got away.

And here's the miracle:—

Not one of the 42 persons on board was scratched. All were rescued by a United States ship 2½ hours after their vessel went down.

The only casualty was the ship's cat.

Obo's ship was destroyed May 16. It sank slowly. So many machine gun bullets had sprayed over it that two lifeboats filled up when launched and the men had to climb back and put a spare lifeboat over the side.

Gandhi Stirring Serious Threat In India

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

With much reluctance one records that among the gravest of the many threats which beset the Allied cause this summer is the latest move of the All-India Congress Party back of by Mohandas K Gandhi.

The quarrel between the Indian Nationalists and the British Raj has ceased to be a family affair and now threatens the security of the whole Allied world.

The working committee of the All-India Congress Party has adopted a resolution demanding the withdrawal of Britain from rule of India. Gandhi has supplemented this with the threat that if Britain does not acquiesce he will lead "a mass movement of the widest possible scale," and this is understood to mean no-violent civil disobedience.

Britain is damned if she does and damned if she doesn't. Should she accede to the demand and withdraw from rule — which she won't — it would plunge the country into chaos because of the bitter political, religious and social conflicts.

No one would for a minute suggest that Gandhi has any thought of injuring the Allied cause, or injuring anyone, for that matter. Indeed the Congress resolution states it isn't intended that the United Nations be handicapped in fighting the Axis or the way be paved for the Japanese aggression against India.

The fact remains, however, that the Nationalists have been blinded by their burning desire for freedom. The Congress resolution, aimed at obtaining Indias independence, might be the instrument which would destroy all the Allied friends of Hindustan.

This fateful resolution still has to be ratified by the General committee of the Congress at Calcutta on Aug. 8, and public reaction among the United Nations makes it clear there's widespread hope that such drastic action may be postponed until after the war.

C.W.A.C. Takes Over Quebec Play World

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

DOMAINE D'ESTEREL, QUE., July 22 (CP)—Playboys and playgirls with money bags once paid $25 a day to stay here—the Canadian Women's Army Corps girls get paid to live in the same luxurious log cabinets.

They breathe the same mountain air. They swim in the same blue lake among the evergreens. They drift down the same streams in canoes or laze on the bank and fish. They play on the sporting golf course or ride the sleek horses.

Life is a paradise with the C.W.A.C. at Domaine D'Esterel—if you can work like a superwoman for eight to 14 hours a day before you play. But the girls at the officers' administration training school here do work like super women, say the officials.

They've made themselves a very important cog in the machinery as office workers, secretaries, switchboard operators, drivers, motor mechanics, cooks, waitresses and general duty workers. High on a hill, overlooking Lac Masson is the is the Blue Point Hotel with its world-of-tomorrow architecture in stucco, black metal and glass brick. The army and C.W.A.C have taken over.

The C.W.A.C.'s are more than white-collar-girls at the training centre. They have taken complete charge of the kitchens and dining room work, and are almost completely in charge of the garage. They drive the staff cars and station wagons as well as the heavier mechanical transports and they do a spot of motor mechanics.

CCF to Run 75 Candidates Next Election

ISLAND GROVE, Ont., July 22—(CP).—E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. Leader, told a party conference at this Lake Simcoe resort that the C.C.F. will have candidates in 75 of Ontario's 90 ridings at the next Provincial election.

At least 60 of the candidates would be Farmer-Labor and most of them would be farmers. Mr. Jolliffe said and added: "We're not going into this to play petty politics but because we know we have the only policy which will win the war and win the peace.'

Asserting Premier Hepburn was 'on the run,' Mr. Joliffe declared: 'Hepburn is either not able or not willing to stand up and fight. That's why he's afraid to call by-elections in Ontario.'

(The C.C.F. has urged that the government call by-elections in six vacant Ontario constituencies.

'While farmers go without help for harvesting their crops, while the army pleads for more men and material while industries enlist women and children as young as 15, Mr. Hepburn keeps able-bodied men cutting grass on the Queen Elizabeth Way and burns up gasoline and rubber and tied up still more able-bodied men totting gravel into Algonquin Park,' he said.

Mr. Jolliffe accused the Provincial government of not trying to enforce the minimum wage act and said this was proved 'by the fact that the total fines collected for infringements of the act in 1941 in the entire province came to only $730.'

'Yet,' he added, 'they don't hesitate to prosecute employees who get into disputes with their employers.'

Mr. Joliffe called distribution of milk 'an obvious example of wasteful and iniquitous systems.'

'After three years of war and after a great deal of talk about total war and after three years of one-man-per-street milk delivery in England, our authorities are still diddling and daddling with anywhere from 10 to 25 trucks and wagons on every street.'

Defence Committee Advises Parliament Remove Ban On Communist Party

Includes Seven Other Organizations In List
Proposes "Conduct Of The War"
Be Added To List Of Subjects For Criticism

OTTAWA, July 23—(CP).—The Defence of Canada Regulations Committee of the House of Commons today recommended to parliament that the present ban on the Communist Party of Canada should be lifted.

In addition, the committee recommended that seven other organizations, now illegal, should be taken out of that category:

The Ukrainian Labor Farmer Temple Association; the Finnish Organization of Canada; Technocracy, Inc.; Jehovah's Witnesses; Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society; International Bible Students' Association; Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society, Inc.

The committee recommended that a change be made in paragraph 2 of regulation 39-B, which would widen the field of "criticism" permitted under the regulation by inclusion of "the conduct of the war."

Under Regulation 39 a person may be prosecuted for spreading reports which might interfere with the conduct of the war. A second paragraph provides for prosecution for spreading reports 'intended or likely to prejudice the recruiting, training, discipline or administration of any of His Majesty's forces.'

The One Used on Drew.

It was under this paragraph that a charge was laid against Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, for certain statements he made in regard to the Duff report on the Hong Kong expedition. The charge was subsequently withdrawn.

Regulation 39-A prohibits persons from printing and publishing material intended or likely to cause disaffection.

Under Regulation 39-B, as it now stands, it has been a defence to any prosecution for offences against Regulations 39 or 39-A to prove the accused was, in good faith, criticising or pointing out errors in the Federal or Provincial Governments, in Parliament or any Legislature, or in the administration of justice.

The committee recommended that 'conduct of the war' be added to the list of subjects for criticism, and suggested the section should read:

'It shall be a defence to any prosecution for an offence against Regulation 39 or 39-A to prove that the person accused intended in good faith merely to criticise or to point out errors or defects in the government of Canada or any province thereof, or other House of Parliament of Canada or any Legislature or the administration of justice or the conduct of the war.'

Japs Edge Nearer To Moresby Land on Guinea

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 23.—(CP)—The Japanese, in the first aggressive thrust toward Australia since their smashing Coral Sea defeat, have gained a new foothold on the south-east New Guinea coast, 100 miles across from the vital Allied outpost of Port Moresby.

Under a terrific bombing and strafing assault from Allied planes, the enemy put ashore a force of between 1,500 and 2,500 troops Wednesday at Gona Mission, near Buna on the Papuan Peninsula coast and 150 miles southeast of Japanese-held Salamaua.

Allied headquarters announced that this landing, in an area where there are no Allied forces, cost the Japanese heavily in casualties, a large transport and a landing barge sunk and a seaplane shot down. The Allies lost two fighters.

Airmen first spotted the small, southbound Japanese convoy picking its way along the island-dotted New Guinea coast just before dark Tuesday. They attacked immediately, scoring hits on the transport which later sank, and resumed the assault when the invaders started going ashore early Wednesday.

This first invasion of the Papua Peninsula was regarded here as a grave new threat to Port Moresby, which is linked with Buna by a cross-island road threading 120 miles through the lofty peaks of the Owen Stanley range. Port Moresby is garrisoned by Australian and American troops.

Abandon Markham Valley.

It apparently was to gain access to more direct communications with Port Moresby that the Japanese established their new foothold after twice abandoning thrusts toward the Allied bastion up the tortuous Markham Valley from Salamaua and Lae, their two main bases in New Guinea.

After the failure of these penetrations the Japanese sent their invasion armada toward Australia

Black Winter Looms In Nazi Europe As Harvests Run Low Everywhere

By EDWIN SHANKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 23—(AP).—Germany and Nazi-controlled Europe will harvest a crop 15 to 20 per cent. below normal this year and it is possible a shortage of farmhands and rainy weather may make the deficit still greater, British-American agricultural experts said today.

In addition, these sources declared, Germany can count on only one-fifth of her normal cereal grain imports from fertile southeastern Europe, on which she has been banking heavily.

As a result, the Germans will face the most serious food situation this winter they have encountered since the start of the war, said these experts, who did not permit their names to be used.

Russ Menace Direst Since 1380

Hun Already Halfway To Dividing Armies Isolating Caucasus

MOSCOW, July 23 — (AP). — Soviet Russia faced her gravest crisis in the 13-month-old German-Russian war to-day as Nazi armored columns closed in for the second Battle of Rostov, speared anew toward Stalingrad and pressed upon the Lower Don between those cities in an effort to isolate the Caucasus.

Not since the Mongols were driven from Southern Russia 562 years ago had there been such a threat to the military security of the nation, observers said.

In Berlin the German high command said to-day that German and Slovak troops have penetrated fortified bridgehead positions in front of Rostov and have reached the outskirts of the city in further attacks. "An enemy force cut off from retreat toward Rostov was destroyed," a communique said. Railway installations south of the mouth of the Don River and transport movements of the Russians were subjected to devastating day and night air attacks, it added.

Red army men fought bitterly to stem the invasion tides, aware that the Germans were more than halfway along on drives which might split the Russians' southern and trans-Caucasian commands.

Tackling Rostov Defenders

Russian dispatches disclosed that a spearhead of Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock's 1,000,000-man army had engaged the defenders of Rostov, a Don delta port from which the invaders were driven by the combined firepower of Russian soldiers and guerillas after a brief occupation last November.

Some 6,000 invaders were listed as slain in a successful drive to recapture a large settlement south of that city. Dispatches said the streets were so cluttered with dead that Red Army assault troops were literally forced to walk over them in mopping-up operations.

The Soviet information bureau reported at midnight that Russian soldiers, bracing after a long retreat across the steppes of the Don Cossacks, had engaged the enemy at Novocherkassk, on a ravine-cut plateau 20 miles northeast of Rostov, and Tsimlyansk, on the north bank of the Don midway between Rostov and strategic Stalingrad.

"In the area of Novocherkassk our troops conducted defensive fighting," the mid-day communique announced. "Beating off the German attack, our troops are [illegible]

616 Ships In 6 Months

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), July 23—(AP).—Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, commander of the German navy, today listed 616 Allied ships totalling 3,843,200 tons as sunk by German submarines in all theatres of war in the last six months, with 467 of these, totalling 2,917,600 tons, sunk in American waters.

The figures were given in a telegram of congratulations to Admiral Karl Doenitz, commander of the submarine fleet.

2nd Front Secret Not Entrusted To Parliament

LONDON, July 23. — (CP).—Amid agitation on both sides of the Atlantic for quick establishment of a second European front to ease German pressure on Russia, Sir Stafford Cripps implied in the House of Commons to-day that the government has some operation of this sort in mind.

But whatever is decided about a 1942 offensive, Sir Stafford, Lord Privy Seal and leader of the House of Commons, gave the House to understand that the government would not 'entrust the secret even to 615 people' — the members of parliament.

When Sir Stafford announced the dates of the proposed summer recess of Commons, Aneurin Bevan, Labor Ebbvale, frequent heckler of the government, demanded to know how the House could adjourn while the country was agitated over the Government's military intentions.

'Does Sir Stafford realize that demonstrations are going on all over the country—and there must be some way of reassuring the public mind? Bevan asked.

Replying, Sir Stafford said: 'Whatever intentions the government has in mind, it would be quite impossible for them to announce them either publicly or in secret session. In a matter of such vital importance for the safety of those engaged, it would not be right of the government to entrust the secret even to 615 people.'

British Assault Hammers Hun From Strong Points With Both Flanks Gaining

Strongly Reinforced Auchinleck Strikes Hard At Surprised Axis Units
R.A.F. Blasts Tank, Truck Columns Heavily

CAIRO, July 23 (AP).—Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's army of the Nile, attacking simultaneously on all sectors of the El Alamein front for the first time, was reported today to have driven back the Axis centre in fighting mounting steadily in in intensity.

A communique from Gen. Auchinleck's headquarters indicated that the British assault had pushed stoutly resisting enemy forces from some of their positions on the El Ruweisat Ridge and that the gains had been consolidated.

To the north and south the battle apparently still was raging inconclusively, with British forces striking savagely at the Axis flanks in a see-saw melee.

Fighting in the coastal sector the British communique disclosed, centred mainly around Tel el Eisa, El Makh Khad Ridge three miles to the southeast and Meteiriya, three miles farther south.

Semi-official advices from the front indicated that the British army had gained some ground both in this area and on the southern flank, although Gen. Auchinleck's headquarters was not specific on this point.

(In London, military experts said it was obvious that the British chieftain had been heavily reinforced in armor and artillery and was moving forward in all sectors with the intention of forcing a decisive battle.

Surprises Rommel

(While cautious about making predictions, these quarters believed that Gen. Auchinleck had achieved a good measure of surprise and they appeared quietly optimistic of the outcome.)

Heavy dust storms wer reported to have limited the support which the R.A.F. was able to give British ground forces in the early phases of the battle yesterday morning, but later in the day bombers and fighters entered the fight on the central front with telling effect.

Many direct bomb hits were scored on enemy tanks, armored cars, trucks and gun positions, headquarters declared. Axis air activity apparently was on a comparatively small scale.

Gain Coast to Marshes.

The full extent of the British gains was not immediately disclosed, but advices from the front indicated a general advance extending from the Mediterranean coast to the salt marshes of the Qattara Depression.

The battle was joined first in the central sector, where British troops struck boldly at Axis forces holding the western end of strategic El Rumeisat Ridge.

The fighting spread out along the entire front as the Tommies on the northern and southern flanks joined in the assault.

It was the first time the British 8th Army was on the attack on all sectors of the El Alamein front simultaneously.

Before nightfall Australian veterans in the coastal sector were reported to have occupied all of Tel el Eisa Ridge—the "Hill of Jesus"—portions of which have changed hands repeatedly in recent sporadic fighting.

The Axis forces also gave ground on the central and southern sec-

Eden Talks Peace In One Of War's Gravest Hours

NOTTINGHAM, England, July 23 (CP)—Sketching the outlines of the future peace "at one of the gravest hours of the war," Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said today that Britain is ready to meet and work with the United States in shaping the post-war world.

In a speech which was generally regarded as the most definite pronouncement of Britain's after-war policy that has yet been made by a British statesman, Mr. Eden echoed ideas previously expressed by Vice-President Henry Wallace and State Under-Secretary Sumner Welles of the United States, and appealed to Britons to give a generous welcome to American soldiers and airmen in this country.

The future of Anglo-American friendship is "in the hands of the people of this country," he said.

Making no mention of a second front, he nevertheless praised Russia and asserted "We, together with our Allies, are in this war to the victorious end."

3 English Towns Lightly Raided

LONDON, July 23. — (CP).—A number of civilians were killed by a single German plane which came in low to drop a stick of bombs in the shopping centre of an east coast town in daylight to-day.

One direct hit wiped out a family of six. Another bomb split a house squarely in two but its occupants escaped without a scratch. Hotels and other establishments were smashed.

Other enemy planes were over East England and the East Midlands to-day.

A hotel in a town about 50 miles from London sustained bomb hits during the morning from a lone raider.

Raiders, striking at night against areas in East Anglia and Southern England, caused a small number of casualties and some property damage. One plane was shot down.

The R.A.F. did not attack Germany last night, presumably because of bad weather over the continent.

(The German radio listed places atacked as Hull, Oxford and Felixstowe.)

U.S. Public Gets Anxious Over Aleutians

Wonder Why Japs Haven't Been Ousted Despite Scattered Naval Forces

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Public concern over the continued Japanese occupation of Aleutian islands appears to have mounted rapidly during the past few days, and increasingly one hears the question of just why it is that the invaders haven't been evicted.

Representative John Coffee of Washington added fuel to the fire yesterday when he demanded that forces be sent to oust the Japs immediately. He declared that the invaders intend to occupy Alaska. And Alaskan Delegate Anthony Dimond, who has complained that the authorities are being too complacent in this matter, says he has received reports that between 20,000 and 25,000 Japanese troops have been landed in the Aleutians already.

This growing anxiety undoubtedly has ben stimulated by the knowledge that the Nipponese occupation of Aleutian bases not only threatens Alaska but is intimately connected with the possibility of an attack against Russian Siberia at this crucial time when the Reds are fighting for their lives at the gateway to the Caucasus. A collapse of the Russian defences in the present fierce battle might inspire the Japs to repeat their favored trick of striking without warning. The Aleutians of course, lie close to Russian soil and cut across United States lines of communications with Russia.

Well, there certainly is an answer to the continued presence of the enemy on the three westernmost islands of Attu, Kiska and Agattu. One well known reason is that the weather over the Aleutians is about as filthy as you can find, and it has been bad lately.

A more vital reason why stronger action has not been taken is that the naval force has not been available.

The ousting of the Japs is essentially a naval task, for the army can't walk on water, and while the air force can and has done great things up there in the bleak north, it can't drive the Japs out alone.

The navy can't be expected to undertake such a mission with a handful of ships; the job calls for a very considerable force. Thus far the United States has not been able (or so I believe) to mass enough ships for the operation. The navy possesses the ships all right, but they are spread out over the seven seas, performing tasks to keep the wheels of the Allied war machine turning. However should an emergency develop in the Aleutians undoubtedly the navy will be in action fast enough.

It's safe to say, though, that the Japs are busy consolidating their holdings—laying out air-fields and

3 Hits On Kiukang Station

Yank Bombers Play Havoc Among Jap Supplies

CHUNGKING, July 23—(AP).—United States bombers set docks and warehouses aflame and scored three direct hits upon the railway station at the Yangtze River port of Kiukiang in addition to sinking two Japanese ships as previously reported, headquarters announced today.

In all, ten fires were kindled in the harbor area, a communique said in a recapitulation of the damage done by the fighter-escorted bomber last Monday at the river port southeast of Hankow.

The attack was carried out without loss.

A Chinese army spokesman said the Japanese were massing troops around Kaifeng and other points on the great plains of Honan Province on the northern flank of the Chinese battlefront, possibly for a westward drive against Chengchow, junction of the East-West Railway and the Lunghai north-south Peiping-Hankow line.

He said Chengchow would be important as an advanced base if the Japanese planned to strike farther west along the Lunghai rail line at Loyang, or southward in an attempt to dislodge Chinese forces holding a stretch of the Peiping-Hankow Railway between Chengchow and Minkiang, 25 miles north of Sinyang, Japanese base in Southern Honan.

27 Indicted For Sedition

U.S. Makes Roundup In 10 States—Nets 1 Woman

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP).—A Federal Grand Jury has indicted 27 men and one woman in 10 States for conspiring to break down morale in the United States armed forces and thus 'obstruct and defeat the war effort.'

The indictment, returned secretly Tuesday after nine months' investigation, was announced to-day by Attorney-General Francis Biddle as it opened in Federal District Court here.

The lone woman defendant is Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling of Chicago, who was mentioned in the indicement as having used as an alias the name Rev. Frank Woodruff Jonnson.

The indictment is in two courts, one alleging violation of the so-called sedition law, which carries a maximum penalty of 20 years' imprisonment, and the others alleging violation of a law prohibiting interference with the armed forces which carries a maximum penalty of 10 years.

Thirty publications, some of them already barred from the mails as seditious, and 28 organizations, including the German-American Bund, the America First Committee, and the Ku Klux Klan, were listed as having been used to further the conspiracy.

CONSCRIPTION MEASURE AWAITS THIRD READING IN PARLIAMENT

Conscription Hits New House Storm

3rd Reading Delayed Until Today
Pouliot Protests

By C. L. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 23.—(CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons last night that if the government decides to impose conscription for service overseas tha decision will not require the approval of parliament after Bill 80 is enacted.

"The question whether or not the Ministry headed by myself will enjoy sufficient confidence in the minds of this House and the people of this country to administer conscription, is a separtae matter — and it is a matter on which I shall wish an expression of confidence,' the Prime Minister added.

In some quarters the reference to the Ministry holding the confidence of the people was interpreted as an indication that the Prime Minister might appeal to the people on this issue.

Mr. King has already indicated that he will seek a vote of confidence in the House if and when it becomes necessary to impose conscription for serving overseas.

Consideration of Bill 80 was resumed in committee of the whole yesterday, after the budget resolution had been disposed of and bills based upon them given first reading.

Third Reading Today

The conscription measure, amending the National Resources Mobilization Act to remove the ban against sending compulsory service trainees outside Canada, had a stormy but comparatively swift passage through committee, but third reading was put over until today.

When Chairman Vien put the question on the last clauses of the brief bill shortly before enjournment, it was carried by a cry of "Ayes" while Jean Francois Pouliot (Lib., Temiscouata), with two Quebec Liberals and two Quebec Independents were on their feet protesting and evidently seking a recorded vote.

The same situation existed when the chairman reported the bill out of committee without amendments and when Mr. Pouliot indicated he was going to carry his opposition into debate on third reading that formality was put over until today.

Mr. Pouliot was the only one of the 40-odd Quebec Liberals who fought the bill through long debate on second reading to speak at

This is taken as substantiating rumors from a committee meeting, which was in secret, that Mr. Michaud disagreed with the report and resigned as a protest. He was the government's representative on the committee. It is understood the committee then chose Mr. McKinnon as chairman.

The Committee's decision to recommend removal of a number of organizations from the illegal list was made known to The Canadian Press earlier this week.

"Your committee believes that the inclusion of the Communist Party of Canada as an illegal organization under Regulation 39-C was justified at the time (soon after the start of the war), but changed conditions have ensured which, in the opinion of your committee, make it desirable to amend the regulation," said the committee's report.

"In making this recommendation, your committee does not wish to convey the impression that it in any way approves of the previous activities which were directed against the efficient prosecution of the war by the Communist party of Canada, its fundamental objects or the procedure advocated to obtain those objects. Nor does your committee wish that this recommendation should in any way restrict the government in taking any action in the future with respect to the Communist Party of Canada which, in the opinion of the Government, circumstances may warrant."

In connection with its recommendation concerning the Ukrainian and Finnish organizations, the committee said:

"The reasons for making this recommendation are generally the same as those indicated in the preceding recommendation respecting the Communist party of Canada."

As for Technocracy Inc., and the religious organizations, the committee had this to say:

"Your committee believes that it is not now necessary to continue the organizations named in this recommendation as illegal organizations among those mentioned in Regulation 39-C."

Many Still Taboo

A considerable number of organizations still would remain banned if the Government accepts the recommendation of the committee. These include such organizations as the Canadian Society for German Culture, the Canadian Union of Fascists, the Young Communist League of Canada, the Canadian Labor Defence League, the League for Peace and Democracy, a number of Italian organization, and others formed by Canadian residents of Hungarian, Polish and other European nationalities.

MORE ABOUT—
Black Winter

Germany kept food rations at a comparatively high level by eating accumulated stocks Because of this year's poor general harvest she will have to fall back upon her own production and on reserves reduced to a bare "working minimum." What little she imports will be offset by grain she must send to her allies, such as Finland.

A heavy frost last winter destroyed more than 6,000,000 acres of barley, wheat, rye and rape—one-third of Germany's farm acreage. The fields were replanted, but a late spring delayed the work. Because of the risk that the grain would not ripen, considerable of this acreage was replanted with potatoes.

The cold also affected fruit trees, which still had not recovered from the severe winter of two years ago.

Germany had hoped to force the occupied countries to increase farm acreage. Instead, these countries barely held their own because of shortage in labor, seeds and machinery, and hence will not be in a position to help Germany unless the Nazis confiscate their food supplies and let them starve, it was declared.

Denmark is hardest hit of all the occupied lands, having admitted officially the loss of 75 per cent of her winter wheat, while another 12½ per cent. was damaged.

In Rumania the wheat yield is estimated at 30 per cent. below normal and France will produce 500,000 tons less wheat this year than last.

The conquered portions of the Ukraine will be no help, for they have not even been able to support the occupying German army this year, it was declared.

Italy, though outside the winter frost belt, faces a wheat harvest of about 8,800,000 tons—some 550,000 under normal—and barley will be able to keep her own head above water, the experts said.

Eden Talks Peace

"With the United States, and other nations, we shall take our part in working for the development of a great world-wide civilization," Mr. Eden continued, naming three urgent problems of peace:

1. Complete disarmament of the aggressor powers.

2. Feeding of the starving populations.

3. Enabling the devastated, impoverished and economically undeveloped countries to restart their industry and agriculture.

Two Guiding Rules

Two principles which should govern the solution of these problems he listed as follows:

1. Receipt of financial and economic aid "must not result in the loss of the independence of any country."

2. Any assistance or guidance given a country "unpracticed in the art of self-government must be such as to help it achieve its own development."

The government already is laying plans "for our future, both at home and in the international sphere," he said, and the future of the world will depend on our skill in foreseeing and creating the necessary political machinery after the war."

"Never again must we tolerate chronic unemployment, extremes of wealth and poverty and slums and lack of opportunity for so many which have disfigured our national life in the past."

As a result of "recent German atrocities in occupied countries which have shocked the world," he declared, "Germany's rulers have cut themselves off from humanity."

With the arrival of American armed forces in large numbers in the British Isles "we are now entering on a new essay in friendship," he said.

"I am ambitious that the Americans and we should establish a consciousness of comradeship in war that will abide by the peace to come."

The growth of this feeling," he said, would be warmed by stories of heroism like those at "the recent victory off Midway Island."

"The future of Anglo-American friendship now for the first time in history is in the hands of the people of this country," he concluded.

Obituary

JOHN O'BRIEN

The funeral of John O'Brien who died in Peterborough early Sunday morning was held from the Bert Duffus Funeral Home to St. Mary's Church, Chandos, where Requiem Mass was offered by Rev. M. J. Lynch at 9.30 a.m. Relatives and neighbor friends in numbers that almost filled the church were present to pay tribute to one who had lived the greater part of his life in the township and on the farm where St. Mary's Church stands overlooking his former home.

Mr. O'Brien was born in Douro Township a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O'Brien both of whom came out from Ireland as young children. His parents who were pioneers of the township of Douro later moved to Chandos where they resided the rest of their life.

After mass Rev. Father Lynch delivered a very appropriate address to the congregation on the certainty of death to everyone and the great consolation it was to be prepared for that occasion. A number of spiritual tokens presented added further tribute to his passing.

Interment was made in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery beside his parents, where Rev. Father Lynch conducted the graveside services.

Pall-bearers were Edward Gooley, John Mahoney, John O'Brien, Stephen Scott, William Gooley and Patrick O'Brien.

Mrs. Ellen Gooley of this city is a sister of the deceased and is the only surviving member of the family.

Boarding House Sugar Good Only 3 Months

OTTAWA, July 23.—(CP)—Operators of tourist homes and boarding houses catering to occasional and regular boarders are being notified by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board's rationing section that their registration as sugar users is good for three months only from date of registration, the Board announced today.

Farmers' wives and others who bake pies and cakes to send to market or to sell at home who cannot be classed as commercial caterers will also be required to renew their registrations as sugar users periodically.

The order instituting coupon rationing made specific provision for boarding houses having only regular boarders. In these cases, said the Board, the boarders should give the boarding-house keeper their ration cards which may be used when necessary to replenish sugar supplies. Detached coupons are valueless.

Persons making wine in their homes may not obtain sugar for this purpose, the rationing division has ruled.

Travel Rationing Looms In Canada

KENTVILLE, N. S., July 23. — (CP).—Wartime demands on transportation facilities may make a system of travel rationing necessary, W. M. Neal, of Montreal, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and president of the subsidiary Dominion Atlantic Railway, said in an interview here. The present duty of the transportation system is to do everything in its power to further the war effort, he said, "but at the same time we are not forgetting our obligations to the public and we are doing everything we can to meet the demands of public and private business.

After the war, he continued, it is probable that journeys of more than 600 miles will be made by air, and mail, parcel post, express and freight will also be air-borne.

Attack Ready Says Jan Masaryk

LONDON, July 22.—(BUP). —Jan Masaryk, Foreign Minister of the Czecho-Slovak emigre Government, said in a radio broadcast to the people of his occupied country last night that Adolf Hitler cannot win the war this summer, 'which means he cannot win at all.'

'In the last few days I have seen American and British military units,' he said. 'Britain is not only prepared for defense but also for attack. 'America is on the move . . . and she is becoming tremendous.

'The Russians have vast reserves and learned a great deal in the past year. The fall of Rostov would be unpleasant but it would not mean victory. Britain and America are getting stronger every month and more powerful despite successes of the Germans. I am sure the war will be decided in the west.'

No Extra Fuel For Stranded Tourists

ST. THOMAS, July 23.—Special consideration to United States motor tourists, who are stranded in this district, will not be given by the Dominion Oil Controller. The City Council last week passed a resolution asking that police authorities be supplied with ration coupons to be given to American visitors who were stranded, without gasoline, through no fault of their own.

Wednesday Mayor Dyer received a letter from Stuart Armour, executive assistant to the Oil Controller, stating that the request could not be granted. His letter explained that "no tourist could be stranded in St. Thomas or elsewhere if he took advantage of the provisions made for him to secure gasoline in Canada."

The letter added that the agreement made with the U.S.A. authorities was such that the Oil Controller was unable to make any alterations to existing regulations governing the supply of gasoline to non-residents visiting Canada. Alderman C. C. Lumley, secretary of the St. Thomas and Elgin Motor Club, who sponsored the city resolution, said that almost daily United States motor tourists were being stranded without gasoline and had no means to get back to the States, after being invited in many instances to vacation in Canada.

He described them as getting "kicked in the seat of the pants" and as being poor advertising mediums for Canada when they returned home.

Petroleum, Wheat Both In Oil Test

OTTAWA, July 23—(CP).—Comparison of the costs of manufacturing synthetic rubber from petroleum products and wheat is not yet possible, but the Government proposes using both methods, said a House of Common reply tabled yesterday for H. H. Hatfield (Con., Victoria-Carleton).

As synthetic rubber has not been produced in North America in commercial volume no comparison of costs is yet possible, the reply said.

"It is proposed to use both processes in the Government program for the production of synthetic rubber in Canada," it added. "Butanol, produced from wheat, will be shipped to the Southern Ontario plant and there converted into butadine, the principal ingredient of Buna-S rubber. The butadiene at this plant will be synthsized with styrene into Buna-s rubber."

Propose Table To Show Tax, How Collected

OTTAWA, July 23—(CP).—Revenue Minister Gibson outlined in the House of Common Tuesday methods to be employed in collection of new income taxes at the source.

He said it was proposed to prepare tables showing the various salaries employees may receive and the tax a single man would pay a month on certain salaries, along with the amounts to be paid by married men with and without children.

From these tables the employer could see the amounts payable.

"In making up that chart we do not wish to have it show exactly 100 per cent of the tax payable, because it is realized that in some cases the rates of pay vary during the year, that charitable donations will have to be deducted later on, and so on," said Col. Gibson.

"So it is proposed that perhaps 95 per cent of the tax—though this is not the definite figure—which the employer will be required to deduct, will be shown; and that is the amount to be determined by the Governor-in-Council.

"This will show what percentage of the total tax is to be deducted at the source, and these tables will be approved by the Governor-in-Council and sent out to all employers."

It was proposed to have the employer deduct the full amount of the tax and the refundable portion except when the employee filed a return showing he intended to pay so much on life insurance, on payments on a mortgage, or on a pension plan.

This would permit employer to establish the amounts deductible, and reduce refunds by the government to a minimum.

All the employer would require was the statement from the man himself on payments he was making and eventually the employee would file with the income tax department the actual receipts on which he bases his claims to exemptions.

Finance Minister Ilsley said that refunds of national defence tax in the year ending March 31 numbered 46,522.

Scholars Are Given Picnic By Teachers

PORT HOPE, July 23.—(ENS).—The children of the beginners' department of the United Church were entertained by their Sunday school teachers at a picnic on the church lawn on Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock.

The picnic was attended by twenty-five children, who enjoyed the afternoon of games and races, with a treat of ice cream cones at the lunch hour. Mrs. T. Bennett, superintendent of the beginners' department, was assisted by the other teachers of this department, Miss Aileen Morrison, Miss Clarabelle Spicer, Mrs. J. Dayman, Mrs. Skinner and Mrs. McCracken.

Forgotten Shell Fatal

TORONTO, July 23 — (CP). — A five round apparently forgotten in the breech of a pistol he was cleaning caused the death last night of 46-year-old Otto Nold of York Township, who came east several months ago from Fife Lake, Sask. He died in hospital four hours after suffering a head wound.

MUST TAKE SHARE OF DEFENCE DUTY

BRISTOL, England, July 25 (CP) —Because of the lack of volunteers, the Ministry of Labor and National Service has instituted in Bristol compulsory service for part-time police or civil defence duties. The age groups are 18 to 60 men and 19 to 49 for women. Work of national importance cannot be pleaded to obtain exemption.

A ministry spokesman said regional commissioners everywhere have the power to apply the order, "but there is no question of its being applied all over the country yet."

Cobourg Briefs

Dr. F. G. Robertson, well-known Cobourg doctor, who has been practising here for several years, leaves on August 3, to assume his new duties as medical officer with the R.C.A.F.

Good attendance featured the opening of a special three days' golf program at Cobourg Golf Club. Yesterday the business men played. Today the ladies had their day, and tomorrow the boys and girls under 18 try their hand at it. The games are for novices.

Around $900 was netted by Cobourg Kinsmen Club from their two-nigth carnival. About $290 was realized from the draw after paying expenses. The Red Cross had the proceed from the refreshment booth, which amounted to $135.

Gordon Watson, golf pro at Coourg Golf Club leaves early next month to enter the R.C.A.F. as a mechanic. He will be stationed at Galt.

Trousseau Tea Is Given Port Hope Girl

PORT HOPE, July 23.—(ENS).—At the home of her father, J. Thompson, Brinton street, Mrs. Smith entertained on Wednesday afternoon at a trousseau tea for her daughter, Miss Adelaide Smith, whose marriage takes place on July 25 to Mr. Carson Childerhouse.

Mrs. Fred Lang poured tea from a beautifully arranged table decorated in pink and white and centred with pink and white snapdragons. The tea-room assistants were Misses Betty Rowland, Irene Baxter and A. Bowen.

Call 22,000 Men To Secure 2,500

OTTAWA, July 23.—(CP).—War Services Minister Thorson said in the House of Commons tonight that it had been necessary to send out about 20,000 call-up notices to obtain about 2,400 or 2,500 men for compulsory military training in the Toronto administrative district under the July call.

Defense Minister Ralston said 15,000 men were being called in Canada in July and 25,000 in August, and members had raised the question of why older men were being called in some sections of the country than in others.

Mr. Thorson said this condition was caused by the manpower pool being smaller in some districts than in others. The exemptions for men engaged in agriculture had a larger effect in some areas.

Killed By Trolley

TORONTO, July 23 — (CP). — Sidney H. Burford, 70, was fatally injured last night when struck by a street car on the Don bridge. He was unconscious when admitted to hospital, and died early today.

Loses Right Hand

TORONTO, July 23 — (CP). — Twenty-six-year-old Aircraftman Albert Gunn of Manning Depot lost his right hand last night when run over by a freight car near the Canadian National Railways' Parkdale Station.

Deer Befriends Cattle

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 23 — (CP)—A socially-minded deer is travelling around with cattle in this area, but it still doesn't like human companionship. Sighted by 10-year-old Russel Davis, it let him approach only a short distance before hurdling a five-foot fence.

Making Communism Respectable

Most Canadians will agree that the Parliamentary Committee on the Defence of Canada Regulations was right to recommend that the ban on the Communist Party be removed; it seems ungracious to intern men because they espouse the political faith of Russia, our powerful and hard-pressed ally. But as our opinion of Russia and our understanding of Russia has changed, we may reasonably expect to see a change in the Communist Party in Canada. Hitherto that party has been disesteemed not merely because great numbers of people feared and hated anything which was even faintly tinged with pink, but because the actions of the Communists in Canada gave no evidence of benevolent intention toward anyone, or anything.

• • •

Although we are prepared to accept the fact that Communism has done great things for Russia we do not believe that it would be a good political system for Canada and we are opposed to any attempt to introduce it here. Like most Canadians, we have never felt that the Communists here were in the least concerned with the good of this country. Although our acquaintance in the Party is not extensive, we have received the impression that Canadian Communists like to think of themselves as Russians, rather than as Canadians, and that a considerable amount of romantic posturing enters into their political faith. Furthermore, although we may be mistaken in this, we have formed the opinion that they are nearer akin to the pre-revolutionary nihilists than to modern Communists. Many people like to think that the Canadian Communists are in perpetual communication with Moscow, but if that is true they give remarkably little evidence of it. The frantic hedging of the Party paper when Russia was attacked by Germany showed just about how much that organ was in the confidence of the Kremlin. And the quaint going-on of the Communists in this country in the past show little evidence of the sort of intelligence which the Russians display at home. In short, although the Communist Party in Canada appears to have plenty of energy and a boundless appetite for intrigue, it does not seem to be overstocked with brains.

• • •

If the Government is prepared to consider the Communist Party in this country as a respectable political group we shall expect the Party to behave like one. We hope that the recognition of the Party will also involve a pardon for its leader, Tim Buck. Mr. Buck has expressed his willingness to do everything in his power to assist the war effort of this country; let us by all means give him an opportunity to do so; if his power is as great as he would like us to believe we can certainly use him, and if he can succeed in putting some Russian ginger into our production he will deserve our gratitude.

• • •

It must be understood, of course, that Canada will not tolerate any monkey-business from the Party; there must be no spirit of one blow for Canada and two for Communism. And similarly, let us recognize that Communism is not necessarily evil in all its works. We do not want it here, any more than we want Buddhism to supplant Christianity as the predominating faith of this country, but we can recognize its virtues. Canada has nothing to fear from Communism as long as Canada continues to progress politically; it is only in backward countries that that doctrine finds fertile ground. We strongly suspect that once Canadian Communism is made respectable and stripped of its mystery it will shake down into its place as a vigorous and possibly helpful minority group in this country.

We Are Involved

There are indications that the U.S. will shortly find itself involved in inflation unless immediate and drastic steps are taken to check the present rise in the cost of living. We cannot see such a trend in our neighbor's finance without deep concern, for it is inevitable that our currency should be influenced by that of our more wealthy ally, and until now our struggles against inflation have been successful. By means of various Government controls, and particularly through the action of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, we have kept our cost of living within bounds; we have decreased production of non-essential goods, and we have taken the money away from our people in taxes and loans which they would ordinarily have spent in the normal way of trade. By austere and sometimes unpalatable means we have kept our economics in good condition; it would be a bitter blow to us if inflation across the border spoiled our plans.

• • •

In the U.S. inflation has already made some progress. The cost of living has risen 15 per cent. above what it was in January of last year; basic raw materials have risen 67 per cent. above what they were when the war in Europe began; general price levels have gone up 32 per cent. and the cost of food and clothing has risen 25 per cent. It was not long ago that the President announced his seven point program, designed to prevent this very thing. The points were familiar ones to Canadians; they included heavy taxation and price ceilings, with the rationing of some commodities. Mr. Leon Henderson was given the task of making the program work, and already he is discouraged by the opposition which he has received, and has declared that unless he has better co-operation from the nation he will have to abandon the price control scheme altogether.

• • •

Criticism of the economic problems of another nation in wartime is bound to be superficial, but on the surface it appears that the U.S. price control scheme has failed because it was not enforced with enough toughness. Here in Canada our economic controls have been tough, and almost tyrannical at times, but they have worked. Of course, it is probably easier to be tough with our small population than it is with the United States' great one, and it is possible also to argue that we in this country are more biddable and more apt to do what we are told is necessary than are our American cousins. It is clear also that the attempt of the American Government to conciliate the farm interests in their establishment of price controls was an unwise move; when basic products are allowed to rise in price there is little hope of restraining those which are less essential. The farm bloc is now busy declaring that the Price Administrator is out to "get" the farmer, and nothing approaching co-operation is to be looked for in that quarter.

• • •

The U.S. has now reached the point where it must do something drastic or face inflation. A drastic move will be welcomed by the majority of the American people, but that majority is not so vociferous as are the special interests who may be expected to oppose it. We in Canada are in the unpleasant position of watching a fight which will decide a matter of the utmost importance to us, without being able to influence the outcome. All we can do is to sit tight and hope that the majority of sensible Americans will defeat the minority of selfish and short-sighted ones, and that we shall not be violently whirled into an inflation spiral not of our own making.

The Second Front

It becomes increasingly clear that there is to be no monster second front this year; the difficulties in the way are too great. We should all like to see a second front, of course, and some sections of the press on this continent and in Britain have agitated for one with more persistence than perspicacity. A little reflection shows what a gigantic undertaking such a move would be; great numbers of ships would be needed to move a force to the Continent and to maintain it there, and the blow would have to be struck in time to establish a position which could be held successfully through the winter. And an attempt to establish a second front which did not succeed would almost certainly cost us the war.

Still, wars are won by doing impossible things. Any normally intelligent person can see the conventional move; military genius lies in seeing and executing the unconventional and seemingly impossible move. The second front may turn up as a surprise to us and to the enemy, but we cannot count on such a thing.

It is possible, however, that there may be a "diversion" somewhere which will ease the strain on Russia. If we cannot do something to help that hard-pressed ally we shall have failed in a commitment. Even a diversion would be a blessing to Russia now, and it would rattle the Axis. Speculation by laymen, however, is fruitless; we can only wait and hope that our behavior is not so spineless as it looks.

When Nero Fought The Dogs

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

BROWSING the other day in an old book which contained accounts of famous sporting events, the writer came upon a report so extraordinary that it occured to him that readers of this column might like to hear about it. On Tuesday, the 26th of July in the year 1825 there occurred in Warwick in England what appears to have been the last public fight between a lion and six dogs. It was a cruel and indefensible exhibition, without any suggestion of sport about it, and at the time it provoked an outcry in the newspapers and protests from a great number of humane men and women. Nevertheless the laws of that time did not provide any excuse for restraining the show, and it was given according to plan.

◆ ◆ ◆

It is useless to pretend that shows of cruelty have no attraction for a large part of the public; there are always people who like to see the blood flow, or to see somebody hurting somebody else. Our modern all-in wrestling matches derive their popularity from this feeling, although the wrestlers are too sensible to do each other any real harm. But they put on a great show of cruelty, and that is what pleases the people who pay to see them. There are exhibitions of cruelty which are also exhibitions of skill, like the Spanish bullfights, in which a man risks his life in order to torment, and finally kill an animal. Few of us, if we are honest, will deny that there is a thrill to be had from the thought of a fight with an enraged animal, but our feelings of humanity prevent us from condoning or attending shows in which animals are tormented. And of course, since its founding, the R.S.P.C.A. has done a great deal to see that animals are treated with consideration.

◆ ◆ ◆

THE dog, possibly because of its long association with man, is the only animal which can be induced to fight for no good reason. So-called wild and savage beasts fight only when they have to. In 1610, at the court of James I a royal show was arranged at which two lions and a bear were put in a pit together and James and his friends gathered around to watch the show. But the lions and the bear got on excellently together, and would not fight! So a horse was put in with them, but not one of the savage beasts would attack it. Finally six specimens of man's best friend, the dog, were turned into the pit, and they immediately attacked the horse and almost killed it, while the bear and the lions watched with phlegmatic interest. Presumably the King and his friends were much edified.

◆ ◆ ◆

The dog and lion fight at Warwick was widely advertised some weeks before it happened, and created a stir all over England. Some people were eager to bet on the outcome; others were anxious to prevent the combat. The "Times" and the "Morning Chronicle" protested strongly against it, and the Quakers made an attempt to persuade Wombwell, the owner of the lion, to think better of his plan. The letter which they sent to him has been preserved, and it could hardly be bettered as a plea for kindness to animals; it is unsentimental, but it is truly gentle. But Wombwell knew that the law could not touch him and he announced that the sum of £5,000 had been bet on his fight; actually he confided to a sporting friend that only £300 had been wagered, and this revised figure found its way into the papers.

◆ ◆ ◆

AT LAST the day of the fight came. It was held in a yard behind some shops in which Wombwell had been displaying his menagerie. In the middle of the yard stood a cage in which the fight was to take place, and this was made with bars so wide apart that the dogs could run between them easily. Seats in the windows of the shops were sold for as high as four guineas apiece, a stupendous price in those days. Around the sides of the arena where there was no room for spectators were the cages containing three other lions, a she-wolf, two leopards, two zebras and a wilderness of monkeys.

◆ ◆ ◆

Nero, the lion, had been born in captivity, and was as docile as it is possible for a lion to be; the newspapers reported that he followed Wombwell tamely into the cage for the fight, and when the dogs were allowed to run at him he lay on the ground, ready to receive them in a friendly manner. The dogs were mastiffs, with a touch of the bulldog and the lurcher about them—typical bull-baiting dogs of the period. They rushed upon the lion and immediately "pinned" him by the muzzle in the approved bear-baiting manner, and the fight was on. Contemporary accounts all swear that the lion did all in his power to keep the dogs from hurting him, but never offered to attack them. However, he shook them and rolled on them with such vigor that finally all six had to be dragged from the cage. The spectators were happy and Wombwell cleared £400 on the show.

◆ ◆ ◆

EXTRAORDINARY sport, to bait a tame lion with savage dogs trained to fight! The audience was a fashionable sporting one and several women were present. Let us hope that they enjoyed themselves, for they saw the last lion fight in England, though from the contemporary accounts it seems to have been remarkably poor fun.

Unconsidered Trifles

For his gallantry a Scottish soldier was given a decoration. A week or so later a pal asked him:

"And what does the wife think of your medal, Sandy?"

"She doesna ken yet," was the reply. "It's no' my turn to write."

◆ ◆ ◆

The guide had been answering the fussy woman's questions for half an hour, and his patience was exhausted.

"How were these caves formed?" she asked.

"I wasn't alive then, madam," he replied, "but the story goes that a Scotsman dropped a sixpence down a rabbit hole."

◆ ◆ ◆

A distinguished visitor to a lunatic asylum went to the telephone and found difficulty in getting his connection. Exasperated he shouted to exchange: "Look here, girl, do you know who I am?"

"No," came back the calm reply, "but I know where you are!"

AN HOUR GLASS THAT WILL BEAR WATCHING

Timoshenko In Critical Spot

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

THE gravity of the situation in Russia is underscored by the Nazis' boast that they have crossed the lower Don on a wide front east of the Donets confluence.

If that is true, Marshal Timoshenko's position on the left flank of his 300-mile Don battle front is critical. A Nazi surge westward along the left bank of the Don could force a precipitate Russian retreat from the whole northwestern sector of the Caucasus to escape encirclement.

Timoshenko's main reliance for its defense is the widening lower Don below the Donets confluence to the Sea of Azov that ninety-mile span of the Don, with its multiple mouths west of Rostov, forms the strongest natural barrier to mechanized attack discernible on the whole 2,000 mile Nazi-Russian front.

The German claim to have breached the Don Narrows higher up above the Donets juncture seventy miles east of Rostov indicates an attempt to outflank the main Red defenses of the Caucasus before Timoshenko's troops had even settled down behind the river, but access to the system of railroads, highways and pipelines that lead up from the south to cross the Don at that point is in imminent peril.

The situation is no more bright eastward. A Nazi surge up the left bank of the Don from the claimed crossings would carry them to the Volga southeast of Stalingrad and mean a complete rupture between Russian forces in the Caucasus and those driven behind the lower Volga with their flank on the Caspian. That now appears the major design of the German offensive, and it is close to realization.

Because many details are lacking, it is almost impossible to trace the battlefront on the lower Don, or to gauge the extent of Russian peril, although Moscow admits it is great. It seems possible that what the Germans call a Red collapse in the Rostov sector is in fact the beginning of a Russian evacuation of the right bank of the Don at that point, including the main portion of Rostov City itself, which lies on that bank.

The loss of Rostov has been indicated for several days. From this distance it looks as though Timoshenko had held it against three converging Nazi columns only to cover a general withdrawal south of the River.

The Don moat, from the Donets confluence to the Sea of Azov, and the water hazard extending to the narrow Kerch Strait which separates the Caucasus and the Crimea, is the prime Russian defense front for the Caucasus. The fall of Rostov would impair it, but not necessarily mean its collapse.

That is not true of the Donets-Konstantinovskya gateway to the Caucasus. If the Germans have broken through it in force, the plight of the Russians on the southern end of the Don front is critical beyond words. Neither Russian counter-attacks far up the Don in the Voronezh-Don wedge, or even a limited Anglo-American second-front diversion, could greatly affect the lower Don situation soon enough. Timoshenko must halt that thrust himself if it is to be halted.

Whitehall Notebook

By DOUGLAS AMARON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 23—(CP).—Sir Reginald Dorman-Smith, Governor of Burma, home from the Far East for conferences with the Government, put the lie to a Japanese claim to have found important papers in the Rangoon flat of his son-in-law, Capt. E. T. Cook of the Grenadier Guards. At the same time he explained why the Japanese may have wanted to place Capt. Cook in a bad light.

"As a precaution, all his papers had been removed days before the capture of Rangoon," Sir Reginald said. "But he did have a number of bottles of gin which he could not take away. Capt. Cook left them uncorked and laced them heavily with castor oil—and our information is that the Japs drank the lot."

Canada's generals are well versed in military lore but sometimes they slip up on matters of church history. The Dean of Westminster, Rt. Rev. Paul de Labilliere, tells the story of the General (name deleted for obvious reasons) who, when invited to the Jerusalem chamber for a Dominion Day luncheon, asked if that was a new London club.

For the information of those who may be in the same position as the General, the Jerusalem chamber is part of Westminster Abbey built in the 14th century. It has been the scene of many historic events, among them the death of King Henry IV. At present it is the Dean's dining-room, and the Canadian luncheon was the first in his experience held there for other than clerical guests.

Driberg (or Hickey) not to be outdone, put this postscript on the first column he wrote after his election:

"The writer of this column is not responsible for the views expressed in any other part of this newspaper. He disagrees with many of them."

Lord Woolton, Britain's able Food Minister, is a specialist in charts. Wherever possible in his work he has reduced everything to maps, diagrams and statistical tables.

His first chore on reaching the Ministry is to study these records, brought up to date every day. He can see at a glance the amount of stocks he has hidden in different parts of the country.

He is informed regularly how convoys of foodstuffs are coming in and frequently visits the Admiralty chart room where the position of every merchant ship at sea is plotted with little flags.

Shipping has become more of a problem than ever for Lord Woolton. He now is not only Britain's food minister, but in some commodities such as tea, is feeding the United Nations.

Before this month is out Brendan Bracken will have completed a year as minister of information, two months short of Duff Cooper's record but longer than either Lord MacMillan or Lord Reith.

And while on the matter of ministers of information, Col. John Colville, former secretary for Scotland, disclosed to parliament that at one time he was designated for this portfolio.

Six years ago, Col. Colville, then financial secretary to the treasury, was summoned by Earl Baldwin, prime minister, and told he was to be chairman of a committee to plan a ministry of information, to come into operation if and when required. In addition, he was marked as first minister. Colville did a lot of work planning this office but before it came into being took the Scottish office.

Fact: Any British soldier, whether on the electorial list or not, can claim to be placed on the absent voters list. Announcement of all by-elections appears in unit orders.

Fiction: "We haven't unearthed a good general since General Booth (of the Salvation Army) died." (NB—This remark was overheard in a London bus.)

Future: An M.P. plans to ask the Labor Minister what steps he is taking to make good the shortage of chimney sweeps.

BE FAIR

The Government has its responsibility and, in wartime, must use a certain amount of arbitrary power. But we think it should strain a point to avoid anything that looks like a travesty of justice. When a man is brought into court, has the hope of gaining his release and is discharged by the judge, the Government should give him his freedom unless there are very complete grounds for not doing so. And these should be submitted to one of the reviewing bodies that deal with the justification for internment.—Winnipeg Free Press.

A Bible Message For Today

Make haste, O God, to deliver me; make haste to help me, O Lord.

Let them be ashamed and confounded that seek after my soul; let them be turned backward and put to confusion that seek after my soul.

Let them be turned back for a reward of their shame that say, Aha, aha.

LeLt all those that seek thee rejoice and be glad tin thee; and let such as love thy salvation say continually, Let God be magnified.

But I am poor and needy; make haste unto me, O God; thou art my help and my deliverer. O Lord make no tarrying.—Psalm 70.

Our Example To U.S.

WHEN the Canadian price ceiling was established the experts of the United States Government regarded it as a bit of economic fantasy. They said it was wrong in principle and would not work in practice. But six months later they adopted the same policy, admitting frankly that they are copying it from us, and had changed their minds. Now the United States is struggling with the problem of taxes, trying to channel out of the economy more purchasing power than there are goods to fulfill it. The tax bill now before Congress falls far short of this objective.

So far voluntary saving also has been inadequate, and the United States can not possibly hold its price ceiling without far more drastic measures. Perhaps in the pinch the legislators of Washington will observe Canada's second major economic policy, the new Budget. It shows them a pretty complete solution and it proves that Americans so far have not begun to know the meaning of income taxes. If adopted in the United States, such a tax plan would take the bulge out of the waistline of the swollen American economy. If our neighbors fail in some such heroic measure their ceiling will not hold, and if it blows off, ours must follow, because our business and theirs has become so completely inter-dependent.—Vancouver Sun.

Absentee Labour

Among the prime causes of absenteeism is, as surveys have shown, illness, accidents and feelings of discontent and lack of appreciation among the workers of the issues in this war. The reduction of absenteeism requires that the Labour Department should tackle these causes. In order to do that, the co-operation of all the employers, workers and the health and other departments is required. Canadian war industries need the universal application of good welfare policies—health services, nutrition services, etc. To get more work out of the workers, Mr. Little has already suggested the spread of management-labour production councils. These are not new or untried plans. They are in operation, with astoundingly good results, in England. It is with such measures that Great Britain has been able to succeed in stepping up production in the past year. Production depends upon workers and they can work well only if they feel right physically, mentally and spiritually.

THE SECOND FRONT

Soviet Russia is said to be pressing for the opening of a second front in Europe. The anxiety of Moscow in this regard is understandable, and no doubt London and Washington are just as deeply concerned. The one thing, however, about which the latter must be certain is that the launching of a counter-invasion is thoroughly organised. To make the attempt and fail would be far more disastrous than not to try at all.—Brantford Expositor.

Smith Gathering Honors Newlywed Pair

LAKEFIELD, July 23—(ENS).—About seventy members and adherents of Lakefield Baptist Church gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sweeting, Smith Township, on Friday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clifford (nee Phyllis Darling) and presented them with a beautiful lamp. Misses Phyllis Webdale and Kathleen Rosborough presented the gift, and Mr. Clifford on behalf of his bride and himself, thanked their friends and invited all to visit them.

A short program was opened by the singing of "What A Friend We Have in Jesus," followed by a duet by Elsie and Mabel Hopkins, with piano solos by Minnie Charlton and Mabel Hopkins.

All took part in several contests. One which caused much merriment was eating marshmallows suspended from strings, with hands behind backs. The musical romance of Nellie Grey and Casey Jones was also very amusing with Mr. Percy Darling playing on his violin old songs to fit into the different pauses in the contest, of their romance, honeymoon and the building up of a little home.

At the close of the evening the hostess served a dainty lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford passed to each guest a piece of their wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf. Walker and family have returned to their home in Hamilton after spending a vacation at the cottage of Rev. W. B. Walker on Bryson's Bay, Clear Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Walker are spending this week there.

731 Canadians Are Dead, Missing

OTTAWA, July 23—(CP).—The Canadian (Active) Army to-day reported the death overseas of 12 men and listed three others as 'unofficially reported prisoners of war.'

To-days casualty list, 118th of the war, also contained the names of two men dangerously ill overseas and two seriously ill overseas.

Army spokesmen saiad the men unofficially reported prisoners were among the Canadian Garrison force sent to Hong Kong last autumn, which was forced to surrender to the Japanese on Christmas Day.

The total of army men officially reported dead and missing since the war began now stands at 731.

'Dead' Dutchman Does Good Job Flying Bombers

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press Staff Writer

AN AIR BASE SOMEWHERE IN NEWFOUNDLAND, July 23—(AP).—We called our big bomber the "Flying Dutchman" when we saw the slim, dapper pilot who was to sit at the controls on the 3,000-mile flight from Canada to Britain—for in his homeland Hans is listed officially as dead. He is only a ghost pilot.

Hans is not his real name. It wouldn't be safe for the family he left in the Netherlands if the Germans knew he still was riding the skyways, piloting bombers to Britain.

There were 12 of us besides the crew of five and nine of the passengers were going all the way to Britain. Three of us—a uniformed young Newfoundland woman, Associated Press photographer George Hill of Boston and myself—were stopping off at the Ferry Command Airdrome somewhere in Newfoundland, a skyways stop through which Canada, the United States and Britain are pouring planes and air crew personnel to the fighting fronts.

Hans received clearance orders. The four motors roared. Slowly the ship gathered speed, bumped slightly, lifted smoothly and began its climb for the 1,000-mile flight to Newfoundland.

From All the World

Most of the ferry captains taking bombers to Britain are like Hans, a strange breed of men who have flocked into Canada from many parts of the world. There are Canadians, Norwegians, Poles, Belgians and Australians—but the majority of the civilian pilots are Americans.

They are mature, experienced aviators with thousands of hours of flight time in commercial aviation, air races, private flying and the old barnstorming days. Put wings on a bathtub and they could fly the thing.

They'd laugh in your face if you called them daredevils. But there's no better way to describe them.

Sometimes the bombers disappear over the horizon and there is only silence. That isn't often. The safety record of the trans-Atlantic ferry is remarkable and not a single ship has been shot down by the enemy before delivery to far off places.

It didn't take Hans long to get into the clear, cold atmosphere. The plane levelled off at 9,600 feet.

The young Newfoundland woman's knuckles were white from gripping the seat edge. It was her first plane trip. One passenger read a book of Shakespeare—or pretended to. He didn't turn the pages very often. Some tried to sleep on piles of mattresses in the bomb bay.

Ice began forming on the wings and antenna wire.

Hans started climbing to get above the level of moisture. The altimeter climbed to 11,000 and we were above the ice. It was cold up there. The outside temperature was one degree below zero. Our cabin was as cold as a drafty refrigerator room.

We huddled under blankets, coats and sweaters, shivering. No one had bothered to put on the heavy fleece-lined flying suits en route to Newfoundland because we hadn't expected to fly so high.

A Mask for One.

The flight engineer, Vic Stack of Syracuse, poked his head into the aft cabin and asked for an oxygen mask. Stack has made 40 Atlantic crossings.

"Are we high enough to use oxygen masks?" someone asked.

"No," Stack smiled. "There's a young chap aboard who went on a farewell party last night. He's already 20,000 feet high. The oxygen will make him feel better."

A squirmed through the passage into the pilot's cabin. Hans smiled and gave us thumbs up.

Back in the tail of the plane were heaps of luggage and gear. There were two rubber lifeboats to be inflated in case of a forced landing on the water and 'Mae West" belts to be donned. One jerk of a cord and they would be inflated automatically. On the sides of the lifeboats were marine flares to lead rescue parties.

We passed the eastern coast of Canada and headed across 400 miles of water, the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Soon the Flying Dutchman crossed the Newfoundland coast and headed over the desolate glacier-gouged marshlands and rocklands dotted with lakes. Patches of snow were on some of the hills.

As we neared the airdrome, Hans began dropping the Liberator slowly. The radio operator signalled the approach and gove identification. They take no chances on not being identified because of the anti-aircraft guns and machine guns ringing the field.

Dead ahead was a magnificent airdrome carved from the wilderness, aviation's farthest eastern airport on this side of the Atlantic. There was a gentle bump and the Liberator came to a stop.

JUVENILES DEFEAT LUCKIES 7 TO 5 FOR SECOND WIN OF SEASON

Marriage Runs New Time In Grassland

CHICAGO, July 23—(AP)—Coward and Dupuy's one time $1,000 plater, Marriage, set a new North American record for a mile and a quarter on the turf course when he won the $7,500 added Grassland Handicap at Arlington yesterday.

Marriage beat Clyde Troutt's Take Wing by three lengths as he ran the distance in 2:02 2-5. The old record of 2:05 was set by Grapple, a 6-year-old carrying 110 pounds, at the old Sheepshead Bay track in Long Island June 30, 1908. Marriage, also a 6-year-old, toted 116 pounds.

Marriage led throughout to win handily. Finishing third was L. B. Mayer's Reading II, the 4-5 favorite that won the Green Valvet Handicap on the grass a few weeks ago. Reading II, an Australian horse, was top weighted at 122 pounds.

The winner, ridden by Art Craig, paid $14.20, $6.00 and $3.20. Take Wing paid $5.80 and $3.20, and Reading II paid $2.40.

Marriage was claimed for $5,000.00 from Hirsch Jacobs late last year by R. A. Coward. He has won several stakes since. Marriage also was a big money winner for Jacobs, who picked him up in a cheap claiming number.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Westclox who signalized their return to the diamond pastime after a two weeks' layoff by defeating the league-leading Generals Tuesday night will tackle Brintons at the Bowl tonight in a girls' game that will have a lot to say about which outfit will grab off second place in the league race. It should be quite a battle. Brintons are a much better ball club than they were at the beginning of the season and the Westclockers are also considerably stronger and the meeting between the two outfits tonight promises to be decidedly interesting. Leila Hughes who has been tossing good ball for Brintons will undoubtedly be the Carpetmakers pitching choice for this all-important battle while the Westclockers will likely call upon Marg Watson although the fact that the Big Bens have another game on their hands Friday night may result in Isobel Bullock being used as a pitcher. The game is billed for 7 o'clock sharp and should attract a real crowd of fans.

Plazas, leading the City League race, play one of their two remaining games before the playoffs tomorrow night when they meet Juveniles at Riverside Park in a postponed game. The hockey club squad is anxious to wind up the regular schedule in first place and to make sure of doing that have to win their remaining two fixtures, Friday's tussle with the Juveniles and a game next Wednesday night with Soldiers. The Plazas are taking no chances. They will have the strongest lineup available in action against the youngsters. The Juveniles would like nothing better than a chance to slap the leaders down and they too will have the best battle array they can throw in there against Plazas. Tom Parsons will probably do the throwing for the hockey squad and Bev Gray may be the Juvenile selection for the game with the leaders. He pitched great ball to turn back Luckies last night and will likely start against the league top shelfers. Incidentally don't be surprised if Gray turns up on the firing line for Luckies in their final game of the schedule against Royals next Monday night. Juveniles turned in one of the best cards of the season against Luckies last night and Plazas better not have any off night when they meet the youngsters in Friday night's fixture.

History repeated itself last night. Juveniles had won only one game all season and that was at the expense of Luckies whereupon Reg Kingdon's club bobbed up with one of its best games of the current campaign to take Luckies into camp for the second time. It was a tough blow for Luckies, driving them deeper down into the fourth place hole, just when they were counting upon a win to shove them up the ladder in a better playoff jumping-off spot. They have only one game to play, against the second-place Royals. Bev Gray pitched in fine fashion for the Juveniles and got great support from the youngsters who showed plenty of fight and pep. Fans were glad to see young Don Batley back in the game. The youngster broke a leg last fall and was in hospital for a long time and was back again early this summer for an operation but he finally has got into the ball game. He broke in with a bang, too, with two circus catches in the outfield. As the game turned out it looks as if Manager Griffin started the wrong pitcher. Lewis yielded six runs, allowed seven bases on balls and was touched up for four hits, including a double and a homer in less than four innings. Moorhead who went in to the rescue held the winners to two hits and one run for the rest of the pastime.

C.G.E. All-Stars Look Good

Judging by the battle array announced by the C.G.E. All-Stars for the grudge battle at Riverside Park Saturday evening with the Genelco All-Stars, the armament plant outfit will have a real fight on their hands. The proceeds will go to the British War Victims' Fund and it promises to be a ball game all the way. The C.G.E. lineup as handed to this column contains twelve players and eleven of them are regulars in the City League race, with Eddie Whitehill, former baseball pitching star, the only member of the dozen who isn't playing in the City loop this season. The Electrics will have as pitchers Ron Akers of Royals and Dave Wilson of Plazas. The catching duties will be taken care of by Eddie Starr of Plazas and Mowry of the Luckies. The infielders will be Arnold Smith, George Hawes and Earl McNabb of the Royals and Don Crowe and Art Heal of Plazas while in the outfield in addition to Whitehill will be Joe Stewart of Luckies and Phil Pryde of Royals. The game is called for 6.30 o'clock and should draw one of the biggest crowds of the year in view of the rivalry between the two clubs and the fact that all the proceeds go to a worthy cause.

The Examiner has just discovered that it possesses in a member of its advertising staff a member of that most exclusive golfing organization, the Hole-in-One club. Bruce Butler, a young golfer, has had the experience that is the dream of all players, a dream that is only rarely realized. He was playing over the course of the Orchard Beach Club at Lake Simcoe, the other day and on the third hole, a 170-yarder with a par of three, he had the satisfaction of driving off from the tee and have his ball wind up in the cup. It was the first hole-in-one of the season on the course and the young golfer's feat was the occasion for a general celebration.

Yanks Gain Another

Yanks picked up another game at the expense of the Boston Red Sox yesterday, defeating Cleveland in a ten innings' affair 5 to 1 while Buck Ross was shutting out Boston 2 to 0 in a pitching duel with Charlie Wagner. The McCarthyites now have a twelve game lead which should be about enough. Al Milnar held them in check until two were out in the tenth but they finally broke loose then. Milnar did have the satisfaction however of stopping Joe DiMaggio's new consecutive hitting streak at 18 and of holding Joe Gordon hitless and knocking him out of the batting lead. Luke Appling, next to Ross, was the hero of the Chicago win. He came through with a double to drive in the only two runs of the game. Wagner held the White Sox to four hits—but lost just the same. Wagner held the White Sox to four hits—but lost just the same. Philadelphia came from far behind to defeat St. Louis Browns 11 to 8 and Sid Hudson succeeded in stopping the Detroit Tigers, Washington winning 2 to 1.

* * * * * *

Mister Claude Passeau of the Chicago Cubs is quite a pitcher folks. He picked up his 14th victory of the season at the expense of the Boston Braves yesterday. More than that he held the losers to only two hits and would have had a shutout if it had not been for an error by outfielder Nicholson. Brooklyn Dodgers breezed right along, defeating the Cincinnati Reds 5 to 1 with Kirby Higbe pitching a five-hitter and triumphing over Ray Starr and Gene Thompson. St. Louis Cards hung on by a shutout over the Phillies 7 to 0, thanks to timely hitting and to fine pitching by John Beazley who garnered his eleventh win of the season.

However, only two of the walks blossomed into runs.

Winners Scored Six Runs In 4th Inning

Juveniles won their second victory of the season last night and once more it was at the expense of Manager Fred Griffin's Luckies, who were beaten by the youngsters 7 to 5 at Riverside Park in one of the most interesting City League fixtures of the season.

Juveniles drove Bill Lewis to cover before the fourth inning was over and by that time they had amassed six runs which was enough to carry them through to victory. Bill Moorhead did a fine job of relief pitching for the balance of the game, holding the kids to two hits and one run, but the effort was wasted because Bev. Gray, backed by fine fielding by his teammates, was keeping the Luckies well under control. Gray pitched fine ball for the winners. Luckies only got one hit in the first five innings and only seven all told and several of the blows were lucky.

There was a lot of nice fielding. Don Batley, son of Umpire Bob Batley, who had his leg broken in fielding practice last fall, played his first game of the season in right field for the winners distinguished himself with two beautiful catches, both at the expense of Luke Jameson. The second grab was a shoestring running catch that robbed the batter of a sure hit. Reg. Leether played great ball around third for Juveniles. The fielding feature for Luckies was A. Caccavella's grab of a line drive from the bat of Jack Carpenter, developing into a double play.

Leether's batting stood out for Juveniles. The third-sacker drove in two runs in the fourth with a long home run over Moorhead's head in right and next time up slashed a triple to the same field that was responsible for another counter. Loyst, third baseman for Luckies, had two triples and both figured in his team's run-making.

Juveniles got a cheap run in the first. Garvey, second up, was safe on M. Caccavella's fumble and went round to score on three wild pitches by Lewis.

Luckies evened it up in the second with much the same kind of score. Lewis got a life when Detlor missed a throw, and eventually scored on two wild pitches by Gray.

Juveniles broke lose in the third. Garvey singled to third and Gray dropped another single into left. Leether's roller to Jameson advanced the base-runners. Bill Jones doubled to centre, scoring Garvey and Gray, took third on the throw to the plate and went home when Loyst was shunted out of position and Mowry's throw to the difficult corner went through. Greatrix walked. Detlor flied to left and after Carpenter had drawn a pass Batley popped to Lewis.

Luckies got one in their half. Loyst led off with a triple to right centre, the first hit off Gray. Lewis lined to Leether and Loyst was almost doubled off third. Batley robbed Jameson of a hit with a running grab of a long drive to deep right. Loyst scored after the catch. Courneya popped to Jones.

Juveniles got their last run in the sixth. Fred Garvey walked and went to second on Gray's bunt, Leether dropped a triple into right, scoring Garvey. Jones flied to Stewart and Leether should have scored after the catch but he forgot to tag up and when he went back he was too late to come in. Greatrix walked but Detlor popped to Jameson.

In their half the Griffin team got two. McCormick opened with a single through short. Loyst got his second triple to right when Batley misjudged his drive and McCormick scored. Loyst counted on a fly to left by Lewis. Jameson's drive to right was taken sensationally by Batley and Leether threw out Courneya on a fast play.

There was no further scoring until the ninth when Luckies made a belated bid to pull the game out of the fire. A. Caccavella started with a single off Leether's hand. Mowry singled through short. Caccavella should have been out going to third on the play but Leether dropped the ball in making the tag and the runner was safe. Mowry going to second. Moorhead flied to Carpenter and the centre-fielder's quick throw-in held the runners on their bases. Stewart flied to Greatrix in left, Caccavella scoring after the catch, McCormick walked and stole second but with the tying on the bases Loyst was retired by Starr Detlor's running catch of his short foul and the game was over.

TORONTO, July 23 — (CP). — One of the lads we'd be hearing about fast and often if any national golf tournaments remained in Canada is Howie Bennett, 20-year-old Winnipeg beanpole who won the Manitoba Amateur this year...He won the National Junior title in 1939, the Manitoba Amateur for the first time in 1940...He's one of the best four amateur golfers in the country, but his fame will be strictly provincial until the Royal Canadian Golf Association revives the Canadian amateur.

Improving The Breed:

A Vancouver race visitor was staying at Room 444 in a hotel, paying $4 a day, and in one program clicked for four winners up to the last race. He noticed a dobbin called Tetra Play, whose mutuel number was 4444 and played $44 right on its face. The dobbin won, paying nothing so romantic as $40 or $400, but $7.45—which is a nice tidy number, even if it doesn't rhyme.

Social Note:

Hal (Vancouver Sun) Straight has moved upstairs from sports to the managing editorship. Jack Patterson has taken over the sports department.

Incidentally:

Phil Farley, the Ontario Open champion, lifted the Bing Crosby Trophy at Toronto Elms carrying his own bag...Even for a reasonably important tournament, no caddies were available....There'll be no changes in the Toronto Mississauga layout for the Canadian Open August 6, 7, 8....Theres' only one hold over 500 yards, two under 200: par is 72, and the course length is 6,543 yards.

Polly Drouin, former Montreal Canadiens, is another member of the now-fabulous R.C.O.C. at Ottawa....One of the Canadian-American league umpires is named Reason....Most entrancing combination of umpires in baseball for year was the Northern League lineup three years ago: Kallis, Ruff, Tuff and Bleeding...So help us all, every new combination conjured up a new set of gruesome thoughts....Verne McIlwraith, secretary of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association, estimates more than 10,000 Ontario softballers have enlisted.

NEW YORK, July 23—(AP). — The grapevine says the Louis-Conn pot is boiling again...And Uncle Sam may be getting ready to serve it up around September 20...National League Secretary Bill Brandt (my how he gets around) has been taking a friendly kidding for years about his osteopathy...But he went to work on our cartoonist sidekick, Tom Paprocki, the other day, and in an hour pap was all cured of the backache he'd had for weeks.... Manuel Ortiz is so sure he can take the bantamweight crown away from Lou Salica that he's asking—and getting—only $250 for their California fight August 7....That's against union rules.

Dis-a and Dat-a

Rogers Hornsby rises to report that his Ford Garrison at Fort Worth is a $50,000 kind of ball player...and that Daffy Dean looks better right now than Diz did when he was in the Texas League.

You-Said-a-Mouthful Dept.

Rollie Hemsley, fired by the Reds, hired by the Yanks: It was just like dying and waking up in heaven... Jockey Willie Turnbull, watching Whirlaway whirl to a new money-winning record: They ought to put a whistle on him and blow it when he starts turning his kick loose on the other horses'll get out of his way.

High Finance

From his Pittsburg Post-Gazette Pillar, Al Abrams relays the one about the Mid-west promoter who sold 60 per cent of his fight show to each of two "anjges" for $600 apiece, but didn't let either angel know the other was in it....The show lost $1,000 so each bankroll-guy was stuck his $600....The promoter wound up with $200 profit himself....Nice work if you can get it.

Henry Armstrong tells coast critics of his comeback that he'll be "the first to know" when he's been in the ring too long....Wonder if the Hammer knows that the day his old pal, Eddie Mead, fell dead on a street corner here, he was on the way to phone Hennery to give up his comeback plans?

Cubs Grab Off Second Place, St. Peter's Leads

Cubs grabbed off second place in the Catholic League race Wednesday night by trimming Sacred Heart 9 to 5. It was the second loss in two nights for the southerners.

Heffernan, rookie pitcher for the Cubs, came through with a great game, allowing only four hits and was given fine support by his team mates who played their best ball of the season.

Shine on the mound for Sacred Heart was in trouble in nearly every innings, although he only yielded eight hits. His support was shaky.

Brady was the big bomber for the Cubs, getting a homer and a double while Leonard had three singles. None of the losers got more than one safe blow.

	Won	Lost	Pts.
St. Peter's	10	5	20
Cubs	9	9	18
Sacred Heart	7	7	14
Knights	5	10	10

Cubs—O'Toole, 1b; R. Garvey, ss; Sullivan, lf; Brady, 3b; Leonard, cf; Caccavella, 2b; O'Donaghue, rf; L. O'Toole, c; Heffernan, p.

Sacred Heart — Guerin, rf; Hughes, 2b; Bailey, 3b; O'Donaghue, c; B. Sullivan, cf; Guerin, p, 1b; Johnston, lf; G. Sullivan, ss; Shine, p; Spencer, rf.

Seal Turns Tame

WEST VANCOUVER, B.C., July 23 — (CP). — A baby seal who has been named Oscar has attached himself to Mrs. A. W. Burchell's household here. Mrs. Burchell's granddaughter Patricia, found the seal struggling in the heavy seas at West Bay, and took him home. Now, though he loves the water, he won't swim without his young mistress.

Lawn Bowling

When C. Giroux's rink won out on an extra end from P. Moore and when Jim McDonald defeated F. Dearborn it altered the standing in Group 2. It now reads C. Giroux first and F. Dearborn second — but each have four games left to play.

Looking over the scores that were handed in, it looks as if all games were well contested—not one runaway. And by the way, that is quite a change.

We are glad to report that the condition of J. H. Sedgewick, our popular greenkeeper, is not as serious as was thought at first but we believe he will be confined to his bed for at least another week.

Some of ur ladies had a nice drive down to Campbellford and back yesterday afternoon. No game. Last week another rink motored down and played one game and then were rained out.

We have nothing to report from the boys who took in the Whitby tournament yesterday.

It will be men's rinks to-morrow night. Draw from the board at 7:30 p.m.

The ladies' section held a somewhat hurry-up tournament last night. They had about eight rinks present. Two 10-end games were played. Mrs. J. Kingsbury and Mrs. W. Hepburn were the winning skips.

American Clubs Sending 6 Henley Entries

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 23. —(CP).—The United States took the lead in club entries for the diamond jubilee of the Royal Canadian Henley, opening here today, with the entry of the sixth American club yesterday.

It was the Fairmont Rowing Club of Philadelphia, which will send two American National Regatta winners, Ed. Keiffer, who took the high school singles for Philadelphia Roman Catholic College, and Huck Kain, victor in the Association singles.

Kain will try for the singles here and also compete in the 145-pound dash, and he and Keiffer will pair up in the senior fours on Saturday.

In the senior championship singles, International Champion Theo Dubois of Winnipeg, now with the Canadian army at Ottawa, will have to defend his 1941 crown against five contestants.

Six clubs will compete for the Hanlon Memorial Cup for senior eights, now held by Buffalo Westsides.

There will be seven titles competed for in the final events of the Canadian Canoe Association western division, as well as the eastern-northern division, and they will likely be recognized as the Dominion championships.

On Saturday, officialy designated as navy day by Hon. Angus Macdonald, Minister of National Defence for Naval Services, crews from the Royal Norwegian Air Force and the R.C.A.F. Manning Depot of Toronto, will compete against two navy crews. They are from H.M.C.S. Star at Hamilton, Ont., and H.M.C.S. York at Toronto. These teams will compete in workboat races for the championship of the Canadian armed forces.

There will be a final race every 10 minutes from 1:15 to 5:30 p.m., Saturday, and every event will involve a title.

BOSTON RED SOX EXTEND SLUMP DROP 11TH, CHICAGO WINS 2-0

Di Mag's Streak Stopped at 18, Yanks Win 11th

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

All the people who devoted themselves industriously for weeks trying to solve the slump of New York Yankees probably are busy now figuring out reasons for the sliding of Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers, a form of endeavor in which there never is any unemployment. Somebody always is in a slump. Boston has lost four in a row and nine of its last 11 games, while Detroit has dropped 11 out of 14 and fallen from the first division in recent days.

The Red Sox were shut out 2-0 yesterday by Lee (Buck) Ross of Chicago White Sox, although they made the magnificent total of five hits, one more than Chicago collected off Broadway Charley Wagner.

The Tigers were tamed 2-1 by Washington Senators on the five-hit hurling of Sid Hudson. Here again the winners were kept in check by the losing pitcher, Washington getting just eight hits.

Yanks in Again

Meanwhile the Yankees squeezed to their 11th consecutive victory and extended their American League lead to 12 games by blasting across four unearned runs in the 10th inning to beat Cleveland Indians 4-1.

Joe Dimaggio's hitting streak was stopped at 18 games by Lefty Al Milnar, but Rollie Hemsley made four hits, including two doubles, and Charley Keller hit his 12th home run.

Atley Donald's nine-hit hurling was bolstered by four double plays by his teammates as the Yanks boosted their total to 125 for 91 games.

St. Louis Browns blew a 6-0 lead attained in the first four frames and lost an 11-8 decision to Philadelphia Athletics. Sparked by Chet Laabs' 18th circuit clout, the Brownies scored five runs in the fourth, then the A's scored six in the fifth inning to tie the score and kept on rolling. They made 16 hits and St. Louis 12.

In the National League Brooklyn Dodgers disposed of Cincinnati Reds without trouble, 5-1, with Kirby Higbe pitching five-hit ball. Higbe himself drove in two runs with a double in the sixth.

This kept the Dodgers seven games ahead of St. Louis Cardinals, who slammed out a 7-0 victory over the pitiful Phils, who were unable to score on 10 hits off Johnny Beazley.

Chicago Cubs evened their score with Boston Braves in the day's other game as Claude Passeau pitched a masterful two-hitter for a 2-1 victory. It was Passeau's 14th triumph of the year.

Famous "Lou Breese" Orchestra Featured At Brock Arena

Tomorrow for one night only the Brock Arena is bringing you "Lou Breese" and his "Breezy Rhythms" direct from the Chez Paree in Chicago.

Featuring with Lou and his orchestra is the twenty-year-old Barry Warren, vocalist, who sings some of the top hits of the year.

Lou who is well known in the States for his trumpet playing and also the "Brass Choir" of three trombones is really a treat to dance and listen to.

Lou Breese's "Breezy Rhythm" style was originated within his orchestra and although it is so outstanding that it has been copied to a certain extent by several other orchestras, none of its imitators has achieved the original "Breezy Rhythm" Band.

Ozzie Williams will also be on hand to play for you during the intermissions so you will really have a treat when you come in tomorrow night. Come in a party and enjoy yourself.

Sierra Blanks Orioles In 8-0 Tussle

By The Associated Press.

The play of Manager Al Vincent's Buffalo Bisons the past three weeks has become the talk of the International League.

Toward the end of June it appeared the Bisons would remain hopelessly mired in the second division, but suddenly the power everyone thought they possessed began to show itself. Now the Herd has won 15 of its last 20 games. Although in fifth place, they are only three games away from the third-place Jersey City Giants.

Andy Sierra blanked Baltimore Orioles with six hits as Buffalo pounded out 13 for an 8-0 triumph last night. In registering his 12th conquest of the campaign, Sierra struck out nine batters, while walking none.

Chet Kehn of Montreal Royals displayed his 1941 form as he limited the league-leading Newark Bears to five hits in turning in a 3-1 victory.

The triumph ended a nine-game Montreal losing streak and also terminated a five-game Newark winning streak. Kehn fanned 10 and walked four as he turned in his best job of the season.

In the only other game played, Syracuse Chiefs defeated the last place Rochester Red Wings, 7-1. Eddie Shokes, Bobby Adams and Dutch Mele led the 12-hit attack against Ed Wishman and Lou Sakas with eight hits among them. Nate Andrews gave up only four hits.

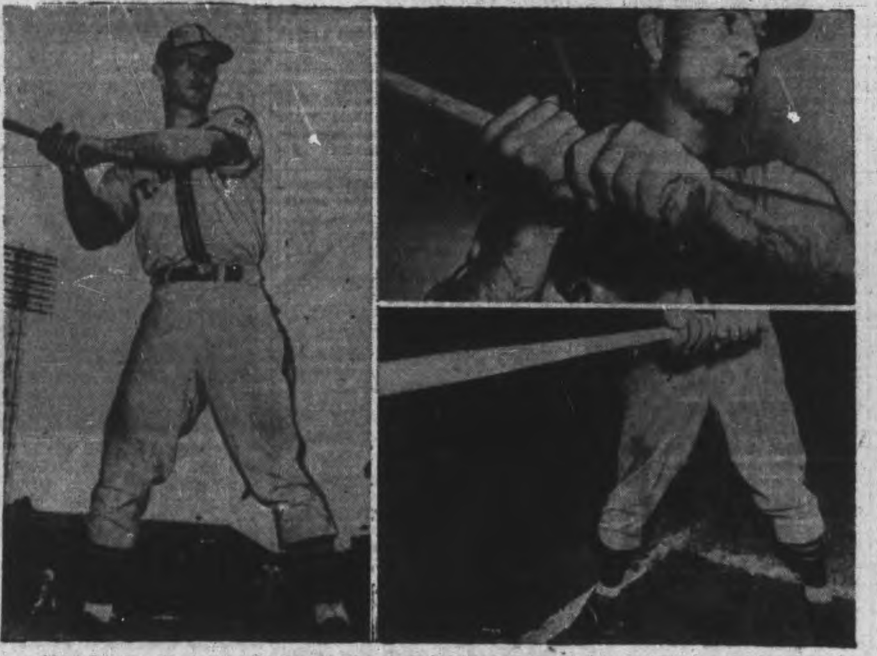
Hit Six Homers In Seven Days



Chet Laabs, 28, husky St. Louis Browns' outfielder, turned in this season's best bit of mass production slugging so far when he connected for a shower of hits, including six home runs, in seven days from July 11 to July 17. Against Philadelphia on the 17th in a doubleheader, he clouted two homers, and for good measure, added a triple, double and a single to account for six runs batted in. "It's probably just one of those things," Laabs says, "when you either smack 'em right or you don't." LEFT, the Browns' bomber gets set to blast the ball; UPPER RIGHT, close-up of Laabs' home run grip; LOWER RIGHT, Chet's new stance at the plate in which he pulls his left foot back a little and faces the pitcher more.

Trick Shottist Kirkwood Due in Toronto

TORONTO, July 23.—Joe Kirkwood, the Australian trick shot artist, who can coax more hops out of a golf ball than a kangaroo on the prowl, will trot out his magic clubs for an exhibition performance during the Canadian Open at Mississauga next month.

Plans call for the popular Kirkwood to give his exhibition Friday afternoon. Now operating out of Abington, Pa., Kirkwood will also participate in the Seagram Gold Cup tournament.

Although he is best known in golfing circles as the fellow that put the elusive golf ball on a vaudeville basis, and fascinated thousands of divot diggers around the world, Aussia Joe is no selling plater in majority competition. He captured the Canadian Open at Royal York in 1933 by eight strokes, one of the most substantial victory margins in the history of the event. He won with a 282, while Harry Cooper and Lex Robson deadlocked for second place with 290.

Picking up first money at Royal York, Kirkwood headed back to the United States, and hasn't been around for the Canadian Open since. He'll be welcomed back.

Koenigsberg Again

MOSCOW, July 23—(AP)—Soviet planes bombed Koenigsberg in East Prussia again last night, the Moscow radio said today.

In a raid ast Saturday ,38 fires were reported set in the city, many of them large and in the centre of the town.

Military and industrial targets in the city and suburbs were attacked in difficult weather, and six large fires and four heavy explosions resulted in last night's raid, the radio added.

Sports Director Gashes Foot At Camp Rally

,LAKEFIELD July 23.—(ENS). —Two mishaps Tuesday somewhat dampened sports activities for the day at Kawartha Christian Camp on Lake Katchewanooka when John Cooper of Brantford got into difficulties in swimming but was discovered in time before going down the third time the second accident seeing the sports director, James Annan of London gash his foot near the dock, necessitating a couple of sitches.

Mr. Annan was taken by car to the village where Dr. Alex Fraser dressed the cut. It will keep the official out of active participation in the camp's activities for several days.

The camp is considerably enlarged this year with the addition of five cabins to the main lodge three cottages and large dormitory with an over-all accommodation for about seventy-five.

Interdenominational in character the Young Peoples Conference has in attendance adherents of the various evangelical churches Pentecostal, Baptist, Christian Missionary Alliance and assemblies of Plymouth Brethren.

The morning chapel period from 11 to 12 is taken by Evangelist G. E. Tatham of Lakefield, and the rest of the day is filled in with swimming, baseball, volleyball, ring tennis, water sports of diving and boating contests. Tournaments are a feature.

In the evening Evangelist Peter Pell of Grand Rapids, Mich. takes charge of the camp fire hour with a stirring message rounded out by singing and instrumental music enhanced as the flickering flames cast eerie shadows among the pines shadowing the lakeshore.

Guests are in attendance from Ottawa, London, Brantford and Toronto and for the evening rallies visitors drop in from the surrounding distict, village of Lakefield, Peterborough and Young's Point.

The Conference opened on July 18 and will continue until Civic Holiday.

DO YOU KNOW YOUR ARMY?

THIRTY-CWT. GENERAL SERVICE LORRY

This is the bigger brother of the 15-cwt. General Service Truck, and like it is used for various purposes in the Canadian Army.

Among other things, the 30-hundredweight Lorry is used in an Infantry Battalion and also by the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps. It is a "General Service" vehicle, which means that there are plenty of jobs it can do.

Havings a wide application of use throughout all formations of the Army, the "Thirty Hundredweight" is a four-wheel-drive vehicle with a ten-foot body and a canvas top.

Combines Shade Etobicoke In 16-13 Battle

TORONTO, July 23. — Mimico-Brampton Combines "blew" a six-goal lead in the third period but still had enough left to come back and trim Etobicoke Indians 16-13 in their battle for the Ontario Lacrosse Association leadership at Mimico last night. The Combines moved into first place over their Etobicoke victims.

The M-B's completed the first half of the contest with an 8-2 advantage in goals. Successive penalties to McLean and Dixon, early in the third, paved the way for a furious assault by the Indians, who rammed in seven straight goals for a 9-8 lead. Etobicoke protected the gol lead, taking an 11-10 margin into the final session.

Duke Harrison made it 12-10 early in the third, but from there in, as both teams settled down to straight lacrosse the Combines outscored the Indians 6-1 to take the verdict.

The last half of the game provided some thrilling lacrosse offensively. There was simply no letdown on the attack, and play ranged from end to end as both sides went all-out on a hungry search for goals.

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP).—Without much doubt the most confused golf tournament in history, the Tam o'Shanter open and amateur, unlimited, proceeded today into its fourth or completely unintelligible stage.

On today's program, as someone explained it, was the first 18 holes of the Tam o'Shanter $15,000 medal play open. Also scheduled were two rounds of match play in the all-American amateur championship, these being the third and fourth rounds of this particular championship. The man who explained this disappeared before his name was obtained, but his version may be taken as fairly authentic.

George S. May, president of Tam o'Shanter Club and the man who thought up all the strange events that have been taking place on his acreage this week, said that was his general understanding of the situation, too. He would not, however, consent to being quoted directly.

Looking back somewhat dazedly upon everything that happened yesterday at Tam o'Shanter, several pictures pop into mind.

Phillips Takes Moreland

For instance, is anybody going to believe that Gus Moreland, who was a very well known amateur a few years ago, finished his "morning" match against John Phillips of Highland, Ind., at 4:17 p.m., and then, after inhaling a sandwich, went out to lose to Lieut. Dick Chapman?

And is it possible that seven professionals went out in virtual darkness to play off for the one qualifying berth remaining open in the $15,000 tournament, each of them having shot an 82 on his regular test?

Today, 136 professionals began battling for $2,500 first money in the 72-hole open championship. The 16 surviving amateurs from yesterday's shambles tied up in two match play rounds, while at the same time competing in the open. All of the amateurs who were eliminated yesterday—48 of 'em—continue to compete in the open, boyoboy!

Must Shape Now World Future Lions Are Told

TORONTO, July 23.—(CP).—Dr. Gustavo Cuervo Rubio, Vice-President of the Republic of Cuba, told the 26th annual convention of Lions International here Wednesday that in this hour there can be no antagonism between military aims and economic conditions, but the United Nations can organize the future of the world while carrying on the war.

"The conciliation of these two phases . . . is the human greatness of the Atlantic Charter and the work of the great President, Roosevelt, tending in America to the materialization of the hemispheric economy," said Dr. Rubio.

The Vice-President of Cuba spoke in Spanish while the large audience followed a text of his speech printed in English.

"Merely talking" hemispheric economy will not help to gain the peace which must be as completely won as the war itself, he said.

"We must consider the common denominator which joins us all and which has been the active factor of our solidarity and our common ideals. History created us organically men of America and gave us the substantial reality of our soil. This harmony unites us today and should prevent separation tomorrow, as it should prevent egoism and isolationism."

Conscription

length in committee and he carried on what appeared at times to be a one-man blockade.

The Senate gave second reading to the Government Land Settlement Bill and referred it to the Senate Banking and Commerce committee. It also heard Senator J. D. de B. Farris (Lib., British Columbia) sharply criticize Time, United States weekly news-magazine for an article in the current issue on the conscription problem in Canada.

Conservative House Leader Hanson delivered a prepared speech when the House, in committee, went to work on Bill 80, bitterly criticizing the Prime Minister's handling of the Canscription issue

Vote Minus Debate.

He spoke particularly on the Prime Minister's announcement last July 7, in closing debate on the second reading of the Bill, that if and when conscription for overseas service is imposed Mr. King will seek a vote of confidence in the House but without debate on conscription being repeated.

Mr. Hanson contended it would be a "flagrant violation of the basic privileges of Parliament" to prevent debate on such a motion and debate could be prevented only on the application of closure.

If that were done "then we shall witness the spectacle of the Leader of the Liberal Party, who has always denounced the principle and the operation of closure, who has always denounced conscription for overseas service, announcing that policy and invoking the rule of closure to throttle debate upon it."

Lt.-Col. J. A. Ross (Con. Souris) asked the Prime Minister about his plans for a vote of confidence. He said it was important because "many people throughout the country, especially in the armed forces, have not very much confidence in the Government as constituted with the present leader; they pin their faith to the ministers of the armed forces."

This brought a storm of disapproving shouts from Government supporters and Mr. King replied:

"Well, it is just because of members like my honorable friend who has just spoken that I have felt it absolutely necessary to have an expression of the confidence of this House before I undertake to put any conscription act into force."

At another point replying to John Diefenbaker (Can. Lake Centre) who asked what scheme the Prime Minister proposed to follow, Mr. King said:

"There is no submission to parliament with regard to conscription.

"Let me make it perfectly clear that . . . there will be no coming back to parliament for a second debate on conscription nor will there be any coming back to get the approval of parliament of the decision made.

By This or Some Other Gov't.

"When the government makes its decision that decision is made and it will be carried either by this government or by some other government.

"It will not have to be approved by parliament first.

"The question of whether or not the ministry headed by myself will enjoy sufficient confidence in the minds of this House of Commons and of the people of this country to administer conscription, once it has been decided that conscription shall be enforced, is a separate matter and it is a matter on which I shall wish an expression of confidence."

Mr. Diefenbacker asked the Prime Minister if it was correct that once the Bill is enacted all men called up will be subject to overseas service.

"That is right after the order-in-council is passed," the Prime Minister replied.

Earlier the Prime Minister had explained that when the government considers it necessary conscription for overseas service will be imposed by an order-in-council which will cover all the forces and all of Canada.

To a suggestion from Rev. T. C. Douglas (C.C.F. Weyburn) that a bill be brought down instead of an order-in-council and that it embody all the regulations under which unlimited conscription will be imposed, Mr. King replied that would open up a complete new debate on conscription and would not be attempted.

Earlier the last of the budget resolutions, those dealing with the income tax, were adopted with important amendments, and Finance Minister Ilsley, his voice hoarse from long argument and explanations, had a brief respite.

Lightening Officers' Tax

One amendment will lighten the income tax on commissioned officers in Canada to ensure that what they have left after paying taxes will not bring their incomes below those of top non-commissioned officers, which was the effect of the budget as originally drafted.

Another, moved by Revenue Minister Gibson, provided that alimony payment should be considered separate income and taxable in the hands of the recipient. The person paying the alimony will not be permitted to treat it as a deduction from income but may deduct from his total tax the amount of tax paid on the alimony by the recipient.

Mr. Ilsley still has to put through six bills based on the budget resolutions, the bills, given first reading last night, will be up for second and third reading today.

For an hour Mr. Hanson berated the Prime Minister and the Government for "procrastination and delay" on the conscription issue and pictured the Prime Minister as "driven from pillar to post" in an effort to preserve Mr. King's position and the position of his party.

The government had followed a "tortuous course" in its handling of conscription.

Mr. Hanson summarized "the progressive positions which the Prime Minister has taken on this whole subject" as follows:

"1. March 30, 1939, Sept. 8, 1939, June 17, 1940—No conscription for overseas under any circumstances so long as his government remained in office.

"2. Nov. 12, 1941—No conscription for overseas without consultation with the people.

"3. Feb. 25, 1942—No conscription for overseas until the voluntary system has failed and it is absolutely necessary to raise more men by other methods—and until Parliament has debated and decided upon its merits.

"4. June 10, 1942—Conscription is not now necessary and may never be necessary but Parliament should decide the issue now and enable the government to act at once, without reference to parliament and without a second debate, if it should become necessary.

"5 July 7, 1942—Not necessarily conscription but conscription if necessary, but if the government should decide it is necessary it will come to parliament for a vote of confidence prior to enforcing it—

"What a spectacle of twisting and turning? What leadership? Never in the whole history of responsible government has the world witnessed such an unholy spectacle." Mr. Hanson exclaimed.

"To-day national unity which he sought to preserve has been proven to be illusory and party unity is shattered. He seeks now to restore it by temporizing once again."

Mr Hanson expressed the fear that the time would come when Canada would be without adequate trained reinforcements for the army overseas.

"I should hate to have history record that in this one vital factor, when the testing time came, Canada failed to send adequate reinforcements," he said.

enemy forces and inflicting heavy losses. In the course of 24 hours in one sector alone a Soviet detachment killed 470 German officers and men."

Field dispatches told of bitter fighting at Tsimlyansk.

Two of the three or four armored vanguards knifing toward the Lower Don, the Volga and the Capsian Sea thus apparently were accounted for.

Other Germans, striking southeastward from Boguchar in a parallel drive, were disclosed earlier to be approaching the border of Stalingrad province, part of which lies within the big bend of the Don.

These were still 130 miles or so from Stalingrad itself, steel and munitions city on the elbow of the Volga, but Von Bock's offensive already had carried more than 250 miles eastward from his Kharkov front bases.

Menacing Land of Plenty

The Germans were deep within the north Caucasian area and menacing the trans-Caucasus, where grows wheat, sugar beets, corn, potatoes, livestock and poultry that help feed Russia's millions and is mined petroleum, manganese, lead, zinc and naptha for the Soviet war machine.

The Germans tried to isolate the trans-Caucasus with heavy operations at Tsimlyansk, which is but 25 miles from the only remaining railway linking that area with the rest of unoccupied Russia.

The steel supply line winds south of the Don between Rostov and Stalingrad, connecting en route with the Rostov-Baky trunk railway at Tikhoretsk. There was no information here as to whether the Germans had crossed the river.

(The Germans declared yesterday that their troops had crossed the Lower Don on a wide front.)

One arm of a pincer movement upon Stalingrad might be aimed northeastward from Tsi Lyansk. Forces also might be diverted southwestward to assist in the attack on Rostov, where the Russians have had almost eight months to rebuild defences.

On the Leningrad front far to the north the Germans were reported to have sacrificed 500 men in vain attempts to recapture a height won by the Red Army recently.

Two air raid alarms sounded yesterday at Kuibyshev, the secondary capital on the Volga more than 500 miles east of Moscow, but both passed without incident.

Fiery, Itching Toes and Feet

Here is a clean, stainless antiseptic oil now dispensed by chemists at trifling cost, that will do more to help you get rid of your trouble than anything you've ever used.

Its action is so powerfully penetrating that the itching is quickly stopped: and in a short time you are rid of that bothersome, fiery eczema. The same is true of Barber's Itch, Salt Rheum, Itching Toes and Feet—others irritating unsightly skin troubles.

You can obtain Moone's Emerald Oil in the original bottle at McDermid & Jury or any modern drug store. It is safe to use—and failure in any of the ailments noted above is rare indeed.—(Advt.)

MAIN STREET TOPICS

BUSINESS AS USUAL

A familiar phrase of peacetime was a notice in the Belleville Intelligencer announcing that the prize list for the Agricultural Exhibition would soon be off the press.

ARE BUYING CHINA

Although the volume does not equal that of other years, several Peterborough merchants report that they have been getting their share of tourist business. "American visitors are still buying a considerable quantity of high-quality English china," was the statement of one business man this morning.

TWO BICYCLES STOLEN

Although bicycle thefts are not as numerous as in the days before the licensing system was in force, machines are still disappearing. A boy's wheel was stolen from the Regent Theatre laneway Wednesday afternoon, and today at noon a woman reported to the police that her machine had been taken from in front of Kresge's store.

BACK TO THE OLD DAYS

The gasoline rationing has hit the lake districts so far as motor boat travel is concerned. Most owners of boats have been able only to get the limited supply of gas allowed for pleasure use, and as a result outboard and inboard boats are not being used nearly as much as usual. "I haven't seen so many canoes and skiffs being used since the old days," a veteran member of the Stoney Lake colony reports.

FLOWERING CRAB.

The next time a nursery salesman comes along don't forget the "flowering crab," the name of the bush-sized tree in the flower bed at King Edward Park that received so much attention from the public a month or so ago. Its abundant bloom is pinkish white. Bert Cooper, parks foreman, said today that these decorative trees were planted eight years ago. They were bought by the late Walter Stocker, as parks committee chairman, and people this season often stopped to admire their floral beauty.

WEATHER NOTE

Orchids for the weatherman in appreciation of perfect summer days and nights that must be pluperfect in the Kawarthas, land of laughing waters.

PERMITS FOUND

A wallet containing a registration card, a car ownership license and a driving permit belonging to an Ennismore man was picked up near the corner of Simcoe and Aylmer streets and awaits an owner at the police station.

NO POLICE COURT

There was no session of the police court this morning. The police department reports a quiet night with no complaints. Evidently Peterborough folk are too busy these days and too tired at night to get into trouble.

QUITE A THRILL.

Members of the Y.M.C.A. Vacation Club under the direction of Miss Lena Dewart, Douglas McPherson and Q. S. McKinney paid a visit to the Examiner and CHEX this afternoon and thoroughly enjoyed satisfying their curiosity as they gazed around in wide-eyed amazement.

A MILKING JOB

When some of the city girls get flustered about a rush of work they ought to remember a farmer's daughter herding home thirty-five cows at the end of the day, and then going on with the milking chore. Of course, she had the big advantage of a milking machine, but even so it sounds like a big undertaking for one girl with some occasional help.

MAY BOOST "ANTE"

The amount of cash to be paid on instalment purchases, you know the "cash down" prerequisite to possession, is likely to be increased to 50 per cent., according to intimations from Ottawa. It is now 33 per cent. Authorities are trying that method of business for the duration of the war. They are also trying to put a crimp in the spending of money on railway travel, but both lines are reporting a high volume of business.

Help Is Supplied 80-Year-Old Farmer

One of the farmers on G. A. Gillespie's list of those who have been asking for help is a North Monaghan man, eighty years old whose years were not equal to the job of taking off the hay crop.

"We sent him a man to cut it yesterday, two are coiling it today, and we hope to get some help to draw it to the barn," Mr. Gillespie said. "That is part of the job and I am not sure just what else has to be done."

19 Young Men Try To Join Up

Recruiting still continues briskly at the Armories, with 19 young men applying for active service, Wednesday. Although the official list has not come back yet, Lieut. G. P. Brook, area recruiting officer, said that he thought most of these young men had passed. Today got off to a good start too, for at ten o'clock in this morning there were nine men waiting to take their turn at registering, and to have their medicals.

A mass meeting will be held in Lindsay on Saturday at 8.30 p.m. in the Town Hall. The meeting has been called in the interests of "Canada's New Army" and will be addressed by His Worship Mayor Charles Lamb, of Lindsay, and the special speaker will be Lieut. G. P. Brook, Area Recruiting Officer of Peterborough, who is a veteran of the last war. He will explain fully the details regarding general recruiting, army rations, army pay and other important items of army life. Men in the army are warmly clothed, well fed, have medical and dental care and receive $40 a month. There are other allowances and trade opportunities available.

It is expected that Sgt. Eileen Biddell, C.W.A.C., of the Military Training Centre, will accompany Lieut. G. P. Brook to Lindsay on the recruiting campaign.

Raspberry Crop Passes Peak Price Is High

The raspberry crop passed its peak yesterday, according to growers who brought the day's harvest in to local stores last night and this morning. Prices are holding steadily at 35 cents a quart, free of ceilings and trade control.

Gardeners say that the berry season will be just about over this week. Some offering may come through next week, but pickings will become lighter from now on.

The raspberry growers have gathered the cream of the prices this season in a range from 25 to 35 cents the quart box, and most of the crop selling locally above the 30 cent mark. One dealer said this morning that the price is about twice the levels of last summer.

Strawberries hit the 40 cent mark in its movements this season, and only a small part of the crop sold under 30 cents. The cherry crop is folding up this week. Orders for delivery here today were only about one-eighth of the quantity required.

Wartime Prices and Trade board did not embrace in its affairs the prices of fruits and vegetables, the seasonal crop at any rate, such as berries, cherries and so on. Presumably potatoes are included for the present in this freedom. Prices of new potatoes have been moving downward under the weight of increasing pressure from above. One of the growers reduced his quotation to $2.25 a bag.

Potato men are reminded of the regulation of the minimum size of their product, nothing under an inch and a half in diameter. Inspectors have been instructed to give the gate to small potatoes, and a producer might have his whole load confiscated. Inspectors excluded them from By Ward market in Ottawa this week.

Incidentally a farmer from the Ottawa district lost 300 dozens of eggs on Saturday. They were taken from him and given to charity for repeated refusal to comply with egg grading regulations.

OBITUARY

ROYDEN HAROLD ROWE.

Friends will mourn the passing of Royden H. Rowe, 383 Mark Street, whose sudden death occurred Wednesday, at the age of 36.

Born in Smith township, son of Mr. Albert Rowe and the late Mrs. Rowe, he has resided in this district all his life, and for the past four years has been an employee of the Quaker Oats Company. He was a staunch member of the Salvation Army.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Viola Beatrice Graham, and four children: Mildred, Barbara, Ruth and Royden, the oldest of whom is eleven; his father, Albert Rowe, and two brothers, Edward of Detroit and Ellwood of Ottawa.

The funeral will take place on Friday at 2 p.m. from the Nesbitt Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte Street. Interment will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

Miners Run Low

EDMONTON, July 23 — (CP). — A shortage of miners for far northern mines especially in the Yellowknife district in the North-West Territories was announced yesterday by Leonard E. Drummond, secretary-manager of the Alberta and North-West Chamber of Mines.

$44,000 Mark Is Passed For War Victims

Another thousand dollar mark has been chalked up in the city and district fund to give aid to those who suffer through air raids over Britain, with today's total standing at $44,003.52.

This splendid contribution on the part of the residents of this community to aid the people of Britain has been raised voluntarily in less than twenty months, making an average well over the $2,000 mark per month, and displays a generosity unparralleled in its history here-to-fore, giving ample proof, not only of their desire to help others in distress, but also of their loyalty to the Empire cause.

To remind all and also to give news of how the fund functions to the many new residents of the city, a review might well be in order at this time, that all may be aware of just how the fund operates on their behalf. Organized in December, 1940, with the prime object of giving aid to the bombed districts of Britain, wherein every cent that was received should be sent to England, it has since maintained that principle, and has so far sent £9,600 to the Lord Mayor of London, and at the present moment a little over $1,000 in the bank towards the next £500, which is the regular amount that is cabled each time, with one special donation of £1,100 being sent for Christmas 1941.

To date, not one business day has passed but money has been deposited in the treasurer's account at the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and all services and expenses have been given as a contribution to the cause, in the name of, and on behalf of the people of this city and district.

Full records are kept of every donation, and official audits held at regular stated periods. Official receipts being given for every donation received, and a duplicate of such kept for the purpose of records and audit. These records will be preserved for all time, and in the days to come, will speak in glowing terms of one of the contributions that this community gave to the war effort.

The actual donation that put the fund above the 44th thousand dollar mark, was the result of a collection made from the box located in the Centre Theatre under the management of S. Goldstone, which produced its largest donation to date in an amount of $11.25.

A personal donation of $5 came in from Mrs. Bruce L. Fowler, and was given in gratitude that her son, 1st Class Stoker Fred Fowler who is now serving on a mine sweeper on the Western Coast should call her last Saturday night from this far distant location to wish her many happy returns of her birthday. What a wealth of memories and affection would be stirred by this act.

Softball on Saturday

This Saturday night at Riverside Park commencing at 6:30, a game of softball is scheduled between the C.G.E. All Stars and the Genelco All Stars, which promises to be a real battle, for each are out to take the other's number, the rivalry between these two plants being at fever heat. Roy Parnell has announced that his teams will include Catchers E. Starr and H. Mowry, Pitchers R. Akers and D. Wilson, Infielders G. Hawkes, E. McNabb, A. Heal, D. Crowe and A. Smith, and Outfielders P. Pryde, J. Stewart and E. Whitehill. The proceeds from this game will come to the fund, being another of those many assists which the employees of these company's have given to help the people of Britain.

Dairies Restricted To 1941 Production

No new peaks will be charted in the graphs of ice cream production at Silverwoods this year, W. E. Weir, manager of the plant, said this morning.

"We are restricted to the quantities we turned out in 1941," he explained. "We have been selling up to the permitted limit this summer, but we just cannot or must not show an increase. The trade probably is not getting all the ice cream they could sell, but the public should think of the other side of this picture. We are showing substantial increases in our make of cheese and also in the production of condensed milk, both of them foods required especially for overseas."

The weather has been favorable to pastures and the supply of fluid milk coming into the city has been maintained at a high level all season.

Two Cars Damaged On The River Road

Cars owned by J. E. Baughan, 643 Aylmer street and Harold Goodell, Lakefield, were damaged in a traffic accident Wednesday night near the Auburn Inn on the River Road.

Goodell had his car parked south of the Inn and was pulling out from the side of the road to go south when the other automobile also travelling south came along and there was a collision.

No one was hurt but the fender and running board of Baughan's car and the front bumper of Goodell's machine were damaged by the impact.

Abandoning Pets On The Highways

Peterborough Humane Society officials have had a number of complaints about folk who in an effort to get rid of unwanted kittens and dogs, have been driving out in the country a few miles and then abandoning their pets. In one instance recently two kittens were left on the highway and the matter was reported to the society.

In another case some one turned a dog loose in a similar manner and the unfortunate animal was a little later struck by an automobile.

Citizens who have pets that they want to get rid of are asked to communicate with the Humane Society, instead of merely making strays of the animals. If necessary the society will see that the kittens and dogs are disposed of in a humane manner.

143 Squadrons Of Air Cadets Are Organized

Peterborough's service clubs are missing a rare opportunity to do a valuable service for the community if one of the organizations does not take advantage of the chance of sponsoring a local squadron of the Air Cadets of Canada.

The Air Cadet movement is spreading rapidly in Canada. There are already 17,000 cadets throughout the Dominion with 4,000 in Ontario alone and altogether there are 143 squadrons of cadets. Kitchener has between 300 and 400 boys enrolled, there are 60 at St. Catharines, 50 at Niagara Falls and 100 at Kingston. The village of Stouffville has a squadron with 50 enthusiastic members, a remarkable showing for such a small centre.

Briefly the Air Cadet League is a voluntary patriotic organization, founded in response to the demand of hundreds of courageous Canadian boys and youths that they be given the opportunity to train immediately with a view to becoming proficient in the science of aviation. Eventually it is expected that most of the cadets will be qualified to take their places as efficient members of the Royal Canadian Air Force. It is estimated that the training received under the cadet movement will cut four months off the regular time of air force training.

Eligible As Cadet

Any son of a British subject in Canada between the ages of 15 and 16 is eligible to become a cadet, with the consent of his parent or guardian. It is also provided that any unit will be allowed at its discretion to enrol boys of between 12 and 15 years as juniors. At present it is necessary that at least 50 boys should be enrolled before a unit is recognized.

The basic training syllabus includes: administration, aero engines, aircraft recognition, airframes, airmanship, armament, drill, first aid, knots and splices, maps and map readings, mathematics, model building, physical training, signals and theory of flight.

The Air Cadet League insists that each unit must be self-supporting and suggests that each local committee should provide the greater part of the cost of uniforms and equipment which runs in the neighborhood of $20 per cadet. The league will endeavor to assist the movement generally through whatever national funds may be available.

Support of Air Force

The movement naturally has the whole-hearted support and co-operation of the Royal Canadian Air Force which will assist in training instructors and in other effective ways. It has been the experience in other centres and the same condition would apply here that a sufficient supply of interested adults can be found locally to serve as officers and instructors. They should of course, possess, or acquire sufficient knowledge of aeronautical subjects and Air Force drill to enable them to handle the various subjects on the training syllabus. All officers must be British subjects of good standing.

It is felt that there are score of Peterborough youngsters, keen as mustard, who would welcome an opportunity to secure the training that is made possible by this Air Cadet League movement. Under the circumstances it seems a pity that so far little progress has been made in a work than in other centres, some of them smaller than Peterborough has been bringing the benefits of this training program to the youth of their communities. Peterborough has supplied a lot of older boys to the Royal Canadian Air Force. The younger lads are just as eager to start their training and the Air Cadet plan seems to be the logical, simplest and most successful method of starting them on their way.

Much has been accomplished in England by the Air Defense Corps movement upon which the Canadian air cadet scheme has been modelled. There is no reason why similar results could not be accomplished in this loyal community.

Copper Banned

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP).—Use of virtually all copper and copper base alloy in building construction was banned to-day by the War Production Board. The order does not affect wire. An exception is made for use of 25 pounds or less to repair a building by replacing previous copper installations.

Peterborough Girl Is Selected Candidate For 'Miss Farmerette'

From a camp of nearly 90 farmerettes at Oakville Ontario, Miss Betty MacBrien, well-known Peterborough Collegiate girl of 305 Frederick Avenue, has been named official candidate to represent the Oakville Farmerette Camp in the "Miss Farmerette 1942" contest to be decided at St. Catharines on Saturday evening, July 25. Miss MacBrien was the head girl at the Collegiate Institute and Vocational Training School last year.

Sixteen other Ontario girls will compete with Miss MacBrien and judging will be based largely on the service being rendered to Canada in helping to harvest food for Victory as well as on personality and appearance.

The winner will be presented publicly during a CBC broadcast originating in St. Catharines and carried over a network of Canadian stations at 8:30 p.m. on Saturday evening. Miss Farmerette will address herself to Princess Elizabeth, and will present her with a gift of fruit which represents some of the work of the Farmerettes. A recording of the broadcast is being made for re-broadcasting over the BBC in England.

Miss Farmerette will also receive the key to the city of St. Catharines from His Worship the Mayor, Charles Daley, according to word released by the Ontario Farm Service Force to-day.

Y's Men's Camp Has 57 Boys

To date 95 boys have put in a gala holiday up at the camp on Clear Lake sponsered by the Y's Men's Club, with this last week hitting a new high for the summer with 57 boys in residence. Through perfect weather the boys, 8 to 16, have had hikes swimming, and canoe trips, and the old-timers declare that the meals are the best they have had in years.

The boys are housed in permanent buildings and have a very full day mapped out for them, which begins at 7:15 and ends at 9:15. The program for the day runs something like this: They have a flag-raising first thing in the morning, and then breakfast. This is followed by crafts and interest groups, and then the morning swim. After dinner there is a rest period, which must be observed, and then the afternoon is devoted to hikes, games and short canoe excursions around the lake.

About four o'clock in the afternoon the boys have another go at the swimming and they are more than ready for their supper afterwards. After the evening meal they play softball and other games and have camp fires, a very popular item. Everone has to hop into bed at 9:15.

For the campfire programs each cabin group is responsible for putting on the program once a week. There are four cabin groups and the all answer to Indian names, the Iroquois, the Mohawks, the Chippawa's, and the Apaches. The boys get the programs up themselves, with the help of their counsellors. The highlights of the Iroquois program was an "Old Black Jo" number with Allan Wright as soloist. The Mohawk group had skits and songs and the outstanding contributions were made in solos by Garth Cane and John Spragge. The Chippawas had a hospital skit and the Apaches gave a one-act play. In these entertainments the performers have as much fun as the audience.

Overnight Trips.

Two of the special features of the camp so far have been three overnight canoe trips up through Stoney Lake and Eel's Creek, and an aquatic meet which was held last Saturday afternoon with the camp divided into senior and junior groups. Each group had two divisions, so that there were four teams competing against each other.

The first Sunday they were at camp the boys attended St. Peter's-on-the-Rock Anglican Church and on July 13 the service was held in the camp chapel and this particular service featured world brotherhood. Those officiating at the service were J. M. Singleton, Quirt McKinney, and Pte. V. R. Abrahams, the latter singing "My Task."

The staff operating the camp are: J. M. Singleton, director Albert Hope, assistant director, Mrs. J. M. Singleton, camp hostess. Counsellors are: Jack Dinsdale, Jim Shields, Ronald Bissett John Wolfe, Bill Piler, and Earl Glover. The last two took part for the first three weeks, but have left now. The counsellors-in-training are: Robert Bissett, Henry Holding and Stan MacNeilly. Mrs. Gesse is the cook, and an all-round favorite.

$100 For Cruelty

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., July 23. — (AP).—Mrs. Nina Dinwiddie, 28, was fined $100 and sentenced to six months in jail on conviction yesterday of tying her six year old daughter to a tree and fastening the child's mouth with tape. The father, C. B. Dinwiddie, testified he released the child when he returned from work. Witnesses testified Mrs. Dinwiddie sometimes tied the girl to a tree near their tent house while she went shopping.

The next meeting, Wednesday, July 29, will be held at the home of Mrs. C. T. Alexander, 686 Park Street. An invitation is extended to other women in the area to attend.

LAKEFIELD

Ex-Smith Reeve Henry Coons Fractures Leg

LAKEFIELD, July 23 —(ENS)— Evidence that a jinx of some sort seems to be riding with the family, Henry Coons, 68, former reeve of Smith Township fell off a scaffold this morning and fractured his right leg.

Mr. Coons was putting imitation brick siding on the home of Norman Crapp in the village in company with Ernest Turk when in some manner the timbers of the scaffold shifted, hurling the two men about 10 feet to the ground. Mr. Turk escaped with a bad shaking up but Mr. Coons' leg was caught and broken in the tangle of scaffolding.

Dr. Alex Fraser was called and the injured man taken to Nicholls Hospital where the limb was set.

Less than a fortnight ago his son Norman Coons had his pelvis fractured when he slipped and was run over by a gravel truck while working for the Johnson Construction Company north of Apsley. He will spend some fourteen weeks in hospital before being able to resume his job.

This morning another son of the family, Clarence, manager of the Glynwood Dairy Farm at Lakefield received his call to the army.

Motion Pictures Of Families Of Men Overseas

Mayor Hamilton has been notified that motion pictures of Peterborough for distribution among the Canadian forces overseas will be taken on Friday, July 31. Alderman Glover, as one of those directing the local arrangements, is beginning to plan the staging of the event assembling the principals, and other details.

The shots should include some typical scenes of the city, places and persons that would immediately carry recognition.

"We shouldn't leave out Frank Roszel selling tickets for Kiwanis car and carnival," Alderman Glover remarked.

However, that is only part of the background. These motion pictures are intended to bring together as many as possible of the families of men overseas, men who have been absent from home a year or two, Alderman Glover said that arrangements might be made to stage this picturization in one of the central downtown blocks.

Details of the planning will be announced later, but it is hoped that the relatives of men overseas will learn that this filming is mainly for them, and their co-operation will be a grateful help to the local committee and the camera man.

Ex-Alderman Fred Roy's advice will likely be sought and the committee will be glad to get any suggestions that might be useful.

B.C. Farm Revenue Up

VICTORIA, July 23 — (CP). — British Columbia's agricultural revenue last year is now estimated at $58,577,539, compared with $52,317,131 for 1940, statistics released yesterday by Minister of Agriculture MacDonald showed. This is the highest agricultural revenue in the province since 1929.

Signal Corps Is Nerve Centre Of The Armored Unit

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

AN EASTERN CANADA ARMY CAMP, July 23—(CP). — An armored division requires what amounts to a good sized telephone company mounted on wheels in order to operate in the field and to maintain order and cohesion.

The company for the division is known as divisional signals and Lt.-Col. H. N. Ovens of London, Ont., heads the signals for an armored division training here.

Because of the area covered by a mechanized division in action, the speed at which it moves, the need for quick transmission of orders and information the signal corps has a bigger job in an armored division than in an infantry division. Its strength is as large as any other unit, larger than that of an armored regiment.

Its equipment includes more than 500 wireless sets and its personnel more than 100 instrument mechanics and more than 50 electricians. All personnel need intensive trade training in addition to general army training.

They use motorcycles for dispatch riding and regimental duties blitz buggies, lorries and automatic cable layers. Land lines as well as wireless are used for both telegraph and telephone communications.

Col. Ovens said his unit had to start from scratch and learn its job first for an infantry division and then expand and learn more for an armored division. In the meantime it had to provide the whole division in training with a communication service.

"The result is we have a regimental school on top of the administration of a signals unit in operation," he said.

The qualified men in the unit have to carry on the job and at the same time train new men to help them.

Watch At Posts In Two Minutes

Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE WEST COAST PATROL AT SEA, July 22.—(CP).—Bells jangle deep in the bowels of a grey patrol vessel plunging northward through the white-capped Pacific off Canada's west coast.

The little ship's throbbing engine quickens its beat. Below decks fore and aft men tumble from bunks and scramble up companionway ladders to their "action stations." The coxswain reports to the skipper: "All hands at stations in under two minutes, sir."

It's only a practice drill, but it's one of the things that breaks the monotony aboard ships of the fishermen's reserve of the Royal Canadian Navy on their long patrols up the west coast. And there isn't a hand aboard who won't tell you he believes that some day it will be the real thing.

The patrol vessel is the "06," a small sturdy little ship, skippered by a man who in the lingo of the navy "came up through the hawsepipe"—meaning he served his time on deck.

Her crew are young and eager, former fishermen mostly, who do their six-hour watches and spend the rest of the day sandpapering, scraping, painting and keeping everything ship-shape, or perhaps doing their washing.

The skipper is H. P. Nightingale of Port Alberni, B.C., who has sailed the west coast since 1919. He knows every bay and inlet along the Pacific where to him three-foot waves are nothing more than a flat calm.

Peterborough Rural Schools

Pioneers of Sections Four, Five and Seven, Obtained Gifts of Land and Erected the Buildings by Working in "Bees."

S. S. NO. 4, CHANDOS.

Land for the original school in Section Four, Chandos, built in 1881 or 1882, was contributed by Henry Foster, and the hewn logs were a gift from Henry Foster Austin Wease, and other settlers. Working "bees" completed the building without any cost to the collective ratepayers. Some of the children had to walk four miles.

Some of the earliest settlers were Robert Steen, A. Wilson, A. Wease, Mr. Bass, Mr. Snelgrove, Mr. Ratcliffe, Mr. Foster, Mr. Bullied and Mr. Hubble. The school was open only during six summer months. The first trustees were: Mr. Foster, Mr. Wease and Mr. Ratcliffe or Mr. Snelgrove. They provided handmade seats and equipment of which the teacher's desk and chair are still in existence in the present school. J. Coyle Brown, the first inspector, travelled by horse and buggy and sometimes on foot.

The present school was erected in 1910 on land provided by H. Woodbeck for a nominal sum. In 1919, when A. Whitmore was secretary-treasurer, his home was destroyed by fire with the loss of the school records and a sum of money belonging to the board. Music was introduced in 1936 by Mrs. George Kilborn of Apsley. The school was built by A. McColl for $500 and the land cost $8.00. Teachers have been Mr. Weir Miss Young, Miss Nichol, Mr. Burn, Mr. Ferguson, Miss Hales, Miss Carr, Miss Spear, Miss Seaborne, Mr. Ames, and Mr. Reynolds. Some of the former pupils who have enlisted for service in the war are Ross Bullied Cecil Bullied, C. Bullied, James Reynolds, Gerald Johnston.

Trustees for 1941 were: E. Davis, Thomas Mindle, Arthur McColl and Bernard Steen, secretary-treasurer. The children of the school have been selling War Savings Stamps and Certificates and making articles for British War Victims and for airmen.

S. S. NO. 5, CHANDOS.

About the year 1870 pioneers of this section of Chandos bought a piece of ground from Isaac Hoard as a school site. They included James Woodbeck, Joseph, Charles, and Huff Hawley, Aaron Poste, Henry Prouty, Peter Russaw and Fred Wheeler. Among the first teachers at this primitive log school were Wilson Anderson, Robert Bell, Maud Clarke, Miss Graeme, Miss Keating, Miss Moffat, Miss E. Bates, Miss Littledale, and others.

A new location was bought in 1908 from Elem Brooks, across the road from the old lot. This building was constructed by Alexander McCall and his sons George and John. The first teacher at this school was Mr. A. Gallant. Some of those who followed were: M. L. Bullied Miss M. Bailey, W. Hill, Mrs. F. Nicholls, William Jones, P. Alcombrack, and R. Matthews.

J. Coyle Brown made his last visit as inspector on May 14, 1906. Richard Lees succeeded him until 1930, when L. W. Copp was appointed. Hot lunches were begun by Miss L. Soul some ten years ago and an organ was bought in 1939 from the English parsonage at Apsley.

S. S. NO. 7, CHANDOS.

The first school in this section was erected between 1885 and 1890. It was a log building constructed by the men of the section working in "bees." The seats were benches about eight feet long at which four or five children sat side by side. Their desks were slanting boards, with a four-inch horizontal strip on top on which they placed water bottles, slate cloths, etc., and there was a narrow board at the bottom to prevent slates and pencils from falling on the floor.

At the beginning of this century some of the families moved to Northern Ontario, and those remaining decided to build another school more accessible to their children, and also in more open country where mosquitoes were not so numerous. In 1910 the board bought an acre of ground and a road.

Teachers since 1898 were: Bertha Thompson Annie Beatty, Hattie Eastland, Stella Snelgrove, Julia Hales, Mattie Bullied, Rossie McCauley, Josie Young Emma Clegg, Gertie Gunther Annie Bullied, Zella C. Hales, Mary Anne Hales, Mrs. Wilkinson, Roy Brown, and Mrs. Graham.

Rena Fennell, Lillian Leveridge, Ruth McCaw Lila Wilson, Marion Carey, Myrtle Davidson, Hazel Mason, Miss Elliott, Lillian Moore, Emma Wagg, Francis Gillespie, Elsa Wagar, Betty Cole, Daisy Mullen, Helen Savigny, Gordon Northey, Muriel Thomson.

Young Canadian Naval Officers And Sailors Man Sea Hornets Which Engage German Shipping In Enemy Waters

LIEUT J. D. MAITLAND, R.C.N.V.R., ON BRIDGE OF HIS SEA HORNET.

Wartime needs for security have prevented much being written about the deeds of young Canadian officers serving with the Royal Navy in British waters. In motor torpedo boats and gunboats they put out from their bases "to seek out and engage the enemy." German E-boats, mine-sweepers, destroyers, and even a cruiser and two battleships have been engaged by "sea-hornets" in which Canadian officers are serving. Following is a description of the work of these officers, showing their instant readiness to fight....and how they fight.

By LIEUT. E. H. BARTLETT, R.C.N.V.R.

There's a slip of flimsy paper which an officer in the Canadian Navy prizes very highly.

It is a Special Order of the Day, issued by a vice-admiral Royal Navy, throughout his command.

Briefly the special order recounts a spirited action between a unit of mosquito-craft led by the Canadian officer and an armed German trawler. The story is best told by excerpts from the order.

"On encountering an armed trawler which gave an incorrect challenge off the enemy coast, the unit under the command of Lieut. Maitland immediately delivered a deadly and sustained attack, finally effecting the complete destruction of the enemy vessel," it commences.

"Despite damage to his own craft shortly after the action began, Lt. Maitland, pursued his course until his object was achieved."

Courage Under Fire.

Two other officers of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, and an able seaman of the Royal Navy are also named; the first for "ably assisting in the action" and the seaman because, when Lieut. Maitland's craft was damaged, he effected "temporary repairs under adverse conditions," showing considerable seamanship and courage."

The Special Order of the Day devotes 37 words to telling of the seamans exploit: "With a heavy sea running he was lowered over the bows in a bowline and held in under the flair, a position which necessitated working a great deal of the time in water and under extreme difficulty." A most satisfactory no doubt, for those to whom the Order of the Day was sent, but rather unsatisfyingly technical for those unconversant with ships.

The Order of the Day, however, was not written to provide a thrill, but to "commend to all in the command the courage of the officers and men of this unit and particularly those mentioned above.' Which is why Lieut. J. D. Maitland of Vancouver whose name heads those "above," prizes this piece of paper so highly.

He could, of course, tell the whole story....but for the inhibitions which seem to come naturally to men of the Silent Service. His description of what happened is almost as bald as the official report.

"We ran into this trawler. She got in our way. We went right in and gave her the works."

His unit opened fire "with everything we had." The enemy replied and a shell struck home on Maitland's ship. It did not stop her from "going in damn close" and dropping a depth charge beside the trawler.

"Things were moving pretty fast," the story continued, "and I'm afraid I cannot give you many details.

"She Was a Goner. That's All."

'By this time the trawler was stopped with steam coming out of her all over, so we buzzed around to her other side, slowed down, and dropped another depth charge. I'll swear my No. 1 (second in command) dropped it right under her. That really kicked hell out of her, and she was a goner. That's about all, really."

On the question of the English seaman who had effected the temporary repairs 'under adverse conditions," the Canadian officer was more eloquent.

"He really did a grand job," runs his story. "These boats have a bow which curves in sharply from the deck, and we were holed on the water-line. We had to pass a line right under the keel so that we could haul this fellow into the side after we had lowered him from the bow. It meant he was in water all the time he was working, and under water quite a lot when waves broke over him. He was there a long time, too, and was he cold. Boy he took a beating, but he certainly did his job."

The Canadian officers like the English bases, too.

"When we come in from a patrol everything is looked after for us," is the report. "As soon as we are alongside there are people standing by to look after our boats, check the guns and engines and things like that and make them ready for immediate service again. And they always have bacon and eggs waiting for us; that means something, you know." (Eggs are at a premium in wartime England.)

"The patrols aren't too comfortable, even if there's nothing doing. We're closed up for action all the time, and its quite a strain. Our food is cocked up for us ashore and taken out in thermos flasks, but meals don't count for much afloat. That's why the bacon and eggs go down so well."

Wanted and Unwanted

Running into a trawler is but one instance of the hoped-for unexpected action. Running over the top of an acoustic mine is an example of the unwanted.

This happened to one Canadian, but he escaped to "get back into the war again."

Being towed home is another of the unwanted parts of the job.

"We were out in company," is the story of Lieut. J. A. McCutcheon, of Vancouver. "We were quite close to their shore when we had to tow home one of our fellows whose engines had broken down. We just picked the ruddy thing up and set out for home. It seemed a long, long way, let me tell you."

Lieut. McCutcheon is another who feels that nothing exciting ever happens to him. A couple of encounters with E-boats, in which they fled; a brush or so with enemy aircraft. "Just the run-of-the-mill stuff which goes with the job."

"The job," means much to these officers, who have come from varied peace-time occupations to fight at sea.

Artist Goes To War

There is an artist well known in Canada, despite his lack of years, who is making a different sort of name for himself as captain of one of the hornet craft. He has been in seven actions, one of which saw him with a flotilla of small craft darting in to attack the German battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst, with their attendant cruiser and escort craft. It was a David and Goliath affair, but Goliath did not enjoy it.

Lieut. Anthony Law, formerly of Quebec, does not talk about what happened except that "we saw them taking avoiding action, and we hope one of more of our fish (torpedo) got home." His description of other actions is equally diffident. One with E-boats and an anti-aircraft ship, for instance, was "purely a flap." ("Flap" being interpreted as an exciting incident.) Action has taken him under the fire of shore guns at Dunkirk and under the fire of heavy escorts bringing German ships down the enemy coast. But . . . . . nothing exciting.

"Lucky" For Action

Unwilling to see anything special in their own exploits, these Canadian officers are quick to see the "excitement" which their confreres have "the luck" to experience. They talk of Lieut. Tom Fuller, of Ottawa, who "once engaged a destroyer and another time took on three E-boats and held a squadron of Messerschmidts at the same time." Or, of Lieut. "Chuck" Bonnell, who got two 'fish' into a large German merchant ship trying to sneak down the coast, although she was just surrounded by escorts.

They think it "lucky" to get the action for which they are seeking all the time. And, they say, they wouldn't swap "jobs" with anyone.

Hint John Dill To Join 2nd Front Talk

LONDON, July 23—(AP).—Speculation of the opening of a second European front against Hitler was sharpened to-day by reports that Sir John Dill, Britain's chief military representative in the United States, is returning soon, presumably to join discussions among Prime Minister Churchill and high leaders of the British and American armed services.

Sir John's job is one of liaison between the British and United States general staff, a fact which unofficial British quarters seized upon to link him with second-front speculation.

In the midst of the feverish undercurrent of military and political activity in London the London press suddenly soft-pedalled its heretofore persistent talk of an Allied invasion of the continent.

Editorial pages of morning newspapers were devoid of comment. The Daily Express disposed of Mr. Churchill's talks yesterday in three paragraph on page one.

But public clamor was given a boost by a resolution adopted at the annual conference of the Mine Workers Federation at Blackpool calling for an immediate second front "as the only means whereby Britain may be saved from the dangers of invasion and the Nazi war machine decisively beaten." The Federation represents a membership of approximately 600,000 in all mining areas of Britain.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, pointedly called attention to the reported withdrawal of eight Nazi divisions from France and the low countries to the Russian front.

"Troop trains are leaving for the eastern front daily," it added.

From Australia the Sydney Telegraph reported 71 per cent. of Australians questioned want an immediate diversion in the west to relieve the hard-put Red armies.

Propose World Help Pay War Debt Load

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, July 23 — (CP Cable). —Viscount Simon Lord Chancellor, told the House of Lords yesterday that he has heard "no whisper of any intention" on the part of Great Britain to return to the gold standard after the war.

In answer to a question he said, "Our return to the gold standard after the last war was not a very happy one."

Attempts to transfer huge sums from one country to another as a result of war, he said, inflict harm equally on payer and payee.

"I can say with the Government's authority," Lord Simon said, "that it is the determination of the Government that these tragic errors shall not be repeated."

Lord Strabolgi, Labor peer, suggested the establishment of a post-war international aviation corporation, owned and managed by the victors.

The real wealth of Britain, Lord Strabolgi told the House of Lords, will be great in the post-war period if there is not a serious invasion by the enemy or a scorched earth policy. The only current fear of wrokers and soldiers, he added is that they will have to return to pre-war conditions of alternating periods of booms and slumps.

He added: "We are carrying the lion's share of the cost in this fight for life."

He spoke after Lord Perry advocated some form of international taxation so posterity will not be bequeathed "this enormous debt we are incurring."

All Must Help.

Lord Perry said, "Peace is worth buying. We will pay the price for it and will share it with the world, but it is only common sense and justice that the world should help pay that price....

"If this could be accomplished and the cost of the war or a portion of it be reimbursed to the victorious Powers and not to the vanquished powers, any debt service collected by international taxation would have to be paid by the vanquished as well as by other international participants.

"We shall then succeed in collecting from the defeated powers such reparations as they can pay and as we are prepared to accept because it will be a tax on international transactions in which they may not indulge except to our mutual advantage."

Viscount Bennett, former Prime Minister of Canada, joined the discussion and said that allowing for the national debt at the end of the war being approximately £20,000,000,000,000 ($89,000,000,000,000) the fixed charge on it for services might reach £500,000,000.

"There has been a hint that we might repudiate our debt at the end of the war, which is wholly unwarranted," Lord Bennett said.

"Less than eight per cent of our national income would be necessary to pay the interest on it and it is not fair or right to suggest that there is any likelihood of this country repudiating its interest on its debt."

Curb Wholesale Deliveries Aug. 3

OTTAWA, July 23.—(CP).— Restrictions on wholesale deliveries in line with regulations already imposed on retailers were announced yesterday by James Stewart, service administrator for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The new order is effective Aug. 3 and prohibits delivery of individual wholesale orders totalling less than $3. Provisions of the order apply to deliveries by horse-drawn and automotive vehicles but not to deliveries made by messengers on foot or on bicycles.

Deliveries of any but perishable goods are limited by the order to three regular deliveries a week on alternate days 'over any particular route or in any specific area.' Perishables defined as cut flowers and plants bread and bakery products milk and cream, fresh and frozen fish, fresh fruits and vegetables may also have one regular delivery on any week day other than the three days on which regular deliveries of all goods are permitted.

Wholesalers delivering in or to large cities are requied to prepare delivery plans and file them with Mr. Stewart

"The intention is that wholesalers handling similar classes of goods will make deliveries in the same areas on the same days so that the number of days on which a retailer may receive deliveries of such goods will be the same whether he deals with one or more wholesalers," Mr. Stewart said. "The order further provides that a retailer may not use his own vehicles to pick up goods from a wholesaler except on a day on which a wholesale might lawfully make delivery of goods to the retailer."

Deliveries of builders' supplies, raw materials, semi-finished goods and machinery or parts to a contractor, manufacturer, processor or farmer are exempt from the order, as are deliveries to railways, express companies, steamships, air lines and freight forwarders generally; deliveries to hospitals, the National Defence Department, Munitions and Supply Department, and to naval, military or air force camps and barracks.

Oil companies, automobile parts wholesalers, and daily newspapers are also exempt since they are already co-operating with the administrator to work out plans expected to result in even greater savings of motorized equipment.

Starting August 3, no wholesalers shall use any automotive vehicle for delivering any goods for which a firm order has not been received. An exemption is provided for deliveries of bread, bakery products, milk, dairy products and ice or fuel made from an established distributing centre, for deliveries of farm, forest or fisheries products to a manufacturer, processor, jobber, broker or another wholesaler or to a public market, and of deliveries by a farmer or gardener of his farm or garden products, or by a fisherman of his catch. With there exceptions, the wholesaler may not "sell from his truck."

Selection of Mate Before Tastes Are Formed May Result in Unhappy Marriage.

✧ ✧ ✧

Dear Miss Dix: I have been going steady with a boy for a year. We are both 16. I am very fond of this boy, but I do not want to go steady with any boy. I want to have dates with other boys, but my friend is so jealous that if I do he will join the Merchant Marines because he cannot stand to see me go with another boy. What do you suggest I do?

PUZZLED GIRL.

ANSWER: Go around with all the nice boys you can. Look 'em all over. It is simply suicidal for a girl at your age to limit yourself to one lad and get branded as John's girl or Joe's girl.

And if your boy friend joins the Merchant Marines, as he threatens to do, it will be a great thing for him. That is a fine profession for a boy to follow, for if he has any ambition and energy he can work up to being an officer and fill a position that commands respect. It will give him a chance to see foreign places, meet many different people, and get acquainted with many different types of girls, and when the time comes for him to make a choice he will know whether you are the one he prefers above all others.

I do not think that there is any custom that is so pernicious as that of mere boys and girls paring off and going with no one else. It keeps them from ever getting acquainted with other boys and girls, and perhaps finding someone who is much more congenial to them than the one they got tied up with when they were too immature to know what they wanted in a companion.

For youngsters' minds grow and develop just as their bodies do, and the boy and girl who may have suited each other when they were 12 years old may be completely misfits when they are 20. Many a boy never finds out how entertaining and charming girls can be because he has never gone with anybody but dull Sue, and many a girl thinks all boys are boorish and stupid because she has never been associated with anybody but selfish, overbearing Sam.

Half of the unhappy marriages in the world are the result of grown men and women marrying the "steadies" they picked out before their tastes were formed.

No girl can do a sillier thing than to go "steady" with a boy until they are engaged because at any time he chooses he can walk off and leave her when he sees some other girl he likes better. And he leaves her flat because she has been out of circulation so long that she finds it very hard to get into the going again.

✧ ✧ ✧

His Country Comes First

Dear Miss Dix: My sweetheart and I have been engaged for several years, but after talking it over carefully and thoughtfully we have come to the conclusion that it is best to put off our marriage until after the war. This is not because of any possibility that we will cease to care for each other while we are parted, but because we want to be able to go forward with all of our plans without any hitch when we are married.

We never worry a bit about whether or not I will return safely, because if it is God's will it will be so, and if not, who are we to doubt His wisdom? Fighting for freedom is as noble a way to invest one's life as any, and if that is the price, I am willing to pay it.

When we consider our fellow soldiers at Bataan and Pearl Harbor, it seems no more than right that we should avenge their murder, or share their fate. The trail to victory may be long and hard, but we can't afford to lose, and the joy that will come with peace will overshadow the hardships of the present time.

We should not complain about shortages of non-essentials when we think of the starving millions in Europe.

PRIVATE X.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Thank you, Private X, for your fine and noble letter. I am sure you speak for hundreds of thousands of your comrades who have put aside their personal hopes and desires, even their love, in order to do their country's business first. We cannot fail of victory when our men have such high ideals and a morale like yours.

✧ ✧ ✧

Contentment

Dear Miss Dix: This is a letter from a very happy old lady, and when I say happy, I mean happy. My husband and I have celebrated our fiftieth wedding anniversary. We have reared six very wonderful children, all married and all happy. Poor, as the world calls poor, but hard-working, contented, God-loving people.

By our address you see we are both in the Methodist Home and we find it a lovely place to live. Everyone is so kind to us and everything so comfortable. We find not only contentment of body but of mind and heart here, and in this place of rest I have grown younger. I cannot understand why more old people do not do as we did and enter Old People's Homes when it becomes an impossible struggle to keep up places of their own.

I still keep up my outside interests. Go to my clubs. Visit my children and friends and live a busy, happy life. God surely has blessed us.

MRS. E. R.

ANSWER: I expect, dear Mrs. E. R., that you would be happy anywhere because happiness comes from within and is a thing of the spirit more than of environment, and you evidently have a sweet and cheerful nature.

And God has been good in giving you that, for there are so many old people who have every comfort and luxury to make them happy, but who are miserable and make everyone about them miserable by their bitterness and complaints and their rebelling at the limitations that age puts upon us all.

I am glad to publish what you say about finding such a pleasant refuge in an Old People's Home because, it seems to me, that that is so often the solution of the problem of what old people should do when they find themselves unhappy in their children's homes, or realize that they are a disturbing factor in their in-laws' houses.

Many old people cannot adapt themselves to young people's ways and are always quarreling with their grandchildren. Many others are lonely when their sons and daughters are busy at their work all day and have many social engagements for the evening. All of these would find companionship among people of their own age is an Old People's Home, and be much happier than they would be elsewhere.

BUNDLES FOR SHOPPERS

Large enough to hold small parcels as well as wartime knitting, the Bundles for America button-up bag uses only non-priority materials... navy rayon and cotton fabric, wood ruler (to measure knitting) frame... to help us with our shopping problem.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

MERCHANTS all over the country have been pleading with us to carry small bundles back home from shopping tours, relieving them of delivery problems. The pleading is over now, however; deliveries just ain't any more, except where they are still engaged in reaching the vanishing point.

A big handbag with a capacity which can be extended to the bulging point therefore becomes a practical necessity. A model made of solid fabric is a good choice, for little packages can be lost through the meshes of fishnet sacks which are apter accessories for your kitchen shopping department.

Wife Of Price Board Head Busy Running Canteens

All across Canada women are anxious to do their bit. In Ottawa, Mrs. Donald Gordon, wife of the chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, gives a fine example of what can be done through voluntary effort. She is young, dark-haired, efficient as well as charming and does a full-time job running two canteens for war workers.

Maisie Gordon could be called a dynamo in skirts. She seems to have endless energy and much natural business acumen. Up betimes every day, she has breakfast with her two little boys, and goes straight out to the temporary war buildings at the Experimental Farm, where the two canteens are situated. There she studies food costs, directs the workers, takes a hand in cooking, plans the meanus and does the bookkeeping for the canteen which is run in aid of the Women's Auxiliary, Naval Headquarters, and is known as the "Eight Bells" and for the newer canteen where money is raised for the Red Cross.

MRS. DONALD GORDON

The "Eight Bells" was opened in April, 1941, and it serves 1,000 people a day. The government supplied the room and equipment cost $3,627. In the first six weeks $614.65 net profit was made and within the year, the equipment was paid for and $4,900 was turned over to the Naval Auxiliary.

With this record it is easy to see why every day is a working day for Mrs. Gordon. She goes to the canteens six days a week and during the week-end spends hours in her own kitchen preparing canteen supplies.

Five-year-old Mickey, accustomed to both his parents' whirlwind war work, was quite nonplussed one day when his mother stayed at home.

"Aren't you going to the Red Cross today, Mummy?" he asked. "Have they killed Hitler?"

His mother certainly wishes 'they' had, for dynamo though she appears to be, she does get tired and says that she and her husband have neither the time nor the energy nowadays to go to parties Night life is pretty well "out for the Gordons for the duration.

However "Maisie"—for that is what thousands of Ottawans call her—does feel that her job is useful and is full of appreciation of the volunteers and of the loyal service given the canteens by the few paid employees, who work with her.

There are hundreds of clerks employed in war departments in Ottawa who live on small salaries and work in temporary office buildings situated far from restaurants It was partly in the hope of seeing that these young workers got at least one good nutritious meal a day that the canteens were opened. Of course their clientele also includes air force officers and senior office workers so that menus are planned accordingly and meals served from 25 cents to 40 cents.

The salad table at the "Eight Bells" with its crisp lettuce, jellied salads, tomatoes and hard-boiled eggs is enough to turn many a customer's thoughts away from a meal over-heavy with carbodydrates and make her vitamin and mineral conscious. They sell at from 15 to 20 cents.

The clerks who bring their own lunch are encouraged to eat it in the canteen and every day Mrs. Gordon—who looks a contemporary of many of the young people she serves—can be heard saying, "Now, do have some of this soap today. It would be so good for you." And plenty of them have it, or a glass of milk or a hot drink to go with the sandwiches they've brought with them.

"Oh yes," says Mrs. Gordon, "I think the job is worthwhile, but sometimes I feel that when the war ends I'm going to walk out of the canteens without even picking up the ods and ends and htat I'm never going to work again."

For SURE RESULTS in JAM and JELLY MAKING

USE CERTO

You'll Get Up To Two-Thirds More Jam or Jelly From the Same Amount of Fruit

CERTO Saves You Time and Work—No Fuss or Failures

QUICK, EASY—For making jam with Certo you give only a one-minute to two-minute full, rolling boil—for jelly only a half-minute to a minute.

ECONOMICAL—So little juice has time to boil away that you get up to two-thirds more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit.

BETTER TASTE AND COLOR—The boil is so short it does not affect the natural taste or color of the fresh fruit.

SPLENDID RESULTS—Follow exactly the recipes you get with Certo and you'll always have good results.

CERTO is Pectin Extracted from Fruit

When pectin is used in making jam or jelly, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board Order No. 150 allows you to use sugar not in excess of one and one-quarter pounds of sugar for each pound of fruit. On the basis that "fruit" means "unprepared" fruit, this allows you to make your jams and jellies the Certo way which gives you approximately two-thirds more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit.

Trousseau Tea

Mrs. F. W. Dobney, 281 Mary street, Oshawa, entertained at a trousseau tea, July 21, in honor of Miss Reba Preston, whose marriage to Mr. Claude Halleran of Oshawa, son of Mrs. J. C. Halleran, takes place July 27.

The guests were received by the groom-to-be's mother and the bride-to-be. Mrs. Dobney met guests in the living room.

The tea table was decorated with petunias and baby's breath and pink candles in cut-glass holders. Miss Eva Preston, cousin of the bride-to-be, Mrs. A. F. Hind, and Mrs. Wright presided over the tea table, assisted by Mrs. J. Hentig, Mrs. B. Mutton, Miss Helen Burns, Miss Gwen Ballantyne, Miss B. Langmaid, and Mrs. G. Lofthouse.

Assisting in trousseau rooms were Mrs. C. Smith, Mrs. M. Moncrief, sisters of the bride-to-be, and Mrs. Ivan Mackie.

Miss Preston had also been entertained at a personal shower by Mrs. T. Hodgkinson and by the Oshawa Yacht Club.

A miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Robson, Mrs. Huff and Miss Ballantyne to Miss Preston and Miss Helen Burns, a bride-elect of August.

Miss Preston and Miss Burns are both on staff of the Excelsior Assurance Company of Oshawa.

Donald Ross Wed At Orillia To Evelyn Ingalls

St. James' Cathedral, Orillia, adorned with sweet-peas and delphiniums, was the scene on Friday, July 17, of the solemnization by Archdeacon A. G. Emmett of the marriage of Evelyn Muriel Ingalls of Orillia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Ingalls of Cowansville, Quebec to Tpr. Donald Edwin Ross, Camp Borden, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Ross, 675 George street, Peterborough. Mrs. Roberts played the wedding music, and during the signing of the register Glen Coates sang "Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was becomingly dressed in a floor-length gown of white brocaded sheer with long torso and the skirt falling into a short train. Her white tulle veil was caught with roses at each side of her head and she carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses.

The bride was attended by Mrs. W. H. Cairns as matron of honor. She wore a frock of pink silk jersey fashioned on the same lines as the bride's, with fresh flowers in her hair, and carried a bouquet of sweet-peas and Johanna Hill roses. Mr. Wallace Card attended the groom.

"The Grey House," Atherley, was the scene of the reception after the ceremony. The bride's mother received the guests wearing a gown of beige crepe with a matching straw hat and corsage of roses. The groom's mother, who also received, wore a blue crepe frock with navy redingote and navy straw hat, and a corsage of roses.

Later the bride and groom left on a trip to Muskoka, the bride travelling in a blue crepe frock with navy accessories. On their return they will live at 12 Mississaga street, east, Orillia.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed by Our Readers.

My folks were Polish and when I lived at home I used to think the Golumki my mother used to make was the best on earth. Since then I married a Canadian and have learned to make it to suit his taste, and have come to like my own better than Mother's. (She knows this, so I don't mind if you print it.)

It is such a cheap dish and tastes so good I think Canadian women would make if oftener if they were reminded.—Rose Kole.

Canadianized Golumki

One cup rice, 1 lb. minced veal, 1 medium-sized head of cabbage, 1 large or 2 small onions chopped finely, salt, pepper, drippings, about 2 cups tomato juice. Wash and boil rice until it is tender—rinse it in hot water to keep the grains separate. Saute the onions in a little dripping for 5 minutes. Mix the onions, meat and rice together and season with salt and pepper.

Cut the core out of the cabbage and parboil it for about 10 or 12 minutes, until the leaves are soft enough to handle, but not soft enough to brake. Place about 2 tablespoons of the rice and meat mixture on each cabbage leaf, and roll it up, placing it with the open edge down in large baking dish. Continue until all the meat and rice is used up. If you become Golumki addicts you will want at least three of these per serving. The Golumskis must be placed close together. Pour over them the tomato juice, and if you have it a little sour cream is traditional, if not dot it with dripping or butter. Cover all with 3 or 4 large cabbage leaves and cover baking dish and bake at about 375 deg. Fahr, until cabbage leaves are tender and much of the tomato juice has boiled away. It requires about 2 hours in the oven,—some folks think more does no harm. When serving place Golumkis on hot platter, and pour over the liquod remaining in baking dish.

Thank you, Mrs. Kole—I think exactly as you do about this, and want to compliment you on your changes in it,—it is delicious.

Vincent Massey Cables Thanks To Eastern Star

Mrs. Arthur Nayler, convener of the Patriotic Committee of the Order of the Eastern Star, has received a telegram from the Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner, acknowledging the receipt of the money cabled from this district for the purchase of a mobile canteen. The cablegram reads:

"My most sincere thanks for the cheque for £275 from District No. 12, O.E.S. Canteen has been ordered and will be presented to Gordon Smith, Seamen's Institute, Liverpool. Photograph and newspaper cuttings describing the presentation will be sent to you after the ceremony."

"Massey."

The local Chapter, Peterborough Chapter No. 161, O.E.S., has contributed 5$0.00 to the fund.

Marjorie Tinker Honored

Miss Helen Wellman, Dublin street, was hostess on Wednesday evening at a cream and green kitchen shower in honor of Miss Marjorie Tinker, whose wedding takes place next month. About twenty guests were present and the gifts were presented in a basket decorated in pink and white. The house was decorated with pink and white streamers and bells, and the table was decorated with streamers drawn from a large bell which hung over the table. Mrs. W. Tinker, mother of the guest of honor, poured tea.

Fresh Raspberry Pies Recipe Without Sugar

By MARY MOORE

The children and I were alone for our evening meal and as each one of us is a pushover for a picnic—even if it is only to take our supper out in the garden and eat it with the ants—we carefully wrapped the raspberry pie I had m le erpecially for this piece I am writing; Marianne made "sam'n sandwiges" and with that and a bottle of chocolate milk and a bag of tomatoes we set off for a secluded "ttle spot in the park we think is a discovery.

Never before have I entrusted the recipes I intended for you to such an uncritical and hungry tasting-jury. However, be reassured, I'm critical enough for any four of the finickiest tasters you could hunt out and you can take my word for it, it's good, and of course, I'm still nursing your sugar ration along as if it were gold.

Fresh Raspberry Pie

(Using no sugar).

For a large 9-inch pie use:

One quart raspberries, ½ cup corn syrup, ½ cup honey, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon minute tapioca. Do NOT wash the raspberries, but pick them over and DREDGE them with the flour and minute tapioca which have been mixed together.

Pastry:

The pastry I am giving you is nice with fruit pies, but use your own favorite if you wish.

Hot Water Pastry. — Two cups sifted flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 2/3 cup shortening (lard or the vegetable shortenings are good or a combination of butter and lard), 1/3 cup boiling water. Sift together the flour, salt and baking powder; pour the boiling water over the shortening and beat them together until creamy. Cut into the flour-mixture until you have a smooth dough. Roll out, apply bottom crust to pan and chill. Roll out top crust, perforate and chill.

When pie crust is cold, put floured berries in it and pour over the corn syrup and honey, which have been mixed together, in a fine stream, being sure that you spread it all over the berries. Put on top crust, making a tight double seam at edge—if seam is not tight enough pie will spill over. Bake at 500 degrees Fahr. for 10 minutes; reduce heat to 350 degrees Fahr. for 25 minutes. Pie should bake about 35 minutes in all.

Blueberry Pie (using no sugar)

Two and one-half cups cleaned but not washed blueberries, 1/3 cup corn syrup, 1/3 cup honey, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons flour. Pick over the blueberries and dredge them well with the flour. When lower crust is on pie plate, pour in the floured blueberries and pour over them in a fine stream corn syrup and honey and lemon juice which have been mixed together.

Put on top crust, moistening edges so that you get a very tight seam and bake pie at 500 degrees Fahr. for 10 minutes, reducing heat to 350 degrees Fahr, to finish baking pie. A nice glaze on berry pies is made by mixing 2 tablespoons water with the white of 1 egg and brushing it over the pie—one white makes enough for 3 pies. If you want to carry this professional touch further and will spare the sugar, sprinkle the glaze with 1 teaspoon granulated sugar. Apply this glaze 10 minutes before pie is finished baking or it may scorch in the very hot oven at first.

First Crop Apple Pie

(Using no sugar).

Use either Yellow Transparents or whatever nearly-mature apples you can buy on the market. Pare, core and cut in eighths. Dredge the apples in 2½ tablespoons flour. If underripe apples are used, you will need 1/3 cup corn syrup and ½ cup honey. If ripe apples, such as Transparents are used, you can reduce the honey a little.

Put the pie together exactly the same as Fresh Blueberry Pie (above) leaving out the lemon juice, of course, because fresh applies don't need it. Bake the same as for Fresh Blueberry Pie—being sure you tightly seal together the two crusts.

When peaches are ready watch for peach pie recipe in these columns—we have to try everything over and over this season to get the right proportions of sweeteners and tickeners, so can't give them to you ahead of the season.

Health First Consideration

RULES FOR NUTRITION MUST BE TRANSLATED INTO DAILY MENUS — PLANNING BY THE WEEK MOST SATISFACTORY.

To-day's wartime food basket should be filled judiciously. Haphazard purchases are out for the duration and Canadian food buyers are urged to remember they and their families must "eat for health." The wise shopper to-day checks her weekly food purchases against a nutrition yardstick.

To-day we must eat for health so that each one of us may be able to put a greater day by day effort into the struggle for victory.

Knowing the rules of nutrition is important, but unless these are translated into three meals a day, Canadian families will not get the recommended vitamins, minerals, proteins and calories that build good teeth and bones, strong muscles, vitality and morale.

Planning by the week gives the most satisfactory overall picture of family nutrition and makes possible co-operation with delivery regulations, advises Consumer Section of the Department of Agriculture.

Meat plans are often "subject to change without notice," for various reasons, but putting a plan on paper doesn't mean that it can't be revised.

Sometimes food plans are set in a good mold with the result that from week to week the right foods in necessary quantities appear on the table at every meal. Other times definite changes may be needed.

Check your amount of protective foods against a nutrition yardstick. The general rule for spending the food dollar to get best results is as follows:

One-fifth for milk and dairy products.

One-fifth for whole grain cereals.

One-fifth for vegetables and fruits.

One-fifth for meat, fish, eggs and liver.

One-fifth for fats, sweets and miscellaneous.

This Consumer Section advises, is satisfactory on a moderate income. Very low incomes may spend more on milk and dairy products; less on sweets, fats and meats.

In seeking value, remember that less expensive cuts of meat have just as much of the right kind of nourishment as the more expensive tender cuts.

On a low food budget you can't afford to cater to food whims. Try to avoid letting members of your family develop fool likes and dislikes.

By studying proper quantities you can avoid leftovers. If you do have them use promptly for lunches or suppers to help balance the nutritional account.

Here are the health-protective foods: Milk, fruits, vegetables, cereals, and bread, meat, fish eggs. Serve these foods first, then serve any additional foods you wish.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, July 24

RATHER ANXIOUS and difficult situations are likely to develop on this day, according to the lunar aspects. With sound conservatism as well as some straight thinking these adverse circumstances may be successfully and happily composed. A brilliant idea or the introduction of an amiable, friendly and generous impulse may accomplish much, rather than a subtle or direct gesture.

Those whose birthday it is may convert menacing or uncertain situations into successful issues by clever, shrewd and sagacious management, and friendly approach rather than subtlety and finesse. It is possible that an elderly person or an old institution may prove a helpful intermediary.

A child born on this day should be fairly successful by its cleverness, stability and sincerity. Its friends will be found among the elderly, from whom should come benefits.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

Question: A few years ago there was a recipe in the paper for Fresh Strawberry Ice Cream, Home-made, and I wrote for one for Fresh Raspberry Ice Cream, because our whole family likes raspberries better than strawberries. You set me a recipe that has been a treasure to me ever since — I am sure other readers would like it—I know I would like a new clipping of it to paste in my book because mine is so old.

I was at a refrigerator demenstration and the cook made some ice cream in little paper cups, and froze it in the trays of the refrigerator. Could you tell me how to do this? I always read the cookery columns from top to bottom and try everything I can. In anticipation. MABEL HATCH.

◆ ◆ ◆

ANSWER: I remember the raspberry cream episode—I am glad to hear from you again.

I think you and your family will like this:

Macaroon Glace

One cup sugar, ¼ cup water, 4 egg-yolks, 3 1-3 cups cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla, pulverized macaroons. Make a thick syrup of the sugar and water. Beat yolks of eggs and add syrup and one-half cup of cream. Place all in saucepan over a slow fire and stir constantly until it forms a thick coating on the spoon. Empty into a mixing bowl, set on ice, beat until it is cold and stiff, and then add the remainder of the cream beaten very stiff. Flavor with vanilla or any preferred extract. Pack the mixture in small paper boxes, sprinkle with pulverized macaroons, and set in a covered container. Pack in ice and salt and let stand for four hours, or pack and freeze in the trays of the mechanical refrigerator.

Raspberry Mousse

One pint 32% cream, 1½ cups fresh raspberry pulp (fresh ripe raspberries forced through fine sieve) 1 teaspoon true vanilla. Whip the cream very well. Sprinkle the pulp with 3 tablespoons berry sugar and add 1-3 cuy honey, mix well. Add the vanilla to the fruit pulp, and fold cream into it being sure to blend them, but do not stir after it is mixed. Pack in trays of mechanical refrigerator and let freeze for from 3 to 4 hours.

◆ ◆ ◆

QUESTION: My new husband's mother is a wonderful cook and would teach me anything I'd ask her but I want to surprise them. My husband likes broiled fish, especially fillets of flounder and sole and smelts. Would you tell me how to do these?

"ONE-IN-EVERY-HOUSE".

◆ ◆ ◆

ANSWER: The same general rules for broiling can be applied to smelts, fillets, or fish steaks. Have the broiler very hot. Dry the prepared fish very well (the fish man will bone or fillet the fish ready for you). Dip the fish in very fine sifted bread crumbs, dot with cooking oil, sprinkle with salt and a little paprika, and place flesh side down on greased broiler. Broil skin side until crisp and gold and turn over carefully. Sprinkle flesh side with lemon juice and broil until golden and crisp. To test for doneness separate flakes of fish with two forks at thickest part. It should be apaque and white throughout.

Toothpaste Tubes Important Salvage

Battered, crushed, and twisted—toothpaste tubes don't look like much, but they are among the things marked "Important" by the salvage officer.

Turn in toothpaste and other collapsible tubes to any drug store where they will be collected for the Government salvage. The tin in them is needed by munitions plants. It is estimated that one tube can supply enough tin to plate the lids of 20 water canteens needed by the armed forces.

Remember, officials point out, that it is now unlawful to throw away collapsible tubes.

NOTABLE RECORD

The United Kingdom now feeds more people in proportion to the area of its own soil than any other country, the Agriculture Department says.

Guests of Hotels Must Have Sugar Coupons

OTTAWA, July 23.—(CP). — The Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced that "staff, guests or inmates" of hotels, inns, clubs serving meals, staff dining rooms and hospitals now are required to obtain sugar ration cards if they desire sugar.

Under a change in rationing regulations, hotels, inns and hospitals have been reclassified as "institutions" rather than "public caterers," thus making ration cards necessary.

"All heads of these organizations and also of boarding schools, orphanages, any schools making a practice of serving group meals, religious institutions, homes for the old or indigent, penitentiaries or other places of imprisonment and any other institutions which normally serve meals to guests, pupils or inmates, are charged with the obligation to collect one coupon from the card of each inmate, guest, employee or staff member for each two-week period they spend there," the board said.

"The coupons so collected are to be forwarded to the nearest office of the board."

Freeing 4 Eskimos With New Tribes

TORONTO, July 23 — (CP). — Attorney-General Gordon Conant, just returned from a trip to Northern Ontario, said yesterday that four of the five Eskimos tried last summer as a resut of the killing of nine Eskimos on Belcher Island will be released shortly on order from the Dominion Government. The fifth man is dead.

Mr. Conant visited the Royal Canadian Mounted Police quarters at Moose Factory this week and saw the Eskimos.

"These men are being taken back by the R.C.M.P., but not to the same tribe from which they came," Mr. Conant said. "They will be given the essential things to start life again in the north, but will not go back with their former people."

"Nerves" Get Worse If They Are Misunderstood

Attacks Symptom of Wrong Care

"What's the matter with you?" people ask furiously when you have an attack of "nerves." They may think it's all your imagination—but don't you be fooled.

"Nerves" are a very real kind of sickness, which gets worse if not understood.

You may have been repressing feelings which you thought bad but which aren't so unnatural; you get annoyed perhaps by noisy people in your family—or by a boring, chattering neighbor—until you could scream!

If you're the high-strung type you're more liable to such pin pricks than placid people. But repression doesn't help.

Detour your troublesome energies into happier outlets. Once on an even keel you can enjoy life more, be more vital, than stolid types. Cultivate some new friends once in a while, go to a different type of show, have a hobby to fly to.

Also, how is your general health? Wrong diet, poor eyesight contribute to "nerves."

If you're nervous, you really ought to find out what's wrong. Our 32-page booklet by a well-known physician explains mental and physical causes of "nerves," advises on overcoming insomnia, fatigue, nervous indigestion; discusses diet, other health factors.

For your copy of "Overcoming 'Nerves' and Everyday Health Problems" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

TWICE IN SAME PLACE

DID YOU ever get squeezed twice in the same suit? As the declarer runs tricks on which you have to discard, he may cause you first to discard one card which looked like a trick winner, and then, as he lays down one more trick of his own suit, he makes you throw away another winner in either your previous suit or another one. That does not happen very often, fortunately. But gosh, how it hurts when it does occur!

North: ♠ 4 2 ♥ A 4 ♦ K 9 7 4 ♣ A J 10 5 2
West: ♠ 9 3 ♥ Q 10 9 8 ♦ Q J 10 8 ♣ K 7 3
East: ♠ A Q 10 8 7 6 ♥ 7 6 3 2 ♦ 3 ♣ 9 6
South: ♠ K J 5 ♥ K J 5 ♦ A 6 5 2 ♣ Q 8 4

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	1 ♠	2 NT	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	6 NT	Dbl

When North bid that 5-Hearts, after having used the Blackwood, he did it with the idea of trying to make South sign off at 5-No Trumps, feeling that he had overbid his North cards. South refused to be signed off that way, as he was a player who likes hard contracts.

West led the spade 9 to the A. East, realizing from the lead that South surely could take the next two spade tricks, shifted to the heart 2, which brought the 5, 8 and A. Then South went to work. First he sent the club Q through, next the 8 to the 10, the A dropped the K, and two more clubs followed.

It was no job for West to throw his spade 3 on one of these and his heart 9 on the other. But then came his problem when the spade J was finessed. Throwing from his heart Q-10 was unthinkable, as it would set up South's probable J in that suit, so he gave up the diamond 8 from his four card holding, an apparent trick winner ultimately. Then on the spade K he had to throw another apparent winner, though it made little difference what he did now. He picked the heart 10 this time, and the declarer finished with two heart tricks and two top diamonds. If West, discarding on the spade K, had used one of his three remaining diamonds, the declarer could have scored the A, K and 9 of that suit plus the heart K to finish the hand.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 9 3 ♥ A Q ♦ A Q 9 4 ♣ K J 5 3 2
West: ♠ A K J 8 7 6 4 2 ♥ 8 ♦ 10 7 6 ♣ 4
East: ♠ Q ♥ K J 10 9 5 2 ♦ 5 2 ♣ Q 10 9 7
South: ♠ 10 5 ♥ 7 6 4 3 ♦ K J 8 3 ♣ A 8 6

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

If the heart A, diamond A and diamond K take the first three tricks, what simple logic should dictate South's next play in an effort to beat West's 4-Spades on this deal?

Soliciting Trade Taboo By Truck

OTTAWA, July 22 (CP)—Salesmen, canvassers, estimators, collectors, and other persons "calling on customers to solicit business or collect money" will be forbidden to use trucks as transportation for those purposes under one section of a Wartime Prices and Trade Board order made public today.

"However," the board said, "when a delivery is lawfully being made from a wholesaler's truck to a customer, an order may be taken from the customer for subsequent delivery or a collection may be made."

The order, announced by Services Administrator James Stewart, goes into effect Aug. 3.

Oppose Building Large Profits Canteen Funds

OTAWA, July 23 — (CP). — Building up of large profits from the operation of canteens for the armed forces should be discouraged, the House of Commons Canteen Funds Committee recommended in a report tabled in the Commons today.

The committee suggested appointment of a central advisory board to control and supervise profits with provincial boards if necessary to assist in administering the fund.

It recommended that surplus canteen funds should be invested only in Dominion Government securities and contributions to funds of the individual forces, for which present members will not be eligible if they leave the forces after the war, should be discontinued.

Evidence heard by the committee made it apparent that auxiliary service canteens and unit and formation canteens are generally being operated in an efficient and businesslike manner, the report said.

The recommendations were intended to continue this high standard and also to make absolutely sure that profits not now being spent for the benefit of the members of the forces should be available for them when the war ends.

"With respect to profit however, your committee desires to emphasize that it is definitely of the opinion that the building up of large surplus funds from the operation of canteens should be discouraged," the report said.

Service the Object.

"It must always be remembered that the purpose of canteens is to give service now and not to create profits for the future."

The Royal Canadian Air Force Benevolent Fund, which receives one per cent. of gross sales in R.C.A.F. canteens, will not be available to officers and men discharged after the war and no further payments should be made to it until provision is made for these men, it was recommended.

The Royal Canadian Navy Benevolent Fund, it was found, was well administered but was not covered by any naval administrative order. Until this action was taken and arrangements made to cover men dischadged at the end of the war contributions to it should also cease.

The committee recommended a definite agreement between Canada and the Navy, Army and Air Force Institute, a civil organization which operates canteens for the forces overseas

"The question of the nature of the securities in which surplus canteen funds should be invested was carefully considered by your committee," the report said, "and having in mind certain losses which occurred through improvident investment of a portion of the canteen funds of the First Great War your committee is of the opinion and would recommend that no surplus canteen funds should be invested in any securities other than securities of the government of the Dominion of Canada."

Cavan Young Couple Honored By Friends

CAVAN, July 23.—(ENS)—More than eighty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Foster, on the Tenth Line of Cavan, on Monday evening, July 20, to honor them following their recent marriage.

Mrs. Foster was formerly Miss Mabel Johnson, of Omemee.

Sid Boyles acted as chairman for the program which consisted of community singing with Mrs. Milford Byers at the piano; Clare Winslow sang a solo, acompanied by Mrs. Winslow; Miss Bernice Hubbard and John Patton of Millbrook, violin solos.

Mrs. Milford Byers read an appropriate address which was signed by Harry Kennedy and Bruce Sisson. The bride and groom were presented with two handsome occasional chairs.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Foster replied with sincere thanks. A social evening and dancing was then enjoyed.

India Lifts Ban On Communists

LONDON, July 23—(CP).—The government of India has lifted its ban on the communist party of India and will permit resumption of publication of the party's newspapers the National Front and the New Age.

(In Canada a proposal to permit re-establishment of the communist party as a legal political organization is to be presented to the House of Commons in Ottawa this week.)

The government of India removed its prohibition, imposed July 23, 1934, after the communist party of India declared its official policy now is in line with the communist party of Britain, and that it regards the war as a people's war which merits the support of the people of India.

An India office statement added that the government of India and provincial governments released from prisons a number of communists who desired to assist the war effort. Such liberations, it was stated, will be accelerated.

Free of Stomach Pains Dizzy Spells, Acidity, Gas; Praises "Syntona"

Says, "It Is Wonderful and Justifies Every Claim Made For It. My Whole System Feels Toned Up."

Here is another good example of the way Syntona is daily bringing better health to hundreds of men and women. This interesting account is told by Mr. Albert Ralph, 53 Crosthwaite Avenue Hamilton, in his own words:

"For two years I was so troubled with indigestion that my stomach pained and felt uncomfortable most of the time. Gas accumulations caused pains in my side and chest. I could feel sort of a lump in my throat and then a burning, sour liquid would rise from my stomach. At first it used to help when I took baking soda, but after a while that wouldn't help me any more. Often I had spells when everything seemed blurred before my eyes, and I would become terribly dizzy. For several months I don't think I was able to get one good hour's sleep at a time. I had rheumatic pains in my arms and in the joints of my knees.

"A few weeks ago I began taking Syntona and I have found it a wonderful medicine. It has helped me just like you said it would. The stomach pains and indigestion have left me. No more sour acid risings or lump in my throat. My appetite is restored. I enjoy my meals and I don't get those dizzy, bilious spells like I used to. I got relief from the pains in my knees and arms. I am sleeping well now — hardly wake up once during the whole night, and I feel rested and refreshed when I get up.

"You may publish this statement so other sufferers can read it. I am only too pleased to be able to say that my whole system feels so toned up and improved."

MR. ALBERT RALPH

You, who suffer as described above, are cordially invited to come to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, and find out all about this grand medicine that is helping so many people. (Advt.)

TiresLooming For War Workers

Ford's Thiokol Idea Good 4,000 Miles, Before The U.S. Gov't.

DETROIT, July 24—(AP).—The Ford Motor Company announced today it has presented for government approval a "tire replacement plan" which contemplates the use of the rubber substitute thiokol to keep the automobiles of war workers on the road

The plan, said Charles E. Sorensen, Ford vice-president and general manager, is designed to solve the problem o. essential transportation for Ford workers and will be offered to the entire United States war industry if approved.

Two pounds of the rubber substitute, Sorensen said, will permit a retreat of "one-tenth inch skid thickness, good for 4,000 to 5,000 miles of moderate driving." The material is known as ethylene-polysulphide, or thiokol, he said.

Sorensen said the tanks and vats necessary for thiokol production would be made, as far as possible, from wood or concrete, thus saving on vital war materials.

Gen. LeesRollOut By Trainload

DETROIT, July 24—(AP).—General Motors Corporation disclosed today with War Department approval that the new army tank plant built by it, Fisher body division has been completed and is rolling out the all-welded M-4 type of land dreadnaught in train-load quantities.

Lne of freight car loaded with tanks now leave the plant on a special track almost daily, the announcement said.

Already, according to word received by the company, the new M-4's have had their baptism of fire.

Among the pricipal developments in the M-4 tank over its predecessors is increased fire power and improved location of the 75MM gun in a turret that revolves in a compete circle. In addition it is highly manoeuvreable and it's protected by a tough hide of heavy armor plate.

The M-4's have been designated "General Lees" by British forces, the War Department in Washington said, and some have already seen action on the Egyptian battlefront. The tanks are 28 to 30-ton machines.

Wanted The Ride

HACKENSACK, N.J., July 24 — (AP).—Prosecutor John J. Breslin, Jr., said today that James A. Boyd, 59, had admitted that he faked a story of killing R. Norman Redwood, business agent of a Sandhog Union at Teakeck, N.J., in 1937, in an effort to get a free ride east.

The man admitted the fabrication, the prosecutor added, after being confronted with several facts which contradicted his story.

Yipping Already

NEW YORK, July 24 — (AP). — The Tokyo radio broadcast a Domei dispatch today in which a Japanese correspondent on Kiska Island at the western end of the Aleutians reported that United States bombers were attacking Japanese forces there two or three times a day, dropping bombs through the fog.

The broadcast quoted the correspondent as saying that Japanese forces who have moved into barracks on the Island suffered from loneliness and hardships and faced a bitter cold winter which would set in during September.

Cyclist Killed By Motorist, Is Left On Road

Hurled from his bicycle by a hit-and-run automobile as he rode his bicycle north on the Lakefield road at 11 o'clock, Thursday night, Garrett Allen, 55, well-known resident of Nassau, was killed instantly.

Allen's body, the skull badly fractured, was found on the east shoulder of the road by passing motorists. His bicycle, the rear wheel crumpled, was 28 feet further north.

Provincial and city police carried on a hunt all night for the driver of the death car and the search is being continued today.

Allen was on his way home from Peterborough, and the car that struck him and continued on its way was also travelling north, police believe, from the fact that the collision took place on the east side of the road and the back wheel of the bicycle had been hit.

Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure had passed the scene of the accident a short time before, patrolling north along highway 28. He was on his way back to Peterborough when he noticed two cars ahead of him stop and then discovered there had been an accident.

The first persons to notice Allen's body were Harold and Clifford Davis, 222 Park street south, who had Gordon Moore as a passenger in their car. Almost at the same time Mr. and Mrs. Leo McCall, Oxford street, came along.

Dr. Eugene Snider, coroner, was called, and Dr. J. M. O'Brien was also speedily on the scene. It was stated that the death of Allen had been instantaneous.

Left to mourn his loss. are six sisters, Mrs. Napoleon Lord, Mrs. Joseph Lord and Miss Theresa Allen, of Toronto; Mrs. Joseph Spencer, Mrs. Gene O'Carroll of Peterborough and Mrs. Thomas McMannus of Lakefield. There are also two brothers, Patrick and Robert Allen, at home.

The funeral will take place Saturday at 8:40 a.m. from the home of his sister, Mrs. O'Carroll, 277 Bethune street, to the Church of the Immaculate Conception for Requiem Mass at 9 a.m. Interment will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

Canada Steps Munitions Up 3 Times

U.S. Ups Hers 4 Times Doubles Orders, From The Dominion

OTTAWA, July 24 — (CP). — Canada's munition production for the second quarter of 1942 was almost three times that of the same period of 1941, the Joint War Production Committee of Canada and the United States said in a report made to-day to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and President Roosevelt.

A statement on the report, submitted by the joint chairmen, Milo Perkins of the United States section and G. K. Shiels, Deputy Munitions and Supply Minister for the Canadian section, was made public simultaneously in Ottawa and Washington.

Th report, first to be made by the committee which was organized December last, summarized action taken so far to increase the war output of both countries by reducing duplication, revising specifications to increase the number of common type weapons, arranging more rapid exchanges of supplies to avoid production delays breaking transportation bottlenecks, eliminating tariff and other barriers and promoting a full exchange of information on production methods and designs.

"Annual rate of United States munitions production for the second quarter of 1942 was up nearly four times over 1941," the statement on the report said. "Canadian production including many pritical items was up nearly three times for the same period. Future schedules call for still sharper increases, especially in the United States where all-out production effort got under way at a later date than in Canada."

U. S. Doubles Orders.

United States orders for Canadian munitions have more than doubled in recent months, it was reported. These orders have assisted Canada in meeting foreign exchange problems along the lines outlined in the Hyde Park agreement of April, 1941. Concentration of Canadian resources on production of munitions, and the inability to maintain normal export schedules had made it difficult for Canada to pay for imports from the United States which are essential to her war production.

Elimination of tariffs and red tape is facilitating movement of war materials between the two countries.

Gear-meshing the war industries of the two countries is being directed by 10 joint technical commit-

On His Holidays

SUGAR HILL, N.H., July 24 (AP).—Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone said today that he did not intend to accept the task of making an independent inquiry in the rubber situation of the United States to end present controversies over the problem.

Here for his summer vacation, the Chief Justice, when told stories had been published to the effect that President Roosevelt had asked him to make such an inquiry, said:

"I have not accepted any such responsibility and I do not intend to."

King Prepared To Assist Curbing Liquor

OTTAWA, July 24 (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons today the government has given consideration to the growing liquor traffic in Canada and said he is prepared to do anything that can be done toward curtailing it.

But the Prime Minister said, the primary jurisdiction does not rest with the Federal authority.

He was replying to a question asked by Conservative House Leader Hanson who referred to previous discussion on the liquor traffic and asked the Prime Minister if any consideration were being given to "This great National problem."

The discussion arose when the House took up second reading of the bill to amend the Excise Act, first of the six bills introduced by Finance Minister Ilsley to put into statutory form the tax changes involved in this year's budget.

C. E. Ferland (Lib. Joliette L'Assumption-Montcalm) entered a protest against the increased tax on Canadian raw leaf tobacco and described the conditions under which the industry operates in his district. He said the producers can not carry any more expense in the form of taxation.

The Excise Act Bill was quickly given second reading and discussion was begun in committe of the whole.

Spread Too Wide

Mr. Ilsley said that before there was any tax on raw leaf tobacco a duty of 25 cents a pound was imposed on manufactured tobacco. When the manufactured tobacco duty was raised to 35 cents the spread became too wide and a duty of 10 cents a pound was placed on raw leaf. When the manufactured tobacco was raised to 51 cents it was felt necessary to raise the duty on raw leaf by another 10 cents to

3 Squadrons Help RAF Fire Plants

Canadian Night Aces Get 4 Of 7 Hun Downed At Home

LONDON, July 24(CP).—A strong force of Royal Air Force bombers attacked objectives in Western Germany's industrial Ruhr and Rhineland, the Air Miinstry announced today.

At least three Canadian squadrons participated in this latest smash on the war-bloated industrial plants of the Ruhr.

Nazi-occupied airdromes in the Low Countries also were bombed, and railways and other targets in invaded territory were attacked in the night by fighters, the Ministry said.

It reported that seven British bombers were missing, but two enemy aircraft were destroyed during the continental raids and seven German bombers were shot down during night attacks on Britain, one by a night fighter of a Canadian squadron. The Canadian marksman was not identified.

Taking up where the night crews left off, a steady stream of British planes began speeding across the Channel toward Northern France at dawn today.

The German raids on Britain were the heaviest in weeks.

The Nazi raiders flew through intense anti-aircraft fire to scatter bombs along the east coast, over the Eastern Midlands and some areas further west.

One town in East Anglia was machine-gunned after the attacking planes had dropped high explosives.

(The Germans said one of their targets was Bedford, industrial town 40 miles north of London.)

A Royal Air Force commentator said that in all about 40 German planes participated in last night's raids on Britain.

Night Fighters Do Well.

While Canadian night fighters were busy destroying Nazi raiders over England during the night, fellow flyers from the Dominion aboard heavy Halifaxes were pounding the Ruhr defences with two-ton bombs for the second successive night.

A Halifax captained by Sgt. Guy Pudney of London, Ont., went in over the target at 11,000 feet and the skipper reported he could 'see fires burning in the target area.' Pudney's all-Canadian crew included Sgt. T. A. S. Duff of Corinth, Ont., and Sgt. Irvin Lauckner of LONDON, July 24—(CP). —The Russians are preparing new defences south of the Don where they plan to meet the triumphant German armies in a crucial clash for the Caucasus, British military sources believe.

They had no independent confirmation of the German claim to Rostov, but they said it was doubtful if Marshal Semeon Timoshenko had intended to make a desperate stand to hold it. In itself the city has "no military value," these sources, who could not permit use of their names, said.

British Bolster Egypt Gains, Keep Stabbing

CAIRO, July 24.—(AP)—British armored forces continued to stab at the Axis forces west of El Alamein while consolidating position won on the northern and central sectors in two days of sharp fighting, Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's headquarters announced today .

At the same time the enemy was subjected to a steady bombardment by artillery and by the R.A.F., which blasted at Axis gun emplacements, concentrations of motor vehicles and communication lines.

Most of the action, the communique said, again centred on the central front, where British forces have driven the enemy from the western end of El Ruweisat Ridge, and in the coastal area, where Australian forces were reported in control of the "Hill of Jesus" and neighboring ridges.

In the southern sector fringed by the salt marshes of the Qattara Depression there was no fighting worthy of mention, the bulletin said. "There was some enemy air activity over the front, in which Nazi dive bombers took a hand. R.A.F. fighters however, were quick to engage the enemy planes, and were credited officially with shooting down four dive bombers, one Messerschmitt fighter and a reconnaissance bomber.

Two other Axis aircraft were shot down yesterday during minor air activity over Malta, the R.A.F. reported.

British losses were five planes.

Russians Fight Desperately To Hold Stalingrad Ry.; Berlin Claims Rostov Taken

Soviet Counter Attack Gains East Of Rostov As Reds Pour In Reserves; Voronezh Sees Russ Tanks Cross The Don

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 24—(AP).—The Red army took its stand today on the banks of the broad lower Don for a last ditch defence of the northern Caucasus against a still further reinforced Axis onslaught which overran the Donets basin, beat at Rostov, and heightened the menace to Stalingrad.

The Russians reported holding as best they could in positions to which they withdrew in the Novocherkassk area, 20 miles northeast of Rostov, and said they developed a flank attack against the right wing of the Nazi Don River front at Tsimylansk, mid-way between Rostov and Stalingrad.

Berlin in a special German army bulletin today claimed the capture of Rostov. The bulletin said: "Troops of the German army, troops of the S.S. (Elite Guard) and Slovak units, supported in splendid manner by the Air Force, have broken through the entire front of strongly fortified and deeply echeloned positions of the defences of Rostov and, after hard fighting, have captured the town by storm. It is important as a traffic and harbor centre. Mopping-up of the remnants of the enemy in the town is continuing."

Stick To Railway Line.

The Red army counter-attack bespoke the Russians' determination at any cost to keep the Caucasus from isolation by holding the Tikhoretsk-Stalingrad rail line, last railway link to the far southern front.

The threat to this line was sharply drawn by the Nazi advance upon Tsimylansk, just north of the Don at a point where the river curves within 35 miles of the railway.

As the Red army battled to hold back the invaders, Russian bombers were attacking day and night, pounding the Axis reinforcements which streamed up through a great area simmering with heat waves and plumed with the smoke of battle.

By night a half-moon lent its yellow light to the fields ablaze with fires, the red spouting flashes of artillery and the glow of airplane flares.

Twelve hours after announcing a withdrawal in the Novocherkassk zone 20 miles northeast of Rostov, the Soviet information bureau said fighting continued there for new positions.

"Our men repulsed attacks by numerically superior enemy forces," it said. "In one narrow sector alone the Germans lost 17 tanks and more than 800 men killed."

Two attacks by German tanks and automatic rifle men near Tsimlyansk, on the Don approximately midway between Rostov and Stalingrad, were repelled and Soviet units then struck at the Nazi flank.

The Russians knocked out nine German tanks and killed more than 400 of the automatic riflemen, it was declared.

Despite considerable tank losses, it was evident that German armor still was formidable. Russian planes took the air to attack the land columns.

Propose Special Canadian Award Order

OTTAWA, July 24—(CP). — The House of Commons honors and decorating committee today recommended to parliament the establishment of a special order for residents of Canada.

The committee's report, tabled by the chairman, Hon. Cyrus MacMillan (Lib., Queen's) also included a recommendation that Canadians should be eligible "for the award of honors and decorations, including awards in the orders of chivalry, which do not involve titles."

The report was brief, being restricted to the two recommendations which were made without comment.

Dealing with the proposed Canadian order the committee recommended: "That His Majesty's Government in Canada consider a submission to His Majesty the King, of proposals for the establishment of an order limited in number but not involving a title, for which His

Find 2 of 4 Bodies In Sunken Plane

PORT DOVER, Ont., July 24. — (CP).—A diver employed at lake construction work for the Royal Canadian Air Force at Jarvis this morning recovered the bodies of two of the four airmen who crashed yesterday afternoon into Lake Erie a mile and one half off Peacock Point, in a bomber plane from the No. 1 Bombing and Gunnery School, Jarvis. The third fatal accident since the school opened more than two years ago, the crash is the worst in the history of the school.

The search is continuing to-day for the other two bodies. Names of the victims will not be released until the next of kin are notified. Some of the victims are overseas airmen.

The bomber lies in 25 feet of water.

The men were out for target practice on the lake bombing range when the accident occurred. The Jarvis R.C.A.F. crash boat rushed to the scene and reported being able to see the wreckage on the lake bottom but no sign of the crew.

Air force and civilian craft and personnel co-operated in the search for the bodies. A scow/derrick and pond-net from Nanticoke, Ont., also assisted, while a fishing company sent a fishing tug and a second pond-net to the scene.

Must Be Year Old—Move To Aid Sheep Industry

TORONTO, July 24 — (CP). — The Provincial Government will pay a $10 bounty on bear pelts under certain stated conditions, Provincial Secretary H. C. Nixon announced today.

In an effort to reduce the number of bears, which have been killing increasing numbers of farm animals in recent years, the bounty will be paid on bears 12 months old killed in townships or unorganized municipalities which are now more than 25 per cent agricultural, in the districts of Algoma, Cochrane, Kenora, Manitoulin, Muskoka, Nipissing, Parry Sound, Rainy River, Sudbury, Thunder Bay and Temiskaming, and in the counties of Bruce, Haliburton, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Peterborough, Renfrew and Victoria.

Only residents of the municipalities will be eligible for the bounty, Mr. Nixon said. The bounty was decided upon "to assist in the wartime development of the sheep industry in Northern Ontario. The whole skin of the bear must be produced before a magistrate or game and fishery officer before the bounty is paid.

Pinched For Ships Nazis Start Salvage

Start Work Raising Wrecks Along European Coast—Nearly Two-thirds Sunk

By EDWIN SHANKE
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, July 24 — (AP). — Germany, pinched for shipping space after almost three years of war has started a campaign to salvage vessels sunk along the European coast and is pushing a program for construction of standardized merchantmen similar to the American "Liberty ships," British sources declared to-day.

The situation facing the Reich is reflected in official British reports that, of the 9,000,000 tons of merchant shipping with which Germany and Italy started the war, 5,250,000 tons had been sent to the bottom prior to the last December.

How much tonnage the Axis has lost since then is largely a matter of speculation, but Allied communiques indicate that it is considerable.

While the British and United States Navies have virtually throttled Germany's overseas commerce, she is struggling tremendously to maintain vital supply lines in European waters— particularly in the Baltic and the Mediterranean.

In the Baltic German freighters are moving iron ore from Lulea, Sweden, to North German ports and supplying Nazi troops in Russia and their Finnish allies.

With Soviet submarines on the loose in the Baltic this is becoming a hazardous job and the Germans are reported to have resorted recently to convoying.

Leaves It To Italy

In the Mediterranean, Germany is largely dependent upon Italian shipping space to keep her armies in North Africa supplied, to maintain service to Spain and Unoccupied France and bring oil in tankers from Rumania. British warships and R.A.F. patrols have been taking a heavy toll of shipping on these routes.

In addition German ships constantly are shuttling along the Norwegian and Netherlands North Sea coasts and across the Bay of Biscay, where they are moving from northern Spain to Bayonne and Bordeaux.

These ship movements are subject to constant air attack and the problem of unloading vessels once they have safely arrived in German ports is complicated by periodic bombings of dock facilities at such important centres as Stettin, Luebeck, Kiel, Hamburg and Bremen.

These bombing raids, coupled with the Allied blockade, have put an extra strain on Germany's overland transportation system, already taxed to the limit.

The blockade also has forced Germany to exert vast efforts to attain a degree of self-sufficiency—at great cost. For instance, British experts

No Newspapers For Troops

Mailing Overseas Now Restricted To Clippings

OTTAWA, July 24—(CP).—Mailing of newspapers overseas by individuals will be restricted, effective August 10, Postmaster General Mulock said in the House of Commons today.

Complete newspapers and periodicals will not be accepted from individuals, who will be asked instead to mail clippings, Mr. Mulock said.

The restriction is intended to conserve shipping space. Publishers have agreed to co-operate in the plan and the matters of newspapers and publications mailed to subscribers now is under consideration, he said.

These restrictions will apply to newspapers and periodicals to both civilians and members of the forces in the United Kingdom and other trans-Atlantic destinations, and in Central and South America, Bermuda and the British West Indies

Bombers Sink Jap Transport Off New Guinea

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 24—(CP).—Before the Japanese could settle down in their newly-seized base on the southeast coast of New Guinea Allied airmen went to work on them yesterday, knocking out the th'rd transport in three days, destroying shore installations and forcing frenzied invasion troops to leap wildly overboard from landing barges.

Despite the heavy cost the enemy went ahead with operations in the Gona Mission-Buna area, where a toehold was gained Wednesday, and a military spokesman indicated another small sea-borne Japanese force had been put ashore at Ambasi, 30 miles up the Papua peninsula coast from Buna.

Allied dive-bombers, used for the first time against land targets in New Guinea, and medium bombers made five seperate raids on the Gona Mission-Buna area and a headquarters communique said they started numerous fires.

A 5,000-ton fuel-laden transport was caught squarely amidship and set aflame. Previously two other transports were hit, and one of them sunk as the cruiser and destroyer-protected Japanese convoy moved down the coast from Japanese-held Salamaua.

Allied fighters joined yesterday's attacks, skimming just above the whitecaps to spray machine-gun bursts into troop-jammed landing barges. Pilots related that panic-stricken soldiers hurled themselves into the water to escape the fire.

Douse Battery.

Ashore, the fighters shot up machine-gun nests and silenced an anti-aircraft battery in repeated attacks. Other fighters pounced on a small enemy ship north of Salamaua itself 150 miles northwest of Buna.

Gona Mission, where the Japanese set up their first base on the Papuan peninsula, is a small settlement built around an Anglican mission. It was the enemy's first successful penetration southward toward Australia since the occupation of Salamaua and late last March.

Port Moresby, the Allied base, is 110 miles across the mountainous, jungle-ridden peninsula. Thus with the Gona Mission-Buna area within closer proximity than Salamaua and Lae, Allied fighters and dive-bombers will be able to augment the work of long-range bombers, which have borne the brunt of the attacks on the more distant objectives.

estimate, Germany is obliged to keep 11,000,000 men employed in the food industry alone.

By contrast Britain, through the aid afforded by overseas supply convoys, has only 1,000,000 men tied up in agriculture.

To help close the leaks in the blockade, the Allies have resorted to such steps as blacklisting and pre-emption deals—buying up from neutrals strategic supplies, especially chrome, tungsten, wool and rubber which might reach the Axis.

Majesty's subjects domiciled or ordinarily resident in Canada shall alone be eligible."

If the committee's recommendations are accepted by parliament, Canadians will be permitted to accept such honors as the Order of the British Empire, Company of St. Michael and St. George, Company of the British Empire and British Empire Medal.

Already Canadians are permitted to receive the Distinguished Service Order, given to officers of the three services, and the awards of Distinguished Flying Cross in the air force and Distinguished Service Cross in the navy.

Rare Canadian Order

Dr. MacMillan told The Canadian Press that the idea of the committee was to have a Canadian order which would be high in the scale of awards, somewhat similar to the Order of Merit, and which would be given only for exceptional service. The Order of Merit, when it was established by King Edward VII in 1902, was limited to a total of 16 and now there are only 26 persons holding the award. It has never been given to persons outside the United Kingdom, it is understood.

The Canadian order would be awarded by the King and the name it would be given and the conditions could only be decided after consultation with His Majesty. It might be limited to 20, to make it all the more valuable because of its rarity.

Dr. MacMillan emphasized that the reference to the committe from the Commons did not include the field of titles, either hereditary or others. Accordingly the committee gave no consideration to bringing them back. If he recommendations are accepted it will not bring back knighthoods or any other order which carried a title before the recipient's name.

The committee was formed in June to consider the question of the awarding to Canadians of "honors and decorations which do not involve titles."

On May 14, 1919, parliament adopted the reports of a special committee which recommended against the granting of titles, honors and decorations.

5 To Aitken's Boys

LONDON, July 24—(CP).—Seven German bombers were destroyed during the night—and five of them fell to the Beaufighter squadron led by Wing Cmdr. Max Aitken, son of Lord Beaverbrook, the Air Ministry announced today.

Aitken himself was credited with destroying two of the aircraft—a Ju-88 and a Dornier 217—giving him a total thus far of 12 night raiders.

Finland Shoves Feelers Out On Quitting War

By JAMES LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP)—Finland gave world-wide currency today to a suggestion that the United States might help extricate her from her position as an ally of Germany and a possible sacrifice to Soviet Russia in the event of a United Nations victory.

Some sort of post-war guarantee from the United States appeared to be the price—and much was made of the point that, for six months, Finnish forces have sought only to maintain their lines against the Red Army, without making any aggressive moves.

As is the way with such feelers, the manner of publication was complicated. First, the idea appeared in an editorial in the Stockholm newspaper, Dagens Nyheter. Then it was given wide front page republication in the Finnish press. Lastly, the essentials of the editorial were broadcast to the world by the official Finnish radio, with comments and explanatory remarks of its own.

That editorial, as broadcast from Helsinki, said it was urgently important that the United States give more exact information than hitherto about her aims for the protection of small democracies such as Finland from a Soviet-dictated peace if the trend of the war should lead to such an end.

If the United States could give Finland more exact information on Allied political aims after the war, the Finns would gain greater confidence, it continued.

There was no specific suggestion that in such a case Finland would drop her role as Germany's confederate in the fight against Russia.

Another 20 Shot In Nazi Europe

LONDON, Jully 24.—(CP).—The execution of 20 citizens of German-occupied countries, the sentencing to death of two others, the imposition of heavy prison terms on an additional 12 and the arrest of 17 was reported to-day.

BBC said 16 persons have been executed in the last few days for offenses ranging from 'communist activities' to sabotage, rioting and attempting to kill Nazi soldiers, while two others were sentenced to death on the rioting charge. Included were six Frenchmen, six Bulgarians and four Greeks. Under sentence of death are two Frenchmen, the broadcast said.

The German-controlled Netherlands radio announced to-day that four Netherlanders have been shot for having broken into a government food office in Amsterdam.

At Vichy, it was announced that 12 persons were sentenced yesterday to terms varying from one year to life in prison for communist activities, while at Avignon 17 peasants were indicted on charges of concealing grain.

Canadian night fighters shared in the destruction of at least four of the seven raiders destroyed over Britain during the night, late reports indicated, and the score was one of the best the night fliers from the Dominion have marked up, considering the small size of the attacking force.

Guns of a Beaufighter piloted by Wing Cmdr. Max Aitken, son of Lord Beaverbrook, blasted a brace of Nazis out of the sky and Canadian squadrons commanded by Wing Cmdr. Paul Davoud of Kingston, Ont., and Wing Cmdr. D. G. Morris, a South African, another two.

The pilot of the Beaufighter in Davoud's outfit which shot down Nazi could not immediately be identified other than that he was a Pilot Officer MacMillan. It was the first time in weeks that Davoud's men had even sighted a raider, so scarce have they been.

Hull Peace Talk Fire Pillar To Allied Lands

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

Cordell Hull's constructive program for a better world after the carnage has ended must be recorded as one of the major developments of the war.

Anomalous though it may seem to talk about peace problems at the moment when vast armies are locked in a death struggle to determine the course of the conflict, this is precisely the time when it may be most beneficial. Mr. Hull's great document in which we have a mingling of the spiritual and political, reach out in four directions:

It is a pillar of fire for the Allied peoples as they march for victory. It affords encouragement to the enslaved peoples of the occupied countries. It rebukes neutrals for their "absurd and suicidal" policy. And last, but certainly not least, it may in due course provide the impulse for the populations of enemy countries to abandon their support of a barbaric aggression for which many of them have had little heart.

Mr. Hull has brought a wealth of humanity to his historic task. He remains the evangelical prophet who for so many years tried to persuade the world that it was headed for war; and he still so to speak, carries his duelling pistols in his tail pockets, for he has mixed charity with firmness.

But perhaps the point which will attract most attention is the provision for an international agency to keep the peace "by force, if necessary" for that represents the teeth in any measure of reform. Without an agency which can compel peace, we shall get a repitition of the tragedy of the Marble Palace on the shore of Lake Geneva.

Mr. Hull doesn't specify the nature of the agency, but the trend of events leads one to envisage a policy of the world so long as necessary by the big four of the Allies—the British Empire the United States, Russia and China.

Fresh Dressed Poultry Holds

TORONTO, July 24 — (CP). — The fresh dressed poultry market held fairly steady during the early part of the current week, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reports.

Later a better enquiry was in evidence for fowl of all weights and heavy chickens.

Receipts of all kinds of poultry were plentiful with the exception of heavy weight chicken for which the demand exceeds the supply causing quotations for this class of poultry to register an advance. Arrival of fowl was more than local requirements could absorb but any surplus found a ready market at eastern points. Broilers were plentiful and surplus was being packed for storage. General quality of receipts was fairly good. The local demand was holding steady and movement to outside points was good. One carload of frozen young turkeys went forward to Montreal containing 40 per cent Grade A, 50 per cent Grade B, and 10 per cent Grade C.

Quotations were unchanged with the exception of heavy roasting chickens.

Dealers are quoting producers and country dealers:

Broilers—Grade A milk-fed, 25 to 28c; Grade B milk-fed, 24 to 25c; Grade B, 23c.

Chickens, roasters—Grade A milk-fed 28c, Grade B milk-fed 27c, Grade A, 26 to 27, Grade B 25c, Grade C, 20c.

Fowl.- Grade A, 5 lbs. and up. 22c; 4 to 5 lbs. 21c; 3 to 4 lbs, 20c Grade B, 5 lbs and up, 20c, 4 to 5 lbs. 19c; 3 to 4 lbs. 18c.

Million In Food Ready For Orient

OTTAWA, July 24—(CP).—Lt.-Col. F. W. Clarke, officer in the Department of National Defence charged with the care and welfare of Canadian prisoners of war, said today Canadian participation in a planned shipment of food parcels to war prisoners in the Orient is under discussion by the Canadian and American Red Cross societies.

Today, in San Francisco, American Red Cross disclosed that it will have a ship loaded and ready to sail from San Francisco within two weeks with $1,000,000 worth of package food for American war prisoners and civilian internees in the Orient.

Dr. Clarke said negotiations have not yet reached the stage where any definite information about proposed Canadian participation in the shipment can be given out.

"Disclosure of any plans we have would be premature," he said. "But you may be sure that every possible advantage will be taken of any opportunity that may arise to forwar food supplies, medicines and comforts to Canadians who are prisoners of war in the Far East."

King Ready For Election Over Issue

Resents Criticism Of His Leadership; Hot House Session

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 24 (CP) — The way was cleared for imposition of unlimited conscription when the House of Commons gave third reading last night to Bill 80 after an old-fashioned political free-for-all in which Prime Minister Mackenzie King expressed his readiness to hold a general election.

The Prime Minister, expressing resentment at criticism of his leadership in the House and in the Press, declared his belief that he held the confidence of the people and his willingness to test it.

His speech brought back memories of the opening day of the first 1940 session of Parliament and preparations for a general election because of attacks made upon the government's efficiency in time of war.

The conscription measure—Bill 80—empowering the government to impose compulsory service for overseas by order-in-council, was adopted with a recorded vote of 141 to 45.

Previously the House had rejected a motion by J. S. Roy (Ind. Gaspe) giving the bill a "six months' hoist" by a vote of 150 to 37. C.C.F. members voted against the hoist but also voted against third reading. The vote for the hoist got support from two Quebec Independents and 35 Quebec Liberals.

Up to Senate Now

Now the bill is in the hands of the Senate. When it passes there and becomes law it is the intention of the Government to feel free to impose unlimited conscription at any time by order-in-council without further reference to Parliament on the merits of that action.

The Senate gave third reading to and passed war risk insurance bill yesterday. It delayed third reading of the land settlement bill to give Senator F. B. Black (Con., New Brunswick), chairman of the Senate banking and commerce committee which considered the bill time to study an amendment.

In his speech to the House last night on the conscription bill, Mr. King repeated his pledge that before he attempts to put such an order-in-council into operation he will ask Parliament for a vote of confidence in himself and his administration.

In this connection he mentioned, as he did in the House on Wednesday, the desirability of having not

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

TWEED, July 24 (ENS) — Dr. Dennison, Fort William, who has been camping at Stuco Lake, is the latest angler to report the capture of a big muskie from local waters. The doctor was trailing a "red-eye" on a light trolling line among the weeds, a few rods from the Ketcheson cottage on Sugar Island, which he has been occupying, when the fish took hold.

His wife was at the oars, while his young son was perched at the front of the boat. He did not like to attempt capture of the muskie with two other passengers in the boat, on light tackle, so he told his wife to head for shore. He played the fish gently, gradually tiring it out.

When a few feet off shore, he jumped out of the boat and hauled his quarry hand-over-hand toward the sand beach. When the fish was within reach, he grabbed it in his arms and tossed it to dry land where its career was quickly ended.

This is a unique method of landing a big fish, but at least it was successful, which is the main thing. The muskie tipped the scales at twenty-five pounds.

Ross Fetterly, perennial Toronto angler, caught a couple of small muskies this week, one weighing seven pounds and the other six. Mr. Fetterly, who brought in a twenty-eight pounder two weeks ago, states that he is after the "daddy of them all," which he says must weigh fifty pounds. Mr. Fetterly, who employs a jitter-bug lure for casting, declares his intended victim has followed the bait almost to the boat on numerous occasions, but when it sees the craft, it flips its tail and heads back to deep waters.

Wilma Bryden, daughter of Damon Bryden, reeve of township of Kaladar, accidentally fractured her left collar bone at her home on Wednesday. The fracture was reduced by a local physician.

Sandra, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Rivers of Otter Creek, was kicked by a horse on Thursday morning, near the barn at her father's farm. The blow caused a slight concussion and rib injuries. The child was treated for these at her home.

Stanley Courneyea of Sulphide, while fishing at the lake, accidentally had two barbs of a plug buried in his back. They were so badly imbedded that it was necessary to bring him to a local physician to have them removed. Donald Woods, son of William Woods, Tweed, suffered a similar accident when a fish hook became caught in his leg.

Ten Killed In "Flash" Flood

The disastrous "Flash" flood is shown at its height at Port Allegany, Pa., where a third of the city was wiped out by fire and water. Houses set afire by bursting gas mains floated from their foundations spreading fire to other buildings. The large building in flames here is the Port Allegany Silk Mill. The main portion of the town is directly behind it. Damage estimated at $10,000,000 was done by the "flash" flood from Coudersport, Pa., to Salamanca, N.Y., on the upper Alleghany River valley, and 10 persons were killed.

Found Lifeboat With 16 Tots Machine-gunned

TORONTO, July 24. — Frank Laskier, English merchant seaman, came to Toronto yesterday on his Navy League speaking tour and said he wants to return to sea as soon as his tour ends.

He wants to sail again to even the score with the Nazis for the leg he lost in battle and for the shipmates who died when their craft was sunk.

"It was just plain murder," he said as he told employees yesterday of Toronto Shipbuilding, Limited, how the Germans turned machine guns on himself and his shipmates after the sinking.

Laskier was one of eight survivors of a British ship shelled and sunk by the German pocket battleship Admiral von scheer. He achieved overnight fame in Britain several months ago with the simple story he broadcast of his ordeal.

"It is the men and women in the world who are working that form the last line of resistance against Hitler," he said. "When this war started, people were saying that it was a phony war. I'll tell you how phony it is. Five days after the war started my ship was torpedoed. It sank within seven and a half minutes. I lost twenty-six of my mates. The sub never came up until the ship had gone down, and all we had was the captain's revolver. They were even afraid of that.

"Returning to England, a nine-knot ship in a ten-knot convoy, we were forced to drop out. The next day we came across a lifeboat. We were suspicious of it, because the German sub commanders will use a lifeboat to conceal their periscope and you'll be a sitting target when you stop. Anyhow, we took a chance. I lifted the tarp that covered the boat, and there were sixteen dead children lying there.

Only Ship With Children.

"Those dead children were from the City of Benares, the only ship in her convoy carrying children; the only ship that was attacked and sunk. Will you believe it," said Laskier, "so help me, there were machine-gun bullets in that boat!!"

Laskier told of a sinking by the Admiral von Scheer 800 miles off the coat of Africa. "She had six 11-inch guns and eight 5.9's, and she hit us with every one of them. I got one shot out of our gun before they smashed it. I went up on the bridge, where my mate had been—a fellow I went to school with, learned to drink with, and worked with—and there he was, lying on the shattered woodwork, trying to keep his guts in with his knees. And I had to tell his wife he died peacefully.

"When the ship had been ripped to shreds — the Germans had been loading their 5.9's with shrapnel — the mate signalled them that the ship was sinking. They kept right on blasting away at us. Men went into the water, clutching at planks, and the raider turned on her searchlights and killed them with tracer bullets from machine guns. Eight of us escaped.

"I tell you," said Laskier, "this war has stopped being a war of politicians. Those flannel-footed, mush-mouthed illegitimates who sneak around saying that are crazy. This war will be finished only when our troops are in Berlin. The navy is relying on people like you to put them there."

Cheese Factories Are Unable To Secure Boxes

CAMPBELLFORD, July 24. — (ENS). — The problem of cheese boxes once again confronted cheese men of the Campbellford district when it was revealed on Thursday evening. Stanwood Factory boarded 42 cases of cheese, but salesman Chester Irwin explained that delivery was dependent on getting boxes so they were sold subject to later delivery than the other offerings.

Though there was little discussion of this angle of the cheese business at the board meeting some light was thrown on the question at the local box factory where the maker, Ellis Hoard, has been suffering enforced idleness for the past two days. Reason for this is the lack of material to make boxes. A car load of material is said to be en route from Montreal, but just when it will arrive is not known. According to him the situation is not nearly so critical in Seymour as it is in Prince Edward County, where several factories are contemplating a shutdown as they lack sufficient storage space on their ranges for any more cheese.

At least seven factories in Seymour are crying for boxes and the factory here has not more than two dozen for sale all made from second grade material which under any other cicumstances would be discarded.

Not in his sixteen years as boxmaker had he ever seen such a shortage of material Mr. Hoard told the Examiner. Both veneer and headings are almost impossible to obtain, he said. Predominant reason for the trouble is the labor shortage which appears to be growing steadily worse, and to aggravate the problem is the fact that not only are more cheese being made, but specifications call for a smaller cheese and hence more boxes.

Australia's Tax Plan Is Upheld

MELBOURNE, July 24—(AP). — In one of the most important legal decisions in Australia's history, the High Court ruled today that the Federal Parliament acted within its powers in adopting a Dominion-wide uniform taxation plan.

The States of Victoria, South Australia, Queensland and Western Australia had attacked the plan as usurping their constitutional rights.

The judgment represented a majority decision of the court. The taxation plan was held valid in its entirety.

The four States—New South Wales and Tasmania did not participate in the appeal—applied for a decree invalidating four income tax acts passed by the Federal Parliament.

The application was made on the grounds that the acts were beyond the powers of the Commonwealth Parliament, the States contending the acts constituted a scheme for compelling the States to abandon their constitutional rights to impose taxation on incomes.

The position now is that the Commonwealth will impose income taxation while the States will receive financial assistance from the Commonwealth enabling them to perform their essential services.

2 Men Burned In Boiler Blast

TORONTO, July 24 — (CP). — Two Toronto men were burned severely early to-day when a boiler exploded in a bread company plant. They were taken to hospital and are given little chance of recovery.

The men are James Kurton, 35, a stationary engineer, and John Murphy, 41, maintenance foreman. The accident occurred in the (Ideal Bread Co.) plant at Dovercourt Road in the western section of the city when Kurton was lighting the gas jets beneath the boiler. It is believed that too much gas was allowed to accumulate before the torch was applied.

Only yesterday the boiler heating system was changed from crude oil to gas.

Dr. Miller of the Western Hospital reported both men suffered third degree burns.

Port Hope Club Holds Successful Tea

PORT HOPE, July 24 (ENS) — The home of Mrs. Frank Meyers 65 Hope street, was the setting for a delightful high tea on Thursday afternoon, when almost forty members and friends of the Thursday afternoon Bridge Club entertained, and made almost $10.00, which will be used for the upkeep of their ditty bags for the H.M.C.S. This club plans to hold monthly teas for this purpose and the next tea will be held at the home of Mrs. W. C. Brown, Shuter street, in August.

Hears Son 6,000 Miles

TAUNTON, Mass., July 23.—(AP). —A day-old baby boy established something of a long distance record for infants last night when his voice carried 6,000 miles over the telephone to his father, Capt. Thomas Sicilliano, an army medical officer, in Honolulu. The father asked to hear the baby's voice when he spoke to his wife in hospital here.

New Brakes—$114

COFFEYVILLE, Kas., July 24.— (AP).—Motorist H. V. Alloway decided to drive to a repair shop to see if his brakes needed fixing. They did. His car clashed through the plate glass window of the shop before he could stop. Brake repairs cost $5. The window cost $109.

Lakefield's Fair Plans Special Class For Clydes

LAKEFIELD, July 24 (ENS) — Lakefield's Fair Board officials decided to accept the proposition put before them by Harry McIntyre of Otonabee, representative of the Peterborough Clydesdale Association and makes a separate class for Clydesdale horses at the Fall Fair, which is being held on September 22 and 23.

President of the Fair, H. E. Abbott was in charge of the directors' meeting held in the Memorial Hall on Wednesday evening.

It was also decide that the prize money would be equally distributed among the prize winners in the Clydesdale class regardless of where they placed. Several changes were also made in the prize list

Mrs. Dave Webster, one of the directors, and Mrs. Howard Beavis, wife of the secretary, persuaded the members to give two special prizes, one for the best display of vegetables from the school gardens of the district, the other for the best collection of articles for the soldiers and war victims, submitted by the different groups in the district engaged in war work. This collection is to consist of quilts, knitted articles and clothing.

There were twelve members of the board in attendance.

Transient Wanders Into Lawyer's Home Retires To One Of Upstairs Bedrooms

COBOURG, July 24.—(ENS). — Police yesterday afternoon arrested Raymond Minaker, transient, after he had wandered into the home of Crown Attorney Harry Deyman. Mrs. Deyman heard him moving about and went out of the house to get the police. Chief W. J. Carey was already looking for the man and Mrs. Deyman was relieved to find police help right at hand. Minaker was in an upstairs room bedroom sitting on the floor removing his shoes. He gave no trouble when being removed to the jail. Police believe that he is not normal. Earlier in the afternoon the chief of police received a call that a stranger was wandering around Hatfield Hall and it was while looking for him that he was found in the Deyman house, which is just across the street. He was locked up on a vagrancy charge.

The Crown Attorney may soon be shopping around for a new watch dog. Harry has always sworn by his bulldog. When Chief W. J. Carey, who usually has a way with dogs and children, arrived the bulldog failed to recognize the law and tried to defend the household from the police. The Chief finally convinced the dog that he was a friend and proceeded to arrest the stranger, who was apparently suffering from a mental condition. Where the bulldog let his master down was that after showing determined opposition to the law, he only grunted suspiciously at the stranger and then became quite chummy with him. All of which is no way for a watch dog to carry on.

War Finance Office

COBOURG, July 24 — (ENS). — The vacant store next to the Sentinel Star office, formerly occupied by the Jeffrey ice cream store, has been rented to the National War Finance Committee, Ontario Division, and will be used for the duration as a district office. G. W. Birmingham of Cobourg has been appointed assistant secretary. James Skelley of Toronto will be sent here as organizer and later a secretary will be appointed. The premises are being fixed up as an office.

Home On Leave

COBOURG, July 24—(ENS). — Sergeant W. A. Boundy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Boundy of Cobourg, is on leave here. He recently graduated as a sergeant air gunner at Mountain View, and was second in his class. He joined the R.C.A.F. in November of 1941, and trained at Eglinton and later Mountain View.

A Reason For Haste

It is clear that Germany is giving everything of which it is capable to the campaign in Russia, hoping to strike a knock-out blow at our ally before the winter comes again. For winter must bulk increasingly large in the mind of Adolf Hitler. Whatever success he may enjoy in Russia a dreadful winter faces him and his people; but if they have to face that winter without success the blow to German morale will be a severe one.

* * *

Perhaps we are inclined to talk too much about morale, and to lay too much store by its rises and falls. Travellers who recently arrived at Ankara from Berlin said that German morale was good, and could last for several years yet under present hardships. The Germans are not babies, and we need not assume that anything will affect them seriously which would not affect ourselves in similar circumstances. We need not count on bombing to break the German spirit. Hunger, however, is another matter.

* * *

Fortitude is not hard for people with full bellies; but a hungry stomach will not allow its owner to forget it, whatever his cares and sorrows. And the promises and fine words of a leader can make little difference to a nation which is suffering from under-nourishment. Germany has been on a bad diet for some years, and it faces worse privations now than any which were its lot in the bitter days of 1918. Last winter was the worst which Germany has had in 150 years and its own government estimates that Germany lost 8,000,000 acres of crops from this cause alone. There is a shortage of 600,000 farm workers and the weather this summer has been bad. Germany expects one of the most miserable harvests in her recent history. Already vegetables are rationed, and each person is supposed to receive a pound a week, though the full weight is seldom to be had. Potatoes are particularly scarce, and it has been necessary to raise the bread ration to offset this deficiency. The government has ordered farmers to hand over their entire grain crops for distribution, and the penalty for failure to comply with this order ranges from a heavy fine to death.

* * *

It is not expected that the grain crop from the Ukraine will do a great deal to relieve the situation, for the prevailing bad conditions have affected it, too. It looks as though this will be Germany's bitterest winter. And unless Hitler is able to provide his people with a really spectacular victory the depressing effect of perpetual hunger may lower their morale to the point where it will be really dangerous to the Nazi cause. Germany, in fact, will be little better off than Occupied Europe.

* * *

Britain is vulnerable because she relies heavily upon supplies of food from abroad, but she is strong for precisely the same reason. We on this continent are quite capable of raising food for her and, by dint of exertion and risk, of seeing that she gets that food. Not so Europe; bad harvests and the desolation of war are starving her, and her Nazi masters along with her. The pinch of hunger may yet prove a deciding factor in this war.

Liquor Question Again

Elsewhere on this page we publish another letter from Mr. M. C. MacLean, who has already addressed us twice on the subject of total abstinence; upon the last occasion he indiscreetly and unjustly referred to one of our editorials as 'beer propaganda' and we were forced to set him right on that matter. This time he contents himself with writing a few pages of water propaganda, to which we shall reply as briefly as we may.

When Mr. MacLean's editor friend said that the total abstinence people were "attempting too little to arouse and inform public opinion" he was not wholly accurate. They are doing a good deal to arouse public opinion and they are making a pretence of informing it; actually they are not attempting to inform, but to mould by means of suggestion. Mr. MacLean's letter is typical of the method. Consider: he tells us that information is "leaking" out of Pearl Harbor, Hong Kong and Singapore which shows that alcohol and war do not mix. This carries exactly as much weight as if we were to say that information is leaking out of astronomical observatories that the moon is made of green cheese. Who says these things, when did they say them, and what proof have they of their statements? Admittedly we cannot drink our way to victory, but has anybody said that we were attempting to do so?

We have never heard of the American Business Men's Research Foundation and we are no more prepared to accept its findings than those of the Gallup Poll. Nor are we impressed by Mr. MacLean's assumption that their word will carry more weight with us than will that of the church. We suggest that the tendency to set business before church is a greater evil than drink and a more widespread one. As for the "facts" which Mr. MacLean quotes, they are not facts at all but simply question-begging statements, designed to mould opinion but not to inform it. Would the grain used in manufacturing alchool be used to feed the needy, if it were not so used? Certainly our present surplusses do not encourage such a hope. All trades lessen the power to purchase other things and many a scholar and artist has acknowledged his debt to the bottle; and as for the effect of liquor on religious belief, the late G. K. Chesterton has settled that matter with greater ability than any we can pretend to. The latest traffic report of the Ontario Government shows that less than ten per cent. of motor accidents are traceable to drunken driving. We likewise deny that the liquor trade defies restriction with the consent of "conniving officials"; the liquor trade in this Province is a Government monopoly, hedged about with more restrictions than any other form of business and we have yet to hear of any connivance by officials. When will the total abstinence faction learn that these bold, bald, unsupported accusations convince nobody? For a fee, we would be willing to teach them how to argue.

Once again, we deplore the tone of Mr. MacLean's penultimate paragraph, in which he exalts the judgments of this Research Foundation above those of the church; we doubt if the church will thank him for this mercantile corroboration. Once again, Mr. MacLean leaves us a strong supporter of temperance and freedom, and as opposed as ever to total abstinence and coercion.

Cheers For The School Car

We think that cheers are in order for the School Car, which is operated by the Ontario Department of Education in conjunction with the Canadian Pacific Railway. The Car is a peregrinating classroom, in charge of Mr. W. H. McNally, and it travels about in Northern Ontario, stopping for three days at each settlement, holding classes and then going on its way, leaving the pupils with sufficient work in hand to last them until the car turns up again. During the past school term the car had an almost perfect attendance. Several pupils have passed grade tests, four are writing high school examinations. Mr. McNally's special pride at the moment is Dolphus Chene, the son of a Kenogama trapper, who got all his education from the School Car, and is now in a bomber squadron of the R.A.F. on active service.

In some respects the School Car represents an almost perfect form of education. First, it is romantic; it piques the curiosity and compels attention. Second, its visits are infrequent, and are consequently valued. Third, it has time only to point the way to learning; its pupils must do most of the hard work themselves, thereby gaining the inestimable benefits of self-education. No wonder the School Car boys and girls do so well; they have to seek education. Our more fortunate children are continually exposed to education, and it sometimes appears that they have developed an immunity to it.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

THIS is the month in which to break sod. It is pretty well agreed among farmers that the month of July is the time to kill plants by plowing. The homesteaders breaking sod on the prairies always found the month of July the best time to turn over the prairie sod, work it down with the disc and leave it to rot, forming a good seed bed for wheat the following spring. This is just as true of the hay or pasture field in the province of Ontario.

Sod in this province is frequently broken for fall wheat, and in this case plowing in July will always get the best results. When plowing in this way for wheat a packer should follow the plow at once. As most of such breaking is done with a tractor it is a good plan to have the packer drawn after the plow. If the packer is some wider than the furrows turned by the plow, so much the better, as the plowed land will get almost two strokes of the packer, and the better the turned furrows are flattened down the more rapidly will be the decaying set in.

The packer should be followed at once by the double disc. Don't wait until you have finished plowing to hitch to the disc. When you get three or four acres plowed stop the plow and double disc what you have plowed. In this way you get your turned furrows sealed and ready to begin the rotting so necessary to put the soil in a good condition of tilth. All plant life seem to succumb to the plow to the greatest degree in July, so if there are weeds in the field you will break down their hold on life and many of them will succumb.

Few weeds are as vicious as sow thistle, yet I have found farmers who claim to have given it a bad knock by plowing in July. If rain follows the discing, watch for any green sprouts coming up and double disc the field again. It requires some additional work to follow up in this way but it will pay to take time off to do it even if you are busy, because it is important to check any growth which may start before you sow the wheat.

WITH lamb chops retailing at 55 cents per pound the chances of profit from sheep were never better. We have not been great eaters of lamb or mutton in Canada, but the shortage of beef during the past few weeks has turned the attention of many people to lamb as a very tasty substitute. There has been a good supply of fed lambs on the market this spring and while it may be classed as "young mutton" it is very good meat and has met a steady demand. In England they long have known what a really good mutton chop is like, and they are also large consumers of home-grown lambs, as well as "Canterbury Lamb," which has been a choice product exported from New Zealand to England.

Canada offers a very sound farming investment in sheep at the present time. Wool is bound to be in keen demand for some years and if our production of market lambs becomes too large for home consumption, we should have a good sale in both the United States and Britain.

WE have quite an acreage of land in Ontario which would make fair sheep pasture and is not very useful for anything else. If some of this land was bought by farmers who are well-established it could be used for sheep pasture and then parts of it plowed and seeded to rape of some similar crop which could be pastured by sheep somewhat intensively. It might produce a few grain crops when thus fertilized by sheep, with perhaps some residue of clover plowed into it. Such soil could in this way be built into usefulness, but such a plan should be be tried as a side-line by a farmer who is living on a profitable farm of his own. A man who would undertake to begin farming in this way would have to possess a good deal of skill to get on with the business, in its early stages.

Many barn mows were left rather empty last spring when the farm beasts were turned out to grass, but there is every evidence that they will be bursting when the hay crop of this year is finally housed, and it is pretty well gathered at the time of writing. This hay crop should be saved against a short supply in the next two or three years. Hay should never be sold except to meet very pressing debts. It is fine insurance for the livestock farmer and should be held for future needs.

Plenty of feed for the farm animals and plenty of food for the soil are good farm practices. I remember as a lad some old Scottish farmers feeding cattle at very little profit, but they always said, "We also have the manure". This was something for a few youths to laugh at, but these men knew what they were doing. They were enriching their land to grow good crops when these might go up in price. The result was that these men became profitable and successful farmers, because they knew how to lay fertility by for a time when it would serve them well. Farming must be planned long and carefully for the future.

AN order has been issued in England to have 3,000 acres of crop, and about as many of pasture, in East Anglia, abandoned by the farmers residing on and farming this land. About 33 farmers will lose their farms and crops, and 250 farm workers their jobs. This area includes the residence of the Lord of the Manor, the local clergy and shopkeepers, and the land is to be vacated by every single person by July 20th, which will be a few days before this appears in print. All parties are to be compensated, and moving expenses paid. This district on the Eastern English coast contains a good deal of fruit, and vegetables such as asparagus are grown. The area is to be turned into a practice battlefield, and the military people say any crop left will be ruined by heavy tanks.

This is a quite significant move as East Anglia would be a natural place from which to make an invasion move, and this order has come quickly and imperatively. Protests were made by farmers and others, but they were answered by the milyitary authorities to the effect that this area must be vacated at once, no other would answer, and that the military authorities could not consider postponing the order until after harvest. Crops will be salvaged as effectively as possible, and on one or two Sundays cottagers will have an opportunity to visit their gardens to rescue what food they can.

Origin of Haberdashery

GERMAN peddlers, roaming through England in the Middle Ages, cried out, "Haber das!" (Have this! In time the English referred to them as haberdashers and their wares came to be known as haberdashery.—Neal O'Hara, in the New York Post.

Lower Don Line Still Holds

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

THE ominous German boast that Nazi forces have crossed the lower Don east of the Donets confluence on a wide front remained unconfirmed as this was written, encouraing hope that the Russians have averted so perilous a breakthrough on that vital river front.

The Nazi battle design must fall short of decisive results while a Russian stand along the left bank of the Don is possible. The Russian defense line still guards the oil fields of the Caucasus, communications between Red armies of the south and those of the north and east and the Allied supply routes for Russia via the Persian Gulf, Iran and the Caspian so long as it lies unbroken along the Don.

Moscow confirms Nazi claims of close investment of Rostov on the right or north flank of the Don near its mouth, stating that "the battle of Rostov is on." The implication is that Marshal Timoshenko has elected to stand siege at Rostov rather than fall back across the Don at that point to stand along the left bank.

BRIDGES DESTROYED

His reasons for holding the Rostov outpost north of the river are not clear. Berlin has claimed destruction of bridges in the Rostov area. The major bridges, including the main rail connection between the Caucasus and the rest of Russia and the pipeline crossing, are at Rostov itself. They join the sections of the city separated by the Don.

The German's mention of bridge destruction may have been intended to convey the impression that a considerable portion of the Russian left wing army had been trapped north of the river and was about to be annihilated. It did not say so. Nor is it likely that any larger force would be marooned north of the river than its commander elected to leave there as a rear guard.

It follows that if Timoshenko has left a heavy force on the north bank he has some other purpose in mind than merely outpost protection for his Don front. He still may hope to use his north bank bridgehead for counter-attack operations, once his enemies could be brought to a stand against the lower Don and its marshes.

NAZI CLAIM CHALLENGED

The fact that Russian forces still were fighting north of the Don in the Rostov environs, according to last reports from Berlin, tends also to challenge the German claim to a wide-front crossing of the Don seventy miles eastward above the Donets inflow point. Had a substantial German force reached the south bank of the river at that point, it seems unlikely that Timoshenko could have attempted to keep a north bank foothold at Rostov. He would need all the forces he could concentrate south of the river to meet the German threat to rupture his lines.

Moscow also admits a further German advance eastward in the Don bend toward Stalingrad, where Berlin said little Russian resistance was being encountered. The indicated explanation of that is that Timoshenko is still falling back upon the Don to keep his lines intact around the perimeter of the bend and thus guard at least the narrow, high ground corridor between the Don and the Volga east of the Don bend which is Stalingrad's last protection. That corridor is less than fifty miles wide, which sufficiently indicates the desperately slim margin remaining if the Nazi steam-roller is to be halted short of cutting Timoshenko's forces apart and isolating the Caucasus from the rest of Russia.

Letters To The Editor

A REPLY TO MR. SMITH.

Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—In Saturday's Examiner, a Mr. F. Smith in supposedly caustic terms decried our system of shutting up shop on Wednesday afternoons. The fact that salespeople make up for that afternoon on Saturday evenings has already been pointed out. Mr. Smith, however, may still point to the munitions factories and beer parlors which evidently (Mr. Smith seems to know) work their employees twelve hours at a time. I should just like to say, that with the possible nervous and physical exertion of employees, the former establishments may defeat their own ends, and that, regarding the latter, it might be better if they did not stay open so long (and I am not referring merely to the employees' situation).

There is one other point which was puzzling Mr. Smith evidently: the fact that we should ever have the atrocious idea of closing our stores Wednesday mornings also. Just think, Mr. Smith may not be able to buy a box of chocolates or a pair of socks because he finds the store doors locked—it really is too bad. But I would say, that a reduction of the forty-eight hour week is a much-desired Utopianism, which certainly has to be started to somebody.

However, Mr. Smith, through ignorance (which must be excused as he is a newcomer to the city) has made a wrong supposition. The reason the stores were to be closed Wednesday mornings was that the clerks might go out to farms in the district to help the farmers.

Also, I should like to point out to Mr. Smith that the stores are not getting the material now that they were formerly; that the government wants us to cut down spending to avoid inflation, and that having the stores closed an extra day a week should aid this cause.—Yours very truly,

S. L. B.

MORE ABOUT THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—I approve of your views on the functions of a newspaper, as a medium for the expression of public opinion. Another editor said to me a few days ago, "Temperance people are attempting too little to inform and arouse public opinion." Probably so, and with your generous permission I wish to profit by the reproof.

The Dominion Parliament has had much to say recently about the waste caused in war-time by the traffic in intoxicating beverages, and the Premier of Ontario informs us that there is "a wave of prohibition hysteria" sweeping the country and concludes by saying that he (and that probably means his government) intends to make no changes in regulations regardless of popular demands. An astonishing declaration for a Liberal and a teetotaller!

Information is "leaking" out of Pearl Harbor, Hong Kong and Singapore showing that "war and alcohol do not mix better than alcohol and gasoline." We cannot drink our way to victory. Some of us will remember that in the Indian Mutiny "General Havelock and his saints," believers in prayer and abstinence, were noted for their courage and dependability in a crisis.

Probably the realistic judgment of practical business men carries more influence today than the more idealistic views of church and social welfare organizations. "The American Business Men's Research Foundation" recently issued a statement citing the following facts concerning the liquor business as reported by 'The Christian Science Monitor';

1. The liquor trade is the only manufacturing trade whose products are achieved by the destruction of vast quantities of nutritious grains, fruits and sugars with the resultant ingredient of alcohol poison.

2. It is the only trade whose competition in any community lessens the purchasing power of its patrons for the necessities and comforts of life and constantly weakens their interest in educational, cultural and religious activities.

3. It is the only trade through whose community portals daily emerge thousands of drunken drivers and pedestrians, who provide the major cause for accidents and fatalities on the highways of the nation.

4. It is the only trade in which thousands of its retail sales outlets inevitably become the rendezvous and headquarters of criminals, gamblers and prostitutes.

5. It is the only trade that continues to defy every curb and restriction placed upon it by the community to whatever extent it finds it possible with the consent of conniving officials.

The reader will do well to remember that these are not the judgment of church courts but of the "American Business Men's Research Foundation." As is well known, however, church courts have reached and published the same facts repeatedly.

Thanking you for your generosity in giving your valuable space for this letter.

Unconsidered Trifles

An old gentleman saw a group of small boys in an English park and asked one of them what game they were going to play.

"Cricket," said the youngster. "We're going to play a game of England versus the West Indies."

"Are some of you going to black your faces, then?" asked the old gentleman.

"Oh, no!" said the youngster, very seriously, "some of us are going to wash them."

"I want some collars for my husband, but I forgot the size he takes," said a lady at the counter of a hosier's shop.

"Thirteen and a half?" suggested the assistant.

"I think you're right," said the customer. "How did you guess?"

"Well, it's a funny thing," replied the assistant, "but I've noticed that men whose wives buy their collars for them are invariably undersized."

A Bible Message For Today

Abide in me and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye except ye abide in me.

I am the vine, ye are the branches; he that abideth in me and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit, for without me ye can do nothing.

If a man abide not in me he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them and cast them into the fire, and they are burned.

If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will and it shall be done unto you.—John 15: 4-7.

Whitehall Notebook

By DOUGLAS AMARON
C.P. Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 24 (CP)—It's not so long ago that J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, used to pick up the Congressional Record to read the latest wisecrack from senators and congressmen about him sunning on Miami's sands—with a photographer conveniently present.

But since the F.B.I. distinguished itself by promptly rounding up the eight Nazi saboteurs landed by submarines off Florida and New York, there's a congressional movement to pin a medal on Hoover for "extraordinary services."

One of the methods of pooh-poohing Hoover used to be to accuse him of building up the F.B.I. by publicity stunts that would have done credit to Barnum. But you will never be able to convince the eight saboteurs that they face the firing squad merely because some amateur detectives were lucky.

ST. LAWRENCE NEXT?

When the Senate approved the $93,000,000 Florida barge canal-oil pipeline bill a few days ago, speculation developed on the possibility that President Roosevelt might turn on the heat in order to get approval for his pet scheme of developing the power and navigation facilities of the St. Lawrence River.

One of the arguments against the St. Lawrence project has been that it could be of little, perhaps no, use in wartime. The same argument was used against the Florida development, particularly the canal end of it, but it failed to swing a majority of either the House or Senate against it.

Huns' New Order Just Despotism Claims Dr. Cody

TORONTO, July 24—(CP).—Addresses by Joel Dean, chief of fuel rationing, office of price administration, Washington, D.C., and President H. J. Cody of the University of Toronto, were highlights of the 26th annual convention of Lions International to-day as 10,000 delegates from 11 different countries entered the third day of proceedings.

"The present struggle is really one of the most idealistic of wars," Dr. Cody said. "Its range is as wide as the world and the issues are antagonistic ideas. At the bottom it is a colossal example of the fight between good and evil."

"There are sharp differences of conviction among us, but only to the extent to which we should be in it. A total war cannot be fought on a part-time basis or on a morally limited basis. That most Canadians believe."

"This civilization has been assailed by our enemies in every particular, and we are set for its defence. Should this evil spirit conquer, we should be hurled back into the jungle where no right is known but that of might. The so-called new order which Nazis have promised to Europe turns out to be only the oldest order known to history—despotism, and extinction of individual freedom. Murder is committed in the name of the law; terror takes the place of justice; famine reigns instead of wider distribution of wealth; slavery, espionage, imprisonment, concentration camps, hatred, are the characteristics of the government of conquered lands.

"If you wish to know what would be the fate of your country, picture what has already happened in Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia. It might happen to us if we lost."

Dr. Cody saiad administration o. a conquered country is a process of concentrating industries, armament manufacture and of reducing other countries to serfdom. "Even this continent could not ultimately escape, it would be conquered economically, if not by military invasion'

"We must win, without any compromise, if we wish to survive as free peoples."

Colin Campbell Now Lt.-Colonel

Somewhere n England, July 24—(CP Cable)—Colin Campbell, Ontario cabinet minister who was commissioned a lieutenant upon his enlistment in the Royal Canadian Engineers in 1939, has been promoted from major to lieutenant-colonel, it was announced today.

Campbell's rise is unparalleled in the overseas army. He has been commanding a tunnelling company, R.C.E., doing remarkable work on British defences. The first Canadian sappers to work on Gibraltar defences were from this company.

Campbell is 41.

He has been responsible for a number of important engineering developments which are still secret. Campbell recently visited Canadians at Gibraltar with Maj.-Gen. C.S.L. Hertsberg of the Canadian army staff.

Officer In Training Spots Planes

Officers in training at H.M.S. King Alfred, a Royal Navy school, perform their share of war duties. This young man is standing his watch as an airplane spotter. Establishment of training facilities in Canada has made it unnecessary to send Canadians to England for instruction, so there are no longer any Royal Canadian Navy men at King Alfred. They remember the boys, though.

Canadians Are Fighters All Itching To Get Into Battle

By LIEUT. E. H. BARTLETT, R.C.N.V.R.

The last class of Canadian naval officers-in-the-making has passed through H. M. S. King Alfred, one of the Royal Navy's training centres.

Today, and hence forth, the successors of the scores of Canadian officers who have taken training at King Alfred in England will undergo the same courses in Canada.

In the meantime, Canada's connection with H.M.S. King Alfred will be maintained by those who, since the first days of war, have hold upon them is strong, whether they left for service in the far-off waters of the Pacific Ocean, or to take command of a small motor torpedo boat in the English Channel. So strong, in fact, that officer after officer, during his short spells of leave, makes certain that he will have time for at least one visit to King Alfred.

Watches Her Graduates

And, in return, King Alfred watches the progress of her proteges . . . delights in their successes, their promotions and their new commands; glories in their distinctions, the Distinguished Service Crosses and the George Medals, the mentions in despatches and the Distinguished Service Orders, which have already come the way of these Canadian officers; records her casualties, the killed in action, the prisoners of war.

She has seen all this war's naval history being made, has King Alfred, and has had her share in the making. More, she has made history herself, for she is the first naval training establishment devoted exclusively to the training of officers in the volunteer reserve.

In the early days of the war, when groups of young Canadian volunteers left their own country for training in England, King Alfred was waiting for them. They were untested and untried.

King Alfred moulded them. She placed them beside similar volunteers from Australia and South Africa and New Zealand, mixed them with their confreres from England and Scotland, Wales and Ireland . . . and made the experiment work!

Record Shows Proof

Proof of the success is in the records. Literally in their thousands, during the war-years since the establishment was inaugurated, trained and qualified officers have come from King Alfred. From Canada alone came men who, since they left King Alfred, have seen service in the two Atlantics and the two Pacifics, the Mediterranean and the Red Sea, the North Sea and the Persian Gulf.

King Alfred, as she glories in the deeds of those she has sent forth, recalls, too, those early days when her enthusiastic fighting men were learning to be naval officers . . . Episodes like that of the young Canadian who, as part of his training, was called upon to take charge of a class in rifle drill. His first attempt left the regular instructors gasping.

"You know, fellows," the Canadian began, "the navy has a 'Slope Arms' and a 'Shoulder Arms.' It doesn't. It's silly, but that's the way it goes."

There is the story of another Canadian who, forgetting the order which would put the squad he was instructing into single file, solved the problem by shouting: "Thin out, you blighters." The squad responded smartly, but the instructors nearly had apoplexy.

They'll Never Forget

"No," said an English officer to the writer, "we'll never forget the Canadians."

"I know that I will never forget the three who went across to Dunkirk when France fell. They went across as a demolition party, and should have been back within a few days. Things were a little hectic then, so they didn't get back on time and I was rather worried about them. One other of our fellows got back a bit later and I immediately asked him if he had seen any Canadians."

"Well," he answered, "I saw three fellows whooping it up the main street of Calais, would that be them?"

"Of course it was," continued the English officer, "so I felt quite happy to know they were all right."

"Gad, they're fine fellows," he said. "Fighters all, they were always itching to get into it."

It was this officer (an old Etonian, by the way) who had to meet one draft of Canadians and see them safely installed in their billets. The fact that they arrived by a train six hours after the one on which they were due didn't perturb him.

Ideas Found Parallel

Many of Canada's entries into King Alfred had never been in England before and were rather dubious about how they would be received by their service hosts.

"It was a matter we used to thresh out right away," explained another officer. "We would tell them how glad we were that they had come over to broaden the minds of the "stolid Englishmen," then point out that there were lads from South Africa, New Zealand and Australia, who also had a few ideas of their own. Then, somehow, or other, when we got down to it, we found our main ideas were all along the same lines anyway..."

This officer happens incidentally, to be a South African who, originally in the air force, was grounded because of age. At Dunkirk he went to sea—five days and six nights with the evacuation fleet—and thence made his way into the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve.

"I think," he added, "that the reason we all worked together so well was just that we were all in the service. There's something about the navy which makes you forget the differences of country and of customs."

His English confrere took up the running.

Canadians Learn Quickly

"What I like about the Canadians," he said, "was the way that, although they sometimes didn't seem to understand that need for certain training and certain rules of discipline, they always conformed most cheerfully. Rather an attitude of 'Oh, well, the mad English," sort of thing..."

There were a couple of shocks for the Canadians, as well, he added.

One was "Bill."

Bill was a most likeable English cadet, who quickly earned his popularity with the Canadians. In true Canadian style they called him by his first name. Revoking the English manner of using surnames among friends, he reciprocated. It was not until the class was passing out and the seniority list was posted on the notice board, that the Canadians discovered the 'Bill" was "Sub. Lieut. Sir William so and so, Bart., R.N.V.R." They still call him Bill.

Another baronet was seeking his commission in the same way as they were earning theirs. He had enlisted as a seaman and had been recommended as an officer cadet. Unable to pass the necessary tests, he was rejected and, cheerfully, continues to serve as a seaman.

Pays His Own Way

Against this experience King Alfred matches the story of the young Canadian who, determined to get into the navy, paid his own passage to England and tried to enlist as a boy seaman, being only 17 years old. One of the Sea Lords saw him while he was enlisting, and learned his story. Impressed the Sea Lord had the young Canadian entered in King Alfred as a midshipman. Today he holds his commission in the Royal Canadian Navy.

"They're such fine fellows, they canno help making good," added the English officer. "We shall miss them here."

"They're tough nuts," agreed the South African, "but....I do like nuts."

Tough...and fine, as tempered steel is tough and fine.

U.S. Fleet In Action

London, July 24 (CP)

REAR-ADMIRAL Robert Giffen, commander of a United States naval force with the British fleet, disclosed today the force had been in action against enemy aircraft.

Admiral Giffen described the operations as "just the usual thing." Units of the American force have had flurries with planes but so far have not brushed with enemy naval craft, he said, adding that no severe damage has been suffered. The American fleet units were operating "in the north — against polar bears or something," before the United States entered the war, Admiral Giffen disclosed.

Sanction $115,000 To Encourage Nurses

OTTAWA, July 24 — (CP). — Expenditure of $115,000 out of the war appropriation to encourage and aid efforts to meet "the urgent requirements for trained nurses" is authorized in an Order-in-Council tabled in the House of Commons yesterday by Pensions Minister Mackenzie.

The money is to be distributed as follows:

1. $15,000 to assist the Canadian Nurses' Association in its educational campaign of promoting the recruitment of student nurses;

2. $75,000 to provide facilities for the tuition of teachers, supervisors, and administrators in schools of nursing which may require assistance in coping with the education of the increased number of student nurses registering at these schools.

3. $25,000 for scholarships for graduate nurses who are deemed by the Graduate Nurses' Association to be promising material for education as teachers, supervisors and administrators.

Hunt Parachutists

BALTIMORE, July 24—(AP).—Four companies of militia were dispatched to search a farm area near Ellicott City, Md., today after a report possible parachutist or parachutists had been seen there.

Three companies of minute men and one of the State Guard surrounded the area near the farm of Charles Miller after Edgar Amos, the tenant, reported seeng "two men carrying some white object over their shoulders," the Third Service Command announced.

The men fled into the woods as Amos and his wife attempted to approach them about 5.30 a.m., the announcement added.

CANADA'S GENERALS

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

At 62, Maj.-Gen. Victor W. Odlum is old as fighting soldiers go but he retains the fighting spirit which carried him up from the ranks to a commission in the South African war and made him an innovator of new tactics in the First Great War.

When the second conflict broke, this Vancouver business man, newspaper publisher, church leader and soldier wanted to get into it. He got the call to command the 2nd Division, took it to England, readied it for battle.

Then the government told him late in 1941 that he could better serve the nation as High Commission to Australia. He bowed to the decision. But he was bitterly disapointed at leaving the probable field of battle for what looked to him like a peaceful tour. It comforted him that the Pacific later became a dangerous zone—that he had not run away from the battle to security.

While commanding the 7th Battalion in France he invented trench raids, the first approach to a break in the deadlock of trench warfare. His technique was adopted throughout the allied armies. He became commander of the 11th Brigade, was wounded twice. He returned to Canada convinced that only a great religious revival could save the world from another war. When the revival did not come, he gave more work and thought to war than to his business. He said: "I studied harder at military science in the last 20 years than I ever did at school.

His three sons carry on the family tradition in the Canadian army while Gen. Odlum in Australia is still convinced that the basic war must be settled in Europe. He says: "An attempt at invasion must come for if it does not it will mean that the Germans have decided in their own hearts that they have no hope for an outright victory. The real battle of England has yet to come, I think, and when it does it will be such a battle as no real soldier will want to miss."

Another Big Convoy

London, July 24 (CP).

UNITED STATES Army officials permitted the disclosure today that new contingents of American pilots, ground crews, negro troops and other forces whose presence in Northern Ireland was announced two days ago, arrived on a large convoy—one of a series which has been bringing forces for a potential invasion of Europe.

The exact composition of the newly-arrived forces and the date of the convoy's arrival were a military secret, but the new force was one of the largest brought to Britain since the first arrival of United States forces in Northern Ireland was disclosed Jan. 26.

Russian Shoots Friend Then Suicides

TORONTO, July 24 — (CP). — A bitter argument over space on a park bench ended in murder and suicide here late yesterday afternoon when police said 44-year-old Philip Krivenko killed Kosnak Kocheluk, 40, as he lay sleeping in a downtown park and then ended his own life with his still-smoking revolver.

Coroner W. J. O'Hara said it was murder—the first in Toronto in 1942—and suicide and there would be no inquest

Kocheluk, a Russian-born Canadian like Krivenko and a former resident of Chatham, Ont., was sleeping on a bench in Grange Park with his coat and shoes off when Krivenko asked him to move over, witnesses told police.

The request was denied and a heated argument in Russian was climaxed by Krivenko leaving the park. He returned 10 minutes later with a .45 calibre revolver, whipped it out of his pocket and fired two shots into Kocheluk's body.

Krivenko stepped back, placed the revolver against his own throat and fired a single shot through his head. He fell face upward on the ground, eight feet from the bench, with the gun under his left arm.

The bodies were removed to the coroner's building and Dr. Smirle Lawson, supervising coroner, said an autopsy would be performed on Kocheluk's body. Police said both bullets passed through Kocheluk and were later found imbedded in the bench.

3 Canucks Killed

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 24—(CP Cable).—Three members of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry were killed recently when a 25-pound shell fell short during battle training as infantry battalions were advancing under heavy artillery fire.

They were Privates F. W. Grimes of Winnipeg, Bill Boak of Portage La Prairie, Man., and George Gascoyne of England, who enlisted at Winnipeg.

(The names of these three men were included in a Canadian army casualty list issued at Ottawa Wednesday).

This year make happy hours last longer

HOME . . . in these days and times, the very word takes on a new and deeper meaning.

And as the family draws closer, the snapshot record becomes increasingly precious. Snap, snap, and snap again — straight through the summer. Tucked away in these pictures, happy hours are safe; time can't touch them.

Make this year's important snapshots the finest ever—bright, clear, "true-to-life." Load with Kodak Verichrome Film. It's everybody's favorite. Millions use it always, because it makes them so sure of themselves—sure of finer snapshots.

Verichrome doesn't have to be pampered—it has "range." It makes the average camera a better camera. Ask for—and be sure that you get—only Kodak Verichrome Film. At your Kodak dealer's.

• • •

Visit your soldier, sailor or airman every week in snapshots. It's the surest, simplest way to keep in touch.

WESTCLOX NOSE OUT BRINTONS TO TIGHTEN GRIP ON 2ND PLACE

Clock Makers Take Lead Of Seven Runs

Westclox crowded close on the heels of the leading Generals and tightened their hold on second place in the Girls' Softball League last night when they nosed out Brintons 10 to 9 in an exciting game at the Ashburnham Bowl.

The rug-makers made it very close. At the end of the fourth frame the were down 7 to 0, but the chased three across in the fifth, added another in the seventh and then built up a four-run rally in the first of the eighth to take the lead 8 to 7.

Then the Westclockers who had gone out in order for three innings suddenly rallied and won the ball game by scoring three in their half of the session. Brintons threatened again in the ninth, scoring one run and having the tieing counter on the bases when the game ended.

The fighting finish staged by Brintons made it a real battle and the game was one of the most interesting staged in the loop this season.

Westclockers were out-hit but they won the argument because their fielding was steadier in the pinches than that of the Brinton outfit. V. McLean at short, Marg. Hawthorne at third and Aggie Anderson in centre field bobbed up with fielding plays that helped a lot. For Brintons Leftfielder Irene Stewart and Marg. Batley at first base did some nice effective work.

Marg. Watson went the route for the winners and although hit fairly freely in the latter stages was steady. Leila Hughes pitched good ball for the Brinton team.

Westclox took an early lead. Isobel Bullock and A. Patterson opened the second with singles and both scored on "Toots" McLean's sharp single to left.

The winners came back with four in the third. Outfield errors on flies by Eunice Armstrong and Marg. Hawthorne and hits by A. Patterson and Isobel Bullock chased four markers over.

Westclox made it 7 to 0 in the fourth on Marg. Watson's single over second, a sacrifice by A. Anderson and Marg. Hawthorne's bunt.

Brintons only got two runners on the bases in the first four innings but finally broke into the scoring column in the fifth. I. Stewart's tap to the box was too hot to handle and Helen English was safe on an error. Hits by N. Smith and E. Basciano sent two runs in and after two forceouts at third Doris Walker singled to score Agnes Weir.

The losers lost a good chance in the seventh. E. Basciano opened with a double to centre and after A. Weir had been thrown out, M. Batley and D. Walker singled to drive in a run. Leila Hughes also got a hit to fill the bases but M. Batley was forced at the plate on a roller to Marg. Hawthorne and I. Stewart popped to Eunice Armstrong.

However the Brintons came back with four in the eighth to take the lead. Helen English started with a single and after Nellie Smith was out on a nice catch by Doris Walker, E. Basciano beat out an infield hit. A. Weir singled to left and then an error, D. Walker's single to centre and a passed ball sent four markers over, putting Brintons ahead 8 to 7.

However Westclox who had done nothing for three innings had a kick left. A. Patterson walked and stole second to score on "Toots" McLean's single. B. Rome's fly to centre was muffed and on a wild throw to third A. McLean scored. A. Armstrong batted for D. Walker and rolled to second, Barbara Rome scoring the third run. The next two went out but A. Anderson and M. Hawthorne singled only to have E. Armstrong roll out.

Brintons staged a rally in the ninth. I. Stewart started with a double to right and scored on Helen English's hit to the same field. However the next three batters went out in order and the game was over.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The feat of the Juveniles in winning a clean cut win over Luckies the other night indicates that Plazas had better be on their best behavior tonight when they meet the youngsters at Riverside Park in a City League fixture. The hockey squad has only a slender hold on first place and to be sure of maintaining it they cannot afford to drop either of their remaining games. They will have their strongest possible lineup on hand for tonight's battle with Juveniles and it should be one of the most interesting games of the season. The kids played great ball the other night and a repeat of their performance on that occasion will give the league leaders a decidedly uncomfortable evening. Bev Gray will do the pitching for Juveniles and probably Tom Parsons for Plazas and the two should stage a merry duel. After tonight there will be only two more league games before the playoff stage is reached. The game is billed for 7 o'clock sharp and a big crowd is expected.

* * * * * *

With all the proceeds going to aid the British War Victims' Fund the game at Riverside Park, tomorrow Saturday evening at 6.30 o'clock should draw a real crowd of fans to see the Genelco All-Stars battle with a picked team from the rest of the C.G.E. plant. Genelco won over a C.G.E. team at the annual picnic but that does not mean a thing in view of the lineup that has been announced for the Electricians for tomorrow's battle. The C.G.E. squad that will be in action on this occasion would make a formidable all-star City League team for it includes many of the best ball-tossers in the city loop. It has plenty of batting power, good pitching and should be strong defensively and City League fans believe that Genelco will have to come up with some new stars for this engagement. There is all kinds of controversy over the meeting between the two outfits and both will have a flock of supporters in the stands.

* * * * * *

The Westclox team after a slow start are carrying the mail in the Girls' Softball loop right now and they are close behind the leading Generals. They have lost one more game than the C.G.E. outfit but still have a chance to catch the Generals for first place. In any event they are morally certain of meeting Manager O'Brien's team in the playoffs. Westclockers nosed out Brintons last night for their second win of the week and tonight they will try to make it three straight when they meet the Electrics at the Bowl. Mary Larmer, left-hander, will probably pitch for the Electrics with Marg Watson likely to be called upon to do the "iron man" stunt by pitching her third game of the week for the Westclox outfit. It should be another interesting game tonight. The improvement shown by the Big Bens has put fresh interest in the league and there is much more pep being shown than was the case earlier. The game is called for 7 o'clock.

Stop The Yanks

Cleveland Indians succeeded yesterday in stopping the New York Yanks' winning streak after it had reached a total of eleven games. The Tribe waited until the last possible minute to turn the trick. The Yanks scored a run in each of the second and third frames and with Ernie Bonham pitching shutout ball for eight frames it looked like another New York victory until Cleveland pushed two runs over in the last of the ninth to tie up the battle and then drove in the winning run in the tenth to take the decision 3 to 2. The loss cost the Yanks a game off their lead as the Boston Red Sox at last succeeded in beating the Chicago White Sox to pick up a game on the leaders. It was a win for Brown who went in as a relief pitcher. The White Sox made fourteen hits as against nine registered by the Boston swatsmiths but the Croninites made 5 runs to 4, helped by homers by Manager Joe Cronin and Pete Fox.

* * * * * *

Once again the Philadelphia Athletics came from far behind yesterday to tie the St. Louis Browns but on this occasion they failed to go on and win the ball game and the Brownies finally took the marbles in a high-scoring affair 9 to 6. Ferrens started for St. Louis and was relieved by Appleton who finally got credit for the win. Christopher went the whole distance for the A's, yielding 13 hits. In the fourth game on the American League card yesterday the Washington Senators again triumphed over the Detroit Tigers. Carrasquel who has only won four games all season was the victorious pitcher as the Senators won 5 to 3. Strangely enough three of Carrasquel's quartette of wins have been registered at the expense of the Tigers. The winners were outhit 10 to 7 by the Bengals but made their blows count. One of their seven hits was a homer by Bob Repass, his first four-master of the year.

Gain Although Idle

Brooklyn Dodgers were idle last night but they gained half a game just the same and are now seven full games ahead of the St. Louis Cards. The latter slipped up with a chance to advance a little by going down to a 4 to 3 defeat at the hands of the lowly Phillies who twice came from behind and finally won out 4 to 3. Rube Melton pitched smart ball for the winners to grab his seventh victory of the season while the Cards used four pitchers in an effort to save the ball game. New York Giants, now in third place took a fall out of the Pittsburg Pirates 6 to 4. It was their sixth win in seven games and home runs played a big part. Johnny Mize and Babe Young both hit for the circuit for the Giants while Vince DiMaggio also cuffed one for the losing Pirates. Koslo and McGee did the pitching for New York while Sewell was called to go the whole distance for the Corsairs.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club will play a game with Oshawa Cricket Club at Nicholls Oval Saturday afternoon....The Genelco-C.G.E. all-star game for the British War Victims' Fund will be played at Riverside Park at 6.30 o'clock tomorrow....Brintons appeared on the diamond for last night's game with Westclox in their new blue and white uniforms and the fans pronounced the toggery as about the classiest any club has shown in recent years....Westclox will soon blossom out in new regalia of green and white....Lawson Little and Byron Nelson were tied with 67 at the end of the first round in the $16,000 open tournament at Chicago....New York Yanks made four errors in yesterday's game and one of them was responsible for giving the decision to the Cleveland Indians....That sandlot tournament at Toronto is certainly just that. A few old time ball players dominate the show which is its own ticket on how badly baseball has slipped in the last few years in Ontario....Carrasquel who beat Detroit yesterday is a Venezuelan if you are interested....The Tigers who have lost three games to him this season are unanimous in wishing that he had remained in the south.

St. Michael's Beaten

COBOURG, July 24 — (ENS). — St. Michael's C.Y.O. softball team was defeated by Ed's team by the score of 17-11 last night. The winners had to extend themselves to the limit to defeat the fast C.Y.O. team. Mary Hogan did the hurling for the Saints, and Winnie Twitchett was on the mound for the other team. Both pitched well and kept the hits well scattered. Violet Clement also pitched for the C.Y.O. Jean Fleming caught for the C.Y.O. and Jeanne Allen did the catching duties for Ed's team.

Port Hope Grill Defeats League Leaders

PORT HOPE, July 24 (ENS) — The final scheduled game of the Town Baseball League was a thriller with the Grill defeating the league leaders, the Beavers, 8 to 7. This game had no bearing on the standing but both teams tried for a victory. Four runs in each of the first and seventh innings by the Grill accounted for their tallies, while the Beavers scored in every inning but the second and third. Mann hit a home run.

President Dawley announced the set-up for the playoffs, which are as follows:—

Semi-Finals: Royal Grill vs. Rascals. Best three out of five series.

Finals: Winners of semi-finals vs. Beavers. Best four out of seven series.

The play off games will be played on the regular nights. Tuesday and Thursday and all games are to start at 6.30 p.m.

The first game of the semi-finals will be Tuesday, July 28, when the Royal Grill will be the guests of the Rascals.

Summary of last night's game:

Beavers	100 122 1	7	10	3
Grill	400 000 7	8	11	2

Batteries — Beavers: Wood and Mann; Royal Grill, Rafter, W. Foote and Friar.

Royal Grill—J. Phillips 2b, W. Foote ss, L. Wakely 1b, Rafter p, F. Foote 3b, S. Wakely rf, Cancilla of, Macleod cf, Hagerman lf, Friar c.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

We have two important announcements to make to our bowlers—

First: The program has been changed for next Wednesday afternoon. Instead of playing men's doubles we are playing a mixed doubles tournament from 1:30 to 6:00 p.m. Choose your own partner.

Second: The provincial playoffs have been set for next Thursday evening in Port Hope at 7:30 o'clock. This information just came through yesterday. True, it does not give us much time, so we'll all have to work fast.

We are allowed one rink, one single and one pair of doubles in this competition. The games committee met last night and decided to throw the entry list wide open to all members. If we have more than one entry in any of the above competitions we will commence an elimination series on Monday evening. All entries must be in writing and handed to the secretary of the games committee by Monday noon—not later—and just one thing more, don't enter unless you are prepared to go all the way. It's going to mean a lot of time to the winners.

And now for the schedule games: The game that held the attention of the crowd was the Chesler-Gimblett affair. On this game defended the leadership of Group No. 1. Up till last night Chesler had won all his game—but it was different now. It was a good game for about maybe six or seven ends and from then on it was only a procession. The win for Gimblett's rink puts them in a tie for first place with Chesler's rink.

In the remaining games the pick of them were the Coleman, Sr. vs Wall; the Coleman, Jr. vs Renaud; the Freeman vs Harrison and the Burns vs Sackville. Any one of these could have gone the other way even in the last end. The remaining games were somewhat one-sided.

Don't forget the men's rinks tournament tonight. Draw made at 7:30 o'clock.

Now we have to untangle the ladies' schedule. Yesterday's results have completely changed the standing. It appears to us that in this schedule you may be sitting pretty one night and not so pretty the next. It sure is tightening up and from now on its going to be good fun figuring this thing out. At the present time, and you notice we say present time, Mrs. J. Kingsbury is leading with 9 wins and 3 losses; Mrs. J. Arnold 9 wins and 4 losses, and Mrs. L. Bearne 7 wins and 4 losses. These are the leading three rinks in the ladies' section.

We understand that the ladies are holding their second picnic of the day. This time its down to Cobourg.

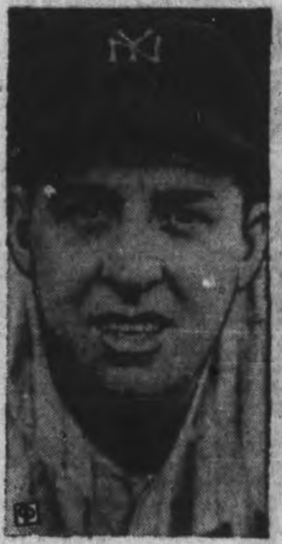
Baseball Players In Sport News

ROLLIE HEMSLEY



BUDDY ROSAR

CHET LAABS

They figure in day's baseball news: Rollie Hemsley, erstwhile "bad boy" catcher of the Cleveland Indians, St. Louis Browns and several other clubs, pops back into the sports spotlight by being signed by the New York Yankees after he was given his release by the Cincinnati Reds. Hemsley promptly smacked out five hits in eight times at bat for the Yanks in his first two games. Hemsley was added when Buddy Rosar, regular catcher since Bill Dickey has been ailing, jumped the team to take examinations for the Buffalo, N.Y., police force. Rosar planned only to work as a policeman in the off months. Red Rolfe is in the news, too, having knocked out five home runs in seven days since he returned to the Yankee lineup. He has been ailing all year and was said to be considering quitting baseball. Chet Laabs, Brownie outfielder, is rapidly becoming the home run king of the leagues. Laabs swatted seven homers in one week to boost his total to 17 for the year, more than he hit all last season.

Sport Shorts From Britain

LONDON, July 24.—(CP).—Why isn't Freddie Mills British and Empire heavyweight boxing champion?

That's a question sport fans have been asking since the Bournemouth Bomber easily lifted the British and Empire light-heavyweight crowns from Len Harvey's aging brow. Some contend Harvey's British and Empire heavy titles should automatically have gone to Mills too.

However, the British Boxing Board of Control ruled before the match that since Harvey was within the lightheavy weight limit of 175 pounds only that title was at stake.

One fan complained in a letter to a sports writer that "heavyweight is any weight and therefore every time a heavyweight champion enters the ring in a championship bout all his titles are at stake."

Harvey's stock slumped badly when Mills sent him crashing through the ropes in their title go and it would be mighty tough to find a Harvey supporter if the two met for the heavy title.

Sir Alex Black, 69, race-horse owner and philanthropist, died at his Grimsby home. He had not been well since he collapsed when Lord Derby's Watling Street crossed the finish line to win this year's Derby. He was the owner of The Panther, winner of several classics and unsuccessful Derby favorite in 1926.

Sydney Wooderson — he's Cpl. Wooderson of the British Army—world record holder for the mile, ran the fastest half-mile of the season while competing as a member of an international team opposing famed Sandhurst Military College. His time was 1:58.9. The soldiers won only two of 13 events.

Poet Prince, last year's Gold Cup winner who had plenty of trouble with his breathing apparatus when he breezed down the stretch, has had an operation in an effort to correct the difficulty. A veterinary performed the unusual throat-cutting job after Owner Ivor Anthony expressed opinion it might help the racer return to form.

In just one day, more than $3,000 was donated for the Lord Mayor of London's Air Raid Distress Fund from two professional golf matches ...Metropolitan Police Football Club, professional and amateur teams, raised $5,800 for various war charities during the season just closed.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Sports Writer

TORONTO, July 24.—(CP).—This could be Canada's year in the open ...Toronto's Bob Gray came so close to Sam Snead last year that a few inches on the odd putt could have given the Seagram Gold Cup and all those beautiful bucks...Stan Horne of Montreal is having a good season, so is Phil Farley of Toronto ...Bill Kerr is hot, but if anyone (including the good old CP, which suggested as much) has called his course record-breaking 61 at Cedar Brae here a Canadian 18-hole record, don't do it again...Course record for Winnipeg Polo Park is a stroke or two under that—and held by somebody named Joe who was blazing one Sunday morning a few years ago.

Latest list of entries for the open has nine Canadians: Gerald Proulx, Montreal; Ronald Huot, Ottawa; Willie and Bob Lamb, Hugh Borthwick and Les Franks, Toronto; Bobby Reith, Windsor; Bob Barringer, Timmins; Douglas Jones, Burlington, Ont....All are professionals except Barringer and Jones...Willie Lamb has the most imposing record: Five Canadian P.G.A. titles... But Willie isn't going his best lick this year...He was knocked out of the Millar Trophy by Borthwick yesterday.

The Moon is Made of Green Cheese D[illegible]:

All the old numbers players must go to Vancouver to pass their waning years, because here's another of those amazing race-bet tales: An aged citizen arrived at Hastings Park there without an idea, so naturally he looked at the number of his street-car transfer. It was 633, so naturally he bet number six in the first race and number three in the second race. Naturally, both won. He still didn't have any ideas. So (naturally) he looked at the serial number on his admittance ticket. It was L-31485. He bet the divits in order (naturally) for the rest of the afternoon. You would think one of the Dobbins could run out, just to break the monotony of this story, but not so. All won.

St. Peter's Boys Beaten 13 to 6 By The K. of C.

In a Catholic Softball League game Thursday night, in Memorial Park, Knights of Columbus defeated St. Peter's, 13 to 6. This was the third straight loss for the Saints, who are the league leaders.

Mongraw, for the winners, pitched steady ball allowing but nine hits and bearing down effectually when the Saints had men on base. Gordon, for the losers, was nicked for 17 hits.

Len Anthony led the winners at bat, with a home run, double and single in four trips, while D. Riley had a home run and a triple in five official times at bat. For St. Peter's, Perdue was the leading hitter with a home run and double in three times to the plate.

Fielding features were a fast double play by the Knights, Anthony to Mills to Riley and a long running catch by Jack Collins in centre field for St. Peter's.

Knights of Columbus—Riley, 1b; Tracey, 3b; Galvin, c; Anthony, ss; Mongraw, p; Materson, lf; Mills, 2b; Sheehan, cf; Baldwin, rf.

St. Peter's—Herr, ss; Condon, 1b; Tompkins, 3b; Conroy, lf; Collins, cf; Perdue, c; Gordon, p; Monahan, rf; Kerby, 2b.

Umpires—Heffernan and Hickey.

Little Matches Nelson Score In Tam o'Shanter

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sport Writer

CHICAGO, July 24.—(AP)—The Tam o' Shanter Golf Tournament, Unlimited, made considerable sense today for a change, because Byron Nelson and Lawson Little, two of the game's great players, were winging along in front of the field in the $15,000 open event with identical scores of 67—five strokes under par—after the first round of the 72-hole contest.

Nelson's last year's winner here and possibly the finest medal player in the game today, shot his round early to get the jump on some 138 professionals and a flock of distracted amateurs, who were otherwise wrapped up in their own match-play championship.

Little, on his record certainly the most formidable match player in the world, came in just before dark last night to tie Nelson and announce his candidacy for the first prize of $2,500 that will be handed out Sunday. Things thus were closer to normal at Tam o' Shanter today than would have seemed possible 24 hours ago.

By coincidence, the two leaders clashed in the Ryder Cup matches at Detroit last week and wound up all square after 36 hard-fought holes.

Gib Sellers of Walled Lake, Mich. was right behind the leaders with a 68, while Dick Mets and Clayton Heafner were next at 69. Ben Hogan, the game's consistent money winner, was in threatening position with a 71.

Three Negro professionals, Howard Wheeler of Los Angeles, Calvin Searles of New Orleans and Edison Marshall of Indianapolis, each equalled par 72.

The amateurs, after two days of furious battle, had reduced themselves to a quarter—Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., the national champion; John Holstrom of Rockford, Ill.; Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., and Mike Stolarik, storekeeper third class at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

Rescue Rewarded

LONDON, July 24 — (CP Cable). —A testimonial on parchment will be awarded Pte. Charles Hepburn of Winnipeg for saving an English youth from drowning after a boating accident on the Thames yesterday, it was announced to-day.

Hepburn threw off his heavy outer garments and shoes and dived into the river to an overturned canoe, where the boy was struggling.

He made a successful 30-yard swim despite a strong current and kept the youth afloat until a passing boat completed the rescue.

Dimout Upsets Royals 2nd Time In Week

By The Associated Press

If you hear Montreal Royals talking to themselves about dimout baseball, don't think they are complaining because it interrupts their eating and sleeping habits or that these two-night games don't draw enough fans. In all probability the cause of their complaint is just the opposite.

Yesterday, for the third time, the Royals were kept from completing an International League contest when the dimout regulations halted play between them and Jersey City Giants at the end of eight innings with the game a scoreless deadlock.

This was the second game of a doubleheader in which the Royals dropped the first, 9-4, as the little Giants walloped four Montreal flingers for 12 hits, including two doubles by Hugh Poland.

Earlier this week Montreal had scored three runs in the ninth inning against the Newark Bears, knotting the count, only to have the runs wiped out because the Bears could not complete their half of the ninth.

Baltimore Orioles withstood a four-run ninth inning rally by the last-place Rochester Red Wings to defeat the Wings, 6-5. Baltimore smashed the offerings of Ira Hutchinson for 10 hits, including home runs by Hal Seiling and Ed Robinson.

Rochester had four runs in, and two men on base with none out when Elmer Burkart, second relief hurler of the inning for the Orioles, struck out three men in a row on 10 pitched balls.

In the only other game played, Buffalo Bisons defeated Syracuse Chiefs, 5-1. Tom Pullig scattered eight Chief hits while his mates slammed out 10 against three Syracuse moundsmen.

Red Sox Shade Chicago 5-4 On Di Mag Triple

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

James Luther (Luke) Sewell, the 41-year-old pilot of St. Louis Browns, is being spoken of these days as the manager of the year, and while this may be premature, it couldn't happen to a nicer guy as the saying goes.

The fact that the Browns now not only are in fourth place in the American League, but have won 12 of their last 14 contests and are just four games back of the second-place Boston Red Sox, is a glowing tribute to his leadership.

He succeeded Fred Haney at the helm of the Browns on June 4 last year when the club had won only 15 out of 44 games. From the time he took charge the Browns played .500 ball.

This year the Browns gave up half a dozen players to the armed services, but in spite of this the club has improved due to judicious trading.

Sewell worked five innings yesterday, while the Browns went about beating Philadelphia Athletics 9-6.

This happened while New York Yankees were ending their 11-game winning streak at Cleveland and dropping a full game of their ample lead to all the first-division teams in the league.

The Yanks had a 2-0 lead and big Ernie Bonham was within a whisker of his fifth shutout, with two out in the ninth, when Phil Rizzuto made an error to give the Indians an opening. They promptly tied the score with three singles and then won the game 3-2 in the 11th on two more singles, one a pinch hit by Otto Denning to drive over the deciding run.

Dom's Triple Does It

Boston Red Sox halted their losing streak by nosing out Chicago White Sox 5-4 with two runs built around Dom Dimaggio's triple in the seventh inning after Joe Cronin and Pete Fox had homered in the fourth.

Washington whipped Detroit Tigers again 5-3 for Alex Carrasquel's third triumph within a week. Bob Repass hit a home run in the ninth, but the glory belonged to Rookie Shortstop Joe Sullivan, who cleaned the bases with a three-run double in the sixth and then knocked in one with another two-bagger in the eighth to kayo Hal Newhouser, who hasn't won a game since being chosen on the American League's all-star team.

In the National League New York Giants took over undisputed possession of third place by out-homering Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4. Johnny Mize notched his 19th roundtripper of the year with one on in the first inning and Babe Young, recently converted into a centrefielder to get him into the lineup, hit his first of the season with two on in the fifth. Young also had two other hits and drove in a run with a single in the third. Vince Dimaggio hit a three-run homer for Pittsburgh.

In the only other contest scheduled, a night affair at Philadelphia, the last-place Phils knocked off St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 and put them seven games behind the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers.

Chalk Up A Run For The Yanks

Rollie Hemsley, newly acquired catcher of the Yanks, is shown sliding into home plate to score a run for the new York team on Buddy Hassett's ground ball to First Baseman Joe Kuhel. Kuhel's throw home was missed by the White Sox Catcher Tresh. The Yankees defeated the pale hose from the windy city by the score of 9-2 in the first game of two at the stadium.

Deciding Today If Alsab In Arlington

CHICAGO, July 24.—(AP)—It looked a pretty good bet today that nine horses would run in the $85,000 Arlington Classic Saturday, but the wager makers waited in vain for a definite answer to the question of whether Alsab would go to the post.

Alsab was fired for a blind split early last month, enjoyed a ten-day rest and then was put back to work grdaually. Owner Al Sabath was intrigued, naturally enough, by the opportunity to add to the earnings of his bargain horse, but reported he wouldn't make up his mind about starting him until today.

As things shaped up now, the likely field consisted of a big threesome—Shut Out, Valdina Orphan and With Regards—several dangerous contenders with outside chances of scoring upsets, and a few others which have demonstrated little to indicate they could be regarded as threats.

But the betting gentry, ever mindful of past performances, points out that the Classic has become a classic jinx for favorites.

The crowd, expected to total 45,000 probably will spread the bulk of its betting support among Shut Out, With Regards and the Valdina entry of Valdina Orphan and Rounders—if, of course, Alsab doesn't go to the starting gate.

Other probable starters are King's Abbey, Bless Me, Dogpatch and Anticlimax. They may be joined by Trelawny. Still on the doubtful list were Colonel Teddy, and Aletern, along with Alsab.

Toronto's Argos Well Up In Henley Events

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., July 24—(CP)—The 60th annual Royal Canadian Henley regatta went into its second day of competition here today with Toronto's Argonauts well in front of the Canadian and United States clubs contesting the rowing meet.

Argonauts gained all their 11 points yesterday in the first event by winning and taking second place in the junior 145-pound, quarter mile dash, with Ken Thorburn pulling an upset by defeating the favored Lou Tank of Ecorse, Mich., by 1½ lengths.

Dick Nelson of Argos was second. He edged past Tank when the latter faltered in the last 100 yards.

Three points behind the Toronto Club was the St. Catharines, Ont., entry. Their eight points also were garnered in one event—the open quarter mile dash, won by Harv Hutcheon who stroked his way over the finish line only half a length in front of Harry Zink of the Nereid Rowing Club, Belleville, N.J.

Zink's second was good for three points, which left the Belleville, N.J. club in third place. Tied for fourth position were the Ecorse, Mich., club and the entry from Brockville, Ont., each with one point.

In another eevnt yesterday, the high school single, A. Griffiths, representing Westdale Collegiate, Hamilton, Ont., defeated Larry Keiffer of Philadelphia by three lengths.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP).—A bunch of the Pirate and Dodger ballplayers, chinning about this and that on the way east early this week, tabbed Tommy Hughes of the Phillies as the National League's No. 1 elbower right now...Proving you never can tell where you'll find gold ...The fur-lined skimmer for the best managing job of the season looks like a photo finish between old Luke Sewell and Master Melvin Ott...(Any arguments?)...

Notes to you:

Ring Magazine took a nation-wide poll and found out that 68 per cent. of the fight clubs in the United States have shut down or haven't had a show since January.

Clutch-Touch:

Lew Riggs has only slapped two doubles and a pair of homers and knocked in seven runs for his first 10 pinch-hit appearances this year ...Which hardly comes under the heading of a slump..And do you suppose Bill Dickey's telling those Yankee pitchers to sorta take it easy on his kid brother...'Cause Skeets has banged the champ elbowers for a homer, a double and a pair of one-base knocks as a White Sox pinch-hitter this season...

Bouncing Around:

Satchel Paige, the Negro pitching ace, is getting $2,000 for serving 'em up for Kansas City Monarchs in a doubleheader with New York Cuban Stars in Yankee Stadium Aug. 2. ...The new National Boxing Association ratings have Johnny Colan among the logical lightheavy contenders and Anton Christoforidis 'way down among the honorable mentions...Although Christo has whipped Johnny twice this year...

Harness Stakes Of $20,000 Set For August

TORONTO, July 24.—Over $20,000 will be hung up for important harness stakes in Western Ontario in the next month.

Listowel will race next Wednesday, with a free-for-all, 2:18 pace, 2:26 and 2:29 pace, and this meet will mark the return of many Canadian stables that have done practically all their season's racing over the Buffalo night raceway track. Of special interest will be the start at Listowel of Mr. Van and Leah Guy from the Manchester Farms stables. Mr. Van, it will be remembered, took all the crack American trotters into camp in the $2,000 International Handicap on the night of July 4 in record time. Stewart Scott turned down an offer of $5,000 at Buffalo for the handsome stallion.

Following Listowel, the horses move over to Goderich for Civic Holiday, where four $600 purses and a $400 trot will go. The week after the New Hamburg Derby, carrying a purse of $1,500, along with three other rich stakes, will pack them in. The following week at Stratford the Standard Bred Futurities for 2-year-olds will be featured. Each division will be raced for $1,000, the largest amount estimated yet for the baby trotters and pacers. Three other older division races will complete the card—namely, a free-for-all, 2:20 pace and 2:26 pace. The 3-year-old Futurities also will be raced at Stratford on Labor Day, with an estimated value of $2,500 in each division, along with two other races.

Builders are busy erecting extra seating at the Classic City track to be ready by Aug. 19, and Dave Pinkney has let a contract for the retilling of the half-mile oval. Dave says that not even "Old Man Rain" can prevent the boys from breaking records over his pet track. The horses of the Union Packing Company, Calgary, Alberta, are now at the Listowel track and will swing into action next week after the big money in the Western Ontario circuit. Night racing closes at Buffalo Aug. 1, and all the larger Canadian stables will be back for Goderich Civic Holiday meet.

Cattle Steady Hogs Up 10 On Week's Mart

TORONTO, July 24.—(CP). — Cattle prices held about seady on a moderate supply in trade in the livestock market here this week. Veal calves were unchanged. Hogs gained 10 cents. Lambs were $1.50 to $1.75 cwt. lower. Sheep held steady.

The cattle supply was cleared by the close. Weighty steers sold generally at $10.65 with one load of choice heavy steers at $11. Butcher steers were $9.50 to $10.65 with heifers mostly $10 to $10.25 with a few up to $10.50. Butcher cows were $7 to $8.25 with canners downward to $5. Bulls sold from $9 to $10 for export and $8 to $8.25 to domestic buyers. Fed calves were $10.50 to $12 cwt. Stockers sold at $8 to $10 with stock calves up to $11. Good milkers and springers were $100 to $135 each.

Veal calves sold at $14 to $14.50 for choice with common downward to $9 and grassers mostly at $8 cwt.

Hogs gained 10 cents to close at $16 dressed for the basic grade with sows at $12.25 to $12.50 dressed.

Lambs took a sharp drop to close $15 to $15.25 for good ewes and wethers. Bucks sold at $14 to $14.25 and culls at $12 to $13 cwt. Sheep were mostly $5 to $8 cwt. according to quality.

Army Girls All Know Their Jobs

These smartly dressed C.W.A.C. girls are typical of No. 3 Detachment stationed at the Military Training Centre, who are doing such fine work as stenographers, typists and drivers. Those for whom they work have nothing but praise for the splendid and willing way in which they attack their jobs. A high standard has been set up for the girls and no one who is not able to live up to it is allowed in the force. The three pictured here are, LEFT to RIGHT: Pte. Beatrice Curtis and Pte. Mary Harvey, both of whom work in the stores under Capt. D. Loomis. The third member of the trio is Pte. Geraldine Simmons, who is not at the camp at present.

MORE ABOUT—

King Ready

only an expression of the confidence of the House, but of the people of Canada.

The Prime Minister indicated that two circumstances might induce him to seek a fresh mandate from the people—the attitude of members of the House of Commons and the attitude of the press.

"No leader of a government and no government can carry on the duties of government and in time of war unless absolutely sure of a following in the House of Commons," he said at one stage.

Too Many Critics

"That is the position that I feel the present government has come to, or more particularly, that I myself have come to at the present time, after three years in which honorable gentlemen opposite and some of their press friends elsewhere have been doing all they possibly can to undermine this administration and to cause not only the people of Canada but the people of other countries to lose faith in myself as leader of an administration in time of war.

"Now that we have come to a crisis I feel it absolutely necessary, if I am to carry on longer as head of the administration, that I should know whether I have got a solid following in this House of Commons and in the country."

Mr. King read an extract from a Toronto Globe and Mail editorial of last July 10 which he said accused him of dictatorial suppression of parliamentary privileges for partisan ends.

"I ask honorable members if a leading publication in the largest city in Ontario can issue that sort of thing to the people at time of war, how can anyone expect that a man who has got the least self-respect left is going to ask the country to have him continue in office if people believe that sort of thing about him?

"As a matter of fact I think. I know pretty well the confidence of the people of this country have in me and I am not afraid to go before the people at any time."

Will Step Out Quickly

Later the prime minister said: "I can assure every member of this House that any time they wish to have a vote of want of confidence I am willing to give them the opportunity, and the moment that vote carries no one will leave office more quickly than your humble servant."

He had been asked what he would do when the time came to ask for a vote of confidence in his leadership to carry out unlimited conscription.

"What I will do when the time comes will depend upon what happens at the time and what I think best in the national inter."

"I have been careful in what I have said to speak for myself alone. I can only speak for myself as to the course I shall take if I have a certain responsibility.

"But I do say this and I say it most emphatically, that no man, I do not care who he is, could carry on a Government in time of war unless he had the confidence of the House of Commons, a majority behind him."

If it became necessary to adopt an Order-in-Council for unlimited conscription and the Cabinet approved it, Mr. King said, before putting it into operation "I want this House of Commons to declare whether it has confidence in me as the head of the administration that is to carry out this policy of conscription or whether they prefer to have another Government in the place of the administration in office here."

Last hours of the conscription debate held a certain dramatic atmosphere when Hon. P. J. A. Cardin (Lib. Richelieu-Vercheres) made his last attack upon the measure.

It was in protest against this Bill that Mr. Cardin on the day it was introduced, resigned his Cabinet portfolios of Public Works and Transport.

Yesterday he renewed many of his arguments against conscription for overseas service and was unsparing in his criticism of the Government.

Quebec Ready to Bow.

But he closed his address with a declaration that Quebec would accept the will of the majority and obey the laws, and he urged the Government, if conscription is imposed, to administer it fairly and reasonably.

He was stopped by the 40-minute rule, but when the House gave him unanimous consent to proceed he declined with thanks, declaring that a similar privilege had been accorded him when he spoke on second reading and he did not wish to abuse the indulgence of his fellow members.

Mr. Hanson who followed Mr. Cardin, was bitterly critical of the Government in its handling of the conscription issue, as he was when he delivered a prepared address on Wednesday.

Like Mr. King, the Conservative House Leader spoke yesterday without a text or notes. He told Mr. Cardin that he should not look beyond his own party and his own Leader if he had any complaint of the manner in which Quebec was treated.

His Friends To Blame

"If my honorable friend has any quarrel or suggests any betrayal in connection with those called in for the four months' training plan, then I say his quarrel is with his former friends who concealed as fully as possible their real intentions when they started this mobilization legislation."

Mr. Hanson also attacked the C.C.F. party which he declared "on the specious grounds that by this bill the Government was not proposing to conscript wealth and industry, and in order to curry favor with certain pairs of the electorate of this country, voted against second reading of this bill."

Angus MacInnis (C.C.F. Vancouver East) expressed resentment at this assertion and interpreted it as meaning his party sought the support of Quebec anti-conscriptionists who, he said, were as far apart "as the poles" from his group.

Mr. Hanson said his party supported the conscription measure. But, as regards the proposed confidence vote, "I have not that confidence in him (Mr. King) or his administration and I reserve the right to vote confidence or withhold it."

Mr. Hanson concluded with an appeal for all parties that "no matter what our opinions may have been on the war effort....to forget past differences, party politics and partisanship and unite as never before, so that we can say to our children's children—when Canada was in peril the Canadian people united."

"That was fine eloquence," Mr. King said, taking the floor after Mr. Hanson resumed his seat. "It was a noble appeal.

"But may I say to my honorable friend that if he had begun his remarks of yesterday with those words and had followed them up in accordance with the significance of words of the kind, his utterances would have carried much greater weight than they do at the moment."

What The Premier Did

Mr. King reminded the Opposition Leader that when Mr. Hanson attempted to read a prepared speech Wednesday in committee and required unanimous consent, he, Mr. King, had supported his request. He added that consent would probably not have been given without such support.

He quoted Mr. Hanson as saying, then, 'Oh, yes, I appreciate the kindness of the Prime Minister. No doubt he has been in a similar position himself and appreciates the difficulties of such a situation and is therefore helping me to meet it.'

'May I say to my honorable friend that I have been in many positions in life but I cannot recall that at any time I was in a position where I asked a favor of another man in order that I might have an opportunity to knife him as strongly as I could.'

He said Mr. Hanson made that request knowing that his speech 'was the strongest effort he could make to help to destroy me in the public life of the country,' and added: 'The whole purpose of the speech, from beginning to close, was an effort to destroy confidence in this administration And yet he says we must win the war.'

Mr King denied Mr. Hanson's suggestion that Quebec had been betrayed by the Prime Minister and his government in its efforts to get away from pledges against conscription

If he had obeyed the pleas of Mr. Hanson in the House he would have repudiated and ignored these pledges and betrayed not only Quebec but the whole country, Mr. King said.

Russians Fight

The army newspaper Red Star headlined:—

'Fighters of the Red Army! Summon all forces to halt the enemy! Don't let the Fascists invade the north Caucasus!"

A Nazi objective in the drive upon the Don at Tsimlyansk is the Stalingrad-Rostov railway which forms unoccupied Russia's sole remaining line from the Caucasus.

A threat of encirclement forced Soviet troops to withdraw before Nazi tanks and infantry marshalled against Novocherkaask, the Soviet information bureau said. The orderly retreat, however, again denied the Germans a break-through.

"One of our units repulsed seven enemy attacks and killed over 1,000 German officers and men," the information bureau said.

The combat force launched against Novocherkassk was the most easterly of three aimed at Rostov, a city of 500,000 which is both a Russian stronghold and the western gate to the oil and mineral wealth of the Caucasus.

Disposition of two other German columns menacing Stalingrad by drives across the Steppes to the north was obscure, but at last reports they were still 100 miles or more from that Volga manufacturing centre named for Premier Stalin.

Stalingrad Will Hold.

"They'll never take Stalingrad," the Russians say.

Optimism was maintained in reports from the Voronezh front, midway between Moscow and Rostov, where the German left wing is reported to have faltered and then fallen back under Red Army counter-attacks.

A fortified German position was captured although Nazi reserves moved up to assist Adolf Hitler's weakened shock troops, the Information Bureau said.

"In one sector of this front," it reported, "we disabled several score tanks and killed about 1,000 enemy officers and men.'

Russion dispatches said Soviet tanks had reached the western bank of the Upper Don west of Voronezh and wedged deeply into German positions, followed by supporting infantry.

The Government newspaper Izvestia said the battle area was developing on both flanks, but the invaders still held entrenchments on the western approaches of the city where the original breakthrough was made.

Indicating the see-saw nature of the combat the Information Bureau said "some defence lines and populated places changed hands several times."

The Communist Party newspaper Pravda said hundreds of Germans were crushed under the tracks of Soviet armored groups; that one Red Army detachment had destroyed 106 Nazi tanks.

A communique said two days of shelling and mortar firing by Soviet crews had cost the Germans more than 800 casualties.

Eight Members af C.W.A.C. Serving At Peterborough Training Centre Relieving Men For Active Service

It would be difficult to find a happier and more satisfied group of girls than the eight members of the C.W.A.C. at the Peterborough Military Training Centre who are whole-heartedly in love with their work. Sgt. Eileen Biddle, speaking not as an officer, but as one of the girls, declares that all have signed up solely for patriotic reasons. She denied that there was any spirit of adventure about it, and in spite of this the girls said they never found their jobs monotonous.

The day begins at 8.15 a.m. when the girls report to Sgt. Biddle at the C.W.A.C hut for roll call and ten minutes P.T. At 8.30 they proceed to their various jobs as stenographers, typists, store girls and drivers. The stenographers and typists work in the various Orderly Rooms and they really have to be good The store girls' work under Capt. Douglas Loomis in the R.Q.M.S., where they sore out and check all the clothing. Their hours are from 8.30 to 5 with 1½ hours for lunch. Though they may be asked to work the odd evening, most of the nights are their own to do with as they please.

Not in Barracks.

The members of the No. 3 Detachment, C.W.A.C. are not in barracks at the Camp, but board out. Transportation is not provided and the girls come in the morning on foot or aboard bicycles They are perfectly free to return to their homes for lunch, but they pefer to stay together in the Hut and buy their own lunch supplies and get them ready. There they can really enjoy the companionship of one another. The girls in charge said that het gang were swell about pitching in and getting meals ready and helping to clean up afterwards.

Checked Carefully.

Rigid discipline is maintained and if the girls work at night they have an escort to the gate. They have to report to Sgt. Biddell when they come in in the morning and when they leave at night and they are checked in and out very carefully. They gave high praise to the men and officers of the Camp for the co-operation they have been giving and the way they are playing the game. Although the boys may have found it a little strange at first, they are used to it now and treat the girls exactly as sisters. On the other hand, the men of the Camp paper to be quite pleased at the job the girls are doing.

While they board out, in a case of sickness the medical facilities of the camp are open to them and they are assured of perfect privacy. 'So far,' laughed Sgt. Biddell, 'we have been limited to two cases of sickness, a pair of sore feet and a case of flu, neither of which was very serious.'

Driving For 13 Years.

The girl on the staff at present are, Sgt. Eileen Biddell, N.C.O. in charge of the Detachment, L. Corp. Ruby Pearson who drives a truck for the R.C.A.S.C. and who hails from Moscow, near Napanee. She had thirteen years' experience behind her in driving before she went into this work, so it is quite proficient. As a matter of fact she confessed that she has served as a garage attendant in civilian life, so that her present work is right up her alley. Her job is to drive the recruits from the Armory for their medical at the Camp and return them.

Pte. Betty Leggitt comes from Pontypool, and is a stenographer in the Battalion Orderly Room, where they say they really have to be on their toes. Pte. Norma Woodcox, moved up from Cobourg and she keeps Pte. Leggitt company as a typist in the Orderly Room.

Pte. Florence Weese, another local girl, who has a brother, Lieut. Don, with the Rangers and who formerly worked in Millard's and Pattenick's stores, is a typist in No. 1 Company Orderly Room, and Pte. Marjorie Whitton, of Deseronto, is a typist in No. 2 Company Orderly Room. The last duo, Pte. Mary Harvey and Pte. Beatrice Curtis do duty in the R.Q.M.S. When the boys are discharged the uniforms are turned in and these two sort them. They also make up the haversacks and pack the kit bags when the men enlist, and pack the winter uniforms away until they are to be used again in cold weather.

Basic Training Course

All the girls have to have a month's basic training course at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, but not all these in Peterborough have it as yet. The training schools have been so crowded that some of the girls have had to wait for a time after they have enlisted before they get it. The three at the camp who already have their basic training having studied at Gananoque and Ste. Anne de Bellevue, are Sgt. E. Biddell and L./Cpl. Ruby Pearson. Pte. Florence Weese has been at Ste. Anne de Bellevue. Only one girl from this district can go at a time, and Pte. Norma Woodcox goes Monday for her training. The rest will take their turn and they manage short-handed during the time each girl is gone.

Not all is hard work, though. During their noon hour and after they are through for the day the gals "go to town." They can play softball, for they have been supplied with equipment by the camp, although this is a game that is not much in demand at the present time during the hot weather, and a great favorite at present is the ping-pong table at the canteen where the girls manage to put in half an hour of their lunch period from about 1 to 1.30 nearly every day. Another popular source of entertainment is their sing-songs. Pte. Curtis and Pte. Leggitt sing and two of the others, Pte. Woodcox and Pte. Whitton, play, or at least "pound out a few notes." "It may no be so musical," Sgt. Biddell said, "but we made a lot of racket and have good fun."

The girls have a swim once a week and they usually go to the Y.W.C.A., where they swim free of charge, every Wednesday evening. Another source of entertainment open to them are the movie shows at the canteen that are open to the boys.

No Time-Clock Punching

Another thing the C.W.A.C. girls like about their work is that there is no idea of punching a time clock. Throughout the day when things slow down a bit, they are allowed to go to their hut or to the canteen. Too, they are perfectly at liberty to move around and talk to one another. There is plenty of work to do, but since their evenings are usually free, the girls are quite willing to put in a little overtime, even if it amounts to an hour or more. In their off time they are at liberty to have dates with the soldiers or do anything else that they wish.

One thing they must all do every day is to consult the bulletin announcement anl study Part 1 Orders, which cover such things as medicals, meetings, drills, etc. They must also keep track of Part 2 Orders which affect soldiers' pay, promotion and movement. They must abide by battalion rules and regulations, and they also get orders from Staff Officer Capt. Anita McBride, C.W.A.C., Kingston.

They all receive $7 a week sustenance for boarding out and the rate of pay is from 90 cents a day for privates for the first three months, then 95 cents a day after that, L./Cpl. $1 a day, Cpl. $1.15, up to Sgt., $1.50.

When the girls signed up, among other things they were given an outfit consisting of 2 skirts, 1 tunic, 3 shirts, 2 pairs of neat brown oxfords "that are so comfortable that you can walk miles in them," 3 pairs of khaki stockings, and a satchel that they wear suspended on a strap over their shoulders, which Pte. Weese declares is wonderful for "carrying stuff in, almost good enough for an overnight bag." They are also allotted $15 for underclothing, and $3 a quarter for upkeep, which the girls say is quite sufficient. The smart new beige summer uniforms of tropical worsted will soon make their appearance.

Stick Together

In their spare time they usually stick together, not because they are cliquey or snobbish, but because there is just enough of them to make good companionship. Their interests are all bound up in the Training Centre, and when they get out with their civilian friends they can no longer display a great interest in clothes or enjoy window shopping to any great extent. One of the girls said that about the only thing she ever walked into a store to buy any more was a tube of tooth paste. They also find that after working for a time they develop a more serious attitude and outlook on life.

Established in March

The C.W.A.C. was established in the Military Training Centre around the end of March of this year, and in a few days the groups across Canada are going to stress recruiting. Those in this district who are interested are urged to get in touch with Sgt. Eileen Biddell at the Training Centre who looks after filling out the forms here. The examination before the Medical Board is also made here. The fact that the girls apply through this recruiting office does not mean that they have to work here. Another thing that is of great importance is that the army tries to do the same thing for the girls as it does for the boys, namely give them the jobs that they are best fitted to do.

Need Thousands

At the present time there are 3,600 girls in the C.W.A.C. in Canada, but they need thousands more in every line: cooks, waitresses, drivers, mechanics, typists, stenographers, bookkeepers, wireless operators, X-ray and laboratory technicians, cipher clerks, and many others. Girls from all walks of life, from universities or business colleges, are welcome to join. It has been announced recently that there may be a chance of the C.W.A.C. girls going to Britain soon. Although the C.W.A.C. started in 1941 and only became an integral part of the army on March 13, 1942, they have done a wonderful job of releasing able-bodied men for other work.

Heads Detachment

Sgt Eileen Biddle, C.W.A.C., N.C.O. in charge of No. 3 Detachment, is the leader of the eight girls down at the Military Training Centre. She received her basic training at Gananoque and St Anne de Bellevue and takes a very real interest in the affairs of her girls and assists them to the best of her ability. Sgt. Biddle is a fine example of the young women who are giving their services to their country in ever increasing numbers.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM MILNE.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 24. — (ENS). — Funeral services for the late William Milne 82, of Seimour Township, were largely attended on Monday afternoon. The deceased was born in Thurlow Township, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Milne both of whom were among the original settlers who came to the district from Scotland. From the time of his early childhood Mr. Milne resided in Seymour where he subsequently became known as one of the outstanding farmers in the district.

Surviving him are four daughters Mrs. Harry Wright and Mrs. William Dunk of Seymour, Mrs. Richard Meiklejohn and Mrs. Bogart Linn of Rawdon; two sons, James A. Milne of Seymour and Fred of Blackwater. Mr. Milne was predeceased by his wife the former Mary Jane Arnold, four years ago.

The funeral service was conducted from the family residence on the 10th Concession, and interment was at the Rylstone Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were James and Fred Milne, Harry Wright, William Dunk, Richard Meiklejohn, and Bogart Linn.

The flower-bearers were Laird Meiklejohn Carl Linn, Harold Linn, Ronald Dunk.

MRS. WILLIAM T. MULLETT

TWEED, July 24 (ENS) — Flora Elizabeth Mullett, wife of William Mullett, died at her home, Moira, on Monday at the advanced age of eighty-two years. A daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John P. Williams, she was born in Prince Edward county. Forty-four years ago, she moved with her husband, whom she married at Bloomfield on February 12, 1897, to Moira, where she has resided ever since. The late Mrs. Mullett had been ill for the past four weeks.

She was a member of Roslin Presbyterian church, and was highly respected by all who knew her. Besides her husband, she is survived by one son, Arthur Mullett, of Moira. One brother, William H. Williams, resides at Picton.

The funeral was held from her late home on Wednesday to Moira cemetery. Her pastor, Rev. J. W. McDonald, Roslin, having charge of the services.

The bearers were Frank Emerson, Clayton Vanderwater, Fred Ketcheson, Freeman Howe, Lawrence Montgomery and Connell Leslie.

Japs Making Gas From Surplus Malay Rubber

NEW YORK, July 24—(AP). — The Axis claimed yesterday that, reversing the rubber-from-petroleum experiments of the United Nations, the Japanese have succeeded in producing motor fuel from rubber.

The Axis lacks oil, as the United Nations lack rubber. The new development was reported by the Berlin radio in a dispatch dated Shonan, the new Japanese name for Singapore, which lies at the tip of the rubber-producing Malay Peninsula.

"After months of continuous study and research," the dispatch boasted, "enterprising Japanese scientists have produced motor fuel from rubber. Recent trial tests made with this substitute fuel, revealed it is highly efficient. Motor cars using the new fuel are able to cover 25 per cent greater distance than cars using ordinary gasoline.

"In view of the successful test with the new fuel, it is expected the commercial production of the rubber-fuel will begin on a large scale in the future.

"This will also help to solve the problem of surplus rubber production in the southern territories occupied by the Japanese forces."

BANK CLEARINGS.

Bank clearings passing through the Peterborough Clearings House during the past week ending Thursday amounted to $833,840, while for the same period one year ago the total was $714,872.

SEES THE WORLD

Lieut. P. G. Brook and Mrs. Brook received a cable from their 19-year-old son Flight Pilot Stan Brook, Thursday, stating that he had landed at Durban, South Africa. Although he has been overseas only about nine months, this young man has gotten around to an amazing degree. He has served both in the Hong Kong battle and with the troops in Australia and has moved on to greener fields in Africa. Flight Pilot Brook celebrated his 19th birthday on July 8.

A REAL CATCH

Jack Crellin, 13, who lives at 19 Brock street, and his pal, Pat Harte-Maxwell, were casting off the foot of Simcoe treet in the Otonabee and to their delight landed a beautiful 14-pound muskie. The two strung the fish up on a pole and came up Hunter street with the pole over their shoulders, with the fish hanging down and its tail dragging on the sidewalk. The catch was so heavy that the boys could barely stagger along with it, but that was a mere nothing compared to the joy and pride of exhibiting their plunder.

HORSES FRIGHTENED.

Heavy traffic around the corner of Hunter and Aylmer Streets at noon on Thursday startled the horses drawing Anthony's lorry and they started to run away. The driver managed to pull them to a halt around the corner of Bethune Street just as the animals grazed the rear end of a car.

WEEK-END FARMING

Six soldiers reported this morning at F. C. Paterson's office offering their services as farm helpers for the week-end. They had leave from Morrow Park military camp until Sunday night. Mr. Paterson set out at once to take them to two or three farms in the district.

BROTHERS ON LEAVE

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Lawson received this week a cablegram from their two sons overseas, Petty Officer Lloyd Lawson of the Canadian Navy, and AC1 William Lawson of the R.C.A.F. The message told briefly that the brothers were spending a three days' leave together at Croydon.

A LIGHT DOCKET

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., was on the bench at police court this morning with a very light docket. One case was adjourned until next week because the accused was unable to appear and in a parking bylaw case the police announced that they would offer no evidence because the alleged offender has joined the army in the meanwhile.

Chief Constable Alexander Kidd Dies In His Office In Belleville

BELLEVILLE, July 42. — Alexander Kidd, veteran Chief of Police, died suddenly in his office here yesterday afternoon. He was 62.

The officer was conversing with two women and a man when he suddenly reeled in his chair and fell backwards. Death was instantaneous, doctors stated and due to heart failure. The Police Chief had complained of heartburn this morning, but previously had not suffered from any heart ailment.

Six feet four inches in height and weighing 250 pounds, Chief Kidd was a typical police officer. He had served as Chief here for the past 22 years. Born near Perth, Scotland, he became famous in Old Country sports in his youth. He was a champion swimmer and played on an international Scottish water polo team against England. Later he was a member of the champion police tug-of-war team of Britain.

He served his police apprenticeship in Liverpool. Coming to Canada he joined the Peterborough Force and served there as a constable for a number of years. He then accepted the Police Chief position at Brampton, and left that post to return to Peterborough as a sergeant.

Parry Sound next saw him as its Police Chief and in November, 1920, he came to Belleville to head its department. He was an efficient, intelligent officer and had the respect of all who knew him.

A Presbyterian, he was a member of the board of St. Andrew's Church. Fraternally he was a Past Master of Moira Lodge A.F. and A.M., and a member of the C.O.O.F. He leaves, besides his widow, two sons John of Saint John N.B., and Robert Royal Canadian Navy; one daughter Mary, at home, and a brother David of St. Louis, Mo. Funeral will be held on Monday.

'He had always been a fine police officer, hard-working, honest and diligent,' was the tribute paid this morning by Chief Constable Sam Newhall to the late Alexander (Sandy) Kidd, police chief of Belleville who died suddenly in his office Thursday afternoon.

'I taught Sandy Kidd his first beat when he became a member of the Liverpool Eng., police force in 1903,' Chief Newhall recalled. 'I had transferred to Liverpool from London and had been on duty for some time when Kidd joined the Liverpool force and it was my job to show him the ropes'

Chief Newhall said that the late Belleville police chief was a fine athlete in his youth, a member of the Scottish international water-polo team and of the champion British tug-of-war team.

The head of the police department said that soon after he came to Peterborough and became identified with the police force here Sandy Kidd came to this country and his first job was a member of the Peterborough fire department under Chief W. A. Howard. He was employed there for some time and finally when a vacancy occurred in the local police department he became a constable and served here for some years. Later he went to Brampton as chief but the conditions there did not suit him and he returned to Peterborough to become sergeant of the local department. Later an opportunity to become chief of police at Parry Sound offered itself and was accepted. Twenty years ago Sandy was appointed chief constable at Belleville and had held that position ever since.

In his death Chief Constable Newhall has lost a close personal friend. Inspector Reid and other older members of the Peterborough police force as well as hundreds of citizens who remember Chief Kidd's association with Peterborough will share with the head of the local department the sorrow he feels in the sudden passing of the veteran police officer.

One Paper $2.98

TORONTO, July 24.—(CP).— A newspaper changed hands 49 times in a downtown restaurant here and after the final transaction, a small newsie was richer by $2.98. Delegates to Lions International convention purchased and re-purchased the paper and finally gave the copy back to the boy after he told them he helped support his mother.

Jap Slapper

Passing By

SOMETIMES WHISTLING and often singing in his round of south west end neighborhood, Walter Wilson, a blind youth, sets a keynote in mood and disposition to which many who know him are nearly as insensible as, unfortunately, is he to the world of vision. And he calls a hello to nearly every passing step.

He has never seen the sunrise and the night sky, has never seen that mysterious creature, his fellow man; and you know he volunteers that hello to you hoping to hear a note of friendly response in your greeting.

You set out in the morning annoyed or apprehensive about some petty mischance, and you meet the blind youth feeling his course along the pavement and humming some song he has heard from the air. No bugles in your soul; nothing buoyant. Grousing about war restrictions, taxes, tires, tremendous trifles that exclude from your horizon all the wonder and beauty about you.

And to his "Hello," you sound a bit churlish or impatient or just mean; and with the great majority that is actually about the measure of our feeling, so often drab and low pitched and uninspiring. No harp cadenzas in our inner being. And he—who has never seen you, never seen that magic light of life in your eye, approaches humming about the heart of Texas or Waltzing Matilda. To him the dew drop is just a bit of moisture,—no diamond gints like a gleaming gem; and you, more or less morose, perhaps about nothing much; and if on an even keel nothing ecstatic in a world that reaches and extends so far as you can see, a whole world even in your garden; and a universe along the way to work. What, no bugles!

Perry St. Group Gives Show For War Victims

Years ago, before the advent of motion pictures, days of which the older folk like to recall, backyard shows were more plentiful, and who knows but what they filled a good purpose at that. For one thing, it certainly gave the youngsters initiative, and at that perhaps disclosed some talent which in later years was all the better because it had participated in events of this kind. Recently such an event was put on by two girls and a boy, Marion and Esther Brown, and Alphonse Levasseur, all of Perry street, on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund.

Of course, there had to be the modern touch with a small game of bingo, and also the catering to the inner man by the serving of lemonade and sandwiches, all of which went to help swell the proceeds, and this together with the help of a neighbor who sold some salvage and gave them a dollar from it helped them turn in $5.00 to the fund, which is listed in today's receipts under their name. It is recalled that both the girls in this group gave previous aid to the fund by holding a small draw on a cushion which had been made by their mother.

The penny box total continues to mount with $5.20 coming from the box located in the Grafton's Ltd. store, where it is indicated tourists are taking a hand in helping to make what has been its largest contribution to date.

There is a special story connected with the donation under the name "Islinda" which is a souvenir of a lovely outing spent on this boat, details of which may be secured from Capt. P. P. Young.

This Saturday the C.G.E. All-Stars and Genelco All-Stars hook up in a game of softball at 6.30 p.m. at Riverside Park, and from all accounts this is a real scalping expedition with both sides out for real blood. Manager E. Guppy for the Genelco Stars has announced his team as follows: W. Preston, V. Morphet, B. Hodgetts, N. Giardino, F. Maloney, K. Kane, M. Wilson, T. Busby and C. Harrington, with B Dundas, J. Collins, D. Taylor, B. Gray and D. Dundas as spares All proceeds of a silver collection will come to the fund.

The Star of Bethlehem, L.O.B.A. 650, have been sponsoring a draw for an afghan made and donated by Mrs. Mary Hurry, with tickets at 10 cents, under the convenership of Mrs. E. Tait, which was to have concluded on July 25. Owing to unforseen circumstances, this draw has been postponed, and will now take place at the Orange Hall on Brock street on Saturday, August 8, instead.

Birds Get a Break

EDMONTON, July 24 (CP) — A peculiar circumstance exists in Alberta this year with an "almost unlimited supply of Hungarian partridge and other game birds, and no one to shoot them," Dr. William Rowan, head of the Zoology department at the University of Alberta, told members of a service club yesterday. Shortages of tires, gasoline and shells, will curtail hunting activities, he said.

Victory In 1942?

Wearing a brace on his back to hold a crushed rib in place, Capt. Randolph Churchill, son of Britain's Prime Minister, is pictured in New York after arriving from Egypt with U.S. pilots, en route to London. He was invalided in a motor crash in Egypt. Capt. Churchill declared during his visit that "if we're lucky" the United Nations would win the war by the end of 1942; if unlucky by the end of 1943.

His Nose Knows

An expert engaged in the manufacture of Canadian cheese is shown sniffing the aroma of the curd after milling. Canadian cheese producers expect this year to exceed last year's shipments of the product to embattled England.

14 Men Apply For Enlistment

There is only a partial list available of the men who took their medicals on Wednesday for active service. Those in Category A1 and A2, are: Bernard Michael Kearney, 700 Ross street, Peterborough; James Leo Crowley, 72 St. Patrick street, Lindasy; Noble Guy McKay, R.R. No. 4, Lindsay.

Right in the swim too, are those in Category B1, B2: William George McGuirk, R.R. No. 2, Lindsay, and John Stante, 173 Albertus street, Peterborough.

The high recruiting standard that began with 21 on Monday is being maintained every day, and anyone interested in joining the Army is asked to report to the Recruiting Officer, Lieut. G. P. Brook. Fourteen men responded to the call for enlistments on Thursday and up to 10 o'clock Friday morning there were nine more men reported for their medicals.

Veterans Needed

Veterans are still wanted for army service and the Veterans Guard are sending some of their officers to take up duties in the recruiting offices on Saturday to help raise the strength of 2,500 more men. Those men who qualify in B category are liable for active service any place in the world if needed. Those in C category, are needed for guarding German prisoners of war in Canada. Such an officer will be working in the Peteborough Armouries along with Lieut. Brook, starting Saturday, and all veterans will be cordially welcomed.

Recruits are asked to note that the Armouries will be closed Saturday at noon, because of the recruiting campaign in Lindsay.

For those boys who have been listed in a temporary category, there is no need to be discouraged about getting another chance if care is taken of the things that held up proceedings in the first place. One of the twenty-one men to enlist Monday and who was turned down and felt badly about it, got a new pair of glasses and came trailing back to the Recruiting Officer for another chance. He was given another medical and made the grade and went on to Kingston rejoicing. There are a good many such cases where another chance is given.

Bradburn Building Once Home Of Peterborough's Town Hall With Opera House On Third Storey

How many persons recognize the Bradburn Building on the east side of George Street, between Charlotte and Simcoe Streets, as the town hall and municipal centre of the old community of Peterborough in years prior to the turn of the century.

Plans were drawn by John Belcher in 1872 on the order of the late Thomas Bradburn, grandfather of Alderman H. I. Bradburn, work was begun shortly afterward, and eventually this block surmounted by the clock which was subsequently moved to the Charlotte Street corner, dominated the entire central area of the town and its main street.

This fact of local history was recalled to the Examiner this morning by Rupert H. Bradburn, uncle of Alderman Bradburn, in the course of a conversation relating to the constrution of the Grand Opera House now gone from the Peterborough scene and relegated to the city's memories.

And as it turned out in the interview, reportorial interest switched to the Bradburn block and its past, including the old Opera House, occupying the entire third floor. The bounds of that work of Belcher architecture, once the pride of the citizens, remain today as clear and distinct as when the building was completed. Five stores on the ground floor, extending from the Centre Theatre to the market building, were set out in the original block. Their designating names are: McCannan, Jopling, Maher, Coleman and the Silver Moon Grill.

Entrance.

That part of the building now occupied by the Maher Shoe Store was designed by Mr. Belcher as the entrance to the municipal offices on the second floor and to the Opera House on the third. And in his planning for symmetry, the architect surmounted the building with a clock tower, placed at the front centre, and above the entrance.

The town council chamber was on the east side of the second story, a large room whose frosted glass door has in latter years been used at times for assemblies of a religious denomination. The mayor's office was to the south and the clerk's office to the north of the council chamber. These offices, and others in front, directly over the stores, used by the town engineer and other officials, opened off a wide corridor, extending north and south to two stairs leading upward to the theatre. The public turned to the right on reaching the second floor, and stairs at the opposite and north end of the hallway led to the stage, a private accommodation for the actors, stage employees and any others associated with the business of theatrical productions. That was back in the early seventies, and seventy years ago since Mr. Belcher signed his name to the set of plans. Only the elders of this Peterboruogh today can recall the George Street block when the town clock looked down from the Bradburn Building and the town fathers held their meetings under it, on the second floor.

Mr. Bradburn undertook his enterprise in agreement with the municipality to provide offices for the council and civic employees. Later when the town decided to erect the market building they assigned the clock to its present altitude at Charlotte and George streets. But, in those days that part of the main street from the Bradburn Building south to the corner was vacant, and was used as part of the outdoor market.

Mr. R. H. Bradburn said his father constructed the municipal building in Lindsay, the top floor being set apart for a theatre. At one time, too, he owned the theatre in Port Hope, and the hotel building known as St. Lawrence Hall, typical of the architecture of those days.

Bradburn's Opera House severed its long connection with the theatre in 1903. Management of it in the meantime had devolved to the late T. E. Bradburn and W. H. Bradburn, and in turn to R. H. Bradburn, who recalled that period this morning. He is in Peterborough for several days. He had been in Chicago for a time, and in the Spring of 1899 went on a trip to the Canadian west. In later years he became interested in California opportunities, and lived there for quite a long period.

The old theatre was lagging behind the progressive pace at the beginning of this century, and besides insurance companies regarded it as an additional risk to the ground floor property. They advanced their rates to the level of charges which compelled the closing of the theatre. For several years Peterborough was off the show circuit. A few of the companies like Harry Lindley's set up a temporary stage at the south end of the Brock street rink, but it was an impossible situation.

Ready For New Theatre

Meanwhile, R. H. Bradburn felt that the town was ready for a new theatre. He talked over the project with J. R. Stratton, Adam Hall and W. G. Ferguson. They decided to go in with him, and an Ontario charter was obtained. A minor circumstance, however, had caused a disagreement between Mr. Bradburn and the late Ambrose Small of Toronto.

Small's opposition to the proposed local company, especially in regard to the booking of shows, resulted in a lapse of interest in the proposed new house. Finally, it was rumored that the Toronto man was becoming interested, even to the extent of trying to get possession of the dormant charter. Mr. Bradburn consulted his three associates, and they turned the project entirely over to him with their good wishes. An hour later, a representative of Ambrose Small was enquiring about the charter, and was informed that he was something like sixty minutes too late.

R. H. Bradburn went ahead with the Grand. He recalled this morning that it cost him something in excess of $32,000. Less than two years later he had lost interest in the business. Its exactions required him to be at the office at 9 a.m. and often his day did not end until midnight or later. At any rate he sold the Grand to J. J. Turner, father of the late John J. Turner. Eventually it was acquired by Ambrose Small and lined into his chain at a valuation said to have been $110,000 when he sold his theatre properties to an English syndicate for $3,000,000.

The Grand Opera House is now no more. Its demolition was completed recently and the ground has been levelled, and as the years pass it, too, will become only a memory.

The land and building have been assessed to the Hanson Theatres Limited for $11,710. Removal of the deserted building, assessed at $5,000, leaves the present assessment of the land at $6,710, a saving in taxes to the present owners. Such is the inglorious end of the playhouse which opened in the fall of 1905 with the 'Yankee Consul," followed by a long series of entertainment provided by the enterprise of Rupert H. Bradburn.

Making Arrangements For Soldiers' Film

The committee, composed of Alderman R. M. Glover, Fred Roy and Art Cauley, arranging for the filming of local scenes next Friday, has listed some proposals for consideration by the camera man of the Federal Film Bureau. It is chiefly intended to include the wives and children and other relatives of men overseas. Children playing in the water at Jackson Park, the King Edward Park bathing pool and Inverlea beach; several shots of the C.G.E. crowd, perhaps the interior of the big Genelco shop to show the men what has gone on here in their absence.

Another idea is to invite mothers to come up town for a shopping scene, perhaps Friday afternoon. These are some of the scenes already listed for final consideration. No schedule of time has yet been fixed, but further information will be published next week. For the present the intention is to stimulate the interest of Peterborough people with sons and fathers overseas.

It has also been suggested that one group should comprise young mothers with the baby sons and daughters of their husbands overseas who have never seen these little ones of theirs except in photographs.

Canada Needs War Savings

Since the incorporation in the Budget of 'Compulsory Savings' many citizens have been asking what about war savings? They feel that this new plan will take the place of the war savings, and this is not the case. Compulsory savings are minimum savings and the war savings are required in addition. In order to help pay for the war, Canada must have all the money her people can save.

On analysation the compulsory savings are not nearly as large as at first appears, because there are deductions from it. These are: (A) the total amount of all mortgage payments on account of principal already contracted for on one property.

(b) The total amount of all life insurance premiums already contracted for.

(c) The total amount of all payments into an superannuation or retirement fund.

(d) The total cost of all medical services exceeding 5 per cent. of the total income. (There is a maximum deduction allowed for each member of the family.)

(e) Compulsory savings in any case do not come into effect till September.

Therefore when these deductions 'compulsory savings' will in most cases be relatively small and if the deductions equal or exceed compulsory savings, no compulsory savings are required. The money is urgently needed by the government and everyone is asked to continue maintaining their pledge.

Police Ask Aid In Locating Allen's Killer

The co-operation of the public is asked for by the police in the hunt to run down the hit-and-run driver whose automobile crashed into Garrett Allen's bicycle on the Lakefield Road Thursday night and instantly killed the rider.

Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure, assisted by city police, worked all night on the case and the traffic officer was still running down clues and making investigations this morning without many tangible results. Sergt. Storey from the Belleville office of the Provincial Police arrived in town this morning to assist in the investigation.

The officers feel there are citizens who have information in regard to this accident that would be helpful and they are asking them to play the role of good Canadians and come forward with their story of what happened. It is realized that even the most careful motorist might get into an accident but the conduct of a driver who is callous enough to drive off and leave his victim prostrate on the road, not knowing whether he is dead or alive, deserves no consideration from any one, the officers point out, and should be made to answer for his conduct.

There has been far too many hit-and-run accidents recently and the police declare that unless the public does its bit to bring the offenders to justice they are handicapped in their efforts to run down the culprits.

Any one who knows anything about the accident that cost the life of Garrett Allen is asked to communicate at once with Provincial Traffic Officer McClure or with the city police department.

Police also intimated that there was a standing provincial award for any person supplying information leading to the arrest of a hit and run driver.

2 Dogs Blamed For Auto Crash

When two dogs he had in the automobile attempted to jump out of the window in pursuit of a squirrel, Constable C. J. McGillen tried to grab the canines.

He was just about to pass a parked car on Douro street at the time and in the momentary confusion the automobile driven by the police constable collided with the left rear fender of the parked machine, the property of Gordon Miller, Douro street, and tore the fender. The officer was driving his own car at the time.

Bank Property Sold In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, July 24 (ENS). —The Canadian Bank of Commerce which transferred its accounts to the Bank of Montreal on June 30, lost little time in winding up its business in this town even to the point of selling the office building located on the corner of Front and Bridge streets.

The manager, A. G. Thompson, who was left here to look after the sale of the building and transfer of fixtures was with the branch when it first opened as the Standard Bank here. He is said to have assisted as a junior with moving fixtures into the building. Fred Macoun was the purchaser of the property and although the price paid was not revealed it is reputed to be upwards of $7,000.00. He plans to rent the building for the duration of the war and following this may turn it into a bowling alley.

Fine Ivory Work

TELLER, Alaska, July 24.—(AP). —Their annual pilgrimage unaffected by battles in the Aleutians 800 miles south, natives of little Diomede Island have crossed the Bering Strait to market their trinkets and bolster the food supply of their rocky island home.

Four huge skin-covered canoes brought 130 men, women and children to the Alaska mainland with heavy cargoes of ivory and sealskins.

The Diomede natives are cave dwellers on the rocky isle only a mile distant from Russia's big Diomede island in storm-swept Bering Strait.

Mouse Moves Down

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 24 (CP) —Bored by councillors' summer vacation, a small mouse which regularly attended council meetings moved down one floor in the city hall and disrupted work among women employees. It is looking forward to fall sessions, because it avoids a baited trap.

WHEN A DINNER dress is worn, it is apt to be of the snug fitting cover-up variety. Claudette Colbert wears this type of frock beautifully and so Irene has created a wonderful model in pale pinkish beige silk jersey for her. The dress features moulded body lines, a long-waisted draped hipline with softly draped front panel. An interesting touch is the inset yoke with attached hood that drapes softly over the hair and fastens on the shoulder with a large gold and jewelled butterfly.

Lady 101 Would Like Trip Back To Ontario

VICTORIA, B.C., July 24.—(CP). —A Canadian Press story describing her 101st birthday celebration has opened the happy prospect for Mrs. Jason Harns Post of hearing from Ontario relatives who lost track of her half a century ago.

'I'd like to go back there,' she said wistfully when told that Mrs. A. J. Foltz, 497 Woolwich street, Guelph, Ont., had read the story and asked for her address. Mrs. Foltz recognized the centenarian as her husband's aunt.

Granny Post, as she is affectionately known by the sister superior, nurses and other patients in Mount St. Mary's Home for the Aged here, was just a bit weary from all the excitement of the birthday party when the reporter called. Her son and grandchildren gathered about he on the occasion.

'I was born on a farm at Richmond, near Ottawa, July 1, 1841,' she said 'My maiden name was Margaret Nulty and my parents came from Northern New York — United Empire Loyalists who wished to live under the Union Jack.

'When I was 4 my father was fatally injured by a falling timber while helping neighbors build a barn. Then my mother, sister, brother and myself moved to Belleville.

'I went to school at Belleville and recall the Russell sisters, the Morton girls, the Robinsons, Camerons and Murnys. I knew former Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia when he was 11 years old and used to visit his mother at Woodstock.

'When 15 I was married to Mr. Post, who was a carpenter. We moved to Winnipeg in 1881, lived there four years and then went to Port Arthur. Five years later we moved to Victoria.'

Mrs. Post's husband died ten years ago She has one son, who at 85 works every day as a carpenter. Another son died some years ago. 'He never recovered from the shock of the Point Ellice bridge disaster here losing his wife and young son in on May 26, 1896,' she said. An overloaded street car plunged through the bridge, resulting in loss of sixty-five lives.

Granny recalled incidents of the American Civil War, when she lived in Watertown, N.Y., and Jersey City, 'Then there were the Fenian raids in Canada. I was living in Gananoque and when the boys went away all the women cried But the Fenians did not come far enough and the boys didn't have to fight them,' she said.

Mrs. Post remembered Confederation and said that she had seen Sir John A. Macdonald on several occasions. 'We were Conservatives,' she said, 'but so long as Canada became a nation we didn't care who ran things. I'm a Canadian and always shall be.'

She does not think that modern girls are different from those of her day 'In the old days some girls used something like lipstick and rouge. I didn't...and I never saw slacks until a year or so before I lost my sight five years ago. I was a Methodist and never smoked, danced or played cards. Dancing is good exercise, I guess, but I never learned.'

with the remark: 'I honor any girl Mrs. Post concluded the interview who puts on the Canadian uniform.'

Victory Recipes Planned For Canadians' Health

By LAURA C. PEPPER
Chief, Consumer Section
Department of Agriculture

This is the time of year when thousands of housewives in Canada are getting out their preserving kettles, jars and equipment in readiness for canning and making jams and jellies.

Luscious, tree-ripened fruits are already shown on the markets, so if you contemplate "doing-up" fruit this season be sure to pick it up when you see it—providing, of course that it is in good condition and reasonable in price. Don't wait for it to come down a cent or two because the season is extremely short and the demand heavy. If you do wait, you may find yourself all ready to can but with no fruit to fill your jars.

In our experimental kitchen in Ottawa, jars upon jars of delicious, jewel-toned jams and jellies are on display—the result of several weeks' intensive work. It is these tested recipes that we want to pass on to the housewives of Canada.

The Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture has received many, many letters from women all over Canada asking if it is possible to make good jam that "keeps" within the sugar quota. Our answer is: "Most certainly yes." In fact, we feel that these new jams made on the sugar allowance are not only better for health but they have a truer fruit flavor and better color than the old-fashioned "pound for pound" or sweeter still, the "cup for cup" jam.

Here are tested recipes which can be made successfully within the sugar ration of ¾ pound for each pound of purchased fruit. If you follow the direction exactly, you can rest assured your products will be good:

Raspberry Jam

2 quarts raspberries
3 cups sugar

Crush fruit and simmer 10 minutes. Then add sugar and cook until thick—about 25 minutes. Pour into hot sterilized jars and when cool, seal with paraffin. Yield: Approximately 2½ pints.

A delicious jelly-like jam may be made by adding 2 teaspoon cider vinegar with the sugar in the above recipe. It produces a slightly tarter jam.

Raspberry and Red Currant Jam

2 quarts raspberries
1 cup red currant juice
3½ cups sugar

To make currant juice, crush 1½ cups currants slightly and cover them with ¾ cup water. Cook until the currants are soft and mushy—about 10 to 15 minutes. Drain through a moist jelly bag.

Cover the raspberries with the 1 cup red currant juice and let stand 20 minutes. Simmer raspberries and juice 20 minutes then add sugar. Cook about 20 minutes. Pour into hot sterilized jars and when cool, seal with paraffin. Yield: Approximately 2½ pints.

Gooseberry Jam

2 quarts gooseberries
1 1-3 cups water
4¼ cups sugar

Top and tail the gooseberries. Simmer the fruit and water for 10 minutes. Add sugar and cook for about ½ hour. Pour into hot sterilized jars and when cool, seal with paraffin. Yield: Approximately 3½ pints.

This jam is quite thin when hot but it thickens considerably when it cools.

If desired, one-half cup honey or corn syrup may be added to the recipe if it is too start for your taste.

Black Curant Jam

2 quarts black currants
1 1-3 cups water
4¼ cups sugar
¾ cup honey

Top and tail the black currants. Simmer the fruit and water for 10 minutes. Add sugar and honey and cook about 15 minutes or until thick. Pour into hot sterilized jars and when cool, seal with paraffin. Yield: 3½ pints.

This makes a thick, jelly-like jam.

Black Currant Jelly

To each quart of black currants add 4 cups water. Boil until currants and boil until soft and mushy. Strain juice through a moist jelly bag. Measure juice and boil for 6 minutes. For each cup of original juice add 1 cup sugar and boil until it sheets from a spoon—approximately 6 to 10 minutes. Pour into hot sterilized jars and when cool, seal with paraffin.

Red Currant Jelly

Mash 2 quarts red currants and ad 4 cups water. Boil until currants are soft and mushy. Strain juice through a moist jelly bag. Measure juice and boil for 6 minutes. For each cup of original juice add ¾ cup sugar and boil until it sheets from a spoon—5 to 8 minutes. Pour into hot sterilized jars and when cool, seal with paraffin.

Red Currant and Raspberry Jelly

Crush 1 quart raspberries and add ½ cup water. Boil for 10 minutes or until fruit is soft and mushy. Drain through moist jelly bag. Yield: 1¾ cups juice.

Mash 3 cups red currants, and add 1 cup water. Boil for 10 minutes or until fruit is soft and mushy. Drain through moist jelly bag. Yield: Approximately 1¾ cups.

Combine 1¾ cups each of red currant and raspberry juice and boil 10 minutes. Add 2½ cups sugar and boil until it reaches the jellying stage—approximately 6 minutes.

Bliss Becomes Official Slush Censor

By ALAN RANDALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON July 24 — (CP Cable). —Arthur Bliss, composer of symphonies, a one-time Guardsman and now a BBC music director, is a man with a new job who is due for a lot of heckling. He is the official "slush censor."

Bliss must, according to the terms of a BBC letter to music publishers and dance band leaders, say whether a male crooner's performance is "anaemic or debilitated"; whether a crooner is "insincere or over-sentimental."

In short, Bliss is to bring virility into the BBC's programs by slicing out "sloppy" dance tunes.

While controversy raged among popular music fans at the possibility of their favorite numbers being knocked off, Bliss went quietly to work without even telling newspapermen what yardstick he is going to use in testing songs for virility.

Said the BBC: "We are not going to exclude sincere sentiment."

Said Harry Pary, a band leader: "It's all very tricky." He was trying to figure the difference between "sentiment" and "slush."

On the virile side, it is said, are such songs as "Deep in the Heart of Texas" which Britons go for, "Whistler's Mother-in-Law," "The Fleet's In," and "The Girl Who Broke the Sergeant-Major's Heart." "I Threw a Kiss in the Ocean" and "All Clear" are considered mushy.

The press had something to say about the new policy, too.

The Manchester Guardian editorially approved it.

The London Star suggested the policy should be extended to include an investigation into the sincerity of the laughs of BBC audiences who hear 'corny' jokes and into 'scores of old bores' who give talks on such subjects as 'we shall win,' and 'all will be well in the end.'

Cartoonists took a few swipes of the ruling, too. The Star pictured a sophisticated committee of six members gathered to decide on a score and the caption said: 'Remember we must be fraightfully, fraightfully robust.'

The News showed a bugler sound-reveille and nearby a tough sergeant explaining to his colonel that he was crooning through it. It must be the effect of the (BBC) forces program.'

Fraightfully robust, the Times said: 'The nation is a Dorian mood; it has in its mind to hear something full-throated and vital—something, as Plato said, that will accents of brave men in warlike actiting represent the tones and tion or in any hard and dangerous task.

'If there is ever a time for a languishing or Lydian mood it is certainly not the present.'

To Save Gasoline and Tires Get a Horse

Canadians, faced more and more with shortages in two vital war materials, rubber and gasoline, are already beginning to go back to older forms of transportation. When wedding bells rang in Hudson, Quebec, recently, Miss Constance Kingsland, of Montreal, and John Archibald McIntyre, of Whitby, hitched up Dobbin and drove to the altar nineteenth century style. Hudson residents approved of another feature of the war-time wedding—the absence of tooting horns as the bride and groom and guests drove by.

"Speared" By Picket Fence

Twelve-year-old Ethel House is shown resting comfortably in an oxygen tent in Boston. She is fighting her way back from the brink of death after having her chest penetrated by a fence picket, which actually pushed her heart aside. She has better than an even chance of recovery.

Army Caps Or Patch Pockets

Woollen material must be conserved to meet the needs of the armed forces. Wool in one woman's sports coat will make 13 army caps, as pictured ABOVE, so with facts like this in mind, administrators of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board are cutting down the amount of material used in civilian clothing by such methods as the elimination of unnecessary patch-pockets and wool linings, curtailment of length and width in coats and skirts, and removal of cuffs from men's trousers.

This Is Everybody's War

By MOLLY BROWN

If the teacher is the builder of Democracy, then the school is the workshop in which democracy is made. Our educational system is the framework of the building wherein the citizens of our democracy live and grow.

If you have studied history you will know that every reform, every change, every rebellion against injustice, began in the universities, the great educational centres of the world. For these were the places where thinking men met and talked; exchanged knowledge and ideas; and dreamed of world that was, in some way, better to live in than their own had been.

True, the first open rebellion against accepted injustice seldom came from the studious cloisters of the universities; but there the first seeds were sown, grew, and bore fruit; and from there the increase of seed was blown forth by the wind of freedom until men everywhere began to whisper of justice and freedom for all.

But our educational system has changed of recent years, not always for the good. Universities have become trade schools for engineers and housewives; there is overmuch spoon-feeding in public and secondary schools many people believe that education consists of being trained to earn a living at some chosen work. Too many university students are there merely because their parents could afford to send them. They speak glibly of the value of social contacts made at university and have no appreciation, because they have not sufficient intelligence, of the intellectual contacts to be made. And, worse of all, many students who are intellectual, thoughtful, and far-sighted are denied the advantages of higher education because they cannot afford to go to university.

But, despite these faults, our schools and universities are good. Only we must not forget that they are very, very far from being perfect. Universities are still the meeting places of thinking people, the clearing houses of knowledge and ideas. If some of the ideas are half-baked, that is merely because there are more half-baked people at university than there used to be.

If our places of learning are to be the workshops of democracy, we must see to it that they achieve more nearly the democratic ideal of equal opportunity for all. We must fit children to live, as well as to teach them how to earn a living. And we must see that each child receives the education best suited to his talents and character.

A good education should bring out the best that is in a child, not stuff his head with miscellaneous facts; it should teach him to think for himself to stand on his own feet in the battle of life; it should be a firm and strong foundation on which to build structure of his life. An educational system should be designed to produce honest, clear-thinking, intelligent people; fit citizens to bear the responsibility and enjoy the freedom of democracy.

The suit is dark blue spun linen and is beautifully tailored and styled. There is interesting shoulder and pocket detail on the belted jacket.

The Experts Say . . .

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 24 (CP)—Signposts to wartime living for Canadian housewives:—

TIN: The tin from one tube containing sunburn lotion, toothpaste, or shaving cream can be stretched to cover 20 water canteens . . . Metals Controller G. C. Bateman of Toronto urges Canadians to think of Allied troops sweltering on tropical fronts before they toss away metal tubes . . . Collapsible metal tubes are about 100 per cent tin . . . Here are some figures: 250 toothpaste tubes supply the tin needed for a Bolingbroke bomber . . . One tube supplies enough tin for 20 shell cases . . . The lead (to change the subject) from 20 tubes of artists' colors supplies the solder for a field telephone.

CORSETS: Byrne Hope Sanders—"Mrs. Consumer" for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board—says Canadian women can kill two birds with one stone by eating less sugar and sweets . . . They help conserve sugar supplies and help their figures with resultant reduction in use of corset-steel . . . When the board cut the usable tonnage of corset steel by 30 per cent it supplied an extra 60 tons of high-grade steel for use in airplane motors and war vehicles . . . It takes 240 tons of steel ingots to make 60 tons of the stuff used for corsets.

NEW BROOMS: Don't complain when you find the new broom you buy hasn't got any decorations like velvet, bnds, wire spirals or colored string stitchings . . . Furniture Administrator James E Ferguson has banned them to save materials for the war effort . . . But he tells us the new brooms will sweep clean.

FRUIT: Marion Harlow of the pensions and health department's nutrition services reminds me that a colorful, appetizing bowl of fruit is an economical and nutricious dessert at this time of the year . . . Fruit is packed with vitamins and helps keep summer kitchens cool because it doesn't take any cooking . . . And some fruits, at least, cut down on use of sugar . . . If time is at a premium you'll find it easier to turn some fruit into a bowl than prepare most other dishes.

EGGS: Canada has no egg worries, says Laura Pepper of the consumer service of the department of agriculture, and they make an excellent summer food, light and nourishing at the same time . . . To keep the whites palatable and tender if you bake eggs, use a low heat—not more than 325 or 350 degrees.

NYLON: The Royal Canadian Air Force needs Nylon, says Supplies Controller Alan H. Williamson, and he warns it may be a long time before Canadians can get all the nylon they want . . . So it pays to take care of what you have . . . Launder nylon gently, because the job is to wash dirt off instead of out of the fibres . . . Don't twist or wring; don't use heat for drying . . . And iron nylon with a warm iron because a hot one will "melt" the fabric or cause glazing or an iron mark.

AVOID MATRIMONIAL HYSTERIA NOW SWEEPING COUNTRY

Marrying a Soldier of Short Acquaintance Involves Many Hazards

Listen girls, don't be silly. Don't let this matrimonial hysteria that is sweeping the country like a devastating plague get you, and make you rush into marrying the soldier you met last week at a canteen, or whom you danced with at a recreation center, and about whom you know as little as if he were a parachutist who had just dropped from the skies at your feet.

Yes, I know all the girls are doing it. I know that the stores are crammed with ready-made trousseaux that you can buy in a couple of minutes, and that you can pick up a wedding ring on any bargain counter, and that not to be a war bride makes you feel as old-fashioned and out of the running as if your were a wallflower at a party, or were wearing last year's sport suit. Maybe, too, in the back of your head is the thought that men will be scarce after the war and that you had better nab one while the grabbing is good.

Or you may justify our leap into the dark by saying, "c'es la guerre—anything goes in war time, and if our marriages don't click there will always be Reno, and divorces will be as plentiful after the duration as the weddings are now."

Yes, I heard you when you said that nobody is enough of a prophet to be able to foretell how a marriage will turn out. That some that looked as if they were made in Heaven prove to have been manufactured in the other place, while other marriages that appeared predestined failures developed into glorious successes. Also, I heard you say that no woman ever gets really acquainted with a man until after she is married to him.

Will Be A Stranger

She may have made mud pies with him in her infancy and gone to kindergarten and through school and college with him, and thought that she knew every quirk in his disposition and every idea in his head, but when she takes him on as a husband he is as much of a stranger to her as if she had never seen him before.

All this is true, and if a girl with a good working knowledge of a man's character and long experience in dealing with his peculiarities of temperament cannot tell before hand what sort of a husband he will make, think of the folly of her staking her whole life's happiness and well-being on marrying a man she knows nothing whatever about, and taking the chance of drawing a prize instead of a blank out of the matrimonal grab-bag. It is pushing her luck too far.

Hypnotized by Brass Buttons

I know your girls are hynotized by brass button, as your mothers were before you. I know that an upstanding lad in a snappy uniform and with a swaggering walk makes the unpretentious little civilian in a blue serge that doesn't fit look like thiry cents. I know you are sloshing over with romance and a desire for adventure, and it seems a daring and thrilling thing to marry on the impulse of the moment, without even bothering to ask your bridegrooms' real name.

Don't do it, girls. Don't marry a man, soldier or civilian, whom you have known only a short time. Don't marry any man without finding out what sort of a family he comes from, what kind of a background he has, what sort of politims and religion he subscribes to, what sort of a record he has. Don't marry any man until you know whether he is a ne'er-do-well, or a go-getter. And be certain before you marry him that there is no mortage on him, that he hasn't got a wife and children, wherever he came from.

The war isn't going to last forever, and when it is over Uncle Sam isn't going to live with the soldier, but you are if you married him; and if his family, his friends, his way of life are all allergic to you, you will be miserable, no matter what he is himself.

The army is composed of men from every walk in life, of every nationality, of every degree of b[illegible]ing and culture. Some are God's noblemen. Some have dark pasts. They all look alike in uniform. They all stand on the same platform in the army. They are all potential heroes that we glorify for going out to fight our battles for us. But when the war is over each will go back to his own level and take his wife with him.

So, girls, don't take a chance on wrecking your lives by rushing into a war marriage. Say "oh, yeah" instead of "yes" to the handsome soldier who suggests that you drop by the Marriage License Bureau with him until you have had time to look up his record.

LAKEFIELD

Mrs. R. Howden Addresses The Beaver Club

LAKEFIELD, July 24—(ENS). — Mrs. Reg. Howden of Barrie, wife of the Rev. R. H. Howden, former rector of St. John's Church, was the guest speaker at the Beaver Club meeting, held at Beaver Lodge on Wednesday afternoon, and gave a very interesting talk, telling of the work done by the Red Cross in Barrie.

Barrie was given a building by the owner of one of the Toronto papers, which was turned over to the Red Cross. It is a very beautiful building and is completely furnished with chairs, lounges, etc., upholstered in red leather. The furniture was donated by members of the Land, Sea and Air Club of Toronto. Here the Red Cross of Barrie is making a "home away from home" for the soldiers (and their wives), who are stationed there.

A committee meets all the trains and locates stopping places for the soldiers' wives and families who come to see them.

At the recreation centre there are reading rooms, recreation rooms and lounges where the soldier and his wife and family can relax. The building is open from 9 o'clock in the morning until 12 at night. The time is divided into four shifts. Mrs. Howden is in charge of the entry door for two nights of the week.

No soldier who is inebriated is allowed to enter, and no soldier is allowed to bring in any girl off the street. Dances are held on certain nights and escorts are provided.

There are 14 beverage rooms in Barrie, and the officials of the Red Cross there are attempting to provide entertainment for the some 35,000 soldiers who are stationed nine miles out of Barrie, so they will not have to resort to the beverage rooms. When the soldiers come to town one would think Barrie populated solely by soldiers, as there are so many of them.

Mrs. Howden also gave the ladies several suggestions for their club work. One was to make print pockets and fill them with Kleenex and put a safety pin in them. When the war workers receive the pockets they pin them on to their dresses, and they are very convenient. Another was to cut the good parts out of old sweaters and socks, cut into squares or triangles, and stitch together with bright wool to make a woollen afghan.

Mrs. Stanley Higgins, president of the club, opened the meeting with a prayer. The roll call was answered by new suggestions for making preserves and jams. Mrs. Graydon Northey and Mrs. Richard Crawford moved that the outstanding bills be paid.

A cheque of $17.32 was received as the Beaver Club's share of the proceeds of the auction sale held in Lakefield by the Lakefield Red Cross and the Beaver Club. The rest of the day was spent in quilting a quilt. Lunch was served, each member having brought some portion of it.

Mrs. Howden gave her address in the afternoon, and Misses Doreen Hawthorne and Peggy Holmes played very nicely on their guitars. The next meeting will be held on August 12, at Beaver Lodge.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Higgins were [illegible] of Hamilton, Mr. W. Adams of Detroit, Miss Mary Wildman of Peterborough, the Rev. R. H. Howden, Mrs. Howden and Peter of Barrie.

Master Douglas Darling is spending this week with his cousin, Mr. Ken. Drain of Warsaw.

Mrs. Geraldi and Mr. Jack Ryan were recent visitors at Kingston and Tweed.

Mrs. Arthur Kidd has returned from visiting her daughter, Mrs. Taylor at Kemptville. Mrs. Taylor accompanied her mother home.

Miss Irma Bullock is spending her vacation at McCracken' Landing.

Mrs. James Smith and Charlie Dixon of Montreal were recent guests with Mr. and Mrs. Archie Neilson.

Miss Alta Bullock is visiting relatives in Little Britain.

Mrs. William Croft of Toronto is spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crawford.

Lovely Designs Remain

Elegance has not been prohibited by the clothing administrators, as the ABOVE photograph proves. Although the gracefully designed gown, shown at LEFT, has been banned, because, with its flowing girdle and extra wide sleeves and skirt, it requires more than eight yards of goods, the costume shown at RIGHT has been accepted. It comes within the restrictions, being fashioned of only four-and-a-half yards of material.

JUDGING By the lunar transits this should be a lively and enterprising day, with many affairs moving under high pressure and initiative. New projects should be successfully launched, but with precaution and an alertness to deception, treachery or subtle doings. This may particularly affect the private life.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of some anxiety despite some important and swift-moving event. This may be a new project. However, the private life in its domestic, affectional or social relations may be menaced particularly by a woman's jealousy.

A child born on this day should have much constructive ability, with enterprise, initiative, force and courage, but may be subject to jealousy and trickery.

Tim Buck Wants 2nd Front Now

TORONTO, July 24 —(CP)—The immediate opening of a second front in Europe to relieve the pressure on the Russians is urged by Tim Buck, general secretary of the Canadian Communist Party, in a statement issued Thursday by the Dominion Communist-Labor Total War Committee, under the signature of Beatrice Ferneyhough, secretary-treasurer.

There was no indication where the statement was prepared by Buck, whose whereabouts have been unknown since the Communist Party was declared an illegal organization under Defence of Canada Regulations.

Buck said the recommendations of the special parliamentary committee that the ban on the Communist Party be lifted as well as amending Defence of Canada Regulations "make for the strengthening of national unity."

Slightly Down

OWEN SOUND, Ont., July 24 —(CP)—When Game Overseer A. J. Rolston walked to his garage, he thought the rear end of his car was sagging slightly. He was right, because during the night thieves removed the rear wheels.

Fashion Drawing Studied at Home

Charts Show Smart Technique

It's fun to be a fashion artist! If you've a flair for drawing and a desire to make money (good fashion artists in department stores and on smart magazines command a good price) this may be your field.

You can learn, at home, the professional way to draw fashions. Guide lines and charts will help.

When sketching a figure, first draw these guide lines: a vertical "line of balance," around which to build the figure, and two pairs of parallel lines — one pair to place shoulders and bust, one for waist and hips.

Following these guide lines, sketching the figure is easy. The side that supports the body weight is drawn in sharp, angular lines; the other side is smooth.

Guide lines and charts also simplify drawing head and body in correct proportion.

Our 24-page instruction book has these guides and charts and shows how to draw lovely figures in all sorts of poses. Explains perspective, foreshortening, techniques; the drawing of clothes, textures, accessories.

For your copy of "Fashion Drawing Made Easy" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name address, and the name of instruction book.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

TAKE THAT SETTER

WHEN THERE is the slightest doubt about the outcome, a defender should take his apparently sure setting trick at once, and not fenagle around to try to beat the contract several tricks. Ambitious players, or at least a certain number of them, seem never to learn this important, basic and very simple lesson. With so many points at stake, in the case of a doubled game contract, it is losing bridge to play for the extra points from a set of one or two more tricks, if that reasonably endangers the prospects of beating the contract at all.

North: ♠ 9 3 / ♥ A Q / ♦ A Q 9 4 / ♣ K J 5 3 2

West: ♠ A K J 8 / . 7 6 4 2 / ♥ 8 / ♦ 10 7 6 / ♣ 4

East: ♠ Q / ♥ K J 10 9 / 5 2 / ♦ 5 2 / ♣ Q 10 9 7

South: ♠ 10 5 / ♥ 7 6 4 3 / ♦ K J 8 3 / ♣ A 8 6

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Dbl
Pass	2 ♥	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl

Considering his partner's suit the safest lead, North laid down the heart A to start the play. What he saw made him shift, selecting the diamond A to find out if South would give him a high card to urge continuation. South did, with the diamond 8, whereupon North led the diamond 4 to the K.

Thinking over the situation, South decided that North's heart A probably had been a singleton, and that a heart ruff was in prospect. So he led the heart 4, on which West discarded his only club. Now there was no chance to beat the contract. A club ruff put West in to lead his last diamond for a ruff by the spade Q, and a second club ruff put him in shape to run the rest of the trumps and make his contract.

As it happens, South had two ways to set the contract. A spade return to the fourth trick would have prevented West from ever getting rid of both his last diamond and his single club. But the better way to have beaten the contract surely would have been by laying down the club A, to do it at once. South said after the hand that he had hoped to set it two or more tricks with the defense he tried.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 8 7 4 3 / ♥ 7 6 5 2 / ♦ K J / ♣ 7 6 2

West: ♠ K J 2 / ♥ 8 4 3 / ♦ 10 4 2 / ♣ K Q 9 3

East: ♠ Q 9 6 / ♥ A Q / ♦ A Q 9 8 / 7 6 / ♣ A 8

South: ♠ A 10 5 / ♥ K J 10 9 / ♦ 5 3 / ♣ J 10 5 4

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

How many tricks can West take at No Trumps on this deal if South plays his spade 10 on the dummy's 9 after North leads the 3? How should he play for them?

Robbed Of Elevator

CAIRO, Egyp, July 24 —(AP). — The janitor of a Cairo apartment house reported to-day to police that thieves had stolen the elevator—motor, cables and all. "They said they had come to repair it," he wailed. "They disconnected the electricity, took down the cables and carted it all away in pieces. They said they'd bring it back at 7 o'clock. How could I know they were thieves?"

Japs Supplying Rubber Loot To The Germans

LONDON, July 24 — Germany and Japan have established economic contact, the Economic War Ministry disclosed yesterday and a "trickle" of raw materials — chiefly rubber from the Far East—has reached the Reich through the British blockade.

A ministry spokesman said the goods exchanged apparently were being sent around Cape Horn, off the south tip of South America — and that the Germans were believed to be supplying Japan with ball bearings, machine tools, and similar manufactured articles.

Occupation of part of Russia has relieved the nickel situation in Germany, and manganese mines at Nikopol in the Ukraine now are in production for the Nazis, he said. He admitted that the German army was getting all the oil it wanted, and would continue to do so.

The spokesman predicted that the critical period in Germany's food position would occur next spring.

"It now seems certain that the 1942 harvest is likely to be below normal in Germany" he said. "Further cuts in Germany's ration of meat and fats are probable before the end of the year."

The Reich's policy of supplying everything to the army at the expense of civilians has resulted in decreased production, a deterioration in transportation, and a rapid worsening of the civilian food situation, he said, adding that the conquest of the Ukraine "breadbasket" had brought no relief thus far.

Germany's textile situation also was described as precarious, with the likelihood of a severe shortage of clothing next winter.

The spokesman warned, however, that any forecast of the German economic situation "can be upset by military events," and that the Nazis "are relying on the gangster principle of the tommy-gun to remedy shortages."

TALLEST POLICEMAN

RIPON, England—(CP).—Police Constable William (Tiny) Proud of the North Riding Constabulary, is believed to be the tallest policeman in Britain. He's six feet eight inches and his bicycles (as well as his bed) have to be made to order.

Father and Two Sons Serving

A father and two sons are today serving in the same unit in Great Britain. Harry Smith (CENTRE) is the father and his two sons, George (LEFT) and Ray (RIGHT) are with the 3rd Field Park Company of the Royal Canadian Engineers. Ray was only 15 when he enlisted. Mrs. Smith resides on the Chemong Road and her four other sons all declare they will enlist when they come of age, but it will be some years yet for the younger one.

Coldwell Raps Religious Issue

OTTAWA, July 23 — (CP). — M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. House Leader, said in the House of Commons Thursday the Liberal Party in Western Canada is raising the religious issue in its criticism of those who have voted against the Government Bill to permit conscription for overseas service by Order-in-Council.

Speaking in debate on the measure, now standing for third reading, Mr. Coldwell said he wished to warn Western newspapers supporting the Liberal Party that they are "starting on a slippery road when they tried to raise that kind of thing in Canada."

Arthur Roebuck (Lib. Toronto Trinity) speaking after Mr. Coldwell, said he would urge the Government, "so soon as the Bill is passed, to adopt a complete and full system of compulsory selective service."

"I think that is approved by the great majority of the people of Canada," he said.

The Government should also remove the limitation as to the theatre of service placed on those already called to compulsory military service under the National Resources Mobilization Act.

Mr. Coldwell said the Edmonton Bulletin had carried an editorial entitled "54 Were Traitors," dealing with those who voted against the Bill on second reading. Legal men had advised him that this newspaper could be sued for libel as a result.

Claim Swearing Better Outlet Than Crying

WASHINGTON July 24—(AP).—Swearing is a normal reaction, almost as good as laughing, and much better than crying.

Human speech began with swearing and it has served as an emotional outlet through many centuries to its present state of near-perfection, Dr. M. F. Ashley Montagu of Philadelphia's Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital says in the Journal Psychiatry, published by the William Alanson White Foundation.

(Swearing is not necessarily blasphemy or the use of ugly words, in the scientific view, presumably the housewife who cries "That dirty, lopsided, ignorant, impossible stew-pan" gets the same release as the barmaid with a special vocabulary.)

"Swearing, laughter and weeping have in common the function of acting as relief valves for sudden surges of energy which require the appropriate form of expression, the ultimate function of these separate activities being the re-establishment of a state of psycho-physical balance in the person," Dr. Montague says.

As an example, if a star pitcher becomes ill and he is unable to start an important game his wife will cry, the fans of the opposing team will whoop with joy, and the fans of his own team will swear long and loudly.

The ability to swear begins at birth when an infant begins to howl and continues to howl every time it is frustrated as life progresses.

Many women, particularly of the younger generation, have become just as adept at swearing as men, Dr. Montague declares. Until recently woman was regarded as too fragile and sensitive to be exposed to anything but the most refined expressions so that weeping was her only emotional outlet.

"To-day, instead of swooning or breaking into tears she will swear, and then do something useful and helpful," said Dr. Montague. "It is in my view a great advance upon the old method."

Mrs. Mark Twain once replied to one of her husband's blasts by swearing back at him. He replied: "The words are all there, my dear, but the music isn't in them."

Canucks Reopen Cornish Mines

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 24—(CP Cable). — The Royal Canadian Engineers are re-opening the ancient Cornish tin mines whose history goes back to the time of the Romans.

A detachment of tunnelling company sappers under Lieut. A. O. Ames of Winnipeg who worked on military projects in England and Gibraltar has been stationed for several weeks in the rugged, rolling hills of Cornwall.

The need for tin from these old mines becomes more urgent with the fall of Malaya, and the Canadians, all miners in peacetime, were called in.

Now they are prospecting for tin and working down in old decayed shafts. One mine was operated on a large scale from 1838 until 1930 when it was closed. The Canadians are preparing it for production again.

One old Cornishman who worked in the mines for 50 years and knows the tin veins and mine passages is aiding the engineers.

Lieut. Ames worked in gold mines in Canada and was in Fiji on a mining project when the war began. He returned to Canada and joined the R.C.E.

Beef Cattlemen Study Feeders

OTTAWA, July 24—(CP).—Ten beef cattle producers have been selected to form an advisory committee to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board's foods administration and will hold a two-day meeting here starting next Monday, it was announced today.

One of the primary topics of discussion will be the problem of making feeder cattle available for Canadian feedlots during the winter. The men were chosen following consultations with the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, its provincial affiliates and various producer and rancher organizations.

Appointees include:

Ontario—Stewart Brown, Shedden, chairman of the Ontario Feeder Cattle Committee, and B. Warnicka, president of the Ontario Cattle Breeders' Association and manager of the C-operative packing plant at Barrie.

Restaurant Man Raises Prices

TORONTO, July 24.—In the first prosecution here for breaking the price ceiling on restaurant prices, Aaron Rain, Richmond street lunch counter proprietor, was fined $75 and $26.50 costs, with the option of 60 days in jail. Magistrate J. L. Prentice allowed Rain one week in which to pay the fine and costs.

On evidence heard a week ago Rain was convicted of charging higher prices for milk shakes and a hot beverage than he charged during the basic period of Sept. 15 to Oct. 11, 1941, and serving chocolate milk in a smaller glass but for the same price.

How Far Can They Go?

OTTAWA, July 24 — (CP). — John Diefenbaker (Con. Lake Centre) sought information in the House of Comomns to-day on the extent to which members may make reference to letters written to the Government and containing references to evidence taken by the Duff Commission in the inquiry into the dispatch of Canadian troops to Hong Kong.

In view of the fact that the report was about to be debated in the House it was necessary to know if a member could become liable to contempt of court or if the Commission's powers ended with submission of its report, he said.

Justice Minister S. Laurent said his department had not obtained an opinion nor given the question any consideration.

Florida Pipe Line

WASHINGTON, July 24—(AP).—President Roosevelt today signed legislation authorizing the construction of a pipe-line and a navigable barge channel across Florida. The measure is designed to help relieve the shortage of transportation or moving oil and gasoline to the eastern United States seaboard.

Control Honey Export

OTTAWA, July 24 — (CP).—Trade Minister MacKinnon to-day announced extension of export control to 'all prepared fruits and vegetables in any type of container' and to honey.

The step was taken mainly because of short crops and to the 'amount of sugar involved, especially in the preserving of fruits.'

'The increasing use of honey in place af sugar, together with the low production of honey this year, has made it necessary to control exports of this commodity also in order to conserve supplies for Canadian use, Mr. MacKinnon's statement said.

The Right Answer

Chungking, July 24 (AP)

PRAYERS to the dragon king for rain were offered in the ancient fashion this afternoon as a heat wave and drought continued to afflict Chungking after more than three weeks of temperatures almost daily rising above 100 Fahrenheit.

Processions of half-naked men, wearing wreaths and garlands, paraded through the streets with poles from which propitiatory vegetables danged as reminders to the god that crops are menaced.

Shopkeepers, equally anxious for rain but not quite so demonstrative, skeptically showered the paraders with the traditional buckets of water.

A little later the skies darkened and rain fell shortly after nightfall. The paraders modestly accepted congratulations.

An exhibition of the originals is being shown throughout the country.

CCF Drawing Up Party Policies

TORONTO, July 24—(CP).—The National Council of the C.C.F., at a meeting here Saturday prior to next week's three-day national convention, will put the finishing touches on a full statement of the party's policies for the war and post-war reconstruction periods. This will be submitted to the convention July 27-28-29.

C.C.F. sources said the statement, to be submitted for approval of delegates from all parts of Canada, would emphasize what the C.C.F. believes to be a serious defect in the government's conduct of the war effort The party wants a unified plan for full use of human and material resources, trade union recognition, establishment of production councils to obtain labor's full contribution to maximum production.

Replace of dollar-a-year men by full-time administrators responsible only to the state will be another item in the statement, the C.C.F. said.

The stand of the C.C.F. parliamentary group that overseas conscription must be accompanied by full mobilization of resources and a co-ordinated plan for the effective use of manpower and industry will come before the delegates.

The statement will also stress the necessity of immediate measures to safeguard the welfare of the Canadian army, establishment of an income "floor," increased old-age pensions, improved nutrition standards and increased allowances for service men and their dependents.

The report's section on post-war reconstruction will advocate immediate establishment of a commission to plan conversion of war industries into peacetime use and full employment through extensive government-financed housing projects, social security and use of farm surpluses to supply the starving populations of Europe.

Refuses to Talk Norse Skipper Shot by U-Boat

WASHINGTON, July 24 — (AP).—The captain of a large Norwegian merchant ship sunk in the Atlantic was machine-gunned because he refused to give the U-boat commander the name of his vessel, the United States Navy reported yesterday.

Torpedoing of a United States cargo ship and a British merchantman also was announced bringing to 396 the unofficial Associated Press tabulation of Allied and neutral losses in the Western Atlantic since the United States entered the war. The toll in the three sinkings was 35 dead and 89 rescued.

Captain Finn Ager Madsen, 42, of Tonsburg, Norway, said at a Gulf Coast port that the submarine fired on a dinghy carrying himself and three crewmen from the sinking ship. The captain was hit in the arm but the other three were unhurt.

Thirty-five other men in the crew rowed away in two lifeboats and reached Devil's Island, French Guiana. Rather than face internment there, they escaped and pushed on to Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana.

The American vessel, torpedoed about 650 miles off the United States Atlantic Coast, on June 28, was sent to the bottom with the loss of 19 of her 57-man crew. The 18 seamen who were rescued after drifting for nineteen days aboard life-rafts said that Miles Nelkin, a 25-year-old able-bodied seaman, was responsible for their escape. Survivors said Nelkin released the life-rafts while the vessel was under attack, and in so doing lost his life.

The rescued crewmen related that they fished onions and potatoes out of the water to supplement their supply of biscuits, improvised a small shack out of the floating wreckage for protection against the sun and carefully saved rain water to conserve their original small supply. Oiler William Thompson told of catching fish, using his oar as a bludgeon, and maintained "raw fish are delicious, especially after you get to like uncooked onions and potatoes."

Two torpedoes sank the British merchantman in the Caribbean on May 28 her 32 survivors reported on landing at a Gulf Coast port. Sixteen crew members were killed in the attack. Gunners aboard said there was no opportunity to fire, since the submarine remained submerged during the encounter.

AskBusinessmen To Steel Plant

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., July 24—(CP).—The Board of Trade here has asked business men to devote their holidays to working—not on farms as Southern Ontario boards have sought but in the Algoma Steel Corp., plant. A labor shortage, reported to have resulted from increased production and drafting men for military service, forced Algoma Steel to appeal to the Board of Trade for help.

Louis H. Derrer, works manager at the Steel plant, in a letter to T. J. Walls, Board of Trade president, said that the stepped-up scale of operation due to production of war materials and the calling up of men for military service led to the labor shortage.

The Board wrote every employer in the city suggesting a plan to help. This includes suggestions that men in retail stores forego their Wednesday half holiday from 3 p.m. until 11 p.m., men not working Sunday volunteer and that men forego at least part of their vacation to work in the plant.

Catalinas Rest Only In Gales In Aleutian Hunt

By KEITH WHEELER
(Copyright, 1942, by Chicago Times, Inc.)

ABOARD U.S. SEAPLANE TENDER IN THE ALEUTIANS, June 25—Delayed)—The wind is a wild 70-knot gale hurling whitecaps across the bay and tonight no planes will be in the air—neither ours nor the Japanese.

The battle of the Aleutians is not yet over. The Japs are still in Kiska.

But tonight it's all right to relax a little and consider how things have been with this unglamorous little tub and her brood of lumbering PBY Catalina Flying Boats.

The little tender lay in Dutch Harbor on June 3, when the Japanese Mitsubishis first howled through the clouds mantling Mt. Ballyhoo's frosty crown. It was there she received her baptism of fire.

When the Jap planes went away, they left two Zeros and a Mitsubishi shot full of the tender's machine-gun fire and burning on Mt. Ballyhoo's flanks.

In the days that followed, the Catalinas flew ceaselessly up and down the island chain in the eternal miasmic fogs. And where the "Cats" went the tender followed, lugging gasoline, fresh bombs, hot meals and a few hours shelter from one foggy danger cover to another.

Once in her uncharted wanderings I am told she caught a Jap submarine on the surface. She isn't a fighting ships but she stopped long enough to drop four depth charges and saw the crushed undersea boat rise to the surface, roll over and sink.

The time finaly came when the tender and her Cats could no longer maintain their precarious location. They loaded the flying boats with the last of the gasoline, took aboard the villagers, two white men, one white woman and a dozen or so Aleuts, burned the village and pulled out.

Now, reprovisioned, refueled and ready for more, they're settled in another base, ready to fight or move without notice.

Three Doomed

CLERMONT-FERRAND, France, July 24—(AP).—Three perons were condemned to death and another was sentenced to 20 years at forced labor today after trial by a military court on charges described officially only as "an important case of treason."

Two chauffeurs, a bookkeeper and a day laborer were involved.

Dive Bombers Rout Japs At Buna Gona

22 Tons Of Bombs Blast Supplies Several Ships Flee

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 25 — (CP). — Steady Allied dive-bombing has broken off the landing of Japanese supplies in the newly-occupied Buna-Gona area of New Guinea and several fully-loaded enemy vessels have withdrawn northward under naval escort, a communique announced to-day.

Allied Headquarters of Gen. Douglas MacArthur said 45,000 pounds of explosives and incendiaries were dropped yesterday on troops, invasion barges stores and installations in that region low on the north-east coast of the Papuan Peninsula.

Lareg fires were started and an anti-aircraft battery was silenced, the communique reported.

"A number of the enemy's cargo vessels have been unable to unload, being forced to withdraw to the north under cover of naval forces," it said.

Eighteen Japanese bombers and a 16-plane fighter escort were reported, meanwhile, to have struck ineffectively at the airdrome of Port Moresby, advanced Allied base on New Guinea's south coast 110 miles below Buna.

"There were no casualties and only slight damage," it was said.

Key to Only Trail

The dive-bomber which is playing a big part in Allied operations over New Guinea is the twin-engined Douglas A24, first used by the United States Navy and then by the Army, officers said.

Buna, surrounded by grassy plains suitable for air fields, controls the only passable trail to Port Moresby.

The Japanese are believed to have put several thousand men ashore and the Brisbane Courier Mail expressed disappointment in an editorial headed "Attack Must Be Our Aim."

"Disappointment," it said, "must be felt on two scores: First, that Allied forces were not in a position to take the initiative; second, that the approaching convoy was not intercepted earlier and attacked harder."

The schedule calls for deportation of about 600 Jews daily, it was

Ottawa Extends Exceptions For Deliveries

OTTAWA, July 25.—(CP).—Consolidation and clarification of regulations governing retail sales deliveries pickups refunds and exchanges was announced to-day by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The new order, effective Monday, extends the list of exceptions to the regulation that goods to the value of less than $1 may not be delivered.

One provision in the new order allows retailers to deliver orders when several customers have clubbed together to bring the amount of their joint order up to $1 or more. Under this provision one house address, one apartment, office or one factory may obtain deliveries of any number of small orders, provided the total value of the whole delivery to the one address is $1 or more.

The Board announced that goods to fill medical doctors' prescriptions are added to the list of exceptions to the dollar delivery clause.

It said the complete list of exceptions now includes 'eggs, fish except when canned; fresh fruits and vegetables; bread and bakery products such as cakes and pastries; dairy products including milk, butter cream, cheese and ice cream;

'Fuel in any form; meat, lard and shortening; goods from a drug store to fill a medical doctor's prescription; articles such as cement, sand, ice and those too cumbersome or too heavy for the customer to carry; an article in cases where the customer claims he is too ill or otherwise incapable of calling for the goods or carrying them home;

'Deliveries by freight, express or parcel post; newspapers or magazines delivered by a retailer over a regular route; box lunches or soft drinks delivered therewith; photographs blueprints or photostatic copies.'

Confess Guilt Or Be Guillotined Jap Method Say Freed Americans

LOURENCO MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa, July 23—(Delayed)—(AP).—The first diplomatic transfer of nationals between the United States and Japan since the start of the Pacific war was completed here today when more than 1,100 North and South Americans boarded the Swedish liner Gripsholm to take the places vacated by Japanese diplomats and their families brought from America.

The Americans arrived here on the liners Conte Verde and Asama Maru. They walked down the gangplanks of the two ships as the Japanese left the Gripsholm and the two groups moved along the quay in parallel lines to their new staterooms. Soon after moving to the Gripsholm, the Americans were permitted to disembark and tour the city.

(The Tokyo radio said the Americans were scheduled to sail today from the East African port).

The exchange was supervised by the Portuguese Foreign Office.

The North and South Americans brought with them from Japan and Japanese-occupied territories stories of their existence in the Orient under Japanese supervision. Some of these accounts told of hunger, cold and threats.

(Four Associated Press correspondents arrived with the group. Following are portions of a composite story on conditions in Japan and Japanese-occupied territory written by the correspondents. Some parts of the story are omitted to conform with official requests from Washington that nothing be done which could interfere in the slightest with the welfare of repatriotion of Americans still in Japanese-occupied territory. The correspondents are Max Hill, chief of former Associated Press Bureau in Tokyo; Relman Morin, who was in Indo-China; Joseph Dynan, who was in Tokyo, and Vaughn Meisling, who was in Hong Kong at its capitulation).

Committtee Asks Shifting Murray In CBC

OTTAWA, July 25 —(CP)—The House of Commons radio broadcasting committee today recommended that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Board of Governors consider if the services of Gladstone Murray, CBC general manager, "could be used by the corporation in another capacity than that of general manager of executive head of the corporation."

The committee acknowledged that Mr. Murray had rendered "great service" to Canadian broadcasting, but said the board of governors had lost confidence "in his ability in financial matters and his attitude to his own expenses." Other material also had been placed before the committee which led it to make its recommendation concerning Mr. Murray, the committee's report said.

The committee expressed strong opposition to control of groups of private stations by one individual or interest and recommended that "except in most unusual circumstances" no person should hold more than one licence.

Berlin Ships 120 Tanks Into Greece

To Bolster Rommel; R.A.F. Damages 20 Grounded Planes

CAIRO, July 25.— (AP) — The R.A.F. damaged more than 20 Axis aircraft on the ground and shot down three others in air fights during attacks on the El Daba landing field yesterday in a continuation of the sustained air offensive against Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces, British headquarters said today.

The ground fighting consisted mainly of artillery duels in the central and northern sectors with some patrol activity. In the southern sector three was nothing to report, the communique said.

In addition to the three Axis aircraft shot down in air flights over El Daba, two others crashed in taking off to challenge the R.A.F. bombers, the communique said.

R.A.F. fighters ranged over the battle area in which British troops were consolidating newly-won ground and "successfully attacked" enemy vehicles, the communique reported.

Allied planes have been raiding El Daba day and night for several days in an effort to cut down the air support for Rommel's forces.

Torpedo-carrying aircraft of the R.A.F. went across the Mediterranean into the Ionian Sea to attack an enemy merchant ship yesterday. The ship was ablaze at the end of the attack and was down at the bows, the communique said.

(It was reliably reported in Ankara yesterday that five trains had passed through Yugoslavia into Greece carrying 120 18-ton tanks for shipment to the Axis African armies.)

Visit To Tokyo

Berlin, (From German Broadcasts), July 25 (AP)

AN Italian Savoia Marchetti plane has made a round trip flight from Rome to Tokyo, and its crew was welcomed back to Italy by Mussolini, it was announced in Rome today.

(The route followed was not stated, but the most direct distance, one way, would be more than 6,000 miles. Any possible course would involve flying over vast stretches of territory held by foes of the Axis.)

Balance In Egypt Sways Thinly Upon Few Tanks

(Written for the Canadian Press by MAJ.-GEN. SIR CHAS. GWYNN.)

LONDON, July 25 — (CP Cable). —Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck had been having so much the better of the argument in the limited operations of the last few days that the relatively large-scale attack he finally launched was not unexpected.

With so much at stake Gen. Auchinleck is bound to move cautiously, but it has been obvious for some time now that Field-Marshal Erwin Rommel, unless he can receive substantial reinforcements, has been halted with all his armor in a position which must become increasingly uncomfortable and dangerous.

The capture of 6,000 prisoners and the destruction of Axis tanks are encouraging performances by the 8th Army and the grip they have got in tactical exchanges must have added to Rommel's discomfort.

Rommel's Supplies

It is safe to assume that Rommel has been getting reinforcements of personnel in some numerical consequence, but it has yet to be proved that these are of the highest quality. It is more likely that he cannot have received complete armored divisions whether German or Italian. It would seem improbable that there are reserves of German tanks in Italy, especially if the demands of the Russian front for armored equipment are as heavy as dispatches indicate.

Italian tanks could be replaced more easily, but here again it seems doubtful that they could be landed in any quantity east of Bengasi for the risk of loss at Tobruk and Mersa Matrun in sea and air attacks would be too great.

While Mersa Matruh has been the object of heavy sea and air assaults, it is hardly likely the port has been used for the disembarkation of heavy vehicles.

Rommel's counter-attacks in reply to Gen. Auchinleck's local advances proved expensive and only momentarily successful. Therefore, it wasn't surprising to see Gen. Auchinleck follow up his first limited advances with a more general attack along the entire El Alamein front.

The 8th Army's attack appears to have been launched not only from the El Rewaisat ridge toward the centre but from Tel El Eleisa northward and from the El Taga plateau southward.

It is still too early to indicate

Two Assaults Leave River Red

Moscow Admits Nazis Have Wedge In Rostov Defences

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 25 (AP) — The Germans have driven dangerous wedges into the forts guarding Rostov and have struck ever nearer vital Stalingrad in an offensive that reached the middle Don.

The point on the middle Don which the German vanguards reached was not specified in today's battle dispatches. At one sector, nearest Stalingrad, the great elbows of the Don and Volga form a 45-mile bottleneck.

Dispatches disa the Germans had broken through one sector of the front in the region of Rostov, great oil port on the Don Delta just off the Sea of Azov.

The army newspaper Red Star said vast air battles were being fought over wide areas of the treeless Don Steppes. The dispatch said the Germans were availing themselves of the flat terrain to establish airdromes swiftly near the front lines.

Fighters principally were based at the front but the swiftly-built airdromes also were used by transport planes bringing up fuel and ammunition. A Soviet raid on one of these fields was said to have destroyed 28 of the huge Junkers-52 transports.

The first German thrust across the river, a natural defence line before the lower Caucasus, was frustrated and the infantry regiment in the van wiped out, the midnight communique announced.

Later advices, however, said that in a second big push, supported by heavy forces, small units reached the south shore and dug in. These were declared "being dealt with," but the situation indicated ominous parallel to the original German crossing of the upper Don at Voronezh.

Counter-attacks were declared to have bettered the Red army position in in some sectors before Rostov and the city's approaches were reported dotted with thousands of German dead, but the numerically-superior invaders occupied several new positions to the south to establish a four-way offensive.

18 Tanks Wiped Out

"On one sector the Germans succeeded in breaking into the positions of our troops," the Soviet Information Bureau said. "In fierce battles which frequently developed in hand-to-hand fighting our men annihilated over 2,000 Germans, set fire to 18 German tanks and destroyed three self-propelled guns and 14 machine guns."

Germans and Hungarians, although again reinforced, were reported under continued punishment at Voronezh. Another group of Red Army men "crossed the Don and consolidated themselves on the western bank of the river" and Soviet airmen blasted an important enemy crossing out of existence, the Soviet Information Bureau said.

Timoshenko's Don Line Must Hold Now

Can Retreat Little Farther Unless Caucasus Be Cut Off—Has 2nd Army Waiting

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The battle for the Caucasus now has reached the point at which Soviet Marshal Timoshenko presumably has figured on making a back-to-the-wall stand, south of the broad reaches of the lower Don which forms a partial barrier to his land of oil.

Up to this juncture Timoshenko has been retiring along a wide front before a firece million-man pressure. His withdrawal has been orderly and he has conducted a rear-guard action which has exacted a costly toll from the enemy in men and material—we may expect the Red commander to continue his studied rettirement eastward into the great bend of the Don river towards Stalingrad but the time would appear to have arrived when he must hold in the south.

In short, we have reached a crisis in this bloody engagement which is bound to have a vital and perhaps decisive influence on the outcome of the war. Now is the time when we begin to ask in earnest whether the Russians can hold.

The future must answer that question, but we can say that while the position is grave there is no occasion for despair. Actually, observers in Moscow assume that the Bolshevists have a good-sized and thoroughly-trained army massed south and south-west of the Don. London experts hold similar views.

Unfortunately, however, we oversimplify the matter if we believe that holding the line of the lower Don, or even the whole gateway to the Caucasus, ends the Hitlerian threat. The Nazi chief has two objectives in his great offensive. One is to break into the Caucasus, and the other is to cut the Soviet proper off from its lifeline to the Caucasus and the Persian gulf.

Therefore the battle of the Caucasus shortly is likely to break into two major engagements, one at the gateway in the Rostov sector of the lower Don, and the other for Stalingrad. In fact, we may have a third engagement growing out of this situation, for the Reds continue on the offensive at Voronezh, on the upper Don.

The battles on the lower Don and for Stalingrad are likely to be sanguinary and protracted. They will take time which Hitler can't afford to spare. Don't forget that if he can be held until winter comes, he will be in a mighty bad way.

Pets Morale Lifters In Raid

Official Warns Against Destroying Them In Panic

BOSTON, July 25.—(AP).—Don't send Fido or Tabby to the gas box if you're jittery about air raids because dogs and cats may aid civilian morale in the event of bombings, Dr. Francis H. Rowley president of the American Humane Education Society said to-day.

'We hope and trust that air raids will never come,' declared the head of the world-famed Angell Memorial Animal Hospital here in an interview on his 88th birthday 'but, if they do the public should not hysterically try to dispose of domestic pets. A faithful dog or cat may be the means of bolstering morale if a person's home is bombed and everything else is lost.'

Dr. Rowley, who has supervised treatments of 'everything from canaries to elephants' during his 32 years at Angell said Londoners in the early days of the war had disposed of thousands of pets before the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals won the people over to 'sensible methods' of protecting pets during raids.

Due Unless Reds Quit Says Benes—Asks 2nd Front

LONDON July 25 — (CP). — President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia's Government, urging a second front in Europe in 1942, declared to-day that the Germans will offer peace to Britain, the United States and Russia by October 15 if they do not score a decisive military success by that time.

"Foolish unacceptable terms" already are being prepared, he said in a talk to Czech soldiers. Benes predicted that Hitler's peace offer would not be accepted and if the Russians hold out—"and I think they will"—Germany would be exhausted by spring.

Benes spoke as 10 London munitions workers, who said they represented 4,000 colleagues, took a petition to 10 Downing Street, the residence of the Prime Minister, asking for a Western Front in Europe.

The chorus advocating an immediate Allied offensive against German-occupied Europe was swelled also by Jack Tanner president of the Amalgamated Engineering Union, estimated to have a membership of 600,000 factory workers.

Speaking at Blackpool, Tanner told the International Metal Workers' Federation that it was difficult to be patient. "Our future hangs upon the outcome of this year's action or inaction in the East," he said.

Duff Report Debate Set Monday

Bill 80 Gets First Senate Reading; Budget Acts Pass

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 25.—(CP)—Instead of adjourning today, as planned more than a week ago, the House of Commons was scheduled to hold morning, afternoon and evening sittings but with no hope of completing its sessional work until late next week.

Yesterday saw considerable progress with three of the six budget bills passed and sent to the Senate, and the bulk of the agriculture estimates passed.

Bills amending the Excise Act, the Customs Act and the Special War Revenue Act, were passed and there was a long and involved debates on the intricacies of the Excess Profits Tax Act but latter, the Income Tax Act and the Succession Duties Act, remain for consideration next week.

At the request of Conservative House Leader Hanson the debate on the report of Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff on the dispatch of Canadian troops to Hong Kong was fixed as the first order of business Monday.

The Senate gave first reading to Bill 80—the conscription-enabling measure. The Bill, which will empower the government to impose conscription for overseas service by order-in-council, will be debated on second reading in the Upper House Monday.

The Land Settlement Bill was passed and first reading was given a bill to amend the Excise Act, part of the 1942 budget proposals.

Agriculture In Limelight.

From late afternoon until adjournment last night the House, in supply committee, discussed many angles of the agriculture administration with Agriculture Minister Gardiner under constant questioning.

All but a few of his estimates totalling $18,496,000 were passed but a number of items were allowed to stand over, some at his own request, for information he wishes to obtain for members.

Eleven To Start In Arlington Classic

CHICAGO, July 25 — (AP). — Eleven top three-year-olds were named yesterday for the $85,000 added Arlington classic—the Waterloo of champions in the past.

Missing from the list, though, was Alsab, sensational 1941 juvenile champion, injured a month ago. His owner decided he is not quite ready for the mile-and-a-quarter distance today.

With Alsab out for certain, it appeared that Mrs. Payne Whitney's Shutout, the Kentucky Derby winner, would rule a 9-5 favorite. Jockey Eddie Arcaro had a chance to ride Shutout to the three-year-old turf championship.

Greentree Stables indicated, however that Shutout would be scratched should there be rain and a muddy track.

Today's crowd, which may run 45,000 or better, probably will see Valdina Orphan and T. D. Grimes' With Regards installed as second choice to Shutout, with Valdina Orphan coupled with Rounders as a Valdina Farm entry.

Shutout and Valdina Orphan will each carry 126 pounds, topweight, but With Regards was more favorably weighted at 118 pounds. Some of the top jockeys were assigned to ride today, including Carroll Bierman on Valdina Orphan, Johnny Longden on With Regards and Jack Westrope on Rounders.

Alsab's owner, Albert Sabath of Chicago, said the colt is recovering nicely from the splent he suffered a month ago. He added Alsab might run in a shorter race next week, in preparation for the American Derby August 29 at Washington Park.

Several of the horses had fast workouts Friday. Bless Me, owned by Colonel E. R. Bradley, covered six furlong in 1:11 2-5. Shutout was stoutly restrained as he ran five-eights of a mile in a minute flat. Rounders went a half mile in .47 3-5, and Valdina Orphan galloped the same distance in .49 3-5.

With Regards, whose recent rheumatic trouble seems to have left him, breezed through his half mile workout in .46 4-5.

The surprise among the overnight entries was Mrs. Emil Denemark's Bolus. However, like Trelawny and Alstern, Bolus was considered a doubtful starter.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

Our ladies made a fairly good showing down at Cobourg yesterday afternoon and evening. Out of the five rinks entered from here, two got in the money and each of the remaining three won two of the three games played. There were 21 rinks entered. They report having a good time. The winners were:

Third for three wins.—Mrs. T. Doughty, Miss G. Patterson, Mrs. J. Arnold, Mrs. F. Staunton, skip; each received war savings stamps.

High for two wins.—Miss L. Allan, Mrs. W. Greenslade, Mrs. H. Graham, Mrs. G. Coleman, skip; each received war savings stamps.

Up on our own greens ten rinks turned out for the Friday night tourney. It was a grand night to bowl. The winning skips were J. Skinner and G. Soulby.

Tonight the usual mixed will be held. 7.30 o'clock is the hour.

Now, about this Provincial playoff, to be held at Port Hope next Thursday evening. So far we have no entries for the rinks or singles, but we have some for the doubles. And, as a last reminder, the entry list closes at noon on Monday.

21 Lady Rinks Take Part In Cobourg Play

COBOURG, July 25—(ENS). — Cobourg and Peterborough rinks figured prominently yesterday in the prize money at the ladies' lawn bowling tournament held at Cobourg Lawn Bowling Club. Twenty-one rinks took part, coming from Cobourg, Peterborough, Oshawa, Belleville and Port Hope.

The players had ideal weather during the day for their games and the finish of the tournament last night was played under perfect weather conditions. Mrs. E. Hilliard and her rink of Cobourg took the cup with three wins and a score of 42. The others on her rink were Mrs. T. Mitchell, vice skip; Mrs. J. McHayden, second; and Mrs. J. McKinnon, lead. Mrs. J. McDiarmid of Oshawa was second with three wins, 40 and a plus of 1. The other players on her rink being Mrs. J. McCutcheon, Mrs. H. Whittaker and Mrs. S. Gibb. Third place was won by Mrs. F. Staunton of Peterborough with three wins and 37. The others on her rink were Mrs. J. Arnold, Miss G. Patterson and Mrs. T. Doughty. Mrs. A. McKinnon of Cobourg was fourth with two wins, 40 and a plus 5, her other players being Mrs E. Wiggins, Mrs. W. Clark and Mrs. E. Cunningham. Mrs. George Coleman of Peterborough was fifth with one win and 34. The others on her rink were Mrs. H. Graham, Mrs. W. Greenslade and Miss L. Allen.

Following were the results of the games:—

First Game:

Mrs. Welbourne of Cobourg vs. Mrs. Staunton, Peterborough, 10-1.
Mrs. Howard, Cobourg, vs. Mrs. McDiarmid, Oshawa, 9-16.

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, July 26

SUNDAY'S horoscope points to romance and adventure, as its outstanding significance, although this may not relate entirely to the affectional or social life. However, it also may carry dangers of excess, squandering and indulgence in the emotional and creative expression. Shun extravagance.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of change, romance and adventure, although not exclusively in an emotional or affectional phase. The same astral influence inspires and stimulates many forms of novel, original and creative expression. Shun squandering of substance or energies.

A child born on this day may be disposed to extravagance and excess although early training might turn its excellent creative ability into productive channels.

For Monday, July 27

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a day of sudden and surprising developments, with romance, change, travel and adventure, probably leading to high places in public service. If properly managed this should be a bewildering spurt in the direction of achievement. The danger is in permitting the impulses to prevail.

Those whose birthday it is may stand at the threshold of a year of exciting, breathtaking experiences, in romance, adventure, or the emotional nature. This should advance business or creative expression to surprising culminations in the public eye.

Only Army Men

OTTAWA, July 25—(CP).—National defence headquarters today issued a warning that only Canadians who are serving overseas are allowed to receive, duty free, gifts and other parcels sent from this country.

"There have been an ever-increasing number of parcels arriving overseas for civilians and other persons not entitled to receive the above privilege," a statement said.

Men who are serving with the Imperial forces in England and other parts of the British Isles cannot receive parcels duty free unless they are bona fide Canadian citizens.

Walter L. Hugh Accident Victim Is Laid To Rest

PORT HOPE, July 25 (ENS) — The funeral of the late Walter Lewis Hugh took place at 3.30 o'clock on Friday afternoon from his late residence, 21 Smith street, and was largely attended by relatives and friends.

The late Mr. Hugh, whose death occurred by accident, when the truck which he was driving was hit by the southbound Peterborough train, leaves to mourn his passing, his wife, the former Mary Ann Stephenson, and two daughters, Mrs. Harold Shortreed (Lottie) of Port Hope and Mrs. Taylor (Ruth) of Port Hope, also four grandsons and two granddaughters; three brothers, Albert, Edward and Fred Hugh, all of Port Hope.

The members of Hope Lodge A.F. & A.M. attended the funeral.

Second Funeral

The funeral of William Henry Trew, whose death occurred in the same accident on Wednesday afternoon, was held from the family residence, 83 Bramley street south, at 2.30 p.m. on Friday afternoon.

Mr. Trew, who was in his 65th year, is survived by his wife, Georgina Garrett, and one son, Dwain, of Port Hope.

Chinese Mauling Japs In 3 Areas

CHUNGKING, July 24.—(AP).—Heavy casualties have been inflicted upon the Japanese in fighting spread over three provinces, and two points near Lishui, Japanese-held air base in south-eastern Chekiang, have been recaptured, the Chinese High Command announced today.

Some of the heaviest losses were said to have been suffered by the Japanese in Chinese attempts to retake Kweki, a point on the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway, a short stretch of which the Chinese have recaptured.

To the north, in south-eastern Shansi province, a communique said, half of a Japanese column was wiped out after being cut off west of Lingchwan. The other half broke through the Chinese cordon and retreated with the Chinese in pursuit.

'Die-Hard' AVG's Fight On 2 Weeks Extra

By DANIEL DELUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

CALCUTTA, July 25 (AP)—Volunteers to the last, a bunch of "die-hard" American volunteer group veterans stayed on in China and fought two extra weeks against the Japanese after their outfit formally disbanded July 4.

Today these former "Flying Tigers," most of them combat aces, rest in India and the A.V.G.'s final roll of honor shows 299 enemy aircraft officially confirmed as destroyed. An official A.V.G. report made July 3 just before the group disbanded showed 284 planes had been destroyed up to that time.

Sixty airmen shared the prize money for the A.V.G.'s official bag of 299 Japanese planes but a number never lived to spend it.

(China paid $500, in addition to the airmen's pay, for each Jap plane shot down).

Nearly 90 fliers joined the A.V.G. originally but only about 75 completed the training in the Orient and engaged in action.

Twenty-four are dead or imprisoned by the Japanese—approximately one-third casualties for the flying group.

In addition to the honors announced in the official report of July 3, more honors became known today.

The A.V.G. produced 20 aces—marksmen who each knocked down five or more enemy planes in combat in the skies.

The ace of aces is Squadron Leader Bob Neale from Seattle who ran up 13 air victories and also destroyed three planes on the ground.

what limits Gen. Auchinleck will put on his forward move. He is at least giving Rommel plenty of unrest.

The air situation continues satisfactory. The recent attacks on El Daba and Fuka airdromes were especially encouraging."

Russian Retreat

In Russia, the situation remains alarming. Marshal Semeon Timoshenko, however, appears to have carried out his retreat between the Donets and the Don without incurring disaster. While offering sufficient resistance with his rear guard to slow down the German advances he has evidently kept his main body intact. His force west of Donets is in a more serious position.

The attack from the north which led to the capture of Voroshilovgrad was especially heavy and presumably was assisted by an advance east of the river. New further attacks from the west toward Rostov now seem to be developing.

The fighting appears violent and the entire force covering Rostov and the lower Don is in danger of being pressed back to the river, nor does there seem any way of giving it assistance except by direct reinforcements.

The German air force in this area has established superiority and Rostov and the river crossing afforded good targets. By taking Voroshilovgrad and by further advancing southward the Nazis have obtained two railways running easterly across the Donets and these will be of great assistance to their army east of the river.

This army is engaged in a drive southward and now is a long way from its railheads, especially on the left flank.

It now appears to depend on the strength of Timoshenko's reserves on the left of his front whether the Germans can be halted. They probably are considerable but it would be difficult to reinforce them. On the other hand it is comparatively easy to reinforce the Don front where it reaches the Volga at Stalingrad and further northward.

Value of Voronezh.

If the Germans can be satisfied with the progress of their drive to the south theq must be gravely disappointed with the developments around Voronezh a point which is acquiring increased importance.

Russian counter-attacks there have had remarkable tactical success, inflicting heavy casualties and forcing the Nazis to use their reserves to escape disaster.

Strategically, this counter-stroke may have achieved even greater results by ensuring communications between Moscow and the lower Volga.

Unless the Germans can restore the situation at Voronezh they will have to face the danger of Russian counter-attacks developing into a full-scale counter-offensive.

This would be aimed against their flank and would contain great danger to their positions.

A concentration of German troops and aircraft has been reported in progress in the Bryansk area and this may indicate preparations for a subsidiary Nazi drive in the Rzhev area doesn't appear to be developing into a major operation.

Possibly the check suffered at Voronezh has compelled the Germans to divert troops from the Rzhev sector to Bryansk where they may produce a more direct effect on the main operations to the south. It would appear that the Nazis could not have the unlimited masses of reserves to draw on this year that they had last summer and hence are compelled to concentrate their efforts. The extensive use they are making of Rumanian and Hungarian troops points in the same direction.

Glancing Back 25 Years.

The Russian high command planned a strenuous offensive in Galicia with the object of outflanking Lemberg and were endeavoring to carry it out in spite of growing disorders, desertions and poor communications.

War Minister A. F. Kerensky accepted the additional duties of Premier July 20, 1917, but the attitude of Russia's forces grew worse. One Russian regiment deserted its position July 19 and before nightfall the whole front was chaotic.

The Germans re-occupied Tarnopol July 28 and by that time had swarmed over the entire territory taken by the Russians in the 1916 campaign.

London Is Dubious

LONDON, July 25.—(CP).—German forces 'probably are in the outskirts of Rostov and possibly in the streets,' but their claims that the southern Russian city has fallen are 'premature,' British military sources declared to-day.

These sources which would not permit identification by name, said the Germans in exploiting their favorable situation arising from their headlong smash at the Don were faced with this alternative:

To cross the Don wherever possible and drive toward the Caucasus, or to push eastward and cut the Moscow-Stalingrad railway and halt Volga river traffic.

The former course would be adopted if the German aim is to seize Russian Oil immediately; the latter plan is merely to seek to cut Russia off from oil.

The British sources expressed belief the latter is the more probable intention.

School Opening Delayed To Aid Farmers

TORONTO, July 25 — There is such an acute shortage of farm labor throughout Ontario that great losses will occur in connection with a number of crops and consequent scarcity in supplies for both Canada and Great Britain unless more help is secured in the immediate future.

The matter has been discussed at recent Cabinet meetings and yesterday Premier M. F. Hepburn announced that an Order-in-Council had postponed the opening of secondary schools from Sept. 8 until Sept. 21 and, if necessary, until Oct. 9.

This step was taken in order that the more than 20,000 boys and girls, employed on Ontario farms this summer, may continue to assist in harvesting the crops and also to provide more young workers for the fields and orchards as well as the canneries, creameries and cheese factories. In many sections residents of urban centres have gone out whenever they had the time and helped the farmers.

The help from the school pupils and adults has assisted greatly in harvesting crops up to the present, but there is a keen demand for additional help. One Department of Agriculture official stated yesterday that 10,000 additional school pupils could be used.

"At present there is a keen demand for boys of high-school age on the farms," said Alex McLaren director of the Ontario Farm Service Force. "We could use several thousand of them to help complete the haying and then the cereal grains. Haying is away behind in some parts on account of the shortage of labor. At present the acute need is for boys but from the middle of August on until the early part of October there will be lots of work for girls, more than can be done by the number employed at the present time on the farms.

"The peak will be about Sept. 25," he continued, "and after that the demand will slacken off. Boys can help with the silage and potatoes while girls can do their bit in the canning factories and in the harvesting of tomatoes. This harvest will last from six to eight weeks, depending upon the weather, from

Recreation Club Holds Euchre

HAVELOCK, July 25—(ENS). — The C.P.R. Recreation Club held a very successful euchre party on Thursday evening in the club rooms. Ten tables were played and the winners were: Gents' first, John Dunbrook; Ladies' first, Mrs. Alex Plunkett; Gents' consolation, Gordon Tucker, and Ladies' consolation, Mrs. Ernest Williams. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the bowling club.

Sunday School Picnic

All the Sunday School children and their parents of the Faith Mission, on Wednesday afternoon, enjoyed a picnic at McCutcheon's Beach. The afternoon was spent in swimming, boating, races, games and contests, with the prizes for these events being candy or fruit. A bountiful picnic supper was served, after which an evening song service was much enjoyed.

Mrs. D. C. Drinkwalter entertained her Sunday School class of girls at McCutcheon's Beach on Friday afternoon. Swimming was the chief entertainment, but after supper was over, a treasure-hunt was thoroughly enjoyed, as well as contests and riddles.

God Makes Covenant For Mankind With Noah

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 26 is Genesis 6-9, the Golden Text being Genesis 9:15, "I will remember My covenant.")

GOD'S DRAMATIC decision to destroy the life He had created on the earth is the subject of the lesson today. "Sons of God," good men who obeyed the Lord, were making marriages with women who, although beautiful, were not good women. Things went from bad to worse until the Lord "saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually."

Then the Lord repented that he had made man, and was grieved. He decided to destroy this creature and every other living thing upon the earth. But there was one man whom He would not destroy, and his name was Noah. He had a wife and three sons, Shem, Ham and Japhet. These sons were also married and had children. Noah was "a just man and perfect." God said to Noah, "The end of all flesh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violence through them: and behold, I will destroy them with the earth."

He told Noah to build an ark of gopher wood, and directed him how to build it, giving dimensions, so that it is thought the finished ark was 525 feet long, 87½ feet wide, with a carrying capacity of 2,411,718 tons, as nearly as can be estimated.

Noah Obeys the Lord

There was to be a window in the ark so that Noah and his people could see up, but not down, and he was to take two of every living thing, beasts, birds, creeping things, so that when the floods receded the earth could be made plenteous again. Noah did all the things as he was commanded, and then it started to rain and for 40 days and 40 nights there was a continual downpour. The ark floated upon the top of the flood caused by these rains, for even the highest mountains were covered with water.

For 150 days the water stayed upon the earth, and then God caused a great wind to blow to dry up the water. The ark was found resting on the 17th day of the seventh month—which would be October—upon Mount Ararat, in Armenia. In the following January the tops of the mountains were seen, and Noah sent forth a raven, then a dove. The dove could not find a place to perch and came back, and after another seven days Noah sent the dove out again, and she returned with an olive leaf in her mouth. Noah knew then that the waters had almost subsided. After another seven days he again sent the dove out and she did not come back.

After 370 days, a little over a year, the earth was dried up, and God commanded Noah and his family to come forth. Noah's first act was to build an altar to the Lord, doubtless to offer thanks for his deliverance, and this is the first time the word altar appears in the Bible, although Cain and Abel offered sacrifices, you remember. A sacrifice was offered, and it pleased the Lord, who said "in His heart, I will not again curse the ground any more for man's sake; for the imagination of man's heart is evil from his youth, neither will I again smote any more every living thing, as I have done."

Adam, the first man, was created good, but with a free will by which he yielded to temptation and fell. So his descendants were "evil from their youth," by inheritance.

God blessed Noah and his sons and told them to "Be fruitful and multiply, and replenish the earth.

"And the fear of you and the dread of you shall be upon every beast of the earth, and upon every fowl of the air, upon all that moveth upon the earth, and upon all the fishes of the sea; into your hand are they delivered."

Every living thing was given to man for food, but he was not to eat anything unless he first killed it. Also, "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed: for in the image of God made He man." This is the first time in the Bible that the Lord is mentioned as laying down laws for man to follow.

God then said: "This is the token of the covenant which I make between Me and you and every living creature that is with you, for perpetual generations:

"I do set My bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between Me and the earth. And it shall come to pass, when I bring a cloud over the earth, that the bow shall be seen in the cloud.

"And I will remember My covenant."

The word rainbow is not found in the Old Testament, but appears twice in the New. Even today everyone looks eagerly for a rainbow when the sun shines while it rains, and rejoices in the sight.

Even Noah, who had all these blessings bestowed upon him, was not quite perfect, however, as at the end of our lesson we find that he became drunk with wine and disgraced himself..

Hastings

HASTINGS, July 25—(ENS). — At is regular monthly meeting the Hastings Red Cross Society decided to suspend meetings and the weekly work room periods for August and September.

According to Mrs. W. E. Wilson, chairman of the work-room committee the work is urgent and necesary—the workers few. "You can't expect two or three women to do this work, especially during the busy summer months," commented Mrs. D. A. Walsh.

The president, Reeve L. E. Kelley, concurred with this view, and said that he would rather abolish the work room entirely than to have only a few patriotic women shoulder the whole task.

Three emergency kits will be purchased immediately for use in potential air raids, fires, storms, etc. Each kit, supplied by the parent Red Cross body, contains blankets and other articles vital in any emergency.

Further communications from J. H. McClelland of Bobcaygeon, formerly of Hastings, revealed that the local division has declined to accept his offer of a lot near town which the local Red Cross could utilize in any way it saw fit.

"As far as I can see the lot would only be a white elephant on our hands," commented Miss Della Plant.

Correspondence from the Blood Donors' Clinic, Peterborough, revealed that the work of the clinic, which opened Wednesday morning, is one of potent importance and urgency. The local branch decided to offer every ounce of support to this novel and vital community venture.

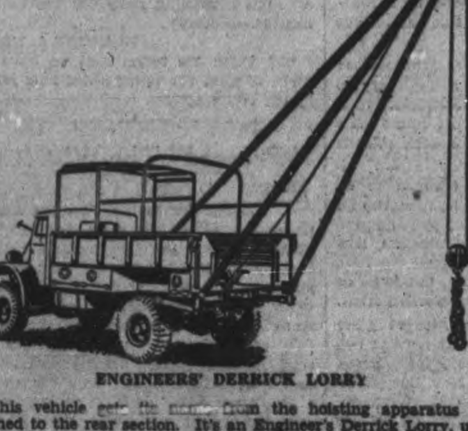
Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith, Jr., of Niagara Falls, N.Y., are occupying Mrs. C. Halliwell's cottage at Crowe Lake.

Miss Gladys Gehan, of Trenton, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J E. Gehan, on Wednesday.

DO YOU KNOW YOUR ARMY ?



ENGINEERS' DERRICK LORRY

This vehicle gets its name from the hoisting apparatus attached to the rear section. It's an Engineer's Derrick Lorry, used by the Royal Canadian Engineers.

The vehicle consists of a three-ton truck with a winch mounted in the body and driven by the truck's engine. The legs of the derrick are collapsible, and are carried inside the body of the truck, where they are strapped into place.

Like a good many other trucks on active service, this is a four-wheel-drive vehicle. The extra pulling power from both front and rear wheels is a useful thing to have in heavy going.

Complete Submission to God Secret of Mary's Peace

By REV. E. R. JAMES

Mary said: My soul doth magnify the Lord, and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour.
St. Luke 1; 46.

This hymn has been sung for centuries by Christians of every land and tongue. It is called "The Magnificat," which is the opening word of the Latin translation. It means "doth magnify". Its very familiarity has dimmed this meaning to many. It is very beautiful and practical. It is the product of much thought on the part of the Virgin Mary, who was inspired by the Holy Spirit.

Also it is a pilgrim Psalm. A pilgrim is one who is on his way to a destination. The early Christians were called "The men of the Way": men who walked in a clear, distinct path of life. Wordly people saw their lives and actions and called them 'Christians,' followers of The Christ.

A Jewish maiden, bethrothed to a carpenter of Nazareth, speaks out of the fulness of her heart: "My soul doth magnify the Lord and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour." "My soul," that is her heart, feelings and emotions make great the character of the Lord Jehovah. "My spirit," that is her heart, feelings and emotions make great the character of the Lord Jehovah. "My spirit," that is, her mind and imaginations will rejoice in God her Saviour. Joy and peace are the key notes of this psalm. What is the secret of her peace and joy?

The complete submission of her will to the will of God. "Behold, the hand maid of the Lord, be it unto me according to Thy Word." It was not easy for her to submit. She knew the horror she faced. You get a glimpse of it when you read: "'Joseph was minded to put her away privately." "The sword was already beginning to pierce her soul."

She strengthened her heart in the thought of God's character for holiness. "Holy is His Name; holy is his character. The heathen boasted that their gods were mighty. Jehovah was Almighty. True. He was also holy. He could do no wrong. Her faith was justified by the results. "All generations have called her blessed.'

What strikes you most as you ponder upon her character? It is her humility. "He hath regarded the lowliness of His hand maiden." She is but a village maiden—a nobody. Jehovah has chosen her for the tremendous privilege of being the Mother of the Christ because she was humble minded.

You may be a very important worker in your Church. Are you quite sure you would be willing to take a back seat and be in a short time completely forgotten? This is the test of your humility. If you can honestly rejoice that another is doing better work than you in the Church then you will receive something of Divine peace and joy in your heart. It is the proof of the indwelling of the Spirit of the Christ in you; Christ is being formed in you.

The highest note of the spiritual life is humility. It is a word that is not admired by the world in any age. Yet sometimes the lowly minded man dissovers to his intense surprise how much influence he has among his friends. They know he is not thinking of himself. His service is for his brethren. He is following in the footsteps of the Lord.

"Jesus, knowing that He was come from God, and went to God, began to wash the disciples' feet." He loved them and showed His love by this act. When your heart is full of love for your brethren you will be only too glad to serve them in any was possible, no matter how lowly the act may be. Then you will discover "the peace of God which passeth all understanding."

SERVING THE LORD WITH ALL HUMILITY OF MIND.

Consider Wishful Thinking Very Fashionable Thing

A cartoon appeared in the Examiner of April 17 which was headed "Enemy Annihilated."

A happy, jovial man sat in a comfortable chair smoking a cigar that certainly cost more than 5 cents. His name was "Wishful Thinking." In front of him is a ouija board which is supposed to move around on a table and write out certain slogans. The idea is probably borrowed from Spiritualism. The slogans were all optimistic sayings about the war. Here are a few of them: "Germany Short of Oil," "Italy About to Fold Up," "Somebody Will Find a Substitute for Tires." Mr. Wishful Thinking said as he read those slogans, "tell me what I want to hear."

The cartoon was very clever and it has a message for us all. It conveys a warning to the preacher. One of his chief temptations is to tell people pleasant things. No one likes to be disturbed in church. Woe betide the minister who speaks the truth, and faces facts.

It has a message for us all, wishful thinking has become a fashionable occupation during the war. We read the column dealing with the British advance in Egypt. We skip that telling of the Russian withdrawal around Rostov and Stalingrad.

What is wishful thinking anyway? It is lying to ourselves. If you enquire you will find that it is one of the commonest forms of lying.

"Wishful Thinking" will be the subject of the address in Trinity Church on next Sunday night.

On The High Road To Great Britain

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press Staff Writer.

AN AIR BASE SOMEWHERE IN NEWFOUNDLAND, July 25 — (A P). — If a Broadway chorus girl strolled up the dirt streets of this remote outpost on the trans-Atlantic bomber ferry route, she could have several hundred admirers at her heels before she got her dainty shoes dusty.

A few officers and civilians have been lucky enough to get homes or apartments for their wives and children. Some young women are employed as maids, cooks and stenographers about the base. But for every woman there are more than 100 footloose men to shower them with attention.

Grey-haired, motherly Mrs. Rod Hayden of Syracuse, N.Y., was the first American woman to come to this airdrome carved out of the Newfoundland wilds. That was three years ago.

Her home is a haven for all the homesick airmen, soldiers and civilians—of all nations—who long for feminine companionship and a bit of home cooking. She's famous hereabouts for her chocolate cake and lemon meringue pie—indescribably delicious delicacies in a spot like this.

"We're all going to be spoiled when we leave and get back to a place where women are regarded as human beings," Mrs. Hayden chuckled. "There are no wallflowers here. You should see the rush the girls get whenever there is a dance."

Many ferry pilots make a beeline for the Hayden home when they come in on their way to Britain or are grounded by bad weather. They can relax in a cheerful basement den where Mrs. Hayden serves them hot coffee, cake and pie.

The door always is open to visitors.

She Didn't Like It

The first woman to arrive here was blond Coral Brant from North England.

When Coral first saw the rugged countryside and the loneliness of the place, she said to her husband: "Let's go back to England. I can't stand it." But he was in charge of radio operations and couldn't go.

"And then," Coral said, "I began to love it. I found the Newfoundland people a very friendly, canny sort when you got to know them."

One of the greatest problems for the housewives is to plan menus, for fresh milk, vegetables and fruit are luxuries to be imported.

Food is a major item in the budget, for the costs run something like this: steak, 70 cents a pound; tomatoes, 65 cents a pound; lettuce, 45 cents a head; cauliflower, 50 cents a head; celery, 50 cents a bunch; oranges, 60 cents a dozen, and apples (small) 10 cents each.

Brands Nazis Polish Crimes

LONDON, July 25—(CP).—Dr. Cyril Garbett, Archbishop of York, accused the Germans of "indescribably horrible" treatment of conquered Poland—"a brutal, cold-blooded policy of murdering a nation which will go down as one of the great crimes in history."

"These atrocities," the Archbishop wrote in a diocesan publication, "are committed not by a handful of sadists but by thousands of Germans and, as far as we know, no protest has been raised either by those who are ordered to commit them or by the people of Germany.

"When the war is won not only will it be necessary to bring to justice the criminals responsible, but to convert a whole generation from a spirit which delights, or at any rate acquiesces, in cruelty and violence."

Noah: God's Covenant With Mankind — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Genesis 6—9.

God saw that the wickedness of man was so great that He repented making him, and resolved to destroy him and all living things. Noah, a perfect man, and his family should be saved and God instructed him to build an ark.

Then the Lord caused a great flood to cover the earth, and every living thing that had not been taken into Noah's ark perished, and the ark floated upon the face of the water which covered everything, even the highest mountains.

When finally the waters receded from the face of the earth, Noah came forth with his wife and his sons' wives and children and every living thing in the ark, and Noah built an altar and offered a sacrifice to God.

God found Noah's sacrifice acceptable and blessed Noah and his family, promising that never again would He cause such a flood, and He set the rainbow in the heavens as a token of His covenant with man. (Golden Text—Genesis 9:15)

Reflections On Austria

What happy people we should be if our foresight were as acute as is our hindsight! If we had been awake during the 1929-39 period, instead of in a doze, and if our powers of ratiocination had been one-tenth as acute as we thought they were, we should certainly have taken steps which would have prevented the present war and would have advanced that magnificent new world which we are now planning for the future. These mortifying reflections are provoked by the recollection that it was eight years ago today that Dr. Dolfuss, the Austrian Chancellor, was killed in the attempted Nazi coup d'etat in his country. If we had cared to look closely, we could have seen the pattern of the future in that one abortive scheme.

• • •

After the last war there was a strong feeling in both countries that Germany and Austria should be united. They had stood for centuries as companions in the loose organization of the Holy Roman Empire and later they had been comrades in the German Confederation which followed the downfall of Napoleon. When Bismarck sought to unify Germany under the domination of Prussia he would not include Austria, which was natural enough; no empire can have two emperors, and the Hapsburgs and the Hohenzollerns could never have ruled jointly. But feeling between the two countries was friendly, and it was ostensibly to aid Austria that Germany entered the last war. Versailles, at the close of the war, forbade a union of the two countries.

• • •

Union with Austria was one of Hitler's primary aims, and the way in which he set out to achieve that end should have warned us of what was to come. Hitler's rise to power almost wholly exterminated the Austrian desire for union, for to the Socialists of that country the totalitarian methods of the Nazis were abhorrent. But the Austrian Nazis, though few in number, were as obstreperous as their comrades everywhere and they had one enormous advantage—they had a plan. Austria, like other democracies, had no plan—only a vague desire for betterment. As a result, when the Austrian Nazis attempted their coup on July 25, 1934, using the weapons which their German masters had provided for them, the revolt almost succeeded, and if Italy had not threatened to take a hand in affairs Austria would have been snatched into the Reich then and there.

• • •

From 1934 until the Anschluss in 1938 Austria appeared to be in a condition of civil war, but in actual fact an undercover war between Austria and Germany was in progress. We had plenty of time then to study Nazi methods, both of diplomacy and warfare, but we failed to do so. It may appear that there is no point in rehearsing these events now, for they present us with a humiliating spectacle of our own indecision and foolishness. But it is possible that we may learn that in future, when Germany begins to pick quarrels with a less powerful country she is merely training herself to pick a quarrel with the rest of the world. It will be two centuries at least before we may safely cease to be suspicious of any move which Germany makes, however parochial it may appear to be. When we have won this war we shall be very stupid indeed if we permit ourselves to forget its beginnings in Austria.

Hit-And-Run Accidents

The accident which resulted in the death of Garrett Allen of Nassau on Thursday night was caused by a hit-and-run driver; looking back over a period of several months there have been several accidents of this type in the Peterborough district.

The hit-and-run driver may do what he does for a variety of reasons. He may be so frightened by what he has done that he gives way to a primitive urge to fly from the scene of his accident. Or he may be driving so fast that by the time he realizes what he has done he is far enough away for the idea of escape to creep into his mind and overcome his better instincts. Or he may simply be callous and determined to save his own skin, whatever the cost to other people.

But both ordinary humanity and the law dictate that when a man runs into another man with a car he should stop and do whatever he can to help him, and explain how the accident came about. It may be that the motorist was in the right; by running away from the accident he immediately puts himself in the wrong. When he rushes away from the scene he at once creates an impression of guilt. And when he is found he suffers far more severely than if he had behaved in a fitting manner.

Running away from an accident shows a lack of what the Chinese call "proper feeling." It shows an ignoble set of ethics, and a contempt for the rest of humanity which speaks of a small soul. We are in favor of hit-and-run drivers suffering severe penalties for their behavior; theirs is a selfish, dog-eat-dog attitude which we cannot tolerate in a civilized country.

Musical Revolution

This past fortnight has seen some strange things in the world of music. Indeed, it looks as though a musical revolution were in progress, doubtless as part of the world revolution in which we are engaged.

Last Sunday, for instance, there was a most remarkable broadcast of the Seventh Symphony of Shostakovitch, the contemporary Russian composer who is at present working as a volunteer fireman in his native country. It was conducted by Toscanini, so we may be assured that the performance was of a high order and that none of the sounds which we heard were accidental, although there were moments when there were noises as of a roof falling in. The Seventh is revolutionary, beyond a doubt.

Then, last week, Gene Krupa, the eminent drum virtuoso, gave a lecture on the technical terms of swing music in the Egyptian Wing of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. According to newspaper reports, Mr. Krupa seemed out of sympathy with his surroundings and failed to show any of that exuberance which he exhibits when beating the skins. But he gave explanations of the more arcane swing expressions, such as "corny," "from hunger," and "What's cookin'?" Several scholars and students of language who were present expressed themselves as being much edified by Mr. Krupa's lecture, but the swing enthusiasts (are they still called "hep cats"? seemed disappointed; they had hoped that Mr. Krupa would bring his drums with him.

But the most amazing development in music comes from Britain. The British Broadcasting Company has placed a ban on all songs which contain "slushy sentiment," on all songs which are suggestive (presumably such ditties as She Had To Go And Lose It At The Astor) and all songs based on melodies pinched from the classics. It has also banned from the air "any form of anaemic or deliberate vocal performance by male singers, and any insincere or oversentimentalized style of performance by women singers." This looks like the dawn of a new era.

In his fine book Music Ho, Constant Lambert, one of the leading British musicians, has characterized much modern music as "devitalized" and has given his opinion as to how it came to be that way. Certainly popular music lacks real gaiety and spontaneity. It concentrates heavily upon frustrated love, love of home, love of mother, and any kind of love indeed except the kind which enables a man or woman to enjoy the society and person of an adequate mate. And modern singers appear to suffer, to an extraordinary degree, from inability to sing in a happy and straightforward manner, as though they enjoyed themselves and expected their hearers to do the same. "Anaemic and debilitated" seems a fair description of their vocal method; better the roarings of Jerry Colonna than their epicene whinings. Their female counterparts are no better; the BBC describes them as "insincere," but we hate to think what it would mean if their method of singing were a sincere reflection of their feelings.

Are we really to look forward to a brighter, gayer popular music? It seems almost too good to be true.

NOTE AND COMMENT

One person who has to make both ends meet is a telephone operator.

An M.P. has said that 32,000 stenographers in Ottawa are underpaid. Thats' an easy way to make 32,000 friends.

Says Monsignor Sheean, of Washington: "It is diabolical, but the Nazis have a faith." We have one too, but it has grown somewhat flabby for want of exercise.

Two Unusual War Books

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

TWO somewhat unusual war books have come to hand. The first, published by the Dodd Mead Company, is called "I, James Blunt" and its author is H. V. Morton, who is known to millions of readers for his travel books about the British Isles and the Holy Land. But this brief work (it can be read in half an hour) is propaganda; it is explicit, carefully devised propaganda against complacency. Its dedication explains its purpose clearly: "James Blunt's Diary is dedicated to All Complacent Optimists and Wishful Thinkers who believe that Britain is still an island, that Russia can do all that is necessary, that we have only to mark time until the United States gets busy, that Germany is ready to crack from the inside, that the poor German people are longing to overthrow their tyrants; that Japan could be wiped out in a week of undivided attention. It is dedicated also to those who have not read the blue books which describe the progress of the New Order in the conquered countries of Europe; to those who cannot imagine what life would be like if we lost the war, to those who obstruct production, who make muddles, go slow, tolerate inefficiency, worship red tape, and to those who do not yet understand That Scientific Extermination of British Nationality Would Be The First Act of a Victorious Germany."

✧ ✧ ✧

The book is in the form of a diary kept by a retired ironmonger, James Blunt, in the years 1944-45, after the German conquest of Britain. It describes day to day events in a little English village under Nazi rule. Nothing happens which we have not often read of as happening in Occupied Europe, but the fact that these things are described as happening in Britain, to people with British names, brings them much closer. Blunt's wife has been killed; his son-in-law is interned for sabotage in a shipyard; his grandchildren, educated under the new German educational system learn that to be English is bad, and that to be German is good. He sees German troops drilling outside Buckingham Palace; he is ordered off the pavement by German officers; even in the village pub he has to salute a portrait of Hitler. Finally he finds himself sheltering a fugitive from a German internment camp, and in this action he is discovered and betrayed by a British quisling. The diary ends abruptly and we are left to surmise his fate.

✧ ✧ ✧

MR. Morton's idea is not, of course, a new one. Sinclair Lewis gave us a picture of totalitarianism far more detailed, deeply understood and horrible in "It Can't Happen Here," in which he wrote of the establishment of a dictatorship in the United States. But Morton's book is meant to be read rapidly by busy people who are on the farm, in the factory or otherwise engaged in war work. He wants to kill complacency, and with this simple, highly colored account of one man's experience in a Nazified England he succeeds. "I, James Blunt" is not intended to be literature; it is propaganda, and extraordinarily effective and powerful propaganda. It is written primarily for England, but it is a book which could do great good in Canada and which should be widely read here. Its price is reasonable—only twenty-five cents—and I advise you to get a copy as soon as you can and pass it on when you have read it to your friends.

✧ ✧ ✧

The second book is primarily a picture book. Musson's publish it and it is called "....The Common People"; the pictures are by Edward Carrick and the commentary on them is by Gerry Bradley. Carrick is Art Director of the Crown Film Unit in England, the people who made those magnificent pictures "London Can Take It" and "Target For Tonight." This book shows a number of very fine photographs of England in wartime; Carrick, who is the son of Gordon Craig, is a remarkable artist as well as a film journalist, and the book is beautiful as well as informative. It is unlikely that anyone will make a critical fuss over this book, but in its quiet way it is one of the finest books so far to come out of this war. The States and Russia still have something to learn about photography from Britain.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE pictures in this book show the British people gradually slipping into war, then realizing that they are at war, then realizing their own shameful unpreparedness for war, and finally their stupendous efforts to make up for lost time. There are none of those dreary pictures of machines, ships and guns of which we are all so heartily sick; instead there are pictures of people—grim people, busy people, tired people, laughing people—getting on with their jobs.

✧ ✧ ✧

This is a fine book and I do not hesitate to recommend it to you heartily. The commentary on the pictures is not good, but the pictures themselves are magnificently reassuring and encouraging. Since Dunkirk the common people of England have been heroes in the eyes of the world, and the subsequent defeats and failures of British army commanders have not dimmed their glory. Here are pictures of the heroes to inspire you.

Unconsidered Trifles

A boy approached his schoolmaster's desk and asked for a new pen-nib. Given it, he threw the old nib on the floor.

With weary sarcasm the master inquired: "Is it instinct, Jones, that makes you throw your nutshells at the bottom of your cage?"

The next day the schoolroom blind became wedged, and after one of the boys had failed to ease it, the master climbed on to the radiator and adjusted the blind easily.

As he dusted his hands, Jones remarked brightly: "I see you can still climb all right, sir!"

✧ ✧ ✧

The student was one of those lads short on knowledge, but long—oh, so long—on resourcefulness. For many minutes the professor had been plying him with questions in an effort to break down his colossal self-assurance, but all in vain. The fellow was simply too adroit.

"You have heard of cause and effect?" the professor finally injuired.

"Oh, yes," the student replied.

"Have you heard of effect coming before cause?"

"Indeed, yes," was the reply.

With an ill-concealed look of triumph, the professor demanded, "Give me an example!"

"A barrow wheeled by a man," the student replied.

THE HEADLESS HORSEMAN

Reds Still Before The Caucasus

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

EVEN if Rostov-on-Don is again in German hands, as Berlin announces, Hitler's surging armies still face the sturdiest barrier they have yet confronted in their sweep down the Donets-Don Basin toward the Caucasus.

There is small reason to doubt that Rostov, north bank city of the Don, has fallen. London authorities do not doubt it. They share the belief, however, that it was not taken by storm but was evacuated for a Russian stand behind the water hazards that still guard the Caucasus from the Russian-Turkish border on the Black Sea to the forty-five-mile wide Don-Volga land corridor west of Stalingrad.

The City of Rostov itself, as British spokesmen point out, is of small military value to the enemy.

Its capture does not free Russia's foes to turn the Rostov corner into the Caucasus. They are still 300 miles from the nearest Caucasian oil wells, more than 800 miles from the great pools that underlie the Caspian shore line.

And between them and those precious oil sources lies the whole length of the Lower Don, the Sea of Azov, Kerch Strait and the Black Sea like a vast moat. The weakest point for the Russian defenders of that water front is a narrow span east of the Donets-Don confluence. German claims three days ago to have crossed the Don there on a wide front remain not only unconfirmed but have not been repeated.

OF FORMIDABLE WIDTH

West of the Donets confluence, the Don is of formidable width clear to its Sea of Azov outlet twenty-five miles below Rostov. The whole drainage of the Don and Donets watershed concentrates there. The river is fringed with marshes that become quagmires with every rain. There are virtually no bridges spanning the Don east of Rostov, and few roads that lead down to either bank of the stream.

West of Rostov to the sea, the Don barrier is even more forbidding to mass military action or mechanized warfare. Its left or Caucasian bank is seamed with winding waterways, the multiple mouths of the Don. And beyond that to the narrows of Kerch Strait that separates the Crimea from the Caucasus lies the width of the Sea of Azov.

Beyond the Don, also, is Russia's army of the Caucasus. It is composed largely of the fighting Cossack tribes, proven warriors defending their homeland. There is little to indicate that Marshal Timoshenko has called heavily upon it up to now, holding the Don and to bar the Kerch route.

FLANKING THREAT REAL

That Nazi flanking threat from the Crimea is real. It also is confronted, however, by a succession of natural obstacles of which Kerch Strait itself is only the first. At its narrowest, the Strait is hardly a mile wide between sand spits that project from both shores, but eastward behind the Strait lies Taman Peninsula, the western extremity of the Caucasus.

As a military bridge to the Caucasus, that peninsula is a grave problem for the Nazi commanders. Speaking of what an invader would find who managed to ferry troops and equipment across Kerch Strait to gain a foothold, a National Geographic bulletin says:

"They would find a single highway running along narrow strips of hilly land between bays and lakes of the peninsula for twenty-five miles to Temryuk near the mouth of the Kuban River. For another hundred miles eastward the road follows the Kuban through swamp lands to Krasndar. It would be necessary to fight the sturdy Kuban Cossacks all the way."

The indicated Russian evacuation of Rostov to stand behind the Don represents a last-ditch defense of the gateway to the Caucasus and there is no disguising the gravity of the situation for Red Armies and Russia. The loss of Rostov, however, is not necessarily a critical defeat.

The decisive battle for the Caucasus is only beginning, and beginning with all the natural advantages in Russia's favor.

Capital Closeups

By JOHN DAUPHINEE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 25 (CP)—Odds and ends from the capital:—

Lucky break—AC2. Howard Scott of Toronto sang on a recent "Cheers From The Camps" program broadcast from Camp Borden, Ont..... His baritone solo went over with a bang and now, they say at Air Force headquarters, he's apparently going to get an audition at the Metropolitan Opera....For the duration, though, he'll likely be used as an entertainer for the R.C.A.F., under Sqdn. Ldr. Lionel Conacher, ex-hockey star who is in charge of sports and recreational activities.

Finance Minister Ilsley does his fighting with his tongue but he got compared to Joe Louis just the same....Ralph Maybank (Lib. Winnipeg South Centre) was commenting on the way the minister "demolished" Arthur Slaght (Lib. Parry Sound) in a brief speech....He said it was like "one of those affairs when Joe Louis dealt with one of the white hopes whom he saw in front of him for only about 30 or 40 seconds; thereafter he had to look down to see him."

George Fulford (Lib. Leeds), in camp with a reserve army unit, showed up in uniform one day during the conscription debate.

Commons Cuffnotes:

J. J. Kinley (Lib. Queens-Lunenburg) mentioned proudly his province, Nova Scotia, had provided five finance ministers since the turn of the century....Here's the list: Hon. W. S. Fielding, Liberal (1896-1911 and 1921-25); Hon. A. K. Maclean, Unionist (1917-18); Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Conservative ((1932-35); Hon. J. L. Ralston, now Defence Minister (1940); and Finance Minister Ilsley.

One of of the two-names-alike cases caught Hansard the other day....It tangled G. K. Fraser (Con. Peterborough West) and W. A. Fraser (Lib. Northumberland, Ont.)....Mr. Fraser of Peterborough West fixed it up next day.

We don't know they put neat little signs on the sandbags in the Centre Block corridors: "A.R.P. sand."....Unless they thought over-zealous members might use them as weapons.

Odds and Ends:

Economy of words is sometimes—not often—evident in the House....Committee reports have been pouring in as adjournment nears...."Report of the special committee on so-and-so" says Assistant Clerk Tom Boyce, pausing just a second....It usually works....Somebody says "dispense" which means "don't bother to read it" and Mr. Boyce finishes up triumphantly with the last line: "All of which is respectfully submitted"....Thousands of words go into the records that way.

Jean Francois Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouata) pulled a nifty....He consulted a dictionary to get a precise meaning for "referendum," then walked 15 feet to replace it on the House table ....He talked the whole way and back without missing a word.

Strategy on a desk-top—Air Compodore W. A. Curtis, on a visit from overseas, lining up an inkwell, ashtray, telephone number pad and pens and pencils to demonstrate to newsmen how the air forces would be pooled behind the lines for immediate action with British, Canadian or American armies on a theoretical western front.

Gordon Graydon (Con. Peel) mentioned in the House that one member has 13 children and two have 11....Dr. T. V. Grant (Lib. King's) heads the list with John Blackmore, New Democracy leader, and Henry Emmerson (Lib. Westmorland) tied for second place.

ROUND TRIP 1,750 MILES

The British daylight raid on Danzig called for a round-trip flight of 1,750 miles over well defended territory, yet only three planes were reported lost. This must mean that Hitler, like other men, cannot be everywhere at once.—New York Sun.

A Bible Message For Today

The nations shall see and be confounded at all their might they shall lay their hand upon their mouth, their ears shall be death.

They shall lick the dust like a serpent, they shall move out of their holes like worms of the earth; they shall be afraid of the Lord our God, and shall fear because of thee.

Who is a God like unto thee that pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage? he retaineth not his anger forever because he delighteth in mercy.

He will turn again, he will have compassion upon us; he will subdue our iniquities; and thou wilt cast all their sins into the depths of the sea.

Thou wilt perform the truth to Jacob, and the mercy to Abraham, which thou hast sworn unto their fathers from the days of old.—Micah 7: 16-20.

Letter To The Editor

WHERE TO KEEP PRESERVES?

Editor Examiner,

Sir,—Maybe the enclosed attempt at prose* will interest those who are suffering from the plague of red ants in the new wartime houses at Jackson Park.

Another question which has arisen among the tenants, is where to keep preserves?

In my day there was a root cellar and a special cupboard carefully placed away from the furnace with rows and rows of shelves upon which one could view with satisfaction the fruits of one's labors every fall, but wartime houses seem to have no available space for the thrifty housewife to contemplate where she shall put this or that special war-time effort in helping to conserve food for future use...The kitchen is too hot for normal storage of canned goods, there is a small space under the stairs, but it too does become too hot for storage.

There is also no place provided for the convenience of those who own cars or bicycles and thus precious rubber is being exposed to the elements. The rent of the family-sized wartime house is far too high for the ordinary wage-earner unless some other accommodation is provided for the thrifty housewife in which she can make use of her knowledge of preserving, etc., and put something away for the long winter months.—Sincerely,

BLANCHE A. DRAPER.

*Ed. Note: We regret that we have not the space to print the verses about ants referred to by our correspondent.

"Proceed" The Wise It Call

A LEARNED judge has this week pulled up a solicitor for saying that his client "was proceeding along the main Holyhead Road." "Walking," said the judge, was a better word than "proceeding," and added, "It is only policemen who proceed." If that is so the Army of today must have changed greatly from the Army of twenty-five years ago. In the distant days of the last war to end war no properly equipped soldier ever "went" anywhere, at least so far as written orders were concerned. He always "proceeded" on leave or on some special course or tour of duty. As a matter of fact even operations were usually "proceeding according to plan." If the mere police have now claimed and secured exclusive rights in the art of proceeding something rather shattering must have happened to the War Office and military English. But one fancies that the learned judge is for once mistaken and that his impression about the police is really another example of judicial ignorance.—Manchester Guardian.

Excess Profits Charge Laid To Arms Firms

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 25—(CP Cable)—Criticism of three British armament firms and two government departments was contained to-day in outspoken reports by two parliamentary finance committees.

In its first report of the year the public account committee rapped the Ministry of Aircraft Production and dealt with excess profits charges and accounts that allegedly were kept secret by these armament firms: The British Manufacture and Research Company, Limited; British Thomson, Houston and Company, Limited; and Barr and Stroud, Limited.

At the same time, the 51st report of the select committee on natural expenditure under the chairmanship of Sir John Wardlaw-Milne charged that labor has been 'recklessly reruited and wastfully employed' at Royal Ordnance factories and demanded 'radical changes' in the Ministry of Supply organization for dealing with labor problems.

The committee suggested the Ministry's recruiting activities for ordnance factories be halted and recommended the possibility of concentrating production in fewer ordnance factories and closing others, thus releasing thousands of surplus workers.

The bulk of the hostels provided for war workers at a cost of £11,000,000 ($48,950,000) probably would never be required for the purposes for which they were built the report continued. This 'remarkable miscalculation' was due to the wrong estimates of the labor required and to the failure to take into account whether the workers would be willing to live in these quarters after they were built, the report said.

Evidence For Howe

TORONTO, July 25—(CP).—Attorney-General G. D. Conant announced to-day he had ordered transcriptions made of evidence taken this week at an inquest into the death June 25 of a Pickering munitions worker, and that he would forward a copy of the evidence to Munitions Minister C. D. Howe.

At the inquest conducted by Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson, evidence was given to suggest that up to June 8 a large percentage of shell cases shipped from Montreal to the Pickering plant proved to be defective. The Attorney-General said the copy of the evidence would be sent to Mr. Howe without comment.

Testing Motorless Planes

This photo, just passed by the U.S. army censors, shows U.S. army troops leaping out of the nose of a nine-place glider after it had landed safely on manoeuvres held in Ohio. The army is testing this new form of motorless plane that can land troops without the enemy knowing it. There is no way of detecting where the plane is because of the lack of motor. It runs on air currents alone.

CANADA'S GENERALS

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

Maj.-Gen. Halfdan Fenton Harboe Hertzberg heads a post-graduate school of soldiering as commandant of the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont. A professional soldier of wide experience, he was one of the small cadre of officers who kept the organization of the Canadian army functioning during the 20-year period of peace and disarmament.

Now he is back at the school where he once lectured young men seeking special training which would qualify them to serve as officers either in the permanent force or in the non-permanent active militia, now the reserve army.

But the job is different because R.M.C. plays a new role in Canadian military organization. It is no longer a school for junior officers; it is a place where men who are already officers go to receive special training to fit them for higher ranks as staff officers, company commanders and unit commanders.

General Hertzberg is 55 years old and an engineer by profession. He is a native of Toronto and received his education at Upper Canada College, St Andrew's College and the University of Toronto. He joined the Royal Canadian Engineers as a lieutenant in 1915 and ended the war as a lieutenant-colonel commanding the 3rd Brigade, R.C.E.

After the war he held numerous army staff appointments in different parts of Canada before coming to Kingston to join the staff of the college.

Higher duties called him away again and he served as district officer commanding in two districts before being moved to Ottawa in 1938 as quartermaster-general. In 1939 he became acting adjutant-general and from that position was transferred to Kingston as R.M.C. commandant.

Recently the college turned out its last class of officer-cadets for the duration. Now all its facilities are devoted to providing special courses for army officers recommended for higher posts.

The officer-cadets, men chosen from the ranks for commissions, go instead to the Officers' Training Centres at Brockville, Ont., and Gordon Head, B.C., to qualify for their commissions.

❖ ❖ ❖

Mentioned in despatches five times during the last war and commander of a brigade at 32, Maj.-Gen. Thomas Tremblay is now Inspector-General of Militia and Canadian Active Service Forces in Eastern Canada.

Leaving a private engineering practice in Montreal in 1914, he joined the 22nd Battalion as second in command and went overseas in May, 1915. Appointed commander of the battalion in January, 1916, he assumed command of the 5th Canadian Infantry Brigade in September, 1917 and held this post until demobilized in Canada in May, 1919.

Maj.-Gen. Tremblay was created a C.M.G. in 1917 and won the D.S.O. in the preceding year. He is also an officer of the Legion of Honor.

Born in Chicoutimi, Que., in 1886, Maj.-Gen Tremblay worked as an engineer on the National Transcontinental Railway for four years following his graduation from Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., in 1907.

After the last war, he served as commissioner and later general manager of the Quebec Harbor Commission and was appointed special consultant to the National Harbors Board on its creation in 1936. He was also a member of the British Columbia-Alaska Highway Commission and of the Royal Commission into Canadian freighter rates in 1923.

He is well-known in the Maritimes as his First Great War battalion was brigaded with the 25th Battalion of Nova Scotia an the 20th Battery of New Brunswick.

Maj.-Gen. Tremblay is an honorary A.D.C. to the Governor-General and a member of the advisory board of Royal Military College.

❖ ❖ ❖

Top man in the Royal Canadian Engineers is tall, gaunt, quiet Maj.-Gen. C. S. L. Hertzberg, a man who knows everything there is to know about army engineering and the sapper's job.

In peacetime he was a prominent consulting engineer in Toronto.

He's been overseas with the Canadians since the start and has been primarily responsible for the development of the huge engineering force which now backs up the Canadian army in England.

He thinks scientifically and here finds a common ground for discussion with Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, the army commander. They have always been close associates and have straightened out many knotty engineering problems by working together.

Gen. Hertzberg now is the engineering chief at Army Headquarters. His professional interests cover everything from building an air force airdrome to erecting Nissen huts for the troops, but he particularly enjoys directing big construction jobs that are always being done by the engineers in England—building highways or boring power tunnels. When it is a steel job, he is really in his element.

Overseas he finds little time for water colors and sketching, peacetime hobbies. But as he motors through southern England's picturesque villages and rolling countryside he makes note of scenes that some day he will put on paper.

A completely unassuming general with a dry sense of humor, he does a lot of deep thinking and very little talking. He will settle a tickish problem for his staff by a typical comment: "Well, personaly I'd do it this way." And it is done that way and carried out successfully.

A native of Toronto, he is 56.

Six-Day System Said Best For BC Shipyards

VANCOUVER, July 25 (CP)—Witnesses for the Joint Trade Union Conference told the commission investigating west coast ship production that the former six-day system was superior to the present continuous production program.

They said yesterday that shipyard foremen and key tradesmen were agreed that results under the six-day systems were superior to continuous production, and that the government's "dictatorial" method of enforcing continuous production had affected workers' morale, resulting in a "don't care" attitude in regard to production.

Principal witnesess were two pipefitter foremen—Mr. Logan of Burrard Dry Dock north yard and Bruce Watson of North Van ship repairs.

Logan said that before continuous production was introduced Burrard Dry Dock workers had established a record for speed and efficiency unsurpassed in the Dominion. Continuous production had replaced harmony with chaos.

"For the government to tell people who have been building ships for years what to do..it's simply crazy," he said.

Logan added that expense should be the prime consideration in ship building.

"It's the ships we want," he said.

Ernest Marshall, another pipefitter foreman, said that on the continuous production system, in one instance, 21 days were required by a crew to do a job done by a crew of the same size in 14 days working on the six-day week. Staggering of men and absenteeism on Sunday were responsible for the slowdown, he explained.

Robert Johnson, Burrard Dry Dock machinist, testified laying off of key men for their day-off during the week frequently forced many other workers dependent on them into idleness.

Bomb Hong Kong

LONDON, July 25 (CP Cable).—A News Chronicle dispatch from Chungking today quoted the Kweilin correspondent of the Chungking newspaper "Takungpao" as saying that Allied bombers had attacked Hong Kong and Kowloon twice this month.

The News Chronicle added: "The targets, the correspondent said, including Kaitak airfield, petrol stores and Causeway Bay. Jardine Hill fortifications, Lyemoon Pass also were bombed as well as Japanese troops, causing heavy losses."

The dispatch said the raids occurred during July 11 and 12 and that Chungking circles were eagerly awaiting official confirmation of the correspondent's story.

Leaders In Tune

LONDON, July 25—(CP).—Cordell Hull's speech calling upon all liberty-loving peoples to help defeat the Axis drew expressions of keen interest and satisfaction from well-informed British circles today.

There was no immediate official comment on the address.

Some sources linked Mr. Hull's words with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's declaration yesterday for post-war British and American co-operation. There was speculation over the implied warnings to neutrals.

"These two speeches are absolutely complementary," said one Briton. "They show that our leaders fortunately are in tune.

On The High Road To Great Britain

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Pess Staff Writer

AN AIR BASE SOMEWHERE IN NEWFOUNDLAND, July 25 (AP).—The fighting pledge of the United Nations' forces stationed here is this:

"We'll get things done, we'll make things hum,
"We'll send you ships to Britain;
"And if these dam' things can't be done,
"We'll all be off to quitting'."

They're not quitting. They're sending ships to Britain through this wilderness station in great flocks.

Five years ago this spot was a wild, desolate region of rock and scrub pine and spruce forest. Now it's one of the largest airports in the world. From the lonely outpost the planes take off for Britain—a 2,000-mile flight.

Some day this place may become an important stopping place for commercial trans-Atlantic aviation. That was the purpose when the British government started it. Now it's rendezvous for the bombers headed east.

Around the flying field, the hangars and administration buildings, new construction is underway. Runways are being lengthened greatly. New buildings are going up. Tractors are yanking stumps out of the thin rocky soil.

Anti-aircraft guns point their snouts into the sky from strategic locations. Machine-gun nests ring the field. Canadian and American troops stand guard everywhere. To walk across the runways is forbidden, The guards shoot first and ask questions later.

While it seems so near the fighting fronts, news of the war is scarcely heard. Few newspapers arrive and commercial radio reception is poor due to atmospheric conditions—so the people live in a tight, isolated little world of their own where the big topic is planes.

Some Noted Fliers.

Most of the civilian pilots with the R.A.F. Ferry Command are Americans, like Clyde Pangborn, Duke Schiller of Onawa, Iowa, big Tom Smith of Atlanta, Ga., Bob Leroy of Los Angeles, Jack Terry of Clarksdale, Miss., Bob Coffman of Baton Rouge, and Earl Ortman, of Los Angeles.

The majority are married and live with their families in or near Montreal. They're the flying elite, since they draw $1,000 each month during the first year of service, $1,100 the second, and $1,200 the third year. But some of them see the time coming when the civilian pilots will be replaced by R.C.A.F. and R.A.F. service men. A great many already are being trained for the job.

Most of the civilian pilots are a dashing, carefree lot. They play hard between trips, although some live as quietly as ultra conservative businessmen. They try to think of themselves as ordinary folk, but they aren't.

There's Duke Schiller for example. Duke's 40. He's considered too old for combat duty but not for the Ferry service. He's the type they want at the controls of a $500,000 investment in freedom. And he can take a plane anywhere a ship can fly. Most of his friends can.

Duke has been flying for years in the United States and Canada. He married a Sault Ste. Marie girl and she flew with him wherever he went until he joined the Ferry service 18 months ago. Their eight-year-old daughter with golden pigtails, Barbara Jane, has been in the air more than 100 hours. I visited them in Montreal.

Fear? They don't know the meaning of the word or else they keep it to themselves.

"I always feel Duke is as safe in the ferry game as any other," Mrs. Schiller said. "Besides, Duke wouldn't be happy if he wasn't flying.

Never Knows His Goal.

"The worst part of it is I don't know where he's going or when he's coming back. He may be gone for three or four days and then he may be away for two months. Just as sure as I leave the apartment, Duke comes home and finds me away."

"But he brings you dolls," Mrs. Schiller said.

"Oh yes," Barbara Jane said. "I have dolls from England and Scotland and Wales and Ireland and Australia — all the places he has gone."

That Duke's way of making up for his absence, bringing little gifts from far-of places.

But while there is adventure for the pilots and their crews passing through here, the men at the base find their chief outlet in work and more work to dull the sense of loneliness and the boredom of a remote outpost in which there are only a handful of women.

Westwood W.I. Holds Picnic

WESTWOOD, July 25—(ENS).—Ideal weather favored the annual picnic of Westwood Women's Institute, which was held Tuesday on the spacious lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Graham.

A very enjoyable afernoon was spent, everyone made comfortable by the kind hospitality of the host and hostess. A swing for the children and a booth for everyone, operated by Mesdames W. Renwick and F. Faux were well patronized during the afternoon. A delicious supper was served when all sat down in picnic fashion around the long table.

Children under 7 years—1 Jimmy Renwick, 2 Anne Webb.

Girls 7 to 10 years— 1 Shirley Clysdale, 2 Joan Davidson.

Girls 10 to 12 years— 1 Shirley Clysdale, 2 Dorothy Kidd.

Young men—1 Bruce Graham, 2 Wib. Graham.

Young ladies—1 Jessie Graham, 2 Isabel Birdsall.

Biscuit race—1 Jessie Graham, 2 Bruce Graham.

Needle and Thread— 1 Mrs. W. Mortlock and Jessie Graham; 2 Isabel Birdsall and Bruce Graham.

Bean Guessing — Children, Joan Davidson; adults, Mrs. E. W. Sargent.

Time race — Children, Dorothy Kidd, adults, Mrs. V. Stanley Jones.

Knitting race—1 Mrs. Fred Faux, 2 Mrs. F. E. Birdsall.

S. Africans Get U-Boat

PRETORIA July 25—(CP Cable)—South Africa's naval forces destroyed their first Axis U-boat in the Eastern Mediterranean 10 days ago, it was disclosed on Thursday.

An officer home on leave said two small patrol vessels picked up the trail of the sub and attacked it with depth charges. After they heaved 40 "ash-cans" overboard the submarine surfaced the crew leaped overboard, and the underseas craft then sank.

Plan To Group Consumer Goods Plants

NEW YORK, July 25 — (AP). — Concentration of consumer goods industries in a few strategically located plants in the United States as announced by Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, will follow the principles of the system in Great Britain where, the publisher of "Modern Industry" says, it has been successful.

Under the concentration method, says Eldridge Haynes in the current issue of his magazine, all plants in an industry can remain solvent and keep their brand names alive by providing for production in the industry's most economical, efficient plants with a division of the profits among all the plants.

Whether brand names would be preserved under the American version of the system is not yet clear for it was indicated by the W.P.B. that standardization and simplification of a product—probably with emphasis on "victory" models — would accompany concentration.

Nelson said yesterday the war program has reached a point where the curtailment and limitation orders issued up to now to trim down manufacture of civilian goods did not go far enough toward mobilizing the resources and facilities needed for farms manufacture.

The War Production Board, he disclosed therefore has approved broad policies designed to go far beyond mere curtailment and enable W.P.B. to designate arbitrarily, certain plants which will carry on the civilian business of entire industries.

WESTCLOX GIRLS DEFEAT ELECTRICS TO WIN THREE TILTS IN WEEK

Officials Decide To Carry On Henley In 1943

ST. CATHARINES, July 25—Uncertain until a few weeks ago whether there would be enough entries to hold a Henley Regatta this year, the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen at their annual meeting last night enthusiastically decided to go ahead immediately with plans for next year's Henley. The volume of entries, and the quality of the entrants have been exceptional despite the fact that clubs have been riddled with enlistments. The association felt that they were assured of a fine regatta next year on the strength of this year's showing.

Officers for the association were re-elected for another term: Hon president, R. G. Dibble, Toronto; president, Major H. B. Burgoyne, St. Catharines; first vice-president, W. M. Ross, Argos, now in Newfoundland; second vice-president, T. T. Lawson, Montreal; hon. treasurer, A. W. Carter, Toronto; curator of trophies, H. E. Rose, St. Catharines; secretary, J. L. Murray, Kingston. Executive: Hon. W. A. Macdonald, K.C., Vancouver; Wing Commander T. R. Louden, Ottawa; Joe Wright, Jr., Toronto; F. B. Steacy, Brockville; C. S. Riley, Winnipeg; W. G. Crawford, Toronto; R. L. Schram, St. Catharines; R. L. Byron, Ottawa, and W. H. Roderick, Hamilton.

Considerable discussion arose over publicizing rowing activities, and a determined effort is to be launched in the next year to familiarize the general public with the sport. Secretary Murray noted that a hockey team is lauded throughout the season whenever it wins a game, but oarsmen who train and practice faithfull for months for a race lasting only a few minutes are almost ignored by even their own community. It should be realized, he said, that when they win an event they are champions of Canada in that sport, he observed.

President Burgoyne reported that Hydro operations in this district will result in widening and deepening of the old Welland Canal, on which the Henley course is situated, and that the increased flow of water will clean out the course. Coach Max Patrick of St. Catharine suggested that the association adopt the policy of the English Henley of beautifying and preserving the surroundings of the course, and this, the association decided, would be one of their dreams for the future. One of the boathouses will be moved to make way for the new Hydro development.

A stop watch was presented to the immediate past president, R. G. Dibble, by P. J. Mulqueen, former president, on behalf of the association. A minute of silence was observed for three noted oarsmen who passed away during the past year: Lou Scholes, Toronto; Robert Magor, Lachine, and Eddie Phillips, Ottawa.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The City Softball League schedule is almost completed. In fact only two games remain to be played. Royals meeting Luckies Monday night and Plazas clashing with Soldiers on Wednesday night and both battles are highly important because of the effect they may have on the final standing. With one game left to play Plazas are in first place by a full game lead over Royals and the worst they can get out of it now is a tie for first place provided Royals win over Luckies Monday night and Soldiers triumph over Plazas in the Wednesday night affair. Here is the standing to date:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Plazas	8	3	.727
Royals	7	4	.636
Soldiers	6	5	.545
Luckies	5	6	.455
Juveniles	2	10	.167

As the playoff arrangements call for the first and fourth teams and the second and third outfits to play semi-final series in the playoffs, the importance of the two games left on the schedule speaks for itself. Several ties are possible. There could be one between Royals and Plazas for first place or between Soldiers and Luckies for the third slot.

* * * * * *

Monday night's game between Luckies and Royals should be a hummer under the circumstances. Both want a win in the worst way and the result should be a battle all the way down the stretch. Both outfits will have their strongest lineups in action. Manager Griffin of Luckies may use Bev Gray, young pitcher of the Juveniles in the important test. In addition of course he has Bill Lewis, Bill Moorhead and Frank McCormick all available for pitching purposes. Just who Manager Parnell of the Royals will call upon is just as much of a mystery. He has Ronnie Akers, Fraser, and Bob Crowe as possibilities. There will be the strongest possible array of talent on both lineups and the game looms up as one of the most exciting in a season that has been marked by a lot of close games. A loss for the Royals in this tussle would automatically install Plazas as first-placers no matter what happens in their game with the Soldiers. On the other hand a defeat for Luckies would leave that club in fourth place and give Royals a chance to tie Plazas for the top shelf. There is a lot at stake. The game will get under way at Riverside Park at 7 o'clock.

* * * * * *

Plazas Look Strong

The City Softball League is really doing its bit for war service organizatons. Already it has held successful benefit games in behalf of the British War Victims' Fund, the fund to supply baseball equipment for the armed forces and the cigarettes for soldiers' fund. Now a fourth benefit is announced for next Wednesday when the Plazas and Soldiers will play the last scheduled game of the regular season. The proceeds on that occasion will be turned over to the Navy League. Fans will appreciate the fact that the City League officials do the thing right. They don't name some dud game as a charity affair. On the other hand they have picked four of the outstanding fixtures of the regular schedule when the largest crowds might be expected. The game between Plazas and Soldiers illustrates the point. First place may depend upon the result of that clash and naturally the contest is a wow, likely to draw one of the best gates of the year. Yet the league officials have decided to set apart that tussle as a benefit for the lads in the blue of the navy.

* * * * * *

Juveniles failed to stop Plazas in last night's City League argument. Few folk, in spite of the neat win of the youngsters over Luckies the other night expected them to beat the hockey crowd who turned out a fourteen-man squad to get tuned up for the playoffs. Plazas with Curley Scriver and Joe Jones added to the squad that has been playing all season are well fortified with reserves for almost every position and in that respect have a big edge over the rest of the loop. They played great defensive ball last night, with the infielders coming up with a lot of fine plays and at the plate they have plenty of power. Joe Blewett was the only absentee last night but Julian Wade and Don Crowe kicked in with homers to make up for the absence of the hard-hitting centre fielder. The hockey outfit, incidentally, pulled off two double-plays and on the season's play have set the pace in reeling off twin killings.

* * * * * *

Manager Mike O'Brien had better get the General machine polished up, for with the playoffs coming close the C.G.E.'s old rivals, the Westclockers are the hottest team in the Girls' loop right now. They have knocked off three wins in a row this week and looked smart in doing it. They have been getting steady, effective pitching from Marg Watson and the team as a whole has been fielding smartly. Last night they made it three straight by beating Electrics 10 to 1 and while bigger scores have been run up against the losers during the season, few clubs have done so well defensively as the Big Bens did last night. Generals looked like walking away with the league during most of the season but they have been beaten twice recently while Westclockers have been polishing up their work until right now they look like dangerous play-off opposition for the team from the big south end plant.

May Get Millar Trophy

Lex Robson, popular professional at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club is not an entrant in this year's Millar Trophy competition in Toronto but according to Bobby Hewitson of the Telegram the local pro may be awarded the trophy that he has won so often. According to the Toronto scribe this may be the last year for the Millar competition and that it will be succeeded by another sponsored competition. "I think perhaps the plan will be to present the Millar to Lex Robson," Hewitt quotes one of the Toronto and district pro officials as saying. "He won it six times out of the 14 it has been competed for, in succession in 1931 and 1932, again in succession in 1934, 1935 and 1936 and again in 1939." Hewitson added in his article, "But he was missing yesterday and the tournament just didn't seem the same without old Lex."

* * * * * *

The Yanks increased their lead in the American League by half a game yesterday while in the National loop there was no change in the situation. The New Yorkers triumphed over Detroit 3 to 0 on four-hit pitching by Spud Chandler who won his 11th game of the season. Meanwhile the Boston Red Sox were merely breaking even with the St. Louis Browns, taking the first game 5 to 3 and losing the second when Chet Laabs homered in the eleventh inning. In the National Whit Wyatt, won his 11th victory of the season as the Dodgers beat the Pittsburg Pirates 6 to 4 and St. Louis shut out the Boston Braves 8 to 0, thanks to great pitching by Max Lanier.

Still Able To Purr

Cincinnati Again Boasts First-Year Hurling Star In Ray Starr, Who May Prove To Be 20-Game Winner

Elmer Riddle; Gene Thompson; Joe Beggs; Johnny Vander Meer; Ray Davis; Ray Starr; Gene Schott; Lee Grissom; Junior Thompson

By WALTER L. JOHNS

The Reds have done it again. They've plucked another first-year pitching star from the minors. And this one's really a star—Ray Starr.

Leave it to the Cincinnati club to discover pitching talent that clicks the first year. In Starr they have one of the league's leading twirlers and, at the present rate, a possible 20-game winner.

Last year the Reds came up with Elmer Riddle, who finished a spectacular first-year season as a starting hurler with 19 victories against four losses. In 1940, the big star was Joe Beggs, also a rookie that year. In 1939 Gene Thompson sparkled in his freshman year.

Going back a little farther, Johnny Vander Meer set the pitching world afire with two no-hitters in a row in 1938, and before that it was Lefty Lee Grissom in 1937, Ray Davis in 1936 and Gene Schott in 1935.

Strangely, the sophomore year for these star hurlers has been plenty tough. Riddle hasn't got going this season after his sensational streak last summer. Vander Meer was pushed back into the minors after his spectacular year.

Thompson has pitched consistently, although he had only a 6-6 record last year. Beggs, a Yankee cast-off, hurled only four vicotries against three defeats last season. Grissom, now with the Phils, won but two games the year after his first full season with the Redlegs. Davis and Schott no longer are with the club.

Starr really isn't a rookie, although he spent the last eight years in the minors. Before that he served two years in the National league, with the Cardinals, Giants and Braves.

Starr has been kicking around baseball for 16 years. Now 36, he has been clicking for the Reds, having already won 12 games. Starr is a different pitcher now than he used to be, according to his coaches, and has fine control. In addition he has developed a knuckle ball which has been baffling National league batters.

Starr Old Hand

Born at Nowata, Okla., in 1907, Starr first broke into organized baseball with the Danville club of the Three-eye league in 1926. He has served time with Marshalltown, Topeka, Shawnee, Rochester, Minneapolis, Toronto, Syracuse, Nashville, Fort Worth, West Dallas and Indianapolis. What, no Punxatawney?

Last year with Indianapolis, Starr won 20 games, his best year since 1931, when he turned in an even 20 victories for Rochester. He came up to the Reds late in the season and managed to win three more games.

Riddle, also plucked from Indianapolis, wasn't a star the first season with the Reds. But, because he took part in only a few games that year and began to click the first real season he hurled for the Reds, we include him in the class of "frosh" stars.

Riddle, a Columbus, Ga., product, broke into baseball with Wassau in 1936, 10 years after Starr had his first taste of pro conflict. He served time with Charlotte, Indianapolis, Durham and Birmingham before coming to the Reds.

Minor Stars

Beggs, a Yankee castoff, was with Newark in 1939, when the Reds purchased him. He promptly set the National league on fire by hurling 12 victories against but three defeats. Born at Rankin, Pa., Beggs reached the majors via Scranton, Akron and Norfolk. With the Yanks in 1938 he won but three games and lost two.

Thompson, the Red rookie star of 1939, came off the diamond of Columbia in the South Atlantic league, where he had won 16 games against nine losses. Like the others, he clicked as a rookie Red slabman, winning 13 games against five losses his first year.

Thompson has pitched for Sioux City, Monessen, Paducah, Peoria, Waterloo and Syracuse since he began playing pro ball in 1935.

Story of Vander Meer, the sensational star of 1938, has been told many times. The Paterson, N.J., lefthander, who had been up for a trial with the Reds in 1937, had won but five games against 11 losses for Syracuse in 1937. Yet the Reds gave him a chance.

Hurls Two in Row

He went along in routine manner until June 11, when he hurled a no-hit game against the Dodgers. Then, the next time out, June 15, he repeated with another no-hitter against the Braves. Vander Meer went on to a record of 15 wins against 10 losses. The next year he won but five and when he turned in only three the next season he was sent back to Indianapolis. He began to click again last year, winning 16.

Grissom, the big Texan, was with Nashville in 1936, and made a mediocre record of four wins against one defeat. With the Reds in 1937 he won 12 games, more than he's been able to do since with the Reds, Yanks, Dodgers and Phils.

Davis, another tall Texan from Nashville, was one of the Reds' leading pitchers his first year up. He had won 12 for Nashville in 1936 to earn his chance. With the Reds in 1937 he won 11. Schott, an 18-game victor with Toronto in 1934, clicked with the Reds in 1935, winning 11 and losing 11.

Trent Bowlers Qualify Again

CAMPBELLFORD July 25. — (ENS)—Campbellford's 1941 champions successfully defended their right to enter the title contest when they won from Norwood and Warkworth rinks in the 15th District Section A finals played here on Friday afternoon. The locals, who copped all three titles when they went to Hamilton last Labor Day, were intact with the single exception of the rinks group were Jos. Poulton replaced by C. W Palliser. Highlights of the afternoon was the performance of Warkworth's white thatched P. S. Ewing who, although he is in his upper seventies proved more than a match for C. Gunston of Norwood in the singles contest. He took this event from the Norwood entry by a 22-18 margin while Campbellford's A. D. Bennett got a bye and after an closely contested match at the opening downed the veteran by a 21-7 score In the doubles contest W. S. Wiggins and J. P. Archer were on the top side of a 23-18 score after they outbowled O. B. Phillips and Dr. H. S. Allen in a 21-end game. In the rinks contest Dr. O. C. Watson, J. Poulton, A. J. Meyers and H. J. Taylor of Campbellford were matched against A. M. Smale B. Buchanan, C. Churchley, M. E. Smith of Warkworth and earned a 21-14 decision. The local winners will now go to Brighton on August 17th where they will meet the winners from Section 'B' to decide who will be the district's representatives at the provincial finals in Hamilton or Toronto on Labor Day.

Electrics Held To One Run By Marg Watson

The fast-travelling Westclockers made it three straight wins this week in the Ladies' Softball League Friday night when they defeated Electrics in a well-played game, 10 runs to 1. The Big Bens have defeated Generals, Brintons and Electrics in a row, and are a real menace to Generals, who have been leading the loop all season.

The Westclox girls were full value for their win last night. They got fine pitching from Marg. Watson, who retired the side in order in five of the nine frames, and was decidedly stingy with the hits she allowed. It was her third win of the week and perhaps her best exhibition of pitching of the whole three games. Behind her the Westclox girls played good ball in the field, and outside of the fifth inning when they got their only run Electrics had few real chances to score.

Mary Larmer pitched the whole game for the losers and was hit hard in spots, Isobel Bullock and Eunice Armstrong hammering out home runs for the winners.

The teams failed to score until the third when Westclox started their victory parade by chasing in two runs. They came back with another in the fourth to make it 3 to 0. Electrics manufactured their only counter of the game in the first half of the fifth, leaving the margin 3 to 1, but the Big Bens settled the argument in their end of the same innings by sending four runners across the home plate. When they returned to the assault in the sixth and bagged three more markers it was all over, especially with the Electric attack bogged down because of Marg. Watson's effective pitching and the steady fielding of the winners.

RUBE FISHER PITCHES THIRD OF INNING, CHARGED WITH 2 LOSSES

Leafs Take Bears As Ripple Homers For 2-1

By The Associated Press

Rube Fischer, Jersey City right-hander, long will remember July 24, 1942.

That is the date he was officially charged with two International League defeats, although he pitched in only one-third of an inning.

Here's how it happened. Montreal and the Giants played off the protested game of June 12 in which the Royals had scored eight runs in the ninth inning to take a commanding lead only to have them nullified because dimout regulations prevented the Giants from completing their half of the frame.

However, the Royals charged the Giants were stalling and the protest was upheld by League President Frank Shaughnessy, who ordered the last of the inning played out.

That was done before the start of the regular game yesterday, with the Giants scoring one run to make the final count 10-4 in favor of Montreal with Fischer the losing hurler.

Fischer started the regular game, but was taken out after pitching one-third of an inning in which he gave up two runs which was all Montreal needed for a 2-1 triumph. Sal Maglie, who relieved Fischer, pitched brilliant ball the rest of the way.

All the others last night were decided by the same 2-1 score with the exception of the one between Syracuse and Buffalo which the Chiefs won, 3-2.

Baltimore Orioles took a double-header from the tail-end Rochester Red Wings with Pete Center and Clyde Smoll hurling three- and five-hit ball respectively. All Baltimore runs came on home runs.

Jim Turner, former Cincinnati hurler, made his debut for Newark Bears, but Jim Ripple spoiled it by smashing a two-run homer to give Jack Hallett and Toronto Maple Leafs the victory.

Darkhorse Tops Nelson By Stroke

CHICAGO, July 25—(AP)—Leading the nation's topnotch golfers as the $15,000 Tam o'Shanter Open swung into the third round today was one Gib Sellers, a strapping professional from Walled Lake, Mich., whose brilliant rounds of 68-69 the last two days lifted him abruptly out of comparative obscurity.

Sellers was a stroke ahead of the defending champion, Byron Nelson, and two blows in front of his next closest pursuers, Clayton Heafner and Dick Metz.

Despite Gib's whirlwind start, Nelson remained the favorite. Lawson Little, who shared the lead with Nelson after the first round with 67's, fell off to a poor 73 yesterday and was three strokes off the pace.

Meeting in the 36-hole final of the Tam o'Shanter amateur championship today were Corp. Marvin (Bud) Ward, the National champion, and Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., former Western amateur titlist.

TORONTO, July 25 (CP) — Five players from the Moose Jaw Millers of last season have joined the Canadian armed services. Bill (Regina Leader-Post) Good writes in with the information that Butch McDonald, who played with Detroit Red Wings and Indianapolis Caps before his Moose Jaw sojourn, is in the army. Roy McBride and Paul Platz are in the R.C.A.F., with Hughie Bell and Roy Allen in the navy.

Lieut. Gordon Bauld of Halifax, former ranking Nova Scotia tennis player, a high scorer in basketball in the Halifax city league and former member of Halifax Wanderers rugger squad, has transferred from the Royal Canadian Artillery to the Princess Louise Fusiliers, a motorized Halifax infantry unit.

Lieut. Rod McGill of Winnipeg, Manitoba open slalom ski champion, helped train men of Military District 10 in special operations near Winnipeg in 1941 before going overseas with the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders of Canada. Lieut. McGill is 24.

Thomas A. (Mountain Boy) Linkletter of Springhill, who pitched the Springhill Fencebusters to the Nova Scotia baseball finals for several years just before the war, is with the R.C.A. at Halifax.

George Stuart of Edmonton, a member of University of Alberta hockey and football teams for four years, joined the R.C.A.F. He was coach of the interfaculty football champions—The Aggies—last fall.

Robert (Bobby) Coulter, Toronto football star, joined the air force last May. He was instrumental in building several fine football teams at North Toronto Collegiate where he was a teacher.

Mally Hughes, 21-year-old goal-keeper, is an ordinary seaman in the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve. Hughes was one of the best junior netminders in Manitoba when he played for Portage la Prairie Terriers in 1940-41. Last season he was the backbone of the Manitoba senior champions—Winnipeg R.C. N.V.R.

Giants Nip Reds On Young's Homer In 11th

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

There are more ways than one to win a baseball game but the formula employed with increasing success by New York Giants is to harness all the power available.

The latest of masterful Melvin Ott's experiments took big Babe Young off the bench, which he had warmed all season, and spotted him in centre field.

Young came through yesterday with an 11th inning homer—his second game-winning circuit clout in as many days—to give the Giants a 3-2 decision over Cincinnati Reds.

Only 24 hours earlier he had smashed a home run with two men on base to turn back Pittsburgh Pirates.

A pair of twilight-night double-headers yesterday broke precedent in two American League cities and left Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians in a virtual deadlock for second place, 11½ games behind the pennant-bound New York Yankees.

At St. Louis the Red Sox whipped the Browns, 5-3, in the twilight opener of their bargain bill, but once under the lights, the teams battled 11 innings before Chet Laabs gave the Brownies the nod with a two-run homer.

Indians Grab a Pair

At Cleveland, the Indians edged out Washington Senators 4-3 and 5-4, to climb with two percentage points of the Red Sox. The after-piece went 12 frames, with Jim Hegan's single deciding the issue.

Jake Wade registered his second straight triumph since being picked up by Chicago White Sox, shading Dick Fowler as he pitched a 2-1 victory over Philadelphia Athletics in a night contest.

The only afternoon game in the American League saw the Yankees blank Detroit Tigers, 3-0, on the four-hit pitching of Spud Chandler, who gained his 11th triumph against two defeats.

Whitlow Wyatt stopped Pittsburgh Pirates with seven hits as Brooklyn triumphed, 6-4, and preserved a seven-game lead.

Lefty Max Lanier shut out Boston Braves on six hits for an 8-0 victory.

A night game between Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Phils was postponed.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 25.—(CP).—The lesson to-day concerns one of our greatest natural athletes, a leading figure in Canadian folklore. He was one of this continents finest hockey players, but he preferred to bait league presidents, conk referees and chase heckling customers with a chair.

As a fighter, he couldn't beat his way out of a cloud of smoke, but he made a career of starting riots. He is an accomplished after-riot speaker, thusly: 'I have been thrown out of better leagues (teams, cities, hotels or crap games) than this one.' He can't wrestle, but he may have a championship by Christmas if the humor of the situation doesn't make him forget his script.

If Jean Pusie reads this, he will turn to someone at this point, tap his newspaper and exclaim grandiloquently: 'My fran, this could only be me.' As always, Pusie is right. It's him

It's probably news to everyone about Pusie winning a wrestling championship. I don't know exactly what we can do for him in this line, but one of the most popular titles in Toronto this season is laughingly known as the British Empire heavyweight wrestling championship. It is held currently by a bulky character named Whipper Billy Watson. For Pusie, it will be as good as any.

Pusie's ventures into wrestling have been sporadic, and largely unsuccessful because he has been naive enough to accept odd bouts in outlaw leagues in Quebec and the Maritimes. But a few weeks ago he was called to Toronto to substitute in a preliminary.

It occurred to several of us that time that although Pusie always had been beaten previously, he would win here, because the Toronto wrestling league is among the best organized on the continent. Talent has been scarce laely and it is about time for a change in champions. Pusie is colorful, would make a good box-office draw as champ. So without knowing whom the wild Frenchman from Chambly Basin, Que., would fight, we figured he would win. He did. He also won the following week. Unless the wrestling league has switched its signals, the build-up is on.

The Sports Round-Up

(Pinch-hitting for Hugh Fullerton)

NEW YORK, July 25 (AP)—Pass the posies to Al Sabath for deciding not to start Alsab in the Arlington classic today . . . That seventy grand is a lot of tin to pass up, but the Sab's had only a six-furlong workout since coming off his sickbed, and you don't need a crystal ball to tell you he's not ready for a mile-and-a-quarter waltz . . .

Hit and run

Don't be surprised if Belmont Park comes up with a "racing olympics" this Fall . . . Leaders in all divisions will meet to clear up the year's title confusions . . . The Giants are getting ready to pop with a new pitcher . . . Don't look now, but King Levinsky not only passed his physical, but also his mental exam, for the army . . . and now is ready to go into his "transom" for Uncle Sam . . .

Good Goo

The hosses will no doubt be glad to learn they don't have to be shot any more when they break a leg . . . Bill (Baltimore Sun) Boniface reports that John Bosley, Jr., the W. K. trainer, has discovered good old Baltimore mud, mixed with Epsom Salts and vinegar, can cure 'em . . . It's worked on four so well they're running again . . . and you spanked the kids for makin' mud pies! . . .

Catching Is Their Business

Buddy Rosar, RIGHT, catcher of the New York Yankees, would rather catch law-breakers. So he went A.W.L. to take an exam that may qualify him for a job on the Buffalo police department. Rollie Hemsley, LEFT, is quite content to catch baseball for the Yankees. He formerly caught Bob Feller as a member of the Cleveland Indians.

R.C.A.F. Flier Rescued After 14 Days Adrift

After his Hampden bomber crashed in the North Sea after a raid on the Frisian Islands off the coast of Holland, Polit Officer Holbrooke Mahn of Denver, Col., a member of the Royal Canadian Air Force spent 14 days in a tiny rubber dinghy before he was rescued. Failure of one engine while the aircraft was flying at about 200 feet brought the plane down and it sank almost immediately. Mahn, with one gunner and the navigator managed to climb out and their dinghy was released successfully. The emergency rations were oil soaked but two quart containers of water were intact. For the first day or so, confidence that they would be rescued buoyed their spirits but by the sixth day the water was gone. Shortly after sundown on the eighth day the navigator who had been delirious died and his two companions slipped the body into the sea. Several times aircraft flew overhead but they did not observe the tiny boat. Then the gunner started to drink sea-water and on the tenth day he died. "I was so weak I had trouble getting his body out of the boat," Mahn said later. On the 13th day, a seagull lit on the edge of the boat. Mahn was able to grab it by the legs and ate it raw. On the 14th day Mahn heard the throb of a ship's motor and managed to hail. Soon he was wrapped in warm blankets and, as pictured ABOVE, in the first photo to reach Canada, since his rescue, is well on the way toward recovery.

Mists Hide Most Of Aleutian Raiding Work

By KEITH WHEELER
(Copyright, 1942, by Chicago Times, Inc.)

SOMEWHERE IN ALASKA (Delayed)—This is the record of a 10-day 3,000 mile trip out along the Aleutian battlefront to Kiska Island and return.

Essentially it is the record of a personal adventure and is told as such because it was an experience that almost every American would give much to have known.

Americans are living and fighting in the Aleutians.

They sleep and eat—when such necessary luxuries are available—in tents and burrows in the soggy tundra.

The islands they cling to are desolate and savage—a flinty wilderness of mile-high, perpetually snow-capped peaks that reach through the endless fogs like hungry fangs seeking to crush the planes.

The trip began from a nameless base on the southern shore of the great peninsula. Only one reference point will be named here and that is Dutch Harbor — dreary enough by itself, but an oasis of luxury compared to others.

We never wore parachutes, not even during a bombing attack on Kiska.

Most Aleutian flying is done within 100 feet of the sea and if anything goes wrong at that altitude a parachute is worse than useless. Parachutes were no good either at 10,000 feet over Kiska, for recourse to a chute above that Jap outpost or the adjacent waters would only have made death a little slower and more difficult to accept.

Seven hours after we started we were outside Dutch Harbor.

Head For Another Spot

But we didn't land. We cruised in circles for an hour but the rocky harbor entrance was so choked with fog that we couldn't get in. Two hours later under a lowering sky we slipped into a desolate bay and landed.

That night we slept aboard an old destroyer converted to duty as a seaplane tender. And we stayed two days, for next morning the wind had risen to gale force and the ship pitched and strained at anchor even in the harbor.

The wind abated during the next day and we got away in a "cat" amphibian. The pilot was a veteran of a year's flying in Alaska.

We made Dutch Harbor after challenging three aircraft en route. Each time an unidentified speck appeared near us the gunners unstrapped their guns, opened the blisters and waited until the plane was identified. It was not many days since the Japs had appeared here and there was no guarantee they wouldn't come again.

That night at Dutch there was dinner at a table and there was a bath, a luxury appreciated no less because the water has a quality of turning brick red when heated.

Next day we were off again, heading for the makeshift outpost from which the Kiska bombers jump off.

Next morning I flew to Kiska in a B-17. The trip to Kiska might have been a nightmare but was actually a miracle of aerial navigation. The big bomber took off, circled once and ducked under the sea-hugging fog. For hours thereafter we saw no land, nothing but the fog pressing down and a narrow circle of water racing along below us. We saw no land until we pulled through the soup and found the rocky peak of our target rearing through the murk a few miles away.

Two days later I discovered what has become of America's civilian airliners. Out of the fog to a landing glided a Douglas CD-3. Six months ago it was doing duty as a luxury airliner in the States.

Half an hour later it was in the air again. I was aboard, heading for anchorage, Alaska.

Fainting Sailor Saves His Sub

LONDON, July 25 — (CP). — The Press Association reported this strange incident last night:—

A British submarine lay disabled on the ocean floor. After two days hope of raising her was abandoned. The crew on orders of the commanding officer began singing "Abide With Me."

The officer explained to the men that they did not have long to live. There was no hope of outside aid, he said, because the surface searchers did not know the vessel's position.

A sedative was distributed to the men to quiet their nerves. One sailor was affected more quickly than the others, and he swooned. He fell heavily against a piece of equipment and set in motion the submarine's jammed surfacing mechanism.

The submarine went to the surface and made port safely.

Press Association said it had learned of the incident from a letter written by one of the crewmen to a relative.

Official sources declined comment.

A Vichy Report

OTTAWA, July 25—(CP). — The Vichy radio, which is usually inaccurate on its reports of fighting in Russia, was overheard to-day broadcasting reports that Leningrad has been evacuated by the Russians.

The Vichy broadcast, as picked up by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation listening post at Ottawa, said Leningrad had been abandoned because of shortage of water.

Flames Consume German Stuka

A souvenir hunter apparently has taken the swastika emblem from the tail of this Stuka dive bomber, shown burning in the desert of North Africa. It was set afire by the British to destroy any spare parts that might be salvaged by the Nazis. The Nazis used large numbers of dive bombers in their recent drive into Egypt.

Claims Canucks More Than Match For Huns

By E. G. SMITH

OTTAWA, July 25.—Unless Russia falls there will not be another "Battle of Britain" due to the loss of so many experienced fighters; German air fighting morale is declining noticeably; Canadians are now fighting Allied air battles in all parts of the world; and 1,000-plane assaults on German cities will be resumed in ever-increasing numbers as soon as the nights begin to lengthen, Air Commodore W. A. Curtis, Deputy Air Officer-in-Chief of the R.C.A.F. overseas, home for brief conferences, told a press conference here yesterday.

Supremely confident of ultimate results on the basis of quantity and quality of air fighting equipment now reposing in the island fortress of Britain, and even more enthusiastic as to the fighting spirit of Canadian airmen who, he declared, are positively "unreasonable" in their demands to be hurled against the German air quadrons, Air Commodore Curtis told Canadian civilians, nevertheless, that until their spirit matches that of the overseas fighters this war cannot be won.

"Complacency is our biggest enemy," he declared, after outlining the demands of even the new Canadian air fighter arrivals for an immediate crack at the enemy.

"If we sit back here and think because the British Empire has never lost a big war and is not going to lose this one, that is our biggest handicap. We have got to the point where every person in Canada has to be prepared to die if by dying he can help win this war. Every one of these boys overseas would die. Until we get that over here we are going to drag out this war for years. Unless we get that spirit in civilian life we are going to run a big risk of having the Hun dictate to us.

Pound Hades Out of Them

"If the Battle of Britan were to be re-enacted now," he said, "we would be in a position with what we have over there now to pound Hades out of them. But it would not happen unless they were to beat Russia. Then they would be in a position to send their aircraft back to France."

Descriptive of declining German air-fighting morale, he said that frequently in Canadian raids over enemy territory German fighters would not come to the Canadians and fight; they would either remain far off or else not leave the ground at all.

He described the conferences of air fighters and commanding officers and experts which preceded the raids on enemy territory. The fighters assembled and were told where they were going, what the weather was over there, possibly of the presence of water at or near their target, and that it was easily discernible—or the contrary. The fighters are allowed to ask all the questions they like and even the youngest of them "pipe up" with questions.

No one doubts that he will come back all right. At daylight the C.O. and his aides will be at the airdrome to meet the returning squadrons.

Stories Brought Back

Then the airmen's conversations will be the easily imaginable post-adventure exciting declarations of what photographs they got, whether they met any enemy fighters, or whether the flak or the night fighters gave them the most trouble.

It used to take six weeks to plan a 1,000-plane raid, but organization work is now so much advanced that such raids can be launched with much shorter preparation. In the huge Cologne raid, the largest in history, 100 per cent of the ships were ready next day to go out again, except for the few missing and damaged.

Air Commodore Curtis, in answer to questions, expressed his conviction that Britain's planned huge air raids could constitute a decisive factor in this war. These raids, he said, not only accomplished the physical destruction of vast German war supplies and the factories which produced them, but broke the morale of the Germans at home.

"And the German," he said, "is all right as long as things are going fine for him. He will continue to strut his stuff as long as that is the situation, but get him down and he will whine. The general feeling is that the German cannot take the punishment the Britisher can."

Asked if there were visible indications, Curtis said, "Yes, the panic in Cologne. People were moving out against orders, by the thousands. And we followed up by dropping leaflets, telling them to move out to avoid the air raids because there were going to be more of them."

Raids On France Important

The air commodore explained the advantage to the United Nations of the continuing air raids over France, as those are holding many German planes off the Russian front, smashing communication systems, and tying up munitions production. British and Canadian fliers, he said, would shoot up the engines on the trains and leave the whole train tying up the track. There was something particularly appealing about a railway train to a flying fighter, and he just loved to shoot up the engine. He lauded the French-Canadian squadron overseas which had been engaged in numerous raids over Germany.

Canada had many fighter pilots in Malta, he said, others in Ceylon, and Canadian fighters had been among those fighting off the Japanese. A Canadian observers who had fought at Singapore was now an observer in Australia. And Canadians had been fighting in Russia. There were hundreds also in Egypt, including one R.C.A.F. fighter squadron.

He told of a Canadian plane crew which had been engaged in the raid on Bremen winding up finally in Gibraltar, after having been picked up in their rubber dinghy by a convoy.

TREASURER'S SALE OF LANDS FOR TAXES

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

TO WIT:

BY VIRTUE OF A WARRANT made under the hand of the Warden and Seal of the County of Peterborough and to me directed, bearing date the 8th Day of June, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-two I am commanded under the authority of the Statutes in that behalf to levy on the land hereinafter mentioned and described, for the arrears of taxes due thereon, with the costs as hereinafter directed by the said Act. Therefore I give notice that unless the said arrears and costs are sooner paid I will proceed to Sell by Public Auction at the Court House, in the City of Peterborough on the Sixth Day of October, 1942, at the hour of Ten o'clock (D.S.T.) in the Forenoon, the said Lands or so much thereof as may be necessary for the Taxes, and all lawful charges incurred in and about such Sales, and the collection of the Taxes.

A List of the Lands for Sale for Arrears of Taxes will be published in The Ontario Gazette on Saturday, July 4th, 1942. Copies of the List of Lands for Sale may be had in my Office.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

TO TALK ON KOREA

Dr. O. R. Avison of Toronto, father of Peterborough's acting medical officer of health, will be the speaker at Monday's meeting of the Peterborough Rotary Club. He will address the members on his experience during 42 years in Korea.

DETAILS ALMOST SETTLED

It is hoped that by the beginning of the week that the post office will be able to issue a list giving the new districts to be covered in the new one-mail-a-day delivery, and the time that the deliveries are to be made. Postmaster Charles Lacheur paid tribute to the citizens of Peterborough, saying that they had been really grand about the change and very patient about waiting to learn the details of the change.

COSMETICS PLENTIFUL

Cosmetic have still not felt the pinch of war restrictions to any painful extent. The general plan of most cosmetic houses seems to be that of discontinuing the two larger sizes of any product and continuing with their regular smaller sizes. In the case of lipstick and rouge, a few of the older shades, for which there was not too large a demand, have been discontinued. But there is definitely no shortage in the stores at the present time.

THIRTY THIS TIME

Since everything went along so smoothly at the Blood Donors' Clinic, Wednesday, when the first 15 donors gave their transfusions, the Red Cross expects to handle thirty at their Clinic, Monday morning. So far it has been found that everyone has been most willing and anxious to co-operate, and the different factories are doing their part splendidly, by keeping a list of their donors and when they are called, they pick out the required number of men so that the time off will not interfere with any of the important war work, by holding up production.

NEW UNIFORM

Girls of the C.W.A.C. in Peterborough blossomed out in their new biege tropical worsted summer uniforms on Friday. The pale shade with its dark brown trimmings looks exceedingly smart, and the girls certainly do not have to take a back seat from any in the other forces. Besides being exceedingly attractive in appearance, the uniforms are very cool.

C.C.F. DELEGATE

Percy Edwards was appointed delegate to the approaching federal convention of the party at a meeting of the local branch of the C.C.F. Friday night. Wm. Johnston presided. One of the speakers was Bruce Johnston of North Monaghan, where the Federation recently organized a branch and is already making membership gains.

HAVELOCK AIR CADETS

Douglas Boyd, secretary of the provincial command of the Air Cadet League, addressed a meeting in Havelock Thursday in support of the junior section of the R.C.A.F. The chairman of the local committee is E. J. Leeson and with him are Messrs. Lancaster, Mackenzie, Hubbel and Lade. Boys of the C.P.R. centre are now being enrolled in the new Havelock squadron, and public assistance is being sought to aid in placing the squadron on a sound basis.

ASSAULT CHARGE WITHDRAWN

A charge of assault laid by a woman guest at a summer cottage against her hostess was disposed of this morning, when Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C., stated that the complainant was willing to withdraw the charge if the accused would pay the costs. Hon. G. N. Gordon, who appeared for the accused, consented to the arrangement. He told Magistrate Gee that the complainant had been the guest of the other woman and that hot weather and other things had got on the nerves of the two women.

100 Boys Attend Vacation Club

The Vacation Club at the Y.M.C.A. has now over 100 members who are enjoying two weeks of all round good fun and training. Not all the activities are for fun alone, many of them are educational and presented in such a way as to absorb the youngsters full attention.

During the first week of the Club the boys visited the Filtration Plant and insupected the workings of the vast machinery, they inspected the J. J. Turner factory and the Curtis Brickyard, too. One of the most popular inspections of all was the visit made to CHEX and the Peterborough Examiner. The highlight of the Examiner tour was watching the linotype macihnes and receiving the metal slugs with their names on them. The fact that the names came out printed backwards, did not dampen their enthusiasm in the least.

Some of the more interesting details of next week's program are movies, a visit to Lech's Fur Store, the Peterborough Canoe Company, a play day at Nicholls Oval, and a visit from Mrs. H. Dunsford of the Canadian Flag Company, who will give an exhibition and explain how they go about manufacturing flags. These are only a few of the things planned for the kiddies' enjoyment.

Splendid weather has helped the club members enjoy their holidays to the utmost and each new "adventure" is hailed with boisterous enthusiasm. Not one of the boys would even consider missing a day's activities, Quirt McKinney, one of the leaders, aside.

Big Mill Burns

BELLE RIVER, P.E.I., July 25.—(CP)—Compton's Lumber Mill at this village 40 miles from Charlottetown was destroyed by fire early today and damage was estimated at $25,000. The Charlottetown fire department's big motor pumper answered a call for assistance but arrived too late to save the mill. Bucket brigades prevented the flames from spreading to nearby houses.

Sewing Cabinet And C.G.E. Help War Fund

About six weeks ago, Herbert Jackson, R.R. No. 2, Omemee, brought a sewing cabinet to the desk of the secretary for the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, in the Examiner Office, and offered it as a means of raising funds to help the victims of air raids over Britain. The cabinet was his own work and displayed a workmanship equal to the best of this class of work. It was finished in oak, and had all the appertenances necessary to make it complete even to the screw nails for fastening it on the wall.

Then in order to further enhance its value, and add to its beauty, Mr. Cunningham, manager of Woolworth's store, donated fourteen spools of silk thread to fill every place available for them.

A Draw for this was then undertaken by the Industrial Service department of the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. by the sale of tickets at 5 cents each or six for 25 cents, with congenial Mary Armstrong, smiling brunette member of that office staff in special charge for the occasion.

In today's list of receipts for the fund, there appears part of the proceeds from this amounting to $20.65, with the balance to follow in short order. The draw was made by the secretary for the fund, and resulted in ticket No. 358 being the winner, which was held by Miss I. Wilson of the Meter department, who no doubt will find it very useful, and certainly more so than should a fellow like Bob Cotton, for instance have won it, for they do tell that he had some tickets on it. Anyway, this combination of Messrs. Jackson, Cunningham and workers from the C.G.E. Co. Ltd. has proved a most happy one in raising funds to help the people of Britain, who as reports succeed each other day after day, continue to require all the help we can give, with such places as Hull, Oxford and Bedford being the latest on the list of places attacked. One personal donation from Mrs. W. H. Ashby is listed, and the penny box at Loblaw's store added another $2.30 to its previous good record.

Thos. W. Stephens Is Buried Friday

CAMPBELLFORD, July 25.—Funeral services for Thomas Worden Stephens, one of this town's pioneer residents, were held from his late home on Stirling Road Saturday afternoon. The late Mr. Stephens was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Stephens and was born here 87 years ago. He spent practically his entire life in this vicinity and for many years was regarded as a prominent highly respected dairy farmer. In politics he was a staunch Conservative and his religious affiliations were with the Methodist and subsequently the United church. Predeceased by his wife, the former Stella Isaac, 42 years ago, Mr. Stephens is survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. J. Armour (Mary) of Niagara Falls, Ontario and Miss Mabel Stephens at home and one son, Arthur B. Stephens of Seymour. One brother, Henry Stephens and one sister, Mrs. Walter Fraser both of Campbellford and four grandchildren, Marjorie and Doris Armour of Niagara Falls and Clayton and Douglas Stephens of Seymour township, also survive.

Mr. Stephens who had been in failing health for the past three years, passed away at his home on Thursday and the funeral service was conducted there by Rev. J. O. Ralston at three o'clock Saturday afternoon. Interment was made at Mount Pleasant cemetery. The bearers were six nephews of the deceased, Messrs. Bert, Ross, Willis and Harry Stephens, John Brown and George Brown. The flower bearers were Messrs. Douglas, Arden and Ronald Haig, Austin, Lawrence, Dugald and Clayton Stephens.

Double Salvo

MIDLAND, Tex., July 25.—(CP)—Bombsight Bessie, mascot at the Bombardier College here, is a mongrel with one eye encircled by black, greatly resembling the imprint of the super, secret bombsight on the Bombardier's eye. She has whelped a male pup with two bombsight eyes. The pup is named Double Salvo.

A New Carrier

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., July 25.—(AP)—Implementing the growing emphasis on air power, the navy will launch the U.S.S. Essex—first aircraft carrier built since the United States entered the war—at the Newport News shipbuilding and dry dock company plant next Friday. Mrs. Artemus L. Gates, wife of the asistant secretary of the navy for air, will christen the Essex.

Kiwanians To Send Three To Bigwin Inn

A rousing impromptu program of songs and recitations caused a lot of fun at the Kiwanis meeting on Friday, when there was no speaker. Vince McCabe contributed songs, Charlie Saunders recalled recitations that he hadn't given for 25 years, and Stan Northrop gave a musical medley of old songs at the piano.

It was decided to send three delegates to the convention at Bigwin Inn on September 6, 7, 8 and President Gordon Miller, Dick Raine, and Vince McCabe were appointed. As alternate delegates, Laurie Mitchell Bill Richardson, and Dennis Fitzgerald were appointed. They will be sent at the club's expense.

Since it was an open meeting, a number of business topics were under discussion, and several matters were left with the committees for investigation.

Police Secure Description Of Death Car

The police have a good description of the death car which figured in the killing of Garrett Allen on the Lakefield Road, Thursday night, Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure said today.

"We are hoping to clear the case up before long," the officer added. "An eye-witness has come forward who gave us a helpful description of the northbound car which undoubtedly struck Allen's bicycle. We know that there were at least three people in the automobile which was an old model machine. It stopped momentarily after the accident.

This information was supplied by a local man who was driving his car south and who said that the collision ocurred just as his automobile and the northbound vehicle were passing. He told the police that he heard a click as the two cars passed and pulled his car to a stop. He noticed that the northbound automobile also stopped and then went on. The southbound driver started to drive to town, he said, and then his curiosity got the better of him and he turned around and drove back to see what had happened. By that time Provincial Constable McClure was at the scene of the accident.

Wheat Is Yielding 50 Bus. To Acre

Now that the hay crop has been attended to, most of it the load count reported from this district has varied all the way from 75 to 190.

Even a city man who has no idea of what an average field of hay should be, at least appreciates that 190-load job. Tossing hay on to 190 of those big farm wagons is a task that needs no embellishment. You can visualize it quite readily. Barns are full of the grasses, and where the crop was extra heavy, up in the 190-load brackets, farmers have just had to stack the stuff around the place somewhere.

From Mather's Corners comes the news to-day that Dave McIntyre is threshing wheat, and that operations will be fairly general next week. Gordon Hancock has estimated his wheat at around 50 bushels to the acre and the farm graduates around the office affirm that a 50-acre crop rates a high place in the records.

Shipping Parley

LONDON, July 25.—(CP)—Lewis Douglas, United States deputy war shipping administrator, arrived in London last night "to discuss shipping matters with British officials," the United States Embassy announced today. Douglas was accompanied by Richard Bissell, economist attached to the war shipping administration.

Killed In India

NEW DELHI, India, July 24.—(Delayed)—(CP)—Capt. Howard M. Lammers, United States naval liaison officer at Colombo, Ceylon, was killed today in the crash of an R.A.F. plane. The plane struck a hill upon flying out of a cloud formation. Capt. Lammers was about 48. He had served in Colombo 18 months.

Richard Graham Of Lakefield Beef Controller

Richard H. Graham of Lakefield has been home for a few days before reporting in Ottawa for a hot spot in the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, virtually beef controller.

Mr. Graham is widely known in this district not only from his family associations and residence, but also in his visits as a member of the Ontario Department of Agriculture's Live Stock Branch. He has been appointed secretary of the Canadian Food Corporation, a Federal Government subsidiary for purposes of control.

In fact, he was pressed into the Federal service, more or less commandeered from the Hepburn Government's department to help Hon. Gordon Taggart who is Canada's Food Controller. Mr. Graham accepted the job in the spirit of trying to contribute the best of his effort in a position which has been exceedingly trying and vexatious to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, as well as to the general public and the meat dealers. He is taking off at the week-end to be in Ottawa ready to go to work on Monday morning.

Farmer Praises Helper From The City

As a 'harvest commando' Bert Rupert, employee of the Utilities Commission is mentioned in week-end agricultural despatches. And the mentioning is gratefully sounded forth by Harry Jackson, well-known farmer in the Omemee area.

Mr. Jackson was the first farmer in the district to accept one of the little band of haytime helpers recruited here in the city. In fact he was a little dubious about it when F. C. Paterson recommended Mr. Rupert in the sense of at least taking a chance on the stranger from the city.

"Mr. Jackson telephoned me last night," Mr. Paterson told the Examiner today, "and he said he really wanted to let Mr. Rupert's employers in Peterborough know that he had done a fine job for nearly three weeks. He was so satisfied with Bert Rupert that he wanted to say something about it, and also to express the conviction that if the city could provide a few score men like Rupert there wouldn't be any more cause of worry about getting in the harvest. Mr. Jackson was happy to have a man like Bert Rupert around the place and on the job in this emergency, and I am just passing on his appreciation."

Ralph Ingersoll Joins U.S. Army

NEW YORK, July 25—(AP).—Ralph Ingersoll, editor of the newspaper PM, whose 1-A classification in the draft was appealed recently by Publisher Marshall Field, yesterday volunteered for United States Army service.

Major Corlo A. Pivirotto, recruiting officer, said Ingersoll appeared at headquarters, made out his enlistment papers, and went with a group of volunteers to Governors Island.

Ingersoll, 41, was continued in 1-A after a re-hearing by his local board. His case was referred to an appeals board.

After taking his physical examination at Governors Island, Ingersoll was allowed to return to his home, and will report back to army headquarters for instruction when to report for induction.

It was learned at selective service headquarters that Ingersoll submitted to his local board a form requesting immediate classification and waiving "all rights of ntice, personal appearance and appeal." This waiver is required of all registrants who plan to enlist rather than to volunteer under selective service.

Canadians Are Living In a 'Fool's Paradise' Premier Mitchell Hepburn Tells Conference

TORONTO, July 25.—Canadians are living in a "fool's paradise," according to Premier Hepburn, who sketched a very pessimistic picture of the war situation during a short press conference yesterday. He predicted that the next major move on the part of Japan will be an attack on Dutch Harbor in the Aleutian Islands and that from bases there the Japs would be able to stage long-distance bombing attacks on Canadian and American cities on the Pacific coast as well as for a considerable distance inland.

"Of course I am a pessimist," admitted the Premier, "but I say that we are living in a fool's paradise. It is only absolute fear that will awaken the people to a realization of what they must face in the near future. The situation in Canada at present is the same as existed in France in 1940, when the people did not awaken to the danger until the Germans had crossed the Meuse."

He expressed fear that the desperate situation of the Russian army might lead to untold difficulties for the British in the Mediterranean. He also pointed out that the long and hazardous route around the Cape of Good Hope for British supplies presents an almost insurmountable problem and might easily result in the Nazi subjugation of the entire Mediterranean area, the occupation of the whole of France and possession of the French fleet.

"The combined navies of Germany, Italy and France, scattered from Gibraltar to Norway, would increase almost beyond endurance the situation in Britain which is so dependent on shipping for vital supplies. This picture, along with the threat from the Japanese on the West coast, would make any reasoning man pessimistic. Don't let it be said that 'it can't happen here.' My fear is that it is going to happen here."

Durham Survey To Aid Plan Of Rehabilitation

OTTAWA, July 25.—Arrangements have been agreed upon by the Honorable Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Pensions and National Health, for the Dominion Government, and the Honorable N. O. Hipel, Minister of Lands and Forests for the Ontario Government, to make a sample survey of some area in Ontario in order to learn how many returned men may be employed during their rehabilitation period in healthful, useful outdoor work and at the same time ascertain what the conservation efforts of the men and the restoration of the countryside will mean to the community and the state. This unique rehabilitation plan is a new idea promising of the many projects now under consideration for the benefit of soldiers released from the armed forces during the war and in the months or years immediately following the cessation of hostilities.

Fundamentally, it is a rehabilitation program. Thousands of men have been released from the armed forces already and as the war progresses the men will be returned to civilian life in ever-increasing numbers. Some of course, may go back directly to their old trades and professions; but the vast majority will have to find themselves anew and be fitted into a life and society for which they are quite untrained. Others, because of war experiences, will require a period of outdoor employment during which time their health, physical or mental, may be so restored that they are able again to pursue their previous civilian occupation or fit themselves for new ones.

After the war is over a million men—perhaps two million people—will be obliged to change abruptly from the armed forces or from war jobs to the ordinary routine of civilian life. In the readjustment period there will be unemployment, and public opinion will be dangerously hostile to any program similar to that pursued during the depression years when men were paid to do nothing. There is plenty of work of a constructive nature that can be done with benefit to the state, if we will only look ahead and plan, for it.

So just as a beginning, the Ontario Government is co-operating with the Rehabilitation and Reconstruction Committee at Ottawa to make a sample survey of a suitable area in Ontario to determine how many men can be employed, what tasks are involved in the restoration of a countryside, how much it will cost and what will be the benefit to the community and the state. It is probable that the area drained by he Ganaraska River and its tributaries will be chosen for the initial study. The Ganarska River empties into Lake Ontario through the town of Port Hope and drains approximately 75,000 acres lying largely in the townships of Clark and Hope in Durham County. The upper reaches of this stretch of country drained by the Ganaraska embrace considerable areas of light land upon which a profitable agriculture can no longer be conducted. It has been seriously deforested. Wind and water erosion are continuing the destruction and added to this are flood damages to bridges, roads and especially to the town of Port Hope. The town has suffered on several occasions from very serious floods which cause a periodic loss to this urban municipality of fifty to a hundred thousand dollars.

A considerable portion of the upper part of the Ganaraska watershed is now unfit for successful agriculture and also contains many areas of already idle land suitable for forestry. There are also limited areas of woodland which, if improved and extended, would help to safeguard the head waters of tributary streams. Erosion is rampant in many places, and the control of this alone would furnish much employment in a reconstruction program. These main factors and others of less importance can well be combined in a complete conservation study. Since the Ganaraska watershed presents these possibilities within a comparatively small area, easy of access and centrally located, it is an ideal location for the initial study.

First Kindergarten Teacher Passes

Residents of Peterborough who attended the old kindergarten in the Central School will regret to learn of the death in Toronto on Thursday of Minnie Ross Warner, former kindergarten teacher, who passed away in her 85th year.

Miss Warner taught the first kindergarten class ever established in Peterborough over 50 years ago and was in charge of the class at the Central School for many years, during which time many well-known citizens were her pupils. She was a greatly beloved teacher for a long period, and her death snaps a link with earlier days of Peterborough educational system.

Double Feature Done?

CHICAGO, July 25.—(AP)—Samuel Goldwyn, the Hollywood producer, forsees an early death for double-feature movie bills. He said twin bills have been taking too much of the time that should be devoted to films that would tell the public how the can best help the government carry on the war to a successful conclusion.

War—25 Years Ago

(By The Canadian Press)

JULY 25, 1917.—Russian attack in the Southern Carpathians scored a minor success retreat in north continued. Allied conference met in Paris to discuss Balkan situation. Germans in full retreat in German East Africa.

JULY 26, 1917.—Officers adopted strong measures to halt Russian retreat in Galicia. Allied troops withdrew from Thessaly, Epirus and Old Greece. French stopped German attack on Chemin des Dames.

Artillerymen Win Handily From Rangers

CONNAUGHT RANGES, July 25 (Special)—Intensive training is rapidly rounding 70 officers and other ranks of the 4th (R) Field Battery R.C.A. into fit condition at Connaught Ranges. The Battery, under Capt. W. H. Ackhurst, is training in conjunction with Lindsay and Cobourg units of the 43rd Regiment, Lt.-Col. D. J. Lawrie being commanding officer. The men are bronzed under a hot sun, but sleep sound through the chilly nights. Sick parades have been few and ailments of a minor nature.

The long-awaited challenge softball game between the Prince of Wales Rangers and the Battery was played Thursday evening in the gun park, and the Artillerymen won handily by a 13-4 score. Good hurling by Red Hunter and neat fielding held down the Rangers as the Battery boys pounded the pill in timely manner. The winners lineup included George Dormer, Widdie Thirnbeck, Archie Weir, Bill Brady, Roy Taylor, Frank DeForge, Gord McIntyre and Gord Webb. The Rangers were: Hogan, Buster Whitton, Michaud, Huggins, Hall, Wood, Mathews, Les Calladine and Gillespie, the latter pitching. Frank Jopling umpired. A return game is planned.

14 Men Apply To Join Army

Fourteen men applied at the Armouries Recruiting Office, Friday, for enlistment with the Active Service forces. There have been a few applications for veteran service to date, and an officer and a sergeant of the Veterans Guard will arrive Monday morning to open a special campaign in this district, such as will be held across Canada in next two weeks. A number of veterans units in Canada have been sent to Jamaica and other fields recently and others are needed as soon as possible. The Government is releasing the men in B category who have been guarding prisoners in Canada, and replacing them with men in C category.

The Area Recruiting Officer in this district, Lieut. G. P. Brook, is appearing in Lindsay tonight to help along the recruiting campaign for active service. He will be in Curve Lake, Monday night; Fenelon Falls, Tuesday night and probably Bowmanville on Wednesday. It is hoped that this personal touch will add even a larger number to the recruits who are reporting every day.

Wife Fills In

OMAHA, July 25—(AP).—When Sgt.-Maj. James W. Kintzelman was transferred to combat duty from Fort Omaha the army didn't have to look far for his successor. Mrs. Kintzelman got the job. She won a recommendation on the basis of a high grade in a civil service examination and her background of six years as manager of the post exchange. She will be chief clerk in charge of headquarters personnel and administration.

10,000 Cattle Required To Feed Forces

The men of Canada's armed forces are consuming 10,000 cattle every week, William Watson of the livestock branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto, informed the annual meeting of Victoria County Crop Improvement Association at Windsweep Farm, Sturgeon Lake, Thursday afternoon.

The demand for the men in the military service of the nation is now in excess of 500,000 cattle a year, and that number is more than half the total cattle killed annually in Canada. Mr. Watson's statement indicated one of the major causes of the meat scarcity, and also suggested that civilians are going to miss many a grilled steak for the simple reason that the men in uniform have an absolute priority.

Gordon McRostie of the field husbandry department of the O.A.C. urged farmers to give special attention to soil fertility as essential to greater production, and also declared that farmers should assume as a war job the multiplication of lambs and sheep. Canada uses about 6,000,000 pounds or wool more than she produces, a basic condition in this phase of wartime economy that calls for the keeping of ewe lambs and the response of farmers by more of them setting up flocks.

Local farmers were all too busy to attend the Victoria meeting, but Peterborough was represented by James Turnbull and Gordon Marshall of Canada Packers and Frank C. Paterson.

Women's Division of the R.C.A.F. Frees Men for More Active War Roles

Call it reveille or call it 0630 hours, air force time, it's still 6.30 a.m.; and that's when an airwoman's day begins. Because the night has seemed so short she checks with her clock—a formality. But there's much to be done—time to be stirring.

"Rise and shine" is no myth for the air force girl. She showers, dresses, makes her bed—then polishes buttons and badges on uniform to be ready for morning parade.

Breakfast is substantial at air force stations, where the day's work starts early. Cereal, toast with bacon and eggs sends this girl off to a good start. New rations add fruit juice and more milk to the menus, served in cafeteria style in the mess.

At her desk, this airwoman is taking the place of an airman. In doing so, she is fulfilling the purpose of the woman's Division by releasing manpower for action.

Women in air force blue. They march along proudly, knowing that they are doing a very real job in the big struggle to overthrow our enemies. Although our story primarily concerns one woman, it speaks also for the thousands of others who are serving their country well by releasing men to handle the guns.

Regulation oxfords take to the dance floor as gaily as silver slippers when working hours end. There's also pride in wearing a uniform matching your date's.

Women in Uniform

Life in uniform is one of the many new things this war has brought to women of Canada. To those who wear the blue of the Royal Canadian Air Force (Women's Division) it means taking over work formerly done by ground staff of the R.C.A.F. — in offices, in hospitals, in kitchens and hangars and at the wheel of transport vehicles at air force stations throughout the country. Starting with nine types of work—or "trades", the list has now expanded to include twenty-seven, and the Division's usefulness to the service is growing accordingly.

Airwomen don't fly. Their job is strictly "ground stuff". But turn the conversation skyward and you will always find that she's a very good listener.

On Active Service

As air force personnel, airwomen live on stations, in special barrack blocks, with recreation rooms set aside for their exclusive use, their own hospital accommodation, and tables reserved for them in mess halls. They have fitted into this new routine smoothly and quickly; are enthusiastic and efficient where their work is concerned. This is their life in the service—on active duty "for the duration". But, as the pictures show—the feminine touch persists.

Hark! Hark! The dogs do bark. Station life takes lots of footwork. The miles mount, walking from barracks to mess hall to office. Still, marching is popular.

This is a PM or "show-me-to-bed" yawn — healthy sign of a busy day. Those feet weren't complaining about nothing, for this airwoman really gets around. That is life in the service. The ritual of unrolling the sheets and blankets to make up the bunk is one of the most welcome chores of the day.

It's 11.12 to you, but 2312 hours Air Force time. Only twenty minutes to chat with the girl in the "upper". Early nights come easy to girls who rise at 6.30 A.M.

Bride-Elect Entertained

PORT HOPE, July 25—(ENS). — Miss Adelaide Smith was much entertained prior to her wedding to Mr. Carson Childerhose, which takes place today. Mrs. Fred Lang entertained at a miscellaneous shower, at which over 40 of Miss Smith's friends were present. A bathroom shower was given at the home of Mrs. Melville Roach and Miss Smith received many lovely gifts. From the girls with whom she worked Miss Smith received a lovely lamp and a bathroom laundry basket.

Women's Auxiliary Air Force Takes Over Airdome Defence For R.A.F.

Under the new principles of the Royal Air Force in relieving as many men as possible for airdrome defence duties, R.A.F. regiment training and positions at action stations, there has been a tremendous intake of members of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force who are being drafted to all parts of the country to undertake work hitherto done by men. A section of the R.A.F. in which their capabilities have been found exceedingly useful and for which the gifts are particularly suitable is the manning of thousands of balloon sites throughout the country. Some of these sites are situated in lonely outposts and are under the complete control of the W.A.A.F., no male advice or labor being available. All the extreme difficulties of operating a balloon site in the roughest weather are handled by the girls themselves; even to the splicing of steel cables should the need arise. In order that these girl balloon operators shall be thoroughly experienced and efficient in this important and vital work, a balloon college at which they receive training in all its branches has been established.

Theatre Highlights In Manhattan

By DON GILBERT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, July 25—(CP). — "The Merry Widow" and its ageless melodies, relics of a less hurried world, have gained new popularity amidst the nervous tension of world conflict.

Following the wartime trend toward escapist entertainment, nostalgic theatregoers are crowding the staid precincts of Carnegie Hall for this second number in a series of revivals of famous operettas.

With the regular theatre suffering hot weather lethargy, upwards of 100,000 customers flocked to see the first of the revivals, "The Chocolate Soldier," in its three-week engagement, and box-office returns this week indicate Franz Lehard's "Merry Widow" will outdraw its predecessor.

"The Widow," first produced 35 years ago, has been modernized in some respects, but it is the old songs, sung in the old way, that draw the applause. These include favorites such as "The Merry Widow Waltz," "The Girls at Maxim's," "A Dutiful Wife," "Vilia," and "Love In My Heart."

A controversy is brewing in theatrical circles over the rights to the late Karel Capeks play, "R.U.R." This is the Czech playright's best-known work, credited with coining the word "Robot." The piece was produced in Montreal ten years ago by the Montreal Repertory Theatre.

Plans for a Manhattan production of the drama this Autumn, announced by L. Daniel Blank and David Silberman, have brought from the Theatre Guild, which once put the play on, a statement that it still owns production rights.

When Capek died four years ago he bequeathed the play to the Czecho-Slovak Government, and Blank and Silberman say they acquired right to it after negotiations with Czech authorities in London. However the Guild maintains it renewed its rights only last Autumn in an agreement with Paul Selver, translater of the play into English.

Rowe-McKeown Nuptials Solemnized At Bonarlaw

BONARLAW July 25.—(ENS).— St. Marks Anglican church, Bonarlaw was the scene of a pretty wedding when Marjorie McKeown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. McKeown of Bonarlaw, was united in marriage to Russel Rowe, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rowe of Campbellford.

Canon W. G. Swayne of Maitland, officitaed.

The church was beautifully decorated with white hydrangea and pink snapdragons.

The bride was lovely in a street length frock of blue printed silk with a sheer wool crepe redingote of heavenly blue. She wore a large picture hat of white lace, straw and a corsage of briarcliffe roses, cornflowers and baby breath. She was attended by Miss Gwen Lydford, of North Bay, as maid of honor, dressed in a street length jacket frock of beige silk with navy accessories and a corsage of Queen Elizabeth roses, cornflowers and achilia.

After the ceremony and a small reception at the home of the bride's parents, the young couple left on a wedding trip to Western Ontario.

For travelling the bride chose a costume of navy and white figured crepe with a short red jacket and white accessories.

Guests from a distance included Canon W. G. Swayne, Mrs. Swayne and Robert Swayne of Maitland; Miss Elva Maitland of Pembroke and Jack Smith R.C.A.F., of Windsor.

HARD-PLAYING COLLEGE LAD MEETS GIRL OF HIS DREAM

Spoiled by Conquests Boy Doubts Sincerity of Girl's Self-Respect

Dear Miss Dix.—I am a young man and a college student. Up to the present I have been in the habit of taking girls out and having a GOOD time with them, but not a very respectable one. These girls never meant much to me and I didn't care if they had the same kind of good times with anyone else.

Now I have met a girl for whom I have fallen hard and I don't want to treat her as I did the other girls. I treat her with reverence and respect. She appears to be a very clean cut girl, but I wonder is she is as good as she seems? Would she stand for familiarities from me, as the other girls did? Does she pet with other men? Naturally I hope not, but I just can't seem to trust any girl. When I am not with her, I keep thinking that she is probably out with other men acting in a way I hate to think of, else why is she so popular with boys? What do you think?

—A Reader.

Answer.—With your experience of girls you should be able to judge whether the young lady's aloofness is a pose or innate self-respect and dignity and, at any rate, you might give her the benefit of the doubt until she does something that shows she is putting on an act. I am inclined to believe that she is that rara avis nowadays—a young woman who values herself so highly that she is not ready to sell herself for a trip to the movies or a hamburger at a hot dog stand.

The great number of girls are so convinced that the only way that they can have any dates is by being all things to all men that they do not bother to make a pretense of an modesty or reserve. They throw themselves at every boy's head. They let every Tom, Dick and Harry kiss them and maul them. They pick up men on the street and keep blind dates. And men do not even have to guess about their morals.

Hence when a man meets a girl whose attitude commands his respect and makes him feel that he had better watch his step when he is with her, it is pretty good evidence that she does not belong to the free and easy sisterhood.

Reflect On The Past

But doesn't it make you feel a good deal like a heel when you reflect how many girls you have sped on the downward path ,and now you want the one you love to be immaculate and, like Caesar's wife, above reproach? You can't endure to think that her lips have been free to every boy who came along; that she has been on dozens of petting parties with other lads, and that should you marry her other men would snicker at the wedding and say "our" wife.

You have ruthlessly trampled many flowers in the dust, but you want the blossom you pluck to be white and untouched.

Play When You're Young

Dear Miss Dix.—When a man and woman marry when they are too young ,do they regret the good times they might have had if they had stayed single longer? When a man and woman miss the playtime of life by making an early marriage, are they apt to take it afterwards? When a married man or woman wants to flirt, does it show that he or she does not love his or her mate as he or she should?—Wondering.

◇ ◇ ◇

Answer.—When a man and woman marry when they are too young, they almost always regret the good times they missed. There are only a few years in our whole lifetime when we can enjoy things wholeheartedly and without any carping care to spoil our pleasure. It is only when we are very young that our feet never tire in the dance and the music never drops from the song; when every girl is a beauty and every boy a prince, and adventure always beckons us on.

No Rolls Royce is ever as wonderful to us as our first tin lizzie. No other romance ever has the thrill that our first love affair had. No other success is ever so sweet to us as our first job.

Weighed Down With Responsibility.

When boys and girls marry they miss all of this because they take upon themselves the responsibilities of life too early. They are worrying over how they are going to meet their bills when they should be buying fun with their money. They are walking the baby with the colic when they should be dancing. And as long as they live they look back with nostalgia to the pleasures of you they never had.

I get thousands of letters from disgruntled husbands and wives and they nearly alwas begin by saying: I married too early. I never had an playtime." And it is when they try, at middle age, to take this playtime that they missed in youth that they get into scandals that fill the newspapers.

When married people flirt it generally means they are trying to show themselves that they have not lost their attraction to the opposite sex, but it is also a sure indication that they are bored with the present encumbent of their hearths and home.

Twelve eYars Old and In Love

Dear Dorothy Dix.—I am a girl twelve years old. Large for my age. I am hopelessy in love with a reckless, carefree, no-good boy. He seems almost inhuman sometimes. He is constantly making fun of me and telling lies on me to his friends at school. He mocks me and laughs at me and I can't imagine why, as I am popular with others.

If you are like most people, Miss Dix, you will say that I am silly and what I feel is just puppy love, and that I will get over it. I don't think I will ever get over it, as I have loved him for a very long time now. Please try to understand my feelings, as I will heed your advice and base my future on it.—A Heartsick Girl.

Answer.—Twelve years old, and suffering from heartache and frustration and being in love with the wrong boy, and all the other troubles that break the hearts of women! Read it and weep. There is time enough to take on those griefs when one is adult and life dumps them in one's lap. They are not for a girl child to bother with.

I do not know what to say to a kid of twelve who thinks she is in love except to tell her to forget it, and that at her age she is the victim of her own imagination and incapable of knowing what real love is. Ten years from now she will laugh at her precocious romance and wonder how she could ever have been so silly.

In the meantime I would suggest to her that a good cure for her puppy love is to apply a little common sense to the situation, and ask herself what she finds so admirable in a no-good boy who seems, from her own account, to be nothing but a bounder and a bully. That should bring her temperature down to normal. Then if she can summon enough pride to resent his insults and his ridiculing her and making her cheap before his schoolmates, she will free herself from her obsession and be able to enjoy life.

Air Force Cook Devises Recipe For Happiness

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

AYLMER Ont., July 25—(CP).— Sergt. F. Mitchell is one of the happiest buddies in the Royal Canadian Air Force, which is probably why he wants to make every airman and airwoman at the Aylmer Service Flying Training School happy, too. And the big, smiling sergeant-cook has a recipe for happiness.

"Keep the boys and girls well fed," is his motto.

Sgt. Mitchell reigns—and reigns is the only word for it—in the kitchen nere, and gradually his helper subjects are being changed from men to women. That suits him fine.

"The lassies do a good job," said the man from Brussels Ont. The Aylmer kitchen has a lot of things most R.C.A.F. station kitchens haven't, thanks to the sergeant. For instance, instead of long tables, the airmen and airwomen eat at little tables. It's chummier, says the boss.

A trio of cooks, eating their dinner before the mob arrived, seemed to be enjoying themselves. They were Airwoman Edith Binstead of Toronto who had just whipped up several pans of bread pudding for dessert, AW Frances Owen of Stratford, England, who enlisted in Toronto, and AW Eileen Robinson, also of Toronto, who left her own meal to serve up soup to some airmen who trailed in early.

From the cooks' plates it looked as if the noonday dinner should be all right. The girls were tucking into creamy mashed potatoes, baked ham and green peas. They were all drinking milk, and that's another of the sergeant's edicts.

"I see that everyone on the station gets all the milk he wants to use," he said. "We have about 1,100 people here and we use 1,400 pounds of milk a day—more than a pint per person."

Looks After Vitamins.

Fruit juice is another thing that he favors and prepared cereals, too, instead of heavy porridge. He's a great believer in the benefits of the salads, so the airmen and airwomen get all they want.

His daily shopping list would make most housewives swoon: 875 pounds of beef, 450 pounds of bread, 125 pounds of sugar, 166 dozen eggs, 125 pounds of raisins 875 pounds of potatoes, 450 pounds of other vegetables, 125 pounds of butter, 98 pounds of flour, 312 pounds of apples, 124 pounds of jam, 100 pounds of cereal and 124 pounds of prunes.

Five days a week Aylmer eats beef in roast, stew, grilled steaks, croquettes, meat pie, hamburgers, sausages, shepherd's pie or hot beef sandwiches. On one day they eat pork and on the other day fish.

It's no simple job to get this food ready, the sergeant admitted. All meat has to be cut up and the bones removed before cooking. Then the bones are boiled down for stock for soup and gravy. Potatoes, carrots and other vegetables are first cleaned in a peeling machine, and the eyes and blemishes removed by hand. Onions are peeled by hand.

"It all keeps me and my lassies pretty busy," said Sgt. Mitchell. "But we don't mind, as long as we keep the others happy."

Plazas Smother Juveniles To Extend Lead

Hitting hard and playing snappy ball in the field, the league-leading Plazas increased their margin to a full game by defeating Juveniles in a City League fixture at Riverside Park, Friday night, 14 runs to 4. It was the last league game of the season for the losers. Plazas complete their schedule next Wednesday night when they meet Soldiers in a game set apart as a navy benefit.

The hockey squad settled last night's argument by driving home seven runs in the first two innings, and after that it was just a case of shooting the string. Plazas used fourteen players, including Curley Scriver and Joe Jones from Hastings, and played fine ball defensively. Don Crowe went far into right field to make a couple of beautiful catches of high flies, Art Heal grabbed a liner in spectacular style for an unassisted double play, and Scriver, who played at both short and third, engineered another neat twin killing.

For Juveniles the feature play was a left-handed grab of a sizzling liner by Reg. Leether, robbing Johnny Godfrey of a hit. Bill Greatrix roamed all over left field to snare eight flies in a nice exhibition of outfielding.

Plazas collected 16 hits, including hard-hit homers by Julian Wade and Don Crowe, off the delivery of Bill Jones and Tim Jones, who divided the pitching duties for the Juveniles. Dave Wilson pitched the first four innings for Plazas and held the youngsters to two hits. Tom Parsons finished the game. Fred Garvey led the Juvenile hitters with a triple and two singles. Web Starr had three for three, including a double, for the winners.

Plazas got away to a flying start by scoring three in the first on a pass to Joe Jones, two errors, Wade's hard hit double and a single by Wib Star.

Juveniles got one back when Fred Garvey, second man up in the last of the first, tripled over Julian Wade's head and scored while Wilson was throwing out Batley.

That was all the scoring until the sixth when Plazas got one on an error, two wild pitches and an infield out. Juveniles got it back in their half. Leether singled to right and went round to third when Vitarelli let the roller get through. Tim Jones was retired by a fine catch by Crowe. Greatrix was thrown out by Crowe, Leether scoring. Detlor singled to left and Carpenter walked, but Heal made a great play on Gray's hard hit roller near second to retire the side.

Plazas had another big inning in the seventh with Tim Jones pitching. Scriver doubled to centre and scored on Vitarelli's single past third. Vitarelli advanced on a wild pitch and scored on Parsons' single through short. Kingdon walked. Crowe moved the pair up with a bunt and Starr singled to left to score them.

Two more Plaza runs come over in the eighth when Kingdon singled and ran home in front of Crowe when the second baseman hit a line home run to deep right field.

Juveniles wound up the scoring with two in the ninth. Garvey got a life on Scriver's muff of his high fly. He advanced on a wild pitch and scored on T. Jones' single to centre. Leether rolled to Ellis, and when the throw to second got away Jones scored. W. Jones also rolled to Ellis and Greatrix flied to Vitarelli to end the game.

Argos Stack Up 23-Point Lead; Dubois On Test

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., July 25.—(CP).—Theo Dubois, formerly of Winnipeg, but now an Ottawa munitions worker, to-day will defend his Dominion championship singles sculls title on the old Welland canal here as the 1942 edition of the Royal Canadian Henley winds up its three day program.

At the same time, Buffalo Westsides, defending aggregate champions, will be seeking to overhaul a long point lead established by Toronto Argonauts yesterday and Thursday, first two days of the current meet—Henley's 60th. And, of the two Dubois appears to have the better chance of retaining his title.

Pitted against the defending title-holder will be, among others, Chuk Kain of the Fairmount Boat Club of Philadelphia, who qualified for to-day's titular event by winning the Association singles title. Toronto Argos will send two to the starting line, J. Miller and H. Russel, while St. Catharines will be represented by Harvey Hutcheon. It was uncertain early to-day what other United States entrants would start.

Joe Angyal of Brooklyn, N.Y., who finished second to the 31 year old French Canadian last year, will not be here for to-day's event and Dubois has beaten most of the others previously.

Ecorse Runs Second.

In the first two days of the current meet, Argonauts established a point-total of 39, compared with 16 for the second-place Ecorse, Mich., outfit and 13 for the defending champions, Westsides. With entries in all of to-day's senior events, junior events having been practically disposed of yesterday and Thursday, Westsides will take a hard crack at Argos' commanding point-lead but it appeared as if they had little chance of overcoming the Toronto advantage and retaining their aggregate championship.

Another feature to-day will be the senior eights in which the Buffalo sweep oarsmen will be defending their title against Wyandotte, Mich., Boilermakers, Argos, Ecorse and the winners of yesterday's junior eights, a second Wyandotte crew.

Toronto's point-total of 39 was made up of 11 scored Thursday and 28 yesterday the 28 coming from victories in the junior doubles, the junior 145-pound singles, and the junior 145-pound doubles.

A series of canoe races under the auspices of the western division will be run between the rowing and sculling events. Entries from most of the Toronto and district clubs as well as from Kitchener, Ont., and Sudbury, Ont., are expected to participate.

School Coach Now

Adams, N.Y., July 25 (AP).

TOWERING Johnny Gee, 26, ex-Pittsburg Pirate, and one of baseball's tallest pitchers, is going to become a high school coach.

The 6 foot 9 inch hurler for whom the Pirates paid $75,000 in 1939 after Gee won twenty games for Syracuse's International League Club, has been named physical education instructor at the local high school.

Gee developed a sore arm with the Pirates, dropped back to Toronto of the International League; then to the Eastern League; and subsequently announced his retirement from the game.

This Week In Radio

The responsibility of making every acre yield double is the farmer's, the task of gathering in the crops has become the city dweller's. Many of our girls having gone to the Niagara district to help with the fruit picking, it will be interesting to listen in on the broadcast tonight, when "Miss Farmerette of 1942" will be chosen and presented with her crown, at 8.30, CBL.

Britain to America, an all-British short wave program written by the best of British writers and starring illustrious names of the British entertainment world, will have its premiere over WEAF Sunday at 5.30 p.m. This program will be a typical British variety show, bringing to American listeners comedy and dramatic sketches, songs and orchestra numbers. It is interesting to note that the opening program will include a speech by Lady MacRobert, Scottish mother who, after the death of her three sons in the R.A.F., gave the Air Ministry many thousands of pounds to purchase fighter planes to be named "MacRobert's Reply." This program should appeal to those who like British entertainment and who want to know what the average Briton is doing in the war.

Patricia Berry featured songstress in a diversified program entitled "Impression by Green" heard over CBL Fridays at 8:30 p.m.

Norman Corwin, celebrated CBS writer, will present the first program in a new series entitled "An American in England," from the British capital on Monday over WABC at 10 p.m.

Victor Herbert's melodious operetta, "Naughty Marietta," will be presented in "Great Moments in Music," Wednesday, over CFRB, at 10 p.m.

I happened to tune in on the premiere of a program last Wednesday called "Dough-Re-Mi." You people who say there is nothing new in radio should listen to this for novel entertainment. The backbone of the show is a "Contest Medley" with Hope Emerson, stage and radio comedienne, and with Paul Lavelle's orchestra providing the music, WEAF, at 8.30 Wednesdays.

Major Alexander De Seversky, author of the best-seller, "Victory Through Air Power," is listed to give a weekly analysis and informative resume of war in the air on our far-flung battlefronts. This talk will be headed, "War in the Air." De Seversky, the noted airplane designer and manufacturer of aircraft, will be heard Saturdays, starting August 1, at 7.45, WEAF.—Radio Editor.

Breaking the Ice With Party Games

"Weather Report" Slays 'Em!

When you can make bashful guests lose their self-consciousness in the first five minutes of your party, you're a brilliant hostess—an artist!

You can do it! Start by playing "Weather Report." Your friends not only TALK about the weather but hilariously ACT IT!

Guests divide into teams and each team acts out a word like "cloudy," "fair," "downpour." Dignified Jill and Jack look pretty funny—hurrying about in the "rain" with newspapers on their heads.

But the fun skyrockets when you play "King's Commands"! The "valet" cries, "The King wishes his crown!" And up from his chair leaps the player who is "crown," shouting "Crown!" Or the valet may cry, "The King wishes his brush!"—and up jumps "Brush!"

When "The King wishes his uniform!" everyone jumps up to change seats, the valet scrambles for one, and whoever' left is the valet. Breathless—and fun!

Our 32-page booklet, the answer to a hostess' prayer, describes dozens of gay ice-breakers, games and amusing stunts. Has special bright ideas for costume parties.

For your copy of "Party Games for All Occasions" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

YOU CAN'T GUARD THREE

YOU ARE in a terrible spot when you have to try to protect three different suits while the declarer runs the fourth suit. If your partner can't do any part of the work, it is actually impossible for you to do the job, in case the declarer is prepared in advance to take all except two of the remaining tricks. If he has satisfactory re-entries from his own hand into dummy, and vice-versa, he can squeeze you twice, with a "progressive squeeze," and keep you from taking any tricks at all.

North: ♠ 8 7 4 3 ♥ 7 6 5 2 ♦ K J ♣ 7 6 2

West: ♠ K J 2 ♥ 8 4 3 ♦ 10 4 2 ♣ K Q 9 3

East: ♠ Q 9 6 ♥ A Q ♦ A Q 9 8 7 6 ♣ A 8

South: ♠ A 10 5 ♥ K J 10 9 ♦ 5 3 ♣ J 10 5 4

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♦	Pass	1 NT
Pass	3 NT

North led his spade 3, dummy putting in the 9 and South playing his 10, in order to hold his A to kill off the Q later. As a consequence, West won with the K and then proceeded to take all the remaining tricks. The diamond 10 brought the J and Q, and the A dropped the K. Four more diamonds followed, raising hob with South, who had to protect against the fourth club, the heart Q and the spade Q. He couldn't do it.

West's discards on the fourth, fifth and sixth diamonds were a heart and two spades, no problem at all. South tossed hearts on the third and fourth diamonds, leaving his K still guarded, and a spade on the fifth. But the sixth was the killer. With only four clubs, two cards in hearts and the spade A, any discard would cost a trick. South chose the club 4.

Seeing that, West then scored the club A, K and Q, plus the now established 9. That card squeezed South again in the two majors. If he tossed away his spade A, the spade J and heart A could finish the hand. So he discarded his heart K guard. The heart A then dropped the K and the Q took the final trick.

If South had discarded his spade A on the sixth diamond, two tricks would have been set up for West right there. If he had tossed his heart K guard, then hearts would have squeezed him between the spade A and the fourth club. Anything he did was wrong.

Your Week-End Lesson

Why is the lead of a suit headed by the king-queen-jack or the queen-jack-ten usually preferred by expert players to one headed by just the king-queen or the queen-jack, lacking the third card of the sequence? Can you give an example to justify that preference?

17,000 Volunteers

VICHY, July 24 (AP)—Seventeen thousand Frenchmen have offered to work in German factories since Premier Pierre Laval appealed for volunteers six weeks ago, it was asserted today.

Germans have offered to release French war prisoners in proportion to the number of skilled workers taking employment in German industry.

A cabinet meeting today was devoted largely to the plan of exchanging war prisoners for specialised workers. It was announced no worker may specify which prisoner he is to replace.

OLD TRICK WORKED

LONDON—(CP).—A Frenchman and two boys escaped from Morlaix, Brittany by getting the harbor watchman drunk. When he "passed out," they jumped into a small yacht and were picked up by a British trawler 40 miles off the English coast.

Cutting Wheat Is Order Of The Day

Farmers in this district have been busy during the past few days cutting fall wheat. The crop this year is good and the straw exceptionally long. Even with the shortage of gasoline the day of the horse has passed on many farms and ABOVE, Carmen Deck is seen operating the tractor cutting the crop of wheat on the farm of H. W. Latchford, about one-quarter of a mile west of Highway 28 on the extension of Sherbrooke Street. Mr. Latchford is on the binder.

Milk Shortage Due In August McNevin Claims

OTTAWA, July 25 — (CP). — Shortage in whole-milk supplies is in prospect in Ontario in August and September unless action is taken to assist the producers Bruce McNevin (Lib. Victoria, Ont.) said in the House of Commons last night.

A bonus of 30 cents a 100 pounds on whole milk produced for retail consumption in cities had been discontinued on June 1. It had been expected the distributors would inaugurate economies which would make it possible that the producer would not have to bear the full weight of the bonus withdrawal. But these economies had not been put into effect and the full weight of the deduction fell on the producer.

Mr. McNevin, speaking in debate on Agriculture Department estimates, said dissatisfaction among producers was widespread in Ontario. Whole milk for city consumption was being sold at about 15 cents per 100 pounds over the price paid for milk for cheese manufacturers, although the whole-milk producer was entitled to a wider spread. There had been talk of a strike at a meeting of milk producers and unless action was taken this feeling might grow.

Shifting of Labor.

The Agriculture Minister, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, said that the Labor Minister, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, was entering into an agreement with Ontario to assist the movement of farm labor within the province, and similar agreements would be available to other provinces. The intention was to assist provinces in moving labor within their own boundaries and where necessary from one province to another to make available surplus labor, now on small holdings where a proper living could not be made, to areas where there was employment.

Th Labor Department had a vote which was started at the beginning of the war and now stood at $100,000 which was first introduced to take people who desired to move from sug-marginal lands such as those in Saskatchewan, to Ontario, which needed farm labor. The grant was also available to assist movement within Ontario.

Little of the money was spent in the first year "a good deal" last year, and more would be expended this year.

Another 25000 Acres.

Hugh Mackenzie (Lib. Lambton-Kent) said that Ontario beet growers could have planted 25,000 acres more to sugar beets if proper arrangements had been made. He said this would have represented 750,000 hundredweight of sugar.

Canada imported about 80 per cent. of the sugar, and it had been urged 'for years' that the sugar beet industry be developed with federal assistance.

Mr. Mackenzie spoke as agricultural department estimates were under study in committee of supply.

Agricultural Minister Gardiner said experimental work on growing sugar beets had been conducted at Dominion experimental farms. The indications were that sugar could not be produced in western Canada to be shipped outside that area economically, and the amount to be produced in the west had been limited by the market between Winnipeg and the Rocky Mountains.
